Earl Koger faces $3,000 damage suit

Doctor, son say tricked into making business deal

A Turner Station physician and his son are suing Earl Koger, insurance agent, for $3,000, in Superior Court, on grounds that he tricked them into making a deposit for a share of his business and now refuses to return the money.

Dr. Joseph Thomas Sr., and his son, Joseph Thomas Jr., contend that Mr. Koger offered to sell one-third interest of the insurance agency, at 2126 W. North Ave., for $30,000 last May.

The suit alleges that the share of the business was to go to the son, a graduate of Brown University in business administration, along with a weekly salary of $50 and one-third of the profits.

— o O o —

DR. THOMAS made a $2,000 deposit for his son with the understanding that the money would be returned should young Joseph change his mind, the plaintiff alleged.

At the time of the agreement, the plaintiffs charge, Mr. Koger informed them that his business was worth $90,000 and was earning more than $15,000 a year.

However, after investigations, they learned the agency was worth only $17,000, the suit alleges.

— o O o —

COMMENTING on the suit, Linwood Koger, attorney for Earl Koger, said:

"In my opinion, Dr. Thomas hasn't a chance to recover anything. Dr. Thomas invested the money on behalf of his son in the hope of buying one-third of the insurance business.

"His son came and stayed on the job two or three weeks after he graduated from college. In a discussion between Earl and the son, it was decided that the business was worth $75,000.

— o O o —

"THEY ORIGINALLY estimated it at $90,000 but after taking inventory they both agreed on $75,000. Dr. Thomas paid on account $2,000 and was to pay in installments over a period of time until the $25,000 was paid.

"Earl spent over $500 in advertisements and buying new furniture for the office on selection of the son. But after two or three weeks the boy said he didn't want to go through with it.

"The boy said he had seen enough of the business and was going into the army. Then Dr. Thomas asked for his money back.

— o O o —

"WHEN YOU INVEST money in a business you are taking a chance. If you lose, you're not only liable but you are also subject to suit for breech of contract.

"In to keep good faith, Earl volunteered to return $1,500 on installments as the business earns it. I'm sure Earl's business is worth more than $17,000," the lawyer concluded.

Veteran had Lucky Tags

Ex-lieutenant $2.50 winner

A Korean war hero, 28-year-old Samuel Henry Adams, was $2.50 richer this week because his father spied his automobile tag in the Lucky Tag photo in Tuesday's AFRO.

If you're a car owner you should look closely at each edition of the Baltimore AFRO-AMERICAN. By doing so you might pick yourself up an easy $2.50.

In each edition the AFRO prints a photo showing the auto tag of some Baltimorean. If the person whose tag is shown brings in his registration card, he can collect $2.50 provided he calls before Tuesday noon.

— o O o —

THIS WEEK'S first winner is a Morgan State College graduate (Class of 1950) who lost a leg in Kum Wah, Korea in October, 1952. The same day he was promoted to first lieutenant. Today he has a wooden left leg but his limp is hardly noticeable when he walks.

Adams, who lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George T. Adams at 1821 N. Mount St., was struck by a hand grenade while fighting the Chinese Reds.

A member of Company L, 31st Infantry Regiment, 7th Division, he was leading his company of 100 when injured. Four other officers in the company had either been killed or wounded when Adams was hit.

A political science student in the graduate division at Howard University, Adams is working during the summer months at the Lil Abner's Drive-In Restaurant on Washington Blvd.

Morgan gives degrees to 30

Dr. Matthew J. Whitehead Sr., president of Miner Teachers College, Washington, and well-known educator, will deliver the address at commencement exercises of the Morgan State College summer session, Sunday.

The exercises will be held at 6 p.m. on the lawn of the Morgan Christian Center, with approximately 30 candidates receiving the degree of bachelor of arts and bachelor of science.

The degrees will be conferred by Morgan President Martin D. Jenkins with Dr. Carl J. Murphy, chairman of the Board of Trustees, presenting them to the graduates.

