Woman, 60, seized

CHURCHTON, Md. — Mrs. Molly Bunt, a 60-year-old resident of Churchton, was arrested last Friday on a charge of illegal sale of liquor after Anne Arundel County police, wearing working clothes allegedly purchased a pint of whiskey at the home.

Patrolman James Freeland was the plainsclothesman who went to Mrs. Bunt's home to purchase the whiskey which, he said, the woman obtained from a bureau draw in the house.

"SEVEN YEAR ITCH" STARS MARILYN MONROE

A rare gem among romantic comedies is this "Seven Year Itch" now playing at the Regent Theatre. Nobody has cause to be disappointed.

Marilyn Monroe reinforces her position as the girl of everyone's dreams and registers a fine impression as a comedienne; Tom Ewell repeats the tiumph he has enjoyed during the three years of the stage version run; CinemaScope and color by De Luxe dress the picture in fetching style, and the screen edition of the longrun George Axelrod winner reaffirms "The Seven Year Itch" as the funniest and freshest product of several years.

As the temporary summer-bachelor whose wife and family have gone to the seashore, Ewell is a joy to behold as he goes about his elaborate day-dreams and extravagant contemplations of infidelity.

As The Girl Upstairs who supplies the basic incentive for Ewell's imaginary high - living when she accidenally drops a pot on his head from above, then gets more deeply involved in the man's fancies, Marilyn Monroe is the vision of a summer romance.

His hearty endorsement of the good neighbor policy is understandable.

MITCHUM, DEHAVILLAND IN "NOT AS A STRANGER"!

"Not As A Stranger," now playing at the Met Theatre is a screen adaptation of one of the best-selling novels of all time.

Morton Thompson's 948-page book dealing with the loves, the aspirations, the heartaches and the triumphs of a doctor, has been read by an estimated four million people, and it's still selling at a tremendous rate.

Stanley Kramer, who produced "Not As A Stranger," also makes his debut as director.

The stars of the picture are Olivia de Havilland, Robert Mitchum, Frank Sinatra, Gloria Grahame, Broderick Crawford and Charles Bickford.

The large featured cast is headed by Mryon McCormick, Lon Chaney, Jesse White, Harry Morgan, Lee Marvin, Whit Bissell and Mae Clarke.

Lucas Marsh, the dedicated, be-deviled doctor hero of "Not As A Stranger" is played by Bob Mitchum.

"THE SLASHER" HITS HARD AT NEW ALBERT

Frankly and relentlessly treating a shock-subject that hits the headlines every day, "The Slasher" is proving potent fare in its present run at the New Albert Thatre, where it is being presented by Lippert Pictures.

No attempt is made to spare audiences as the gripping story unveils a lurid, hardhitting exposo of a youthful gang led by a "young Scarface" whose ruthless activities terorize an entire city, threaten tragedy to his family, ruin a teen-age girl and end up in a shooting fray.

A brilliant performance by young James Kenney, in the title role, highlights uniformly effective protrayals by a strong cast.

Principals include Joan Collins, deeply impressive as the girl victimized by the gang leader; Betty Ann Davis, as his mother; Robert Ayres, as the step-father Hermione Baddeley, mother of the gang's number two leader; Hermione Gingold, a lady of questionable repute; Nancy Roberts, as a grandmother and Ian Whittaker, as a youth whose weakness is revealed in a moment of desperate crisis.

HORROR SHOW NOW ON HARLEM SCREEN

A creature from outer space—an eight foot monster, half human, half giant insect—has joined Hollywood's chamber of horrors, making its screen debut in Union science - fiction thriller, "This Island Earth," which is now playing at the Harlem Theatre, starring Jeff Morrow, Faith Domergue and Rex Reason.

Most nightmarish of all the grotesque figures to reach the screen, the new specimen was created by U-I make - up chief Bud Westmore, and will be seen as a Mutant, inhabitant of another planet.

The head is, five times the size of a human's with the brain completely exposed. Apoplectic eyes project like half domes, the network of underlying veins plainly visible. All the facial muscles are on the surface.

With each heartbeat the entire cranium pulsates. There are five tiers of interlocking mouths, one serving double use as a nose. The hands dangle to the ankles.

Fingers are replaced with lobster-like claws. A shell, like an armadillo's, covers the spine.

BEACH DREAM — Tom Ewell and the glamorous Roxanne in a bit of spoofing that hardly needs further explanation. It's one of the fanciful daydream comedy highlights in the Marilyn Monroe-Ewell CinemaScope hit, "The Seven Year Itch," now at the Regent Theatre.

He kisses wife on way to jail

Kagee Clark, 23, 1000 block W. Lanvale St., kissed his wife goodby in Northwestern police court on Monday, and then left to start serving three months in the House of Correction.

Clark received the sentence following his conviction by Magistrate Linwood G. Koger Sr., on a charge of cutting his wife, Mrs. Audrey Clark, with a razor blade.

Physicians took six stitches to close Mrs. Clark's wound, a fact which lead Magistrate Koger to remark:

"If my predecessor (Magistrate . Everett Lane) were here he would give you a month for each stitch or six months. I am going to give you a break and give you three months."

