Buddy to race Colts' colt in Monday show

What started out as nothing more than a glamorized scrimmage session in 1949 has turned into one of the most entertaining shows on Baltimore's summer sports calendar. Reference is to Monday's "Colt Nite" program in the Stadium for the benefit of the Police Boys' Clubs.

Coach Weeb Ewbank has split his Colt squad in half for a regulation football game that will pit the Blues against the Whites. Kickoff is 8:30 p.m. and a crowd of 40,000 is anticipated.

Preceding the intra - squad skirmish, a series of interesting field events will take place, including races among backs and linemen, place kicking and punting for distance and passing for accuracy.

THE PRE - GAME festivities, which start at 7:30 o'clock, will be highlighted by a man (Buddy Young) racing a horse (Dixie, the Colt mascot) in a 40-yard dash. The horse versus man idea has been done before but this will be the first time it has ever been staged in Baltimore.

Young was reluctant to race the animal because he felt he might be accused of a "grandstand" act. However, when it was explained to him that the Police Boys' Clubs of Baltimore were going to profit from the gate receipts, Young agreed to accept the challenge.

BUDDY YOUNG

All tickets are $1.00, including tax. The game is being put on by the Citizens Committee, the Colts' Associates and the Sports Reporters Association. Tickets may be purchased at the Colt office, 2023 North Charles Street; at the Stadium and at 40 scattered locations in Baltimore and vicinity.

Proposed Robinson-Olson title scrap may go to Chi

CHICAGO (NNPA) — Chicago may get the proposed Bobo Olson middleweight title defense against Sugar Ray Robinson, Truman K. Gibson Jr., secretary of the International Boxing Club, said at the Illinois Athletic Commission office Monday as Robinson was visiting there.

Robinson wore a patch on his eye suffered in his split decision over Rocky Castellani in San Francisco on July 22. He attended a party in his honor on the South Side, then left for New York.

GEORGE GAINFORD, Robinson' manager said Sugar Ray would not increase its fair trade prices due to the recent increase in State alcoholic beverage taxes, which became effective July 1, beyond the actual amount of the tax increase.

"With all the criticism that is now being levelled at fair trade regulations and fair trade prices" he said, "our decision to add the new tax without any profit to ourselves will help prove to all the critics of fair trade that fair trade does not exploit the consumer."

Robert G. Holt, former athletic star at Morgan State, is one of the salesmen for the Kronheim Co., Inc., in Baltimore.

Kronheim won't exploit consumer

Milton S. Kronheim, president of The Kronheim Co., Inc., of Baltimore, exclusive distributors of National Distillers Products, last week addressed a letter to retailers throughout the State, announcing that his company would not increase its fair trade prices due to the recent increase in State alcoholic beverage taxes, which became effective July 1, beyond the actual amount of the tax increase.

"With all the criticism that is now being levelled at fair trade regulations and fair trade prices" he said, "our decision to add the new tax without any profit to ourselves will help prove to all the critics of fair trade that fair trade does not exploit the consumer."

Robert G. Holt, former athletic star at Morgan State, is one of the salesmen for the Kronheim Co., Inc., in Baltimore.

Sugar Ray called in tax probe

CHICAGO (NNPA)—Sugar Ray Robinson, former welterweight and middleweight boxing champion, spent several minutes Monday before the federal grand jury here investigating possible income tax evasion by Southside policy operators. Robinson was returning from San Francisco to New York.

Kinsey James, special assistant to the Attorney General, said Robinson was asked to corroborate testimony previously given the jury by Claude Murphy, a prisoner in Stateville Penitentiary, bearing on the financial activities of Southside policy operators.

Robinson was accompanied to the United States Attorney's office by his manager, George Gainford; Detective John Jenkins of New York City and Harold Johnson, a restaurant operator here.

Giardello sent to jail on the quiet

PHILADELPHIA

Cloaked in secrecy to which District Attorney Samuel Dash gave full cooperation, middleweight boxer Joey Giardello was whisked to Holmesburg prison, Friday, to serve a sentence for assaulting service station attendant Howard Short on Oct. 29.

The former contender for the world's middleweight boxing crown withdrew his appeal of his six to 18-month sentence from the Superior Court. He was represented by former First Assistant District Attorney Michael von Moschzisker.

Giardello, whose real name is Carmine Tilello, was sentenced to County Prison by Judge Edward P. Little for his part in a brawl at a gas station, Broad and Catharine Sts.

SUSQUEHANNA County Judge Little, substituting in Quarter Sessions Court, announced that a motion for a new trial had been denied before passing sentence. He set bail at $1,500, pending the appeal.