— o O o —

A NATIVE OF North Carolina, Dr. Whitehead has been president of Miner Teachers College since July 1, 1953. Prior to that he served as head of the department of English and assistant principal, Highland High School, Gastonia, N.C.

He was also professor of education and director of summer school, Elizabeth City State Teachers College, Elizabeth, N.J.; as associate professor of education and assistant university registrar, Howard University; lecturer in education, Off-Campus Program, New York University; and professor and chairman, division of education, Miner Teachers College.

Dr. Whitehead is a graduate of Johnson C Smith University and holds the M.A. degree from Teachers College, Columbia University and the Ed.D. degree from New York University.

In the event of inclement weather the exercises will be held in the auditorium of the Christian Center.

Lane Bryant says it welcomes all customers

Mrs. Margaret Thomas, a Chicago nurse, reported on Tuesday she was asked to leave Lane Bryant's Charles St. store, here last week.

A floorwalker reportedly told her, "We don't want your trade."

But the manager of the store told the AFRO on Thursday, the women's apparel shop welcomes all customers.

— o O o —

"MAYBE THE floorwalker thought she was taking up a lot of the salespeople's time by just walking around," he explained. "If people come in and are in earnest to buy, we are ready to wait on them.

"We don't treat colored people any different from white," he said.

Mrs. Thomas was in Baltimore visiting her mother, Mrs. Dorothy Sands, who resides in Randallstown. She said she thought Baltimore's department stores welcomed all.

— o O o —

SHE ADDED that the floorwalker who asked her out had followed her, as she examined dresses in two departments, first on the fourth floor and later on the first floor. She said she was unable to find a dress to suit her.

It was while she was examining dresses on the first floor rack that the store official suggested, "Don't you think you've looked around enough?" and later asked her to leave, Mrs. Thomas said.

Has anyone seen 'Buddie' Miller? Call his mother

Warnie (Buddie) Miller Jr., 2422 W. North Ave., has been missing from his home since Tuesday, 10 a.m.

Anyone who has seen the 6 foot 1-inch World War II veteran, weighing about 170 pounds, wearing navy blue pants, two toned flay-brown sports shirt, tan cap and brown shoes, is urged to call his mother, Mrs. Ethel Miller at Longwood 6-0885.

When last seen, Mr. Miller was believed to have been going to the movies. He is known to read a lot and frequents libraries and used magazine stands, his mother says.

The fifth winner, Roland Howard, from Chick Webb Center, is absent. The awards were given by radio disc jockey Chuck Richards.

'Bomber' escapes Crownsville State

Girl, 17, in '53 riot at Women's Reformatory

The "Brown Bomber" is missing from Crownsville State Hospital again.

The "Bomber" in this instance is a 17-year-old girl named Roberta Farley who was one of the instigators of the riot in the Maryland State Reformatory for Women on July 7, 1953.

The girl escaped from the state mental institution sometime Tuesday and has not been seen since.

— o O o —

DR. ARNOLD S. Eichert, superintendent of Crownsville, said the girl is "not a dangerous character," but did describe her as "difficult to control."

Relatives of the girl are said to live in Northeast Baltimore at 732 N. Wolfe St. Police have been notified that she is missing from Crownsville.

Dr. Eichert said the girl has been missing from the state institution on previous occasions but each time she voluntarily returned.

— o O o —

"WE TRIED our best to control her," he stated, "We don't know how she got out of her ward."

Roberta was first committed to Crownsville in 1947 and has been in and out of the institution three-times since, the AFRO learned.

Her last commitment was on Dec. 11, 1953.

Hospital authorities do not know how she escaped this last time nor what she wasearing when she left the institution.

— o O o —

We've tried our best to control her," Dr. Eichert said. "She never does any great harm. She is not a dangerous character."

Miss Alice M. Blum, superintendent of the Women's Reformatory, described the Farley girl as a "disturbed" person.

The night of the riot last year at the institution, she said Roberta started the disturbance by breaking up everything in her room.

