THAT WAS A DELIGHTFUL and intimate little party in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Bruce Allsyne, Saturday night, for Harry Hunt, who is back in the States after nearly six years in England.

About were a number of his former co-workers when he was on the faculty of the Booker T. Washington Junior High School, here, and others who were in the little theatre movement with him in this city.

Mr. Hunt, who, this year, took a graduate degree at the University of Bristol, now holds a post with the British Government in an advisory capacity to Colonial students. He still maintains his interest in and connection with the theatre movement there.

After an hour or more of being plied with questions by the guests, the honoree exacted a toll by having the guests review talents they exhibited in former days . . . and believe you me, that was a show.

At the Covington's party were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Moore, Miss Helen Michael, Mrs. Charles Austin, Mr. and Mrs. George Murray, Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Hunt and Earl Britt, who showed pictures of the recent yatch regatta.

COOKING FUN

Cans of beautiful golden cling peaches from this year's crop are now on their way to markets all over the country. There will be plenty of both halves and slices of this versatile fruit to use in salads and hot and cold desserts throughout the year.

A goodly portion of choice fresh summer fruit is picked and either sun dried or dehydrated this time of year. Six or more pounds of fresh fruit is necessary to make one pound of dried apricots peaches or pears. It takes four pounds grapes for a pound of raisins and 2½ pounds plums for a pound of prunes.

Crushed ice, limeade concentrate and apricot whole fruit nectar are the makings of a most refreshing hot weather drink. Since there are still plenty of hot days ahead this season you'll do well to stock up on the large economical 46-ounce cans of nectar.

— o O o —

OUR FAVORITE chicken or tuna salad this time of year is one made with accents of seedless grapes and chopped salted almonds. Serve with a canned cling peach half garnish.

The end of the summer season of Calavo avocados is approaching. These thick-skinned summer avocados have the same rich wonderful flavor as do the thin-skinned winter crop avocados.

Keep your breakfast menus interesting by offering a variety of breads through the week. Hot raisin brown bread makes a most delicious bread. You'll discover it goes along perfectly with eggs fixed in your favorite way.

— o O o —

A FAVORITE hot sandwich is made by browning ½ pound hamburger with 2 tablespoons finely cut onion in a hot skillet. Then add salt and pepper to taste, 1/3 cup evaporated milk, 1 small can chopped ripe olives and ½ cup catsup. Heat thoroughly and serve on split French rolls.

With a 5-ounce can of white chicken or turkey and some ripe olives on hand this partysh salad can be yours in a matter of minutes. Cut the meat into bite-sized chunks and cut 1/3 cup ripe olives into wedges.

Combine with one diced tomato, 2 sliced hard-cooked eggs, 1/3 cup diced celery and salt and pepper to taste. Mix with 2 tablespoons mayonnaise and serve on crisp greens.

Here's an idea for an "extra" to serve with baked ham when company's coming. Mix 1½ cups mashed cooked yams with 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 2 tablespoons brown sugar and ¼ teaspoon cloves. Arrange 4 well-drained canned cling peach halves in baking dish and heap with potato mixture. Dot with butter and bake in moderately hot oven about 20 minutes.

Force your favorite cake with whipped cream and sprinkle generously with this crumbly topping. Combine ½ cup chopped walnuts, granulated sugar and brown sugar with 1 unbeaten egg white.

Spread in a shallow greased and floured pan and bake in a moderate oven about 20 minutes. Remove from pan and crush with rolling pin. Heavenly on ice cream, too.

— o O o —

VARY THE FRUIT you serve for breakfast by including dried and canned as well as fresh and frozen. The new way many folks are fixing prunes these days is to put some prunes in a jar and cover with boiling water. Let stand 48 hours in refrigerator.

Raisin oatmeal drop cookies and raisin peanut butter cookies vie for top honors with the kids when it comes to deciding what kind of cookies they like best in their school lunches.

A California innovation to the breakfast menu is serving a salad for breakfast, particularly when the breakfast is a hearty one. The salad which goes well with all breakfast menus is a simple canned cling peach with cottage cheese one. We think you'll like it.

