WAITING FOR "DADDY" GRACE—Unable to find seats inside the House of Prayer in the 600 block Preston St., hundreds milled outside the church Sunday morning waiting for a look at Bishop C. M. (Daddy) Grace. Here to conduct his 28th Annual Convention, the Bishop climaxed his noon services by baptizing over 200 avid followers. Almost 2,000 were on hand for the evening services when the Bishop was presented a pillow covered with dollar bills.

Daddy Grace' ends 28th convention

2,000 see final services filled with testimonials

By HERB MANGRUM

...tar with dollar bills for a full ...mid the spasmodic gyrations 30 minutes, Bishop C. M. (Daddy) ...dozen men and women who Grace closed out his 28th Annual ...nded before his red plush at Convention at the House of Prayer for All People, Sunday night.

For their efforts, the disciples were treated to a wave of a left hand encrusted in diamonds, the understanding nod of a partially bald head fringed with flowing gray hair, and a five-minute sermon on the "One real God of Abraham and Isaac."

To keep the services moving to the tempo demanded by almost 2,000 persons, a spade bearded follower, sweltering under the weight of a brown flannel suit, urged "All Sweet Daddy Grace's children from everywhere to come on up."

Four others seated at the feet of their leader awaited their turn to give running testimonials.

—oOo—

AT THE END of each testimonial, the speaker bolted to the altar for a gratifying pat on the head while another took his seat in preparation for a warmup.

Those found lacking in spirit were advised by the Bishop to "open your mouth."

The ceremony was in keeping with a morning performance attended by about 1,000 persons who saw "Daddy" Grace baptize over 200.

—oOo—

AT NEITHER the morning nor the afternoon services did he mention anything about a non-support suit filed against him in Washington last week.

The evening service was filled with praise for "Sweet Daddy Grace" the strains of two choirs, a band and a quartette.

From his regia altar the Bishop witnessed the performance while two young girls kept him cool with large palm fans.

—oOo—

THE OUTSTANDING performance of the day was staged by the Grace Queen Board No. 2 of West Baltimore which presented Bishop Grace with a huge pillow covered with one dollar bills.

A second group trailed behind with a minature frame house covered with bills.

The Philadelphia, Washington, and two other Baltimore delegations did not parade.

Eleven women, attired in white evening gowns and representing the West Baltimore group, waltzed down the aisle before making their presentation. The entire program lasted for over three hours.

—oOo—

TO BISHOP GRACE, who never visibly showed his like or dislike for the actions of his swaying followers, the evening was successful from a financial standpoint.

Just as he had done at the morning services he accepted all denominations of bills and quickly stuffed them into the pockets of his white suit which was trimmed in black.

Individual blessings and kisses were reserved for those who contributed the larger denominations. Throughout "Daddy" Grace swayed to the rhythm of a brass band.

—oOo—

THE MAJORITY of what "Daddy" Grace said in his five-minute address could not be heard by those present. Such sayings as "our father, we are not up there yet" and "I talk to God" did filter through.

Hundreds more crowded outside the church. Many were interested in getting one good look at the man who has often been referred by his followers as the "Black Christ."

Education Week set for adults

To encourage adults to continue reading and studying, the third annual Adult Education Week will be observed from Sept. 13 through 18 at the Enoch Pratt Library.

Evening lecture and discussion programs are planned, and there will be related book displays in the library's central hall.

—oOo—

READING GUIDES covering many subjects will be available to visitors without charge, Mrs. Hawes said, along with literature on a wide variety of courses offered by Baltimore's educational and cultural institutions.

For the convenience of persons with special problems, she added, the Baltimore Department of Education will provide individual counseling service 7 to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday.

INQUIRING REPORTER

Long Week-end

MRS. REGINA HARVEY

QUESTION

How do you plan to spend the long Labor Day week-end?

ANSWERS

ARCHIE JONES, 1607 Dukeland St., insurance branch manager. "Frankly, I would like to take my vacation starting with the week-end. I would go to Kansas City, Kan., to see my mother, sister and brother. But, it looks as though I will have to work. The office will be closed, but I will have to be here. There is a lot of work that needs to be caught up and then, some of the agents will be working and stopping by the office to take care of their business. Someone has to be here. We are short of personnel due to vacations and illness, so my weekend is just about cut out for me here."