THE GIRL WAS then doing a 30-month term for larceny. She was released from the reformatory in August, 1953.

Sixteen alleged "ring-leaders" in the riot later received additional time for the parts they played from Judge James Clark in Anne Arundel County Circuit Codrt.

The name of "Brown Bomber" was given Roberta by police in the Northeastern police district who have had occasion to come in direct contact with her during the years.

W. Emerson Brown heads YMCA membership drive

Truly Hatchett, chairman of the Board of Managers of the Druid Hill YMCA, announced Tuesday that W. Emerson Brown Sr., executive vice-president secretary and treasurer of the Southern Life Insurance Co. has accepted the chairmanship of the 1954 fall YMCA membership campaign.

Mr. Brown, a graduate of Columbia University served with the National Benefit Insurance Company prior to joining Southern Life in 1931.

He served 14 years as treasurer of Provident Hospital and agents of the Barrett School for delinquent girls.

The 1954 YMCA goal is $15,000 and 2,000 members. The campaign is scheduled to run from Sept. 20 through Oct. 8.

Disorderly conduct brings $15 fines

Three men were fined on Thursday in Northwestern police court on disorderly conduct charges growing out of a disturbance in the 1500 block Argyle Ave., on Wednesday. The men were:

George Brooks, 19, of Reisterstown, $15 and costs.

Herman Cornish, 19, of the 1200 block Druid Hill Ave., $15 and costs.

Louis McCalip, 19, of the 2500 block Edmondson Ave., $15 and costs.

Halethorpe group has crab feast

The Halethorpe Civic Organization recently gave a highly successful crab feast on the Griner grounds on Spring Ave.

The organization was started only a little over a year to maintain the high standards of the community and to make improvements where necessary. It was incorporated in 1954.

Fred Carter is president of the Halethorpe civic group; John Winder, vice president; Bernard Cherry, business manager; Cecil Chamber, recording secretary and Aurora Chamber, financial secretary.

THE RECENT crab feast was the second annual one given by the organization. A huge crowd attended the affair Saturday night, July 24.

James Young, Baltimore musician, has been taking his classes of musical students to Halethorpe for lessons in the open every Tuesday.

The civic organization and Mr. Young plan to sponsor a musicale for the children who attend the area's Sunday school class sometime in the near future.

HELD IN LARCENY

Louis Morris Jr., of the 1100 block N. Carey St., was ordered held in $2,000 bail for action of the grand jury on Wednesday on a charge of the larceny of $800 in rings and a wrist watch valued at $125.

EXTRA FRISBY

● AFRO's correspondent in Greenland to visit giant U.S. air base

● Lays wreath for Matt Henson on grave of North Pole skipper

ST. JOHN'S NEWFOUNDLAND, AUGUST 10 — The Baltimore AFRO's correspondent, Herbert M. Frisby, accredited to visit the United States Northeast Air Command, installations including Labrador, Greenland, Fort Pepperill and Torbay Air Bases near St. John's, left Friday for Goose Bay, Narsarsuak, Sondrestrom and Thule in Greenland.

MR. FRISBY

He conferred with the Lt. General Braeus, commanding general, who directs all the facilities of the huge U.S. Air Base in Thule.

— o O o —

MR. FRISBY, who was AFRO War Correspondent with the troops in the Far North during World War II, was invited to broadcast over the radio, August 11, on the program "Personalities in the News."

He left Baltimore July 23.

— o O o —

IN THE NAME of Matthew Henson and the AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers, Mr. Frisby placed a memorial wreath on the grave of Captain Bartlett in Brigus, Newfoundland on Wednesday.

Bartlett was skipper of the steamship Roosevelt which carried the Peary expedition North to Cape Columbia. Eventually, Peary, Henson, and a few Eskimoes reached the North Pole.

— o O o —

AT THE BARTLETT home, Mr. Frisby found part of the flag that Peary originally raised at the Pole, and was dinner guest of the three surviving Bartlett sisters and brother Bill.

