Double carmel cake dessert-bridge treat

Half the enjoyment of a dessert – bridge afternoon is the refreshment end.

Smart hostesses rely on cake, which provides a fitting climax for a party and makes an attractive centerpiece for a party table.

Double Carmel Cake is a dandy dessert-bridge treat. Try it the next time you entertain.

Double Carmel Cake

1 3 cup brown sugar
¼ cup boiling water
⅓ cup Cloverbloom butter or margarine
1¼ cups sugar
3 Cloverbloom eggs, unbeaten
3 tsps sifted cake flour
3½ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Melt brown sugar in heavy skillet, stirring constantly until brown syrup is formed. Remove from heat and stir in boiling water slowly, being careful that steam does not burn hand. Set syrup aside to cool.

Cream butter, add sugar and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Then stir in three tablespoons of cooled syrup.

Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with combined milk and vanilla, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Beat until batter is smooth. Pour into two layer pans which have been lightly oiled on the bottom and lined with plain paper.

Bake in moderate oven, 375 degrees F., for about 25 minutes, until cake begins to draw away from sides of pan.

When cake is cool, frost with Carmel Frosting made as follows: Combine 3 cups brown sugar, firmly packed, and 1¼ cups light cream or top milk, and cook over low heat to soft-ball stage (235 degrees F.).

Remove from heat, add ¼ cup Cloverbloom butter or margarine, and cool to 110 degrees F. Add vanilla and beat until frosting is of spreading consistency. (A little cream may be added should frosting become too thick.)

Tips on how to increase Juniors milk consumption

Nutrition experts tell us that children, up to and through their teens, should drink a minimum of four glasses of milk per day.

Well and good, you say, but how to enforce this rule? It takes a bit of doing these days when Junior's palate is tempted by such a wide array of food and drink. But it's worth the effort in terms of good teeth, strong bones, erect posture, smooth complexions and other of milk's rewards.

Four Glasses A Day

Here are five suggestions on how to encourage youngsters to drink their 4 glasses of milk a day:

1. Get off to the right start. Never say "you have to drink your milk before you get dessert," or "milk is good for you," or "you can't leave the table until you drink your milk."

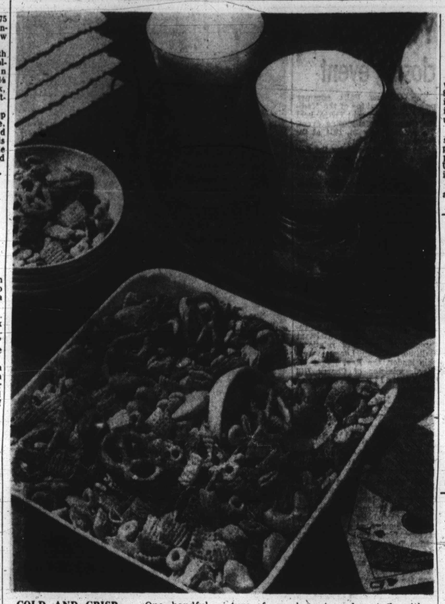
Association of pediatrics with milk drives a child away from it; the statement "it's good for you" is meaningless to a small child and often has the effect of turning the child against a food. He begins to favor the foods you do not insist he eat or drink.

Give Him Room

2. For the child with a small capacity for foods, eliminate soups and other heavy and filling foods from his meals. In this way the child will have "room" for his milk. If he is neglecting milk seriously, offer him milk before the other foods he prefers. In other words, give him milk at the point when he is hungriest.

3. Offer the child a glass of chocolate flavored milk when he comes home from school, at mid-morning, or after he is tucked in bed at night. This puts milk in the category of a "treat."

Always keep a bottle of milk on an easily - reached shelf in the refrigerator, along with a plastic cup so the child can help himself to milk when he is thirsty. Make less nutritious drinks less accessible.



COLD AND CRISP — One handful leads to another of this flavorful nibble food made by slow-baking a mixture of cereals, nuts and pretzels with a seasoned butter sauce.

Library lists films for August

A visit to the Grand Canyon and a tour of the United Nations headquarters in New York City, will be among activities featured in the Enoch Pratt Free Library's August film program.

Howard M. Smith, of the library staff, listed the following films for showings at 7 and 8:15 p.m. on Wednesdays next month in the central building's air-conditioned Meeting Room A:

August 4

"Ski Holiday," "Canyon Country," and "Europe at Your Window."

August 11

"Growth of Flowers," "Look to the Land," and "Yosemite."

Also "Boogie-Doodle," a short rendition of "boogie" by Albert Ammons, with "doodles," drawn in brilliant hues by Norman McLaren.