—oOo—

MRS. EVELYN McTIER, 1724 E. Oliver St., physician, "I would like to go to either Pittsburgh, Pa., or to Virginia for the Labor Day weekend. In Pittsburgh, I could visit my sister-in-law and in Virginia, I have several friends I have not seen for some time. I was in Pittsburgh to see my sister-in-law in July. If I go there, I will take my three adopted children with me. They've never made the trip before. Once I arrived, I would just sit around and talk and get a good rest from my work."

—oOo—

LOUIS A. McGRIFF, 118 N. 39th St., Philadelphia, insurance auditor. "When the Labor Day weekend comes around, I will be in Welch, W. Va. I have to go there on business and will probably be working during the holiday. If not, I will try to make the most of it in a strange town which I have never visited before. I had planned to go to Atlantic City, since I have not been there this summer. There is always something to do on Labor Day. But, that's out now. I will be in West Virginia before the weekend arrives."

—oOo—

JOSEPH W. GREEN, 2020 Madison Ave., insurance branch manager and acting supervisor: "My wife and I plan to take a little trip to Pittsburgh. Edith has some relatives there she would like to visit and I thought I would take the time to drive her up. The weekend will not be too long. Our plans call for us to leave Sunday, visit for a short while and return on Monday. My work will not permit us to stay any longer or leave here any sooner than Sunday."

—oOo—

MISS LILLIAN MILLS, 1637 Division St., clerk: I'm just going to spend the weekend at home. I don't care to travel on weekends, especially those that fall on holidays. There is too much hustle and bustle of people. The stations will be crowded and the roads will be too heavy with traffic. I shy away from crowded highways all the time. Anyway, the places I would like to go to are too far away to get to enjoy myself on a short weekend. A few friends will probably drop by from out of town and I'll just entertain at home."

Mother of 8 in Lucky Pic

$5 winner was in funeral scene

Mrs. Regina Harvey of 621 N. Bradford St., a mother of eight children, was the winner enciled in last Friday's Lucky Pic contest.

Tuesday morning Mrs. Harvey came to the offices of the AFRO to pick up her winning $5 check.

Another Lucky Pic, with head encircled, appears in today's AFRO. The person in this photograph can collect $5 simply by bringing the picture of the AFRO City Desk before noon, Tuesday, Sept. 7.

It must be your head in the circle for you to be a winner.

—oOo—

MRS. HARVEY is the mother of six boys and two girls, five of whom are in school. Her children range in age from 11 to 23.

It was because of one of her daughters that Mrs. Harvey was in the Lucky Pic last week. Her daughter, Connie, 18, was a flower girl at the funeral for Garrison Veney, the 15-year-old Dunbar High athlete who was shot to death.

Mrs. Harvey's photo turned up in an overall scene showing the pallbearers and flower girls at the funeral.

—oOo—

Mrs. Harvey says she learned of her good luck when neighbors in her area came to her house and told her she was a winner. She plans to use her $5 to help get some school clothes for her kids.

Mrs. Harvey's husband, Arthur, is a city employee. She is a native of Baltimore—a regular reader of the AFRO and says she likes the front page best of all.

Mother of 5 wins $5 for house photo

Mrs. George Phinney of 6029 Ritchie Highway was the winner of $5 this week in the AFRO's "Identify Your House" game. The mother of five children identified a picture of her house which appeared in the Aug. 28 edition of the AFRO on page 2.

George, works at the Maryland Drydocks, is a housefie and a native of Baltimore. She said she is an avid reader of the AFRO and saw the picture of her house, herself, when she received her copy last week. A number of her neighbors also identified the picture of the home, she said.

—oOo—

THE $5, Mrs. Phinney said, would be given to her oldest Drydocks, is a housewife and applies.

Mrs. Phinney said she had never been fortunately enough to win a contest before. She was overjoyed by her fortune in the "Identify Your House" game.

The four other Phinney children are: Gary, 8; George Jr., The photo of another Lucky 5; Patricia, 3, and Pauline, 2. House is published in this edition of the AFRO. If it's your house, and you can properly identify it, you can collect $5 by calling at the office of the AFRO before noon Tuesday.

Vocational student makes good at cabinet making

Jerome T. Ridgeway, cabinet-maker, is one of four former vocational students employed at the Walbrook Mill and Lumber Company, 2636 W. North Avenue.

He is a product of General Vocational School No. 452 under Ellis Deans, and Carver Vocational Technical High School under Henson Johnson.

It was at General Vocational that Jerome learned the fundamentals of his trade before going to Carver where he developed his cabinet making skills.

—oOo—

HE 15 one of eight children of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ridgeway, who reside at 1437 N. Bond St. Mrs. Ridgeway considers Jerome's general and technical training in the Vocational Schools to be "most valuable."