Ther ceremonies were covered by the local press.

Mr. Frisby is teacher of science at Baltimore's Douglass High School. He is expected back in the states in time for school opening.

Not sore about referee's three errors — Archie

By SAM LACY
Afro Sports Writer

NEW YORK — This was the morning after.

Archie Moore, clad in sporty silk pajamas and a white terry cloth robe, was doing a thorough job of disposing of a breakfast of tomato juice, eggs and steak, home fried potatoes, toast and coffee.

The coffee, so heavily creamed as to make it a beige color, was the last to go. He sipped it while a couple of friends who had come to his hotel room discussed his fight with Harold Johnson the night before.

— o O o —

"PATIENCE DID it," confided the light-heavyweight champion. "I guess it was patience more than anything else.

"I had ulcers once, back in the late 'thirties' and early 'forties," and I learned then that the best medicine a man can have for anything is patience.

"I guess there isn't anybody alive who can wait for something to happen like I can. And because of that I'm lucky.

"You might say those ulcers were lucky to me. They taught me how to wait.

More women using dope

NMA notes boost, cites Dr. Kinsey

WASHINGTON

"Housewives and laborers rank almost as high as musicians in the use of dope, according to a survey, delegates to the National Medical Association convention were told Tuesday.

This startling incidence of drug addiction was partially accounted for by medical experts when it was explained that all dope users have a background of "sexual incompatibility."

These facts were revealed during an opening session of the NMA's 90th annual convention and scientific assembly at which drug addiction was linked to the Kinsey Report.

The vast majority of drug addicts possess unstable personalities and desire to project strength, Dr. S. O. Johnson of Lakin, W. Va., told delegates to the Neuro-Psychiatric section of the scientific program.

— o O o —

"DR. KINSEY WAS not too far off in his report on women's sex behavior," Dr. Johnson stated. "His interviewers were intelligent and his sampling was good," he added.

"From my experience I would say he was accurate," the doctor added.

The doctor was one of the panel speakers who linked sex neurosis to the nervous disorders which may bring on drug addiction.

He was moderator of the panel which included Drs. Ernest Y. Williams of Howard University and George H. Taft of Kansas City, Mo., as speakers.

DR. WILLIAMS had no comment on the Kinsey report but told the group of a recent New York study of 3,000 women which

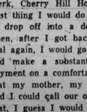
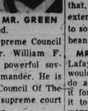
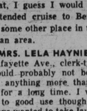
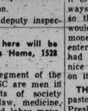
INQUIRING REPORTER

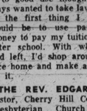
What would you do with $10,000 cash?











Mrs. Robinson Buy home — Mrs. Haynie Study law — Rev. Ward Fix church — Miss Ewell Buy home — Mr. Shipley Pay bills — Mrs. Stiles Save some

THE ANSWERS

MRS. WILHELMINA ROBINSON, 339 Bloom St., cashier-clerk, Cherry Hill Homes—The first thing I would do would be to drop off into a dead faint. Then, after I got back to normal again, I would go right out and make a substantial down payment on a comfortable home that my mother, my daughter, and I could call our own. After that, I guess I would go on an extended cruise to Bermuda or to some other place in the Caribbean area.

MRS. LELA HAYNIE, 2817 W. Lafayette Ave., clerk-typist — I would probably not be able to do anything more than look at it for a long time. I would put it to good use though. I've always wanted to take lessons, so the first thing I would do would be to use part of he money to pay my tuition and re-enter school. With whatever I had left, I'd shop around for a nice home and make a payment on it.

THE REV. EDGAR WARD, pastor, Cherry Hill Community Presbyterian Church — The $10,000 would be the amount I need to pay off the mortgage on our church; then we could begin to build the new unit we planned some time ago. Our church was organized about seven years ago, but the building is only one year old. The adult membership is 200 and the week-day school averages 700. With $10, 000 we could be ready to start off with a full program in the fall.