Whether you make French or puffy omelets we'll wager that they'll take on a new glorious taste when you fold in some diced Calavo avocado in the egg mixture. Whichever variety of omelet you make be sure that you cook it slowly for the sake of both tender eggs and the delicate flavor of the avocado.

Tasty baked California limas need no introduction to informal menus served either inside or out. Next time you fix some, add a bit of liquid smoke to the beans as they bake. You'll love the smoky barbecued flavor.

Start off the day with this better breakfast—grapefruit, raisin oatmeal, whole wheat toast and coffee.

For a luncheon or hearty supper salad combine diced celery with shredded carrot, ripe olive wedges and enough mayonnaise to blend. Heap into hollowed out tomato cups sprinkled with celery salt. Top with tiny cubes of well - aged Cheddar cheese and garnish with whole ripe olives.

— o O o —

MAKING A CAKE need not be a time-consuming affair if you use a mix and add a baked-on frosting. Mix the batter for a chocolate cake and spread in a 9 x 13-inch loaf pan. Beat 2 egg whites and ¼ teaspoon salt until stiff and gradually beat in 1 cup brown sugar. Spread over the batter and cover generously with chopped walnuts. Bake according to cake directions.

Fresh orange sections and cooked prunes offer a delightful combination for a breakfast starter. Get in the habit of eating a better breakfast now if you are not already doing so.

Mashed cooked California large dry limas shaped into patties, dipped in corn meal and fried until golden in bacon drippings, are a tasty treat to serve with pork or lamb chops.

Tuna Corn Casserole Dish

Tuna corn casserole

For a very fine casserole dinner, try Tuna Corn Casserole, served with a tossed green salad, potato chips or French fries, and a fruit compote and cookies.

For the Tuna Corn Casserole you will need one seven-ounce can of Bumble Bee fancy white meat solid pack tuna, two eggs, a cup of milk, a teaspoon grated onion, a tablespoon butter, salt, pepper, a no. 2 can or two cups cooked corn.

— o O o —

TO MAKE, flake tuna into large pieces. Beat eggs slightly, add milk, onion, butter, season, stir in corn.

Turn into one and one-half quart greased casserole or use for individual casseroles. Bake in moderate oven 350 degrees for fifteen to twenty minutes for individual, 35 to 45 minutes for larger casserole or until mixture is set and firm as for custard. Serves four.

Bologna roll ups

Make these Bologna Roll-Ups and you'll not only enjoy eating them, but everyone will rave so about how good they are that you'll be all set to make them again soon.

A cold cut favorite, bologna is even better when broiled—and with a piping hot cheese, rice and pimento filling, there's nothing's better!

INGREDIENTS include 2 libral cups warm, cooked white and seven slices bologna, ¼" cup grated sharp cheese, ½ teaspoon prepared mustard, three tablespoons water, three tablespoons chopped, whole, canned pimentos, one-quarter teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, and seven slices bologna, ¼" thick.

QUICK METHOD for cooking fluffy, white rice is to put one cup uncooked white rice, 2 cups cold water and 1 teaspoon salt into a 2-quart saucepan and bring to a vigorous boil. Turn the heat as low as possible. Cover the saucepan with a lid. Do not remove the lid or stir the rice while it is cooking.

Leave the saucepan over this low heat for 14 minutes. Turn heat off. The rice is now ready to use. However, leave the cover on the saucepan to keep the rice warm if you are not ready to use it immediately. This makes three heaping cupfuls.

For extra fluffy, tender, separate grains, place the rice in a steam for an additional 10 minutes—with heat off, but without removing lid.

MIX TOGETHER the rice, Tabasco sauce, cheese, mustard, water, pimento, salt and pepper. Take off paper if this is still around edges of bologna slices. Place a liberal ¼ cup of the rice mixture in the center of each bologna slice.

Pull the sides of the bologna up and over the rice mixture, lapping the edges of the bologna and securing with a toothpick.

Place on a heavily greased, in no baking sheet or in a shallow baking - serving dish. Place in a preheated oven for 15 minutes or until the bologna is slightly - browned. Serve hot. This recipe makes 7 servings.

If washing leaves clothes dingy, try this method

Heavily soiled clothes that don't come clean with regular washing are problems to many housekeepers, judging from queries to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Women ask whether to re-wash clothes that come out of the machine dingy or to use other treatments to remove signs of leftover soil.

