Four from HU make All Southern team; new high

WASHINGTON

An unprecedented number from the Howard University soccer team have won places on the 1956 All-Southern Soccer team.

The four players selected are eligible to play in the All-Star game to be held in Miami, Fla., on Jan. 2.

THEY are:

McDonald Gibbs, Alvin Rose, Bruce Excel (a hold-over from last year's team) and Leary Lucas.

Gibbs and Rose, according to their coach, Ted Chambers, have a good chance of making this year's All-American soccer team.

The All-Southern Soccer team was selected from players among 180 teams. Among other schools represented on the team are: Maryland, Navy, Duke and the University of Virginia.

Down The Fairway

By AL TAYLOR
PHILADELPHIA

Well the 1956 golf season is in reality a thing of the past except for a number of Fairview Golf Clubs' lucky players who survived the club's annual club matches.

So on Friday evening, Dec. 21st at the club house, 5725 Vine St., tournament chairman Bobby Sims and co-chairman Randolph Green have arranged a program to present trophies to some five flights in the mens division.

THE WINNERS are:

(Big) Ed Davis, winner of the Champion Division; 1st Flight, Jack Coke; 2nd Fl., Winfred Pearson; 3rd. Fl., Al Taylor; 4th Fl., Earl Cornish; 5th Fl., Sylvester Gaines.

Herbert Sidwell Fairview's chairman of the House Committee a defeated candidate for president 1957, has been ill for several weeks in the Mercy Hospital, 36th and Spruce St.

(Visiting hours, daily from 2 to 8 p.m.) He has been greatly missed and we all pray for his speedy recovery.

The newly elected officers for Fairview's 1957 Season were formally installed at the club, Tuesday Dec. 11. Max Stanford successfully won the leadership for the 2nd year in a row.

Ye Fairview Golf Club Members and invited guests:

Your annual New Year's Eve party will be held at the club. So make your reservation now to insure a pleasant and joyful incoming 1957.

See You in the 19th Hole Salon.

FATHER-SON cooperation proved too much for a buck and a doe in Caroline County recently. Here Wesley T. Carter and his son, Wesley B., examine the 160-pound buck and the 110-pound doe bagged on a recent hunting trip. It was the tenth year of hunting for Mr. Carter, the first time for his son.

Ex-welter champ to plead today

WASHINGTON

Aaron Perry, former District welterweight boxing champion, is scheduled to plead today (Friday) to a grand jury indictment charging him with criminal assault.

The indictment was returned on Monday. Perry, 30, allegedly assaulted the 30-year-old woman after picking her up at a bus stop at Kenilworth and Hayes St., NE, last Nov. 24. The woman said she was going to a party in the 3200 block Warder Pl., NW.

THE VICTIM told police she recognized the boxer's face, but did not know his name. She said she had seen him visiting friends in the neighborhood. Perry allegedly offered to take her to the party, but drove to the Soldiers' Home grounds nearby.

The ex-boxer allegedly attacked the woman after beating her in the face with his fists. The victim reported her assailant by giving police the tag numbers of his car.

Three games set before season

WASHINGTON

The holiday season will provide local high school basketball teams a final opportunity to iron out kinks in warm-up games.

The regular season starts on Jan. 4. Three games are scheduled during the interim.

Today (Friday), Western High will meet the alumni. Dunbar plays Spingarn at the Spingarn School. Both games are at 3:30 p.m.

On the 22rd, Eastern plays St. Johns at Eastern.

North Carolina students honor grid champions

DURHAM, N.C. — Thirty five members of North Carolina College's 1956 football team were honored at a banquet here last week at the Chase Restaurant.

The program featured remarks from coeds, players, coaches, citizens and college officials.

The Rev. W. M. Fuller, pastor of the Mt. Zion Baptist Church, opened the program with invocation.

PRESIDING at the affair which was sponsored by the NCC Student Government Association was Charles V. Holland of Durham, SG President.

N. B. White, president of the Durham Business and Professional Chain, presented a championship trophy to the Eagles' gridders. It was the third trophy in four years for NCC.

COACH HERMAN RIDDICK, NCC alumnus, brought the Eagles their first grid crown in 1953. He repeated in 1954.