August 18

"Images from Debussy," "Report on Kashmir," and "Jacha Heifetz," alternating glimpses of the great violinist at home with his performances of Bachs "Prelude in E Major, Debussy's "Girl with the Flaxen Hair" and other short numbers.

August 25

"Tower of Destiny," "Steps of the Ballet," and "Men of Gloucester."

Admission to the showings is free.

Self molding salad ring

Tired of the usual fruit and cottage cheese salad? Then try this easy and exciting new version of that ever popular combination.

This cottage cheese salad is molded in a ring mold without any gelatin. All you do is first to arrange prunes in the bottom of the mold and then lightly pack the cottage cheese mixture over the prunes and chill an hour or two.

When ready to serve, unmold and fill the center with salad greens and around the cottage cheese ring arrange tangy orange sections or other fruit in season. Picture pretty and just as good eating!

Self Molding Salad Ring

3 cups cooked prunes
2 pints cottage cheese
1 cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped green sweet pepper
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
Salad greens
Orange sections

Pit prunes. Arrange a row of whole prunes in bottom of oiled 8-inch ring mold. Chop remaining prunes. Allow cheese to drain in sieve or colander 10 to 15 minutes.

Blend with celery, pepper, salt, orange rind and chopped prunes. Pack lightly over whole prunes and chill an hour or two. Unmold by inverting over serving plate.

Fill center with salad greens and orange sections.

Serves 8 to 10.

Read label on eggs

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Look for a shield design with the letters "U.S." when you buy eggs, Janet Coblentz, extension nutritionist of the University of Maryland, suggests to food-shopers.

"This official mark appears as a gummed label that seals the carton or is printed on the carton itself. It is the sign that you are getting eggs officially graded by government standards for quality and size (weight)."

Miss Coblentz says it pays shoppers to read all the print on the shield and also on the carton to be sure of the quality and size of the eggs purchased. The letters AA, A, B, or C tell the quality.

The words "Extra Large," "Large," "Medium," or "Small" indicate size, based on minimum weight in ounces per dozen of eggs. Finally, the date when the eggs were graded is stamped on the label. The "date" may be expressed as the day of the month, such as June 16, or 6-16, or as the number 167, meaning the 167th day of the year.

Eggs of the higher grades—AA and A—usually bring higher prices than those graded B or C. In cool weather high-quality eggs may be especially good buys because they are more abundant. But in summer when hot weather often causes egg quality to drop rapidly, Grades B or C may be more abundant and usually cost considerably less than the higher grades.

Shoppers should know that Grade B eggs have many cooking uses and the same nutritive values as Grades AA and A.

Grade AA and A eggs have a large proportion of thick white which stands up well around a firm yolk, and they have a delicate flavor. Thus, they are appreciated for poaching, frying and cooking in the shell.

In contrast, Grade B or C eggs have thin whites which spread out and have rather flat yolks that may break easily. But they are suited to scrambling, baking mixtures, thickening sauces or salad dressings, or for combinations with such foods as tomatoes, cheese, onions where appearance and delicate flavor are not important.

Joe Black mound star of the Brooklyn Dodgers, converts a little minute into a big rest with a bottle of ice-cold Coca-Cola.

Nine innings of a big league baseball game under a hot summer sun is hard work. No wonder so many players head for the familiar red cooler and a frosty bottle of refreshing Coca-Cola! Like hard workers everywhere, they know that nothing equals the magic moment when they pause and refresh with ice-cold Coke.

How about you? Have you had a Coke lately? You'll find a bright red cooler right around the corner from wherever you are. Take a break. Enjoy a bottle of Coca-Cola . . . delicious, refreshing Coca-Cola. And by the way . . . it's nice to have Coke-on ice at home. Get a handy carton when you shop.

ALONG THE AVENUE

With all the top musicians now displaying their wares at local clubs, entertainment seekers are in for some highly pleasing sounds this weekend. From bop to jump, there is something for every musical taste in the brilliant array of talent now gracing the local scene.

One of the freshest and best acts along the modern line is to be found at the COMEDY CLUB where the Terry Gibbs quartet is living up to every advance notice it has received. This is the group that was picked by a national music mag as one of the coming greats and the pickers were so right.

They play with a free and easy swing that is as clear and clean as a bell. As Ike Dixon informed the column on Wednesday p.m. "George they are the end."

— O O O —

Sometimes the column wonders how the club keeps coming up with top acts week after week, but they do, and the Terry Gibbs Quartet takes a place along with other great groups the club has brought to Baltimore such as James Moody, Eddie Bonnemere and Organna Trio.

CLUB 1017 has a whale of a deal going with beer on draft, and served at the right temperature so that you can savor every sip. Attractive barmaid Ruby served the column a glass of the delicious beer this week and we agree with Charlie Burns, it is a wonderful idea. The musical chores at 1017 are entrusted to the capable hands of Baltimore's own Lawson Vessells.