MISS ELAINE EWELL, 1401 Edmondson Ave., typist-clerk—I'd pay up all my bills and get them out of my way. Probably the next thing I would think of would be a small home. There are a thousand things I could think of to do with $10,000, but actually, after I paid off all my bills and bought the home, I don't think I would have anything left.

MILTON SHIPLEY, 3314 Cherry Hill Rd., crane operator—If I could put my hands on $10,000 all my own, I'd immediately pay off all my debts. With the balance I would buy a home in the country for my wife, Gwendolyn, and our five children. A large family like ours has plenty of bills. A home in the country would be the perfect place in which to rear the children.

MRS. EVELYN STILES, 3026 Poplar Terr., cashier-clerk — First of all, I would have to get over the shock of having $10,000. That's the kind of money I see only in my day dreams. With prices what they are today, I could perhaps just afford buy a home. But, if I could somehow save a little of the money after buying the home, I would take a little vacation somewhere.

Ex-POW free a year Sunday

Roosevelt Lunn now enjoys life

By JAMES D. WILLIAMS

This has been a happy year for Roosevelt Lunn.

The former Army corporal who spent 30 months in the misery of a Korean prisoner of war camp has found a rich and full life in which war and death are only grim memories.

He has his family, a few close friends, his job, and the dream that one day the "right girl" will come his way.

— o O o —

SUNDAY MARKED the first anniversary of Lunn's release by the Chinese Communists, but there was no celebration, no fanfare. It was just another day in the life of the handsome 26-year-old veteran whose main goal in life is simply "to be happy."

Since his discharge from the Army in March, Lunn has been living with his family in their new and attractive home at 606 N. Fulton Ave. He works in the manufacturing plant of a local paint company and divides his time between his friends and his beloved family.

This is a quiet life with little excitement—the type of life Lunn dreamed of in prison camp.

— o O o —

LUNN WAS captured by the Chinese on Feb. 12, 1951, as he and a small group of men attempted to defend a position outside Honsan. He was taken to Prison Camp No. 1, and later moved to the famous Camp 5 where United Nations soldiers

Dead children were to return home Saturday

SHUMANSVILLE, Va.—Seven small children died early Monday morning as the second worst fire in the "history of the state" completely destroyed the two-story frame home of their grandparents located here, about 12 miles south of Bowling Green, Va.

The dead children, five of whom were scheduled to return to their homes in the Philadelphia area this Saturday, were:

Blaine Graham, 7.
Clifton Graham Jr., 4.
Sheila Graham, 2.
Joy Ann Hayes, 5.
Yvonne Hayes, 4.
Robert Steve Carter, 3.
Cleveland Johnson, III, 5.

— o O o —

THE FIRST THREE were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Graham, 1450 N. 56th St., Philadelphia, Pa. The parents of the next two were Mr. and Mrs. Glenwood Hayes, 709 Brook Rd., Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carter, Shumansville, were the parents of Robert Steve Carter. The seventh child was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland Johnson Jr., 309 N. 39th St., Philadelphia.

The Graham and Hayes children came here three weeks ago to visit their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson. They were to go home Saturday.

The blaze started in an upstairs bedroom where the children were sleeping. It was discovered by Phyllis Johnson, 14-year-old aunt, at about 6 a.m.

— o O o —

THE CHILDREN'S grandfather and a 16-year-old uncle, Charles Johnson, attempted to get to them but failed. The Bowling Green volunteer fire department was called at 6:45 a.m. but by the time they arrived, the frame dwelling with asbestos shingles had burned to the ground.

Volunteer fireman Amos W. Clary said it took the firehen about 20 minutes to drive the 12 miles of narrow and crooked roads from Bowling Green to the scene.

"The only thing we could do when we got there," Mr. Clary said, "was to soak the ruins so that they could get to the bodies."

The cause of the fire is still unknown. No investigation is being made because the fire department at Bowling Green has no full time personnel or equip-