The CIAA statistician has ruled the 1956 Eagles co-champions in a three-way tie with Delaware and Morgan. However, the Eagles claim their interpretation of the conference's Dickinson System gives them a quarter number of final points than either of their opponents. This matter won't be settled finally until the CIAA's annual meeting in the spring.

Gun Factory party given for orphans

WASHINGTON

The Gun factory's Orphans Christmas party was given at the plant's cafeteria, Tuesday, with a special turkey dinner.

Entertainment which followed in the Sail Loft featured a variety show put on by the University of Maryland Theatre, headlining Sam and Friends of TV fame. Also featured were the Navy Band and the Sea Chanters.

The Gun Factory employees annually entertain approximately 500 children in Washington area homes and orphanages at the party. The children share in more than $6,000 worth of presents.

$366,000 stadium OK'd for Florida

TALLAHASSEE (SPECIAL) The Florida State Board of Control last week approved an immediate start on construction of a new football stadium at Florida A. and M. University with $366,000 that is available from a 1955 legislature appropriation.

The action occurred during the Board's meeting which was held in Tallahassee last Thursday.

Russell to make bow with Celtics

BOSTON — Bill Russell, twe-time All-American center from San Francisco, will make his professional debut here Saturday when the Boston Celtics engage the St. Louis Hawks in a televised NBA game.

J. Howard McHugh, publicity director of the Celtics, told the AFRO early this week that the great 6-foot-10 college and Olympics Games star, will be in the starting lineup of the Hub entry.

NCC cagers play 3 'vacation' tilts

DURHAM, N.C. — North Carolina College's basketballers play three nonconference teams in Wilmington, N.C., Jackson, Miss., and Grambling, La., before resuming CIAA play in Durham on Saturday, Jan. 5, 1957, with Hampton Institute's cagers.

After a game slated for Wiliston Industrial High School on Dec. 22 with Savannah State College, the Eagles return to Durham for the Christmas season. Then, they shove off Southwards for their clash with Jackson College on December 31. They move over to Grambling for New Year's play with the powerful Louisiana five.

How Joe Louis' Kids Lost $64,000 To US

By LOUIS LAUTIER

WASHINGTON (NNPA)—This is the Joe Louis Story—not the story of his fistic glories, but an account of his losing bout with Uncle Sam over Federal income taxes.

The story reached its climax Monday when the United States Tax Court ruled that two trust funds, totaling $64,000, set up for his two children, Jacqueline and Joseph Louis Barrow Jr., together with interest, are due the government as part payment for back income taxes.

The former heavyweight champion's tax debt was calculated early this year at $1,199,437 in taxes and interest. Louis is reported to have paid the government $124,000 on his tax debt during the last three months.

THE TAX court found that Louis was the actual donor of the money with which his ex-wife, Mrs. Marva Trotter Barrow Spaulding, created the two trusts and that at the time Louis gave her the money to set up the funds he was insolvent.

The ex-champ filed an individual income tax returns for 1946, 1947 and 1948 with the Collector of Internal Revenue for the First Illinois District.

The unpaid deficiencies for income taxes for those years were not involved in the dispute over the two trust funds.

Marva filed no gift tax returns for either 1947 or 1948.

Marva and Joe were twice married and twice divorced. The first marriage on Sept. 24, 1935, ended in divorce March 27, 1945. They were remarried in 1947 and were divorced again Feb. 15, 1949.

DURING THEIR first marriage, a daughter, Jacqueline, was born to them Feb. 5, 1942.

During their second marriage, a son, Joseph Louis Barrow Jr., was born to them May 26, 1947.

Louis entered the Army in 1942 and was honorably discharged Oct. 1, 1945. While he was in the Army in 1945, Marva filed suit for divorce.

WHILE THE suit was in the courts, Joe told Marva he was not financially able to make a substantial property settlement with her. They executed March 26, 1945, two agreements—a settlement agreement and a manager's contract.

The settlement agreement provided that Marva would set up a trust fund in a Chicago bank or trust company for Jacqueline and pay into it 50 per cent of what she received from the manager's contract.