This training is directly responsible for his present job with which all concerned are pleased. His mother feels that a happy future is assured.

With experience and his whole-some attitude toward his work, Jerome, she feels, could eventually develop his own business.

The four former vocational students employed at Jerome's shop have impressed their employer with their all around ability. He feels that they have been well trained for work in his cabinet making shop. They are an asset to his business.

—oOo—

JEROME has been an inspiration to other boys in his community, including his brother, Robert, who attended Carver before joining the Air Force.

The Vocational Schools of Baltimore offer this and many other vocational opportunities to the boys and girls of Baltimore.

Registration is now on for the fall term which begins Sept. 7 and pupils who can qualify may enroll at the vocational school nearest their homes.

Please drive carefully over the long week-end

The Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, in conjunction with the Northeastern and southern states' safety coordinators have been zealously advocating "Slow down and live" during the vacation months.

This is a safe and sane course for a motorist to follow at all times. However, during the Labor Day holiday weekend, special emphasis should be placed on—"slow down and live."

September is a beautiful month, and with this delightful weather, more people take to the highways in order to avail themselves of the pleasure of this last summer holiday.

—oOo—

PAUL E. BURKE, executive director of the Maryland traffic safety commission, stated: "Speed control is the personal responsibility of every driver—A heavy foot on the accelerator can mean a heavy heart for someone; therefore, I earnestly request all those who contemplate traveling during this holiday weekend to please give heed to the following:

1. Have your automobile checked carefully for mechanical defects.

2. Avoid rushing and fatigue; start early before traffic is heavy; take it easy.

3. Do not drive at night unless it is urgent—visibility is keener in daylight.

4. Obey all traffic signals and signs.

5. OBSERVE ALL rules of the road—be careful when passing other cars—keep a safe clear stopping distance between you and the car ahead; signal for turns and avoid abrupt stops.

6. Alcohol and driving do not mix—don't drink and drive.

7. Extend courtesy at all times it costs nothing and can save a life.

8. "Slow down and live" in order that everyone will enjoy a healthy-happy-safe-holiday!"

How one church honored loyal members at Citation Banquet

Bethel AME combines program with bouquets to honor 100

FOR FAITHFUL SERVICE—In recognition of 24 years' service, William B. Johnson, president of the Class Leaders Council, was among 100 honored at Bethel AME Church recently. His citation was presented by the Rev. John M. Cox, presiding elder. Mr. Johnson has served for 12 years as chairman of the Men's Day celebration at Bethel, 20 years as a trustee, and 10 years as a member of the Gospel Choir.

In one of the most novel methods of thanking a group of people for jobs well done, Bethel AME Church, at Lanvale St. and Druid Hill Ave., honored 100 faithful members recently.

The church paid special tribute to its loyal members by awarding 100 citations at a banquet, with bouquets thrown in for hard work done within the church.

The idea behind the celebration as planned by Mrs. Mayme Tilghman and sponsored by the Missionary Society, headed by Mrs. Edith Bryant, was to "honor the loyal while they are living."

—oOo—

TYPICAL OF THOSE who received recognition in the form of a certificate of appreciation was Morrison L. Davage, a member of Bethel since birth.

Now 48 years of age, Mr. Davage for 20 years has served as Sunday School musician, 20 years a member of the Bible class, is president of the Stewards Board, and chairman of the church's finance committee.

Similar honors were bestowed upon Mrs. Annie Sharen who as a member of the Willing Workers Club, is helping to carry on work started by Mrs. Cora Smith and the Missionary Society.

Mrs. Sharen

MORE THAN 300 persons saw the presentation of citations from their pastor, the Rev. Harrison J. Bryant, and Presiding Elder John H. Cox.

—oOo—

NINE OF THOSE honored were cited for the following reasons:

Mrs. Estell Simpson, is co-chairman of the Ushers Choral group, has been a member of the church for 23 years, and is superintendent of the Young Peoples Department.

In addition she is now doing outstanding work with the Missionary Society, the nurses unit, and the Annie Anderson Association.

The Rev. Mrs. Beulah Sorrell joined Bethel in 1918 and started the Annual Missionary Day program in 1928. She was licensed to preach in 1939 and was the first woman in this area to be ordained a minister.

She is now dean of the Department of Evangelism at Bethel.

—oOo—

MRS. JEAN Gillsom was appointed to the Stewards Board by the Rev. J. E. Reese in 1945. She joined the church in 1940.