Giardello, 24, of Juniper St. near Curtin, was also ordered to pay one-quarter of the court costs and one-fourth of restitution for damage to the service station.

The Italian fighter, who testified that an unidentified motorists racial slur at Father Divine or Short set off the brawl, was found guilty of six counts of assault and riot on March 16.

Giardello was identified as a member of a gang that made two trips to the gas station and attacked Short. Doors and a window of the station were smashed. Its owner, Gallo and his wife, Rose, were terrorized.

GIARDELLO'S COMPANIONS were identified as Victor A. Mariani, 24, of Mole St. near Moore; Joseph Bonadies, 24, of Cross St. near 11th, and Pasquale Conciello, 22, of Moore St. near Broad.

They were convicted on June 23 and also were given six to 18-month terms. The three started serving their sentences the following week.

Giardello was accused of hitting Short with a crutch. He was using the support following a knee operation.

The State Athletic Commission suspended Giardello on Nov. 29. His appeal resulted in the Dauphin County Court setting aside the commission's action on the ground that the body acted without holding a formal hearing.

GIARDELLO was fined $500 by the commission in January when a formal meeting was held.

Three detectives are appealing their Dec. 2 dismissal as a result of the delay in Giardello's arrest. He was not taken into custody until Nov. 27, although the incident was reported to police immediately.

The officers charged with failing to make a complete investigation of the case are former Acting Det. Sgt. James McDonnell, Charles Loughrey and John Toner.

Short, 31, of 2305 W. Diamond St., has filed a $25,000 damage suit against Giardello. The attendant, who has been employed at the service station for about eight years, is married and the father of three children.

Name Satchel as East-West starter

CHICAGO (Special) — LeRoy (Satchel) Paige, baseball's "ageless" wonder, will pitch the first three innings for the West team when it meets the East Sunday afternoon, in the Negro American Baseball League's 23rd annual classic, at Comiskey Park.

In event of rain, the game will be played on Monday night, at 8:30 p.m.

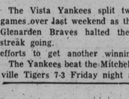
Paige got the starting call from John (Buck) O'Neil, of the Kansas City Monarchs, west All-Star pilot, because this slow-shuffling, skinny right - hander has been the classic's greatest drawing power.

Although such great name stars as Jackie Robinson, Roy Campanella, Larry Doby, Cresteas Minoso, Junior Gilliam, Hank Thompson, Gene Baker and Ernie Banks to name just a few, played in this great game, it was Paige who drew the most fans at the gate.

In four previous All-Star appearances, "Satchel" drew nearly 200,000 fans to Comiskey Park.

Opposing Paige on the mound as the East's starter will be the Detroit Stars' Mell Duncan, the Negro American League's only no-hit pitcher thus far this season. Duncan's manager at Detroit, Ed Steele, named his star.

Both All-Star pilots have talent-laden squads, featuring both offensive and defensive ability. For



SATCHEL PAIGE

Manager O'Neil, it will be the popular Monarchs' third straight All-Star effort. His first two were victorious efforts, 5 - 1 in 1952 and 8-4 last year. The West, in fact will be trying for its fourth straight, also having taken the 1952 event with a 7-6 margin.

Steele, who has been doing a fine job with a young club at Detroit, is making his first start in the All-Star, as a pilot. He played in the game as an outfielder, with the Birmingham Barons in 1947.

Vista Yankees beaten again

Marylanders hand powerful squad its sixth defeat

The Vista Yankees split two games over last weekend as the Glenarden Braves halted their streak going.

efforts to get another winning.

The Yankees beat the Mitchellville Tigers 7-3 Friday night at Wesport Stadium in Baltimore, Md. Roy Pierce went all the way for his second straight win at the Monumental City park.

Reginald Hamilton led the Yankee attack with two triples in three times at bat.

THE BRAVES stopped the Vista team 3-2 Sunday on the Glenarden Field. Tuck Plater and Tommy Hawkins combined their pitching efforts to allow the winners only one hit but they were the victims of faulty fielding.

The Braves scored two unearned runs as Al Weems went all the way for his teammates, giving up only seven hits. The Yankees stranded 12 men on bases, however.

The Yankees meet the Dolphin A.C. of Baltimore in a double header Sunday at Homestead Park in Vista, Md. The first games will begin at 2 p.m.

The independent Vista team has won 6 out of 8 games this season for an .800 record. The Yankees won 17 in a row at the beginning of the season before being stopped by the Braves.