Special presoaking suited to both soil and fabric, is suggested by textile specialists for easy, efficient laundering. Correct soaking helps loosen stubborn soil and thus prepares the fabric for successful laundering.

— o O o —

HERE ARE SOAKING methods that have proved effective with some over-soiled items familiar in family laundering:

1. Greasy overalls and cotton work shirts. Cover garments with hot sudsy water containing a half cup of household ammonia. Soak 15 to 20 minutes. For computerized washers, put the tub of the washer, then spin or wring out clothes and wash.

2. Overworked cotton slip-covers, curtains or play clothes. Soak 10 to 20 minutes in warm water, or in warm water containing a detergent or non-precipitating water-softener. Use ½ tablespoon of either substance for each gallon of water. After soaking, extract water and wash as usual.

— o O o —

3. SOILED COLLARS, neckbands and cuffs, especially in men's shirts. Because soil has been worn into the fabric at these places, it needs loosening in advance of washing. Work suds in gently with hands, soft brush or sponge, using the same soap or other detergent that will be used in washing.

Contrary to the belief of many, it's not thrifty to put off washing until fabric is badly soiled. Whenever possible, it pays to wash clothes before dirt is ground in and difficult to remove.

Let leather enhance home

T'won't be long now before housewives all over the country are tackling a traditional end-of-summer chore-taking the slip covers off the living room chairs and sofas.

As usual, a lot of women aren't going to like what they see underneath. The furniture always looks shabbier than in the spring, and Dad will get to wondering whether his overstuffed chair will hold out another winter.

— o O o —

TODAY, THOUGH, many homemakers have found a way out. They've discovered leather in chairs, sofas, tables, desks and the like-adds beauty and glamor to some of America's smartest homes, as well as taking the drudgery out of housework. You will find that the new leather finishes are almost completely soil-proof.

Now available in more than 400 colors, upholstered leather pieces are today favorites of leading decorators who use them to lend elegance to every part of the home. Because of its versatility and many different hues—from the classic browns, blacks and greens to the new jewel-toned shades and pastels—leather can be blended with every period of furniture.

Whether your home is French Provincial, Early American, Colonial, Regency or Contemporary, there is a good-looking leather furniture that will "make" every room in the house.

— o O o —

THE REAWAKENED interest in leather furniture is the result of long research by the nation's leather industry. With the aid of new chemicals and new tannages they have improved the appearance and durability of leather.

And from the housewife's viewpoint, leather upholstery is heaven-sent. Not only is it quite literally tough as a steer's hide, its handsome glossy finish is impervious to such hazards as spilled ink and Junior's muddy shoes.

Every housewife who has sadly surveyed the ring marks on her lovely tables will be delighted to hear that the new leather finishes are also alcohol resistant. Both alcohol and food stains can be removed by rubbing with a dry cloth and then sponging with ordinary soap and water.

Keeping cool is family affair

Today's room air conditioners are designed to meet the cooling wishes of each member of the family.

Maybe dad works in an air-conditioned office, and wants to keep his room at the same temperature he enjoys at work. Perhaps grandmother is bothered by humidity, or likes her room just a little warmer than the others.

AND BABY — he'll want to sleep in a draft-free room filled with cool, refreshing air that doesn't contain dust or other airborne particles.

Well, regardless of the cooling need, today's air conditioner can be adjusted to bring just the right temperature to any room.

Most room air conditioners are now easy to install, too. Dad can probably do the job with his own tools.

And for appearance, mother is certain to be proud of her air conditioner, with its good looks and hidden controls.

It serves as an attractive center which doesn't interfere with curtains. The top can be used for books, pottery pieces, or flowers.

— o O o —

WITH A ROOM AIR conditioner, each member of the family can relax or work in a pleasantly cooled room, no matter how hot it might be outside. Clean air circulates and ventilates everywhere.

Dusting is kept at a minimum, too (something mother will like!), since dust and dirt are filtered out—caught before they can work their way into rugs, curtains, or furniture.

It all adds up to pure, fresh air . . . a cleaner home . . . and a cooler family, from baby to grandmother!