At this, Clark shouted "I still love her," as he threw his arms about his wife and kissed her goodbye.

Moments Musical

By ADAH K. JENKINS

UNDER THE STARS: Come summer and the joy of our municipal bands and their concerts outdoors "in the cool of the evening." One such enjoyable event took place last Friday, attracting quite a crowd outside School 142 at Walbrook and Smallwood Sts.

The program was planned to suit all tastes, ranging from Dvorak's "New World Symphony" Finale to Victor Herbert's beloved semi-classics and the latest in swing tunes that set the youngsters to a real "session."

With the spontaneous informality of youth they gathered on the pavement near the band stand and "twinkling toes" flew. Three-year-olds entered the occasion with enthusiasm that matched the vigor of the older children, not missing a beat.

Children of varied backgrounds and colors changed partners.

AN ACCIDENT to the lighting system prevented the completion of the concert and we missed the flute and horn duet by Margaret Sharp Bass and John S. Dyson.

Mrs. Bass is remembered for one of the outstanding concerts of the graduate recitals this spring at Morgan State College, where she was a major in music education. Mr. Dyson is one of the most experienced and proficient instrumentalists in our community, being an excellent performer on trumpet as well as French horn.

The Municipal Concert Band No. 2 is conducted ably by Harrison M. Dodd. Those interested in hearing this aggregation as well as the Municipal Park Band, No. 2, directed by Charles Gwynn, can secure a schedule of the entire season from the office of Earl F. Forman, superintendent of the Municipal Bureau of Music, Park Ave. and Laurens st.

THE FINAL program of the "Music Devotion Hour" Series at Grace Presbyterian Church featured the Girls Choirs of Grace and Knox Presbyterian Churches, the McQueen Singers and Beatrice Mayo, violinist.

The vocal groups were under the capable guidance of Mercedes H. Douglas.

Miss Mayo is one of the local violinists who takes her music seriously. Since her arrival in Baltimore to join the staff of Morgan State College, she has studied under leading violin instructors of the city.

The result is the development of solid musicianship, evidenced in a smoothly spun tone quality, in addition to intelligent and enjoyable interpretations.

For some time Miss Mayo has been an official and leading spirit in the Baltimore Guild of the National Association of Negro Musicians and is also one of the growing number of regular subscribers to symphony concerts here.

Laborer arrested on exposure charge

Arrested for allegedly exposing himself to a young woman, James Coleman, of the 1000 block N. Wolfe St., was ordered held in bail of $1,600 Wednesday in Northeastern Police Court.

Four charges were filed against the 34-year-old laborer who entered a plea of not guilty before Magistrate Richard Gilbert.

Coleman was charged with exposing himself to a public place, disorderly conduct, exposing himself to Miss Mary Michael of the 900 block N. Collington Ave., and assaulting Patrolman Edward LeBorys.

Patrolman LeBorys reported that Coleman resisted arrest when he attempted to arrest him in the rear of the 800 block N. Duncan St.

Family troubles aired as couples win divorces

"No money, no marriage" was the creed of Joseph Savage, according to his wife, Mrs. Gladys Savage of 1914 Ruxton Ave., as she divorced him this week.

In testimony that won a decree for her, the wife admitted to an examiner that she left her husband on Oct. 23, 1952 after he beat her because she failed to provide funds he wanted.

"My husband had an accident with a car we had just bought," she said. "He told me that he had to have some money. I explained to him that I didn't have the money, that he had taken it all when we bought the car.

"He said, 'I am not going to jail, and I have got to have the money. If you are not going to help me get the h— out of this house.'

"When I still refused to give him money he kicked me out of bed, beat me, made me get back in bed, then jumped on me and choked me.

Mrs. Savage added that he had struck her before, and at one time had broken a plate over her head.

THANDY CHILDS of 1104 Druid Hill Ave. won a divorce from Mrs. Essie Childs of Washington, this week.

Married on May 29, 1928, the union ended on August 28, 1930, when his wife left him for another man, the husband said.

"MY WIFE said she had made better arrangements and was going to live with John M. Jackson," he told the court.

The arrangement with Mrs. Childs and Mr. Jackson lasted from the 1930 date until Nov. 1941, when Mr. Jackson died, according to Mr. Childs and Mr. Jackson's mother, Mrs. Victoria Ellis, who said that the two lived together until her son's death.

• • •

MRS. GERTRUDE McGee of 2426 N. Howard St., testified that her husband, Herbert, deserted her for two years, then tricked her into resuming their marriage, then laughed at her and left her again.

• • •

THE WIFE said that they were married in Sumter, S.C. on April 17, 1952. Prior to the birth of their child he left her after falsely charging that he was not the father of the expected infant. He was later inducted into the Army.

In 1954, she said, her husband came home on furlough. He asked her to come back to him, acknowledged that the child was his and promised to be a good father, she said.

UPON HIS promises she returned to him, and at the end of the two-week furlough gave a farewell party for him.

At the end of the party, she said, he stood up and laughed at her, telling her that he had no intention of returning to her, that he just wanted to live with her during the two weeks, she said.

She was granted a divorce and he was ordered to pay her $50 per month for the support of the child.