The manager's contract made Marva Louis' business manager or co-manager for five years to begin upon his discharge from the Army.

IT RECITED that Marva understood Louis owed the government and other creditors more than $200,000, and it was agreed that she would receive none of his earnings until this indebtedness had been paid from his fights.

Joe agreed to pay Marva 25 per cent of his earnings in the ring and from broadcasts, movies and telecasts of his fights.

On March 27, 1945, the day after the agreements were signed, Joe and Marva were divorced in Cook County (Chicago) Superior Court. Mava wsoo go) Superior Court. Marva was given custody of Jacqueline.

LOUIS KNOCKED out Billy Conn in the eighth round in Yankee Stadium June 18, 1946. The gross receipt for the fight were $1,925,564, the second largest gate in fight history. Later, Joe paid Marva $60,000 out of his share of the purse.

Marva deposited this money in her personal account in the Drexel National Bank in Chicago. Later, she placed half of it in a separate account called the Jacqueline Barrow account.

An irrevocable trust for Jacqueline was created with $30,000 Nov. 21, 1947, with the First National Bank of Chicago as trustee.

IN SETTING up the trust she regarded, Joe was the sole donor and herself merely as an agent and was advised by her attorney that it was not necessary for her to file a gift tax return.

The Tax Court found that Marva was not licensed to act as manager for Louis and that at no time in either 1946 or any subsequent year performed any substantial service for him.

It also found that Louis was the actual donor and transferor of the $30,000 to the First National Bank of Chicago.

IN DECEMBER, 1947, Louis organized an Illinois corporation, Joe Louis Enterprises Inc., with a capital stock of $50,000 divided into 500 shares.

Of these shares, 498 were issued to Louis and the two remaining shares were issued to his attorneys to qualify them as directors.

The purpose of the corporation was to market movies of Louis' fights and to assist Joe in liquidating his personal debts out of his anticipated earnings from his fights and movies of them.

But in 1948 the corporation also operated a trade school for auto mechanics.

SHORTLY AFTER its organization, Joe Louis Enterprises purported to "assume" $115,635 of Joe's personal debts; including about $82,000 of his Federal income tax debt. It also purported to "take over" the manager's contract between Joe and Marva.

Its opening balance sheet showed assets of $170,635, consisting of cash, $5,000, and contracts and franchises, $165,635. Its liabilities consisted of accounts payable, $115,635.36; stockholders' loan, $5,000, and capital stock, $50,000.

The asset described as "contracts and franchises" purported to represent an anticipatory assignment of Louis's future earnings from fights and movies of them.

SUCH "asset" was conceded to be merely a balancing entry employed to equalize the purported assets and liabilities.

In 1948, Joe Louis Enterprises liquidated out of money it received from Louis' fights and movies substantial portion of Louis' personal debts and the income tax he owed and made payments to Marva on account of the manager's contract.

It also permitted Joe to withdraw funds for his personal use when money was available.

The Internal Revenue Commissioner, in his examination of the income tax returns of Louis and the corporation for 1948, determined that about $104,000 of the Joe Louis Enterprises' purported income for that year was actually personal income of Louis.

IN 1947 Marva was unable to collect amounts which she believed were due her from Joe. She attached Louis' share of the purse from his fight with Jersey Joe Walcott.

As a result of this attachment, she received $27,000. She regarded this amount to be in repayment of loans and advances which she had made to Joe and did not report any of it as taxable income.

In 1948 Marva received $36,780 from Joe Louis Enterprises and $31,781 from proceeds of Louis' fights which were allocated to his managers, John Roxborough and Marshall Miles, and to her.

These payments were made in accord with the settlement agreement and the manager's contract.

THE MANAGER'S contract was modified by a supplemental agreement between Joe and Marva that 50 per cent of the amounts paid by Joe to Marva would be used for trust funds not only for Jacqueline but also for Joe Jr.

The supplemental agreement was given recognition also in connection with Marva's second divorce from Joe in February, 1949.

Marva reported only half of the $68,561 she received in 1948, or $34,280 as personal income.

The amounts Marva received from Joe in 1948, including the portion which was to be used by her in creating trusts for the children, were spent by her in improving apartment house real estate at 4320 South Michigan Ave. Chicago, which she personally owned.