The men at Aberdeen had themselves a whale of a time on Sunday when a troupe of Baltimore entertainers with warm hearts showed up to present a free show at the Service Club.

— O O O —

Several of the performers who were scheduled to make the trip failed to put in their promised appearances, but the show went on, as it usually does when there is a good crew involved.

Our man "Doc" Woingust was at the helm. Before the entertainers left the city they were treated to refreshments by Kenny Bass and Eugene Westcott, which got the day off to a pleasant start.

(Understand that Kenny has taken under his wing a heavyweight boxer from whom he is expecting great things.)

In the party were Eddie Gough and his combo; Earl Davis, a 19-year - old jazz pianist; Luther "Hot Lips" Green, a fire eater; Ken Reinard, a character actor; Lill Hall, of singing fame; Al Howard's trio with Benny McGuire and Creston L. Weingust Jr.; and Josephine Gordon, a ballad singer.

The group was welcomed at the service club by Miss Edwina Young, the program director and a very charming and efficient young lady.

— O O O —

CLUB TIJUANA is featuring the music of Gene Casey and the Cubanos this week with the Billy Taylor trio set to play a return visit starting on August 3. This makes the third time that the young musician has been at TIJUANA in recent months, and here's one rooter that welcomes him back.

Taylor is the type of musician that you can admire. He believes in the modern music that he plays and he will never settle for anything that might compromise his artistic integrity.

He plays a wonderful brand of music that stamps him as one of the giants of modern music. The next act to follow Taylor will be Gerry Mulligan and need any more be said.

Give a listen to his warm hearted treatment of "Lullaby of the Leaves" and see what gives with the terrific, but terrific Mulligan group.

The popular taxi man, Lemuel "Buttercup" Clash is wearing a wide smile these days, after a blue spell. Looking great too.

Our good friend Dot Kelly is serving as the official hostess at TILLIE'S, the fun spot on the East Side. She is turning in every bit as good an job as hostess as she did as a singer.

The entertainment line is being handled by the Four Jays, and the drinks are still some of the most reasonable and best to be found in this great big city.

— O O O —

If you have noticed anything new around the ROYAL THEATRE it is the new paint job the rouse is receiving. Looks like a million dollars, Steve and Jack.

CLUB CASINO through the charming Miss Esther, sends a note that the man who plays so much trombone it seems almost, impossible will be back in the club next week. Now that would be none other than Benny Green himself.

Honest, George you've never seen as much excitement in a club as there is in the CASINO when Benny Green takes over. Our first listen convinces us that Green has everything a good musician needs, and the only other comment we add is that he gets greater with every listen.

— O O O —

The remainder of this week will be given over to the Carrington Visor Quintet, a young and jumping group.

In case you missed the news last week, RICTOR'S RED FOX LOUNGE may now be reserved by clubs, social groups, or individuals, Monday through Thursday for almost any type of affair, such as parties, receptions, etc. This is a wonderful idea for all party givers, and what spot could be nicer than the air conditioned and cozy RED FOX LOUNGE.

Two fellows were draped over one of our local bars this week talking over their troubles. One gentleman was complaining that his wife was trying a new trick to keep him home nights.

"She tells me that everytime I go into a bar, the devil goes with me."

The second patron asked what answer he gave his wife, and got the reply.

"I told her the devil could go if he wanted to, but he's got to buy his own drinks."

— O O O —

CLUB AMBASSADOR is doing a healthy business with the music of the Mello - Jacks plus a succession of features that make every night fun night. On Tuesday night there is "Clothesline Night" a little feature where guests receive prizes by selecting bags from a line.

At JONE'S this week is the Jo Jo Mambo Group and at the KNOTTY PINE is the Valentino's Trio. That's it... Have fun.

Leap from space to feature 'Hot Rod's' birthday

Hot Rod, who stars on the Gunther Brewing Company show every night from 10:45 to 11 o'clock over WITH, will land from his space ship—a helicopter—at Carr's Beach, Annapolis, between 6 and 7 o'clock Saturday night (July 31).

Hot Rod, who'll be celebrating his birthday, will be logged in full spacemen's regalia, including space suit, oxygen tank, plastic helmet, boots, gloves, exhaust pipes and so forth.

Benny Greene's Orchestra will pipe Hot Rod into the beach after the helicopter debarks him off shore into a small boat.

The general public is invited to come down to Carr's Beach to see the "invasion" by Hot Rod from outer space.

Tours Europe

NEW YORK—William Layton, executive secretary of the Urban League of Greater Muskegon for three years, left New York City July 27 for a tour of seven European countries.

This trip, financed by contributions from the people of the community, is a goodwill mission to which Mr. Layton will officially represent the city.
