'This I Remember' says writer on 'Old Baltimore'

"Old Baltimore" is awakening because of the letter written two weeks ago by J. Hooks, who spoke of his memories of the "good old days" when he played basketball at St. Mary's Church.

—Responses are still coming in from his letter. Last week, Leland R. Finney and John W. Armistead wrote letters answering some of the questions Mr. Hooks asked and added some other recollections of the time.

This week, the distaff side got into the picture when a pleasant letter from Mrs. Marguerite Forrest, 2322 Etting St. She wrote:

"I read the article, 'Wake Up, Old Baltimore!' and really enjoyed it as I attended St. Mary's Church as a girl. I still have a picture that was given to me from the Christmas tree one year at Sunday school. The date was Friday, December 26, 1913.

* * *

"I ALSO HAD a New Testament which I gave to my daughter. It was given to me by my Sunday school teacher, Mrs. Mary Hughes, on April 27, 1916. My daughter has now given the book to her daughter.

"I also remember Father Griffin—and School 116—and the yearly Field Day events we had in Druid Hill Park— and the red arm bands with '116' in white on them.

"Some of the teachers I remember were: Mr. Webb, Mrs. Wood, L. Wilson, Mrs. Nellie Gaskins, Mrs. Roberta Gaskins and many more.

"I also remember the store on Fremont Ave. facing Waesche St. where we bought apples on a stick, the largest of pickles and that awful red taffy.

"Those were happy days."

THESE WORDS, that closed Mrs. Forrest's letter, may open the door to pleasant memories for other Old Baltimoreans. Why not share these wakening memories?

Just write your recollections (just as Mrs. Forrest did) in a letter to the AFRO. See how many names, places and events you can remember,—then wait and see who else remembers the same things.

See too if you have any pictures that were taken in the "good ole days."

"Wake up, Old Baltimore!"

'He went out the window and forgot his shoes'

"My uncle comes into my room when I have epileptic attacks, until I have control of myself. I was sleeping one night and had an epileptic attack.

"I noticed another man was in there feeling on me. He kept knocking me down on the bed.

"I screamed and called my uncle. He went out the window and forgot his shoes.

"I saw his face from the light from the window." Miss Silvia Jones, 19, 600 block W. Mosher St., wearing a simple purple dress, was speaking Wednesday in the Northwestern Police Court before Magistrate Linwood G. Koger.

John Thompson, Jr., 29, also of the 600 block W. Mosher St. was charged with assault by placing his hands on Miss Sim's body. When Magistrate Koger asked Miss Sims' uncle, Little John Date,

"Did you see somebody else?" he answered, "Not in her room, but out on the porch. It was him," the uncle said pointing to the defendant. "I told him to get off the porch or he would get killed."

Mr. Thompson testified that he and Miss Sims had been friendly. His mother, Mrs. Sarah Blackwell Thompson also of 600 block W. Mosher St. said in his behalf: "They have been friendly."

She said in addition that he had been drinking the night of the alleged assault. Magistrate Koger dismissed the charge but told the defendant:

"You can't get drunk and stumble over the roof into her house. You went out while you were drunk and not conscious of what you were doing. Don't go there anymore."

'Free car to be given by PALMA'

A free car and other gifts will be given away at the night sale, conducted by the Pennsylvania Avenue-Lafayette Market Association, Tuesday, July 17.

Coupons for the car and other prizes will be given upon request in any PALMA store in the 1500 to 1800 blocks of Pennsylvania Ave. during the sale.

There is no admission fee, nothing to write, rhyme or buy. The car is being offered in conjunction with the Park Circle Motor Company.

This is the first to be held by the association.

All stores will open at 7 p.m.

City departments are cooperating with merchants. Streets will be given an extra cleaning on Tuesday. Extra police and radio cars will be available, and special uniformed men will patrol the area.

PALMA is composed of approximately 70 merchants of Pennsylvania, Ave. and market men from the Lafayette Market.

Herman Katkow is president of the association; Arnold Kurland is chairman of the Public Relations and Promotion Committee.

'Go home and be kind to her,' judge tells hubby

"You hate to see him go to jail, and I hate to see him hit you," Magistrate Linwood G. Koger Sr. said Tuesday to Mrs. Lennie Brown, 800 block N. Gilmor St., Tuesday in Northwestern Police Court.

Her husband, Clarence Brown, 29, was charged with assault by striking her. Wearing a sky-blue, two piece summer dress, the slim young wife said:

"He didn't want me to go to a movie. He was arguing, and he hit me." Speaking sadly and softly, she added, "It was the first time he ever hit me."

* * *

BEFORE Magistrate Koger could sentence her husband, Mrs. Brown looked at the magistrate and said, "I hate to see him lose his job. I've got three children."

"You hate to see your wife go to a movie. Herself," Magistrate Koger said to Mr. Brown, a slender, boyish looking man who looked younger than his 29 years.