AFTER COMPLETING the improvements, she conveyed the title to the Trust Company of Chicago as trustee for her benefit. She then obtained from the Trust Company its promissory note, made payable to her in the amount of $34,000.

The note was dated Jan. 10, 1949, and was payable on or before Jan. 10, 1959, with interest at 4 per cent a year, payable semi-annually, and was secured by a trust deed on the property real estate.

It was in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Boone that Mr. Moore and Miss Martin met, last August. They were almost immediately attracted to each other, the bride-to-be says.

MISS MARTIN is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James O. Martin of Cumberland, Md.

After graduation from Carver High School in that city, she attended Maryland State College at Bowie, graduating in 1955.

She taught for a year in Calvert County, and this year joined the Baltimore city teaching force.

She is on the faculty of School No. 72, where she instructs a primary opportunity class.

After a wedding trip to New York, the newlyweds will be at home at 3210 Brighton St., in this city.

MOORE, A 1955 graduate of Penn State University, was the No. 1 draft choice of the Baltimore Colts, last spring.

As late as this writing, he is a candidate for "rookie of the year" honors in the National Football League.

A native of Reading, Pa., he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Moore of that city.

He set an all-time record for rushing yardage gained while at Penn State and is second only to Fullback Allen Ameche in this department of the Colts' offense. In 1955 he was named to the All-East team and appeared in the annual Shrine Bowl game at San Francisco last December.

Both he and his bride-elect are 23 years old.

vocable trust for Joe Jr.

The value of the apartment house real estate mortgaged to secure the $34,000 promissory note was at least $50,000.

BEFORE THIS trust was set up, Marva discussed it with Joe and he indicated that he had confidence in her and that whatever arrangements she made would be satisfactory to him.

Marva later informed Joe that the trust had been set-up and the source from which the fund had been obtained. Joe told Marva he would pay the gift tax on the transfer.

The Tax Court found that the promissory note used to create the trust for Joe Jr. represented a segregated investment of $34,000, which had been paid by Louis to Marva under their agreements and for the specific purpose of creating such a trust.

MARVA AT no time owned or held such funds, or the promissory note, for her own benefit, the court found.

Louis, it said, retained the beneficial interest in the note until it was delivered and transferred to the First National Bank of Chicago, as trustee for Joe Jr.

It added that Louis, and not Marva, was the actual donor of the trust and he was the actual transferor of the funds or note out of which it was set up.

Pro grid finale may draw 35,000

It's finale time Sunday when the Baltimore Colts and Washington Redskins drop the curtain on the 1956 National Football League season.

Kickoff time is 2 p.m. for the "getaway game" and a crowd upward of 35,000 is anticipated.

The traditional Colt-Redskins test will be the league meeting between the two clubs — the sixth such game played since 1950—and the series score weighs heavily in favor of Washington, four wins to one.

This pre-Christmas football party, shifted from its original date of November 4, will be televised nationally over 188 stations by CBS. The Baltimore-Washington environs will be "blacked out," however.

The Colts and Redskins previously met on September 1 in Baltimore and Coach Weeb Ewbank's eleven won by a 21-13 score.

Baltimore continue to be sparked by the unheralded rookie, Quarterback John Unitas. This time last year he was playing for the Bloomfield Rams in the Greater Pittsburgh Amateur League. On Sunday he will close out his first season of pro football in the toughest competitive circuit in existence—the National Football League.

Alan (The Horse) Ameche and Lenny Moore continue as the Colts' leading ground gainers. Ameche won the loop's rushing title last year with a total of 91 yards. At present he has 816 yards, but has carried 34 less times in the eleven games to date because of the Colts' more diversified attack.

Saxton to get new title shot

CLEVELAND — Johnny Saxton is to get another chance to re-win the world welterweight championship.

Cleveland promoter Larry Atkins announced late last week that he has signed the New York boxer to meet the current titleholder, Carmen Basilio, here on January 18.

Saxton took the crown from Basilio in Chicago on last March 14, via a 15-round decision that was widely disputed. Basilio, however, regained the title in Syracuse on September 12, knocking out his rival in nine rounds.