Mrs. Mary E. Thompson, a shut-in since 1944, was a member of the Senior Choir from 1913 to 1930, and is still affiliated with the Women's Missionary Society, the Home Department and the Sunday school, and the Willing Workers.

Mrs. Amanda B. Small joined the church in 1931 under the leadership of the Rev. A. C. Clark and has served as a steward, captain of the Women's Day program, and for the past five years has been president of the "Pulpit Chain."

—oOo—

MRS. MAE H. Pack, a member of the Missionary Society for 23 years, served as president of the Women's Day Committee for 14 years, was a member of the choral group for 10 years, the Gospel Choir, and treasurer of the Missionary Society.

Mrs. Edith P. Hill, is director of the Ushers Choral group which is responsible for raising between $500 and $600 for the church each year.

Among the older members, George S. White is superintendent of the Sunday school, and for 20 years was district supervisor of the Sunday School Conference. Mr. White is affiliated with the religious education department at Bethel.

—oOo—

E. H. JAMES, has been president of the Usher Board for 16 years. Under his leadership the group is responsible for raising approximately $900 annually for the church.

The Usher Board works jointly with the Board of Brotherhood headed by Alphonso McCrin.

Mrs. Julia Ball is past president of the Gospel Chorus and has served with that unit for 14 years. Mrs. Mary Sweet is now president of that organization.

Also honored at the church's citation banquet was Miss Francchetta Wright, assistant superintendent of the Sunday School. She is a leader in religious education of young people of the church.

—oOo—

THE CITATIONS which the 100 members received had as its sub title "A Workman that Needth not be Ashamed." The saying was taken from the second chapter of Timothy.

The citation proclaimed: "In recognition of service, the pastor and people join together in this token of goodwill and sincere appreciation for helpful and consecrated service rendered as a member of this church."

The idea of honoring worthy members was instituted by Mrs. Tilghman.

"Few people," she declares, "get little recognition for services rendered in the church. There are many who are often unnoticed although they have worked for years. Now that old age is upon them they are no longer notified. Many have stopped due to sickness.

"The results of their work," Mrs. Tilghman declares, "is still with the church but one hears far too little about them.

"I believe the church should recognize the worth of the members while they are living."

—oOo—

THE BANQUET and program, which are to be annual features from now on, were planned by Mrs. Tilghman and Mrs. Bryant and the Missionary Society.

Mrs. Julia Ball, Mrs. Estell A. Simpson, and Mrs. Mildred Cox were co-chairmen.

Names of the first 10 to be honored at Bethel were submitted by members of the chuuch.

Mrs. Ruth Cleaver, an instructor in the Baltimore School system, was guest speaker on the program.

Miss Shirley Brooks sang the "Lord's Prayer."

—oOo—

THE BANQUET hall, decorated by Mrs. Jean Gillsom featured a fountain depicting the Fountain of Youth. The exhibit was constructed by Harvey Johnson.

Among the guests was Mrs. Mary Davis of Omaha, Neb. Mrs. Davis was so impressed with the program that she told the audience that she would make an attempt to start the same type of program in her church.

One of the oldest members honored was not present, for the church for 25 years, and is superintendent of the Young Peoples Department.

Mrs. Lizzie Tunnell, the oldest member of the Senior Choir was among those honored along with William Madison.

Ice cream for the church celebration was donated by Hendlers Ice Cream Co. The Harris Radio Co., donated the loudspeaker system for the auditorium, and Parks Sausage Co. donated flowers for 12 banquet tables.

Blood donors reduce $1,000 hospital bill of police victim

When James Broaddus, 23-year-old Korean war veteran was fatally shot by a policeman last May, his family was left with a $1,085.50 hospital bill for the 7-hour medical treatment given him in the attempt to save his life.

This bill included $750 for 15 pints of blood at $50 per pint. Hospital officials explained that this bill could be reduced by contributions of blood to replace that given to the shooting victim.

It was revealed this week that the bill has been reduced by $450 because of blood donations by nine persons, sympathetic to the cause. That leaves a balance of $300 which can be wiped out by six other blood donors.

BROADDUS WAS killed in his own backyard at 706 Bradley St. on May 18 as police made a search for another man who had shot a fellow officer.

Sgt. Louis Rehak, who admitted shooting Broaddus, was exonerated by the grand jury this week. He contended that he fired in self defense when Broaddus jumped up from a backyard glider and attacked him with a chisel.

However, neighborhood eye witnesses reported that the policeman fired on Broaddus without provocation as the man lay on the glider covered by a piece of canvas.