"She has to have a little recreation. She doesn't want you to hit her, but she doesn't have a way to feed those babies. If you go to jail. Do you think you can go without hitting her?" Magistrate Koger asked.

"I think I can," Mr. Brown whispered, inaudibly audibly. With that assurance, Magistrate Koger placed him on probation without a verdict after telling him, "Go home and be kind to her."

Mrs. Brown followed her husband out of the courtroom. He held the door open for her.

I'm mild on him because of his age

"I have worked all these years to make it possible for him to have this money. I took the bank books and put the money in my name. He told me:

"If you don't give me those books, I'm going to kill you and bury you in the basement and I don't care what they do with me."

Mrs. Pearl Brown, 1100 block Myrtle Ave., an outraged wife so spoke Wednesday in Northwestern Police Court before Magistrate Linwood G. Koger, Sr.

Her husband, Henry Clay Brown, 62, of the same address was charged with assault by threatening her. Speaking rapidly— and forcefully, Mrs. Brown said also:

"I'VE BEEN married to this man for 44 years. He's 20 years with a woman for 22 years. He takes money out of the bank and pays on a house for her in the 2300 block of Edmondson Ave.

"He's crazy to give all his money to this woman. When he was sick in June, I took care of him, not her."

When Jacob Levine, counsel for Mr. Brown, asked Mrs. Brown how much of the money in the bank she had contributed, she answered:

"I worked everyday. I had extra jobs."

Mr. Brown testified: "This past Sunday, she told me she had the bank books. I told her I wanted them. I didn't strike her. I just told her to give me my bank books."

The defendant was visibly shaken when Magistrate Koger sentenced him to 30 days in jail, after asking him: "Wasn't that a joint accumulation? Doesn't she have a right to something?"

He then commented, "I would be inclined to give him at least three months in the House of Correction. I'm mild on him because of his age."

Purse snatchings on decline, Chief Inspector Ford relates

"There has been a decided decrease in purse snatchings over the past two months as compared to last year."

Chief Inspector Fred L. Ford made this statement to the AFRO last week.

Referring to recent statistics, Inspector Ford pointed out that the number of purse snatchings during the months of May and June were almost 50 per cent less than those for the same period in 1955.

The figures show that in May 1956, there 15 purse snatchings as compared to the 31 in May 1955. In June, 1956, there were nine while in June 1955, there were 14.

The Inspector indicated that the special rookie police detail which was assigned to patrol various areas in the city, accounted for the marked decrease.

PURSE SNATCHINGS have been one of the violations the daily papers have used in displaying the "recent series of offenses against women on city streets."

"In an effort to further combat this problem, Mayor D'Alesandro has ordered 50 more sent a letter to Governor Roger Ridgely requesting additional foot patrolmen.

This communication is in line with a plea made by the AFRO early this year when a police department report was made that more colored persons committed burglaries and purse snatchings than white persons.

In the Mayor's communication, he cited the success of New York city in reducing its crime rate in "one of its worst sections" through the use of foot patrolmen.

The Mayor posed the following questions:

1. HAVE we been modernizing our police?

2. DO radio cars with two men riding around in them solve the problem of providing protection to our citizens?

3. SHOULD there be a definite program of return to the old methods of policing through the use of foot patrolmen.

4. SHOULD there be an abandonment of the whole idea of radio patrol, except for a small number of emergency cars stationed in certain areas?

In commenting, he said: "I am more than aver of the belief that we must concentrate the strength of our police force on foot in the areas where crimes of violence are occurring with distressing regularity."

Mayor D'Alesandro urged the governor to make a study of the police department "with special emphasis on the results obtained in New York City, and perhaps elsewhere, through the return to old fashioned police methods."

When asked about the communicatin, Police Commissioner James M. Hepburn told the AFRO, "No comment."

At present there are 2,799 on the Baltimore Police force; 130 in training; and 139 vacancies.

The state Legislature authorizes the city to have 3,065 policemen.

The men are charged with breaking and entering in the daytime, with larceny since 1 then $15000 worth of household furnishings.

In Memoriam 1

BRANCH—A tribute of love to our father, of my dear daughter, DOROTHY, who passed away three years ago, July 13, 1953:

It would take a million years,
And a million tears too.
If we tried to tell you Dorothy,
How our hearts still ache for you
The days righ by and buzz years
Speed quickly on their way.
This grief we hold within our hearts
Years
Lives on from day to day.

DEVOTED FAMILY

CEPHAS—In loving memory of my dear husband, SOLOMON J. CEPHAS, who passed away July 17, 1955.

I really miss you Sol dear,
Since God took you away.
And this day more than ever,
I wish you were here.
With a broken heart I watched you, saw you pass away;
And though I loved you dearly,
I could not make you stay.
I sat standing at your bedside
Not a word I could say.
And when I knew that you were dead
It almost broke my heart.
Some say time heals an aching heart;
But, no, it isn't true
For twelve long months have passed
And my heart still aches for you.
