Almond Toast Sunday treat

Here's a Sunday breakfast treat that you can make in a jiffy: "Almond Honey Toast." Just cream honey, butter and cinnamon with some ground almonds and spread on toast.

When you run it under the broiler, the mixture gets bubbly and good; the almonds get toasty.

ALMOND HONEY TOAST
1/3 cup honey
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
1/3 cup ground roasted unblanched almonds
Toast strips

Cream together honey, butter and spice. Add almonds and stir until well blended. Spread on strips of toast.

Place under broiler to heat. Serve immediately. Makes about 1 cup spread.

Cooking Is Fun

By FANNIEJOE REID

If you are like me, you are always looking for new variations on the ever-popular bacon and eggs combination for breakfast. The favorite in my family is the Eggs and Toast Special.

Use four slices of bacon, chopped fine; four thick slices of bread, with two-inch holes in he center; four eggs; salt and pepper.

Cook bacon in a frying pan until half done and push to side of pan. Pour off fat. Brown bread slices in pan while bacon continues to cook.

Break the eggs into the holes of this bread and season with salt and pepper. Reduce heat, cover pan, and cook until eggs are done.

FOR A tasty luncheon dish, try Baconized Egg Rings with Potatoes.

Use two eggs, well beaten; four cups of mashed potatoes prepared with salt, pepper, milk or cream and butter; 12 bacon stripes; six eggs unbeaten; salt and pepper.

Mix the two well-beaten eggs into the mashed potatoes. Pile lightly into a well-greased casserole, making six "holes" in the surface with the back of a spoon, each large enough to hold one egg.

Meanwhile, partially cook bacon and wind a strip or two around each depression. Break an egg into each "hole." Bake in a moderate oven until the eggs are set and the bacon is browned. Season top.

For added flavor, grated cheese may be sprinkled over the top and heated just long enough to melt it.

RAINY days get you down when it comes to cooking? Well, for this particular day, try spareribs in a special way. The family will love Roast Pork Spareribs with Apples.

Select two well-fleshed rib sections that match and weigh about two pounds each. Saw or crack the breastbone so it will be easy to carve between the ribs.

Make the apple stuffing as follows:

Cook one-half cup of chopped celery leaves, one half cup chopped onion and one-fourth cup of chopped parsley for a few minutes in a tablespoon fat then remove them from the pan.

Put another tablespoon or so in the pan, heat, and add five tart apples, diced. Sprinkle the apples with one-half cup of sugar, cover, and cook until tender.

Remove tht lid and continue to cook until the apples are candied. Mix the Vegetables with the apples, add one cup of soft bread crumbs, and salt and pepper to taste.

Lay one section of the spareribs out flat, sprinkle with salt and pepper and spread with stuffing.

Cover with the other section and sew the two together. Sprinkle the outside with salt and pepper, and, if you desire, with flour also. Lay the suffed ribs on a rack in a shallow pan. Do not add water and do not cover.

Cook in a moderate oven (350 degrees—370 degrees F) until the meat is tender and thoroughly done. Allow about one and one-half hours. Turn occasionally for even cooking. Remove the drippings.

Meat ball dishes that fit within your meal budget

Meat Ball dishes measure up to the challenge of serving meals that fit smoothly into your budget. Few main dishes are so quick to fix, yet so flavorful.

Anytime your food buget shows strain, schedule this meat ball delight and you're sure to please. The recipe can also be doubled or tripled smoothly if you want to serve a crowd.

MEAT BALLS

One egg, six tablespoons enriched bread crumbs, one fourth cup of milk, two tablespoons chopped onion, three fourths teaspoon salt, one half pound ground beef, two tablespoons fat or drippings, one and one fourth cups condensed vegetable soup (ten and one half ounce can) one and one fourth cups water, four ounces elbow macaroni.

Beat egg. Add 4 tablespoons bread crumbs, milk, onion and salt. Stir until well blended. Mix in ground beef. Shape into 8 small balls and roll in remaining bread crumbs.

Brown lightly in fat or drippings in heavy skillet. Add soup and water, stirring until blended. Bring to boil, cover, reduce heat and simmer gently 15 minutes.

Add macaroni. Cover and simmer until macaroni is tender (about 15 minutes longer), stirring occasionally. Makes 4 servings.

Begin your holiday baking

It's none too early to start your holiday baking. Fruit cakes need a goodly ripening period to be at their best for the holidays.

"Old-Fashioned Fruit Cake" is a short recipe, as fruit cakes go, so it's a good one to choose if you're a novice at this sort of baking.

Plump raisins, dates and crisp walnuts, along with glaze fruit mix make this cake delicious to eat.

* * *

FOR OLD-FASHIONED Fruit Cake use three cups (one pound) dates, three cups light or dark raisins, two cups California walnuts, one pound diced glace fruit mix, one-fourth cup honey, one-fourth cup Sherry wine or fruit juice, one cup butter, or margarine, one and one-fourth cups brown sugar (packed), four eggs, two cups sifted all-purpose flour, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon soda, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon cloves, one-half teaspoon mace.

Pit and quarter dates. Rinse raisins and drain thoroughly. Chop Walnuts. In large mixing bowl, combine all fruits and nuts with honey and wine. Cream butter and sugar together thoroughly. Add eggs one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition.

* * *

POUR OVER fruits and walnuts. Sift together flour, salt, soda and spices. Add gradually to fruit mixture, mixing thoroughly. Pour into two greased loaf pans (8½ x 4½ x 2' inches) lined with two thicknesses greased brown paper and one of greased waxed paper.

Bake in slow over (300 degrees F.) about two to two and one-half hours, with shallow pan of water on bottom of oven. Remove from pans to cool, but leave paper on cake until ready to use. Makes about fivt and one-half-pound cake.

'Don't get mad with her for bringing you to court'

"He followed me to my girlfriend's. When he got ready to go, he told me to come with him. So, I went with him. He hit me. We drove five or six blocks. He opened the roof and kicked me out."

Miss Lavinia Kinard, 1900 block Cecil Ave., a soft-spoken young lady wearing dark-rimmed eye-glasses, her hair neatly cut and dressed in a two-piece gray-blue suit with tan jersey, Wednesday in Northwestern Police Court accused her fiance, Wilbert White, 26, 400 block E. Biddle St., of striking her.

The young man denied the charge. He said: "I didn't kick her. She fell out the door. She didn't do anything. It was just an impulse of jealousy."

Mr. White's sentence was 60 days in jail, suspended, but probation for a year.

* * *

IN SENTENCING him, the magistrate commented: "She loves you, but she doesn't want you to love her in such a brutal way. That's cave man tactics."

He then cautioned the defendant: "Don't get mad with her for bringing you into court. She did right. That was her way to stop you from hitting her."

All seemingly was forgiven, as Miss Kinard waited for Mr. White and they left together.

'IT WAS THIS WAY'—Nurse Lucy Walker, 912 Carrollton Ave., explains to AFRO reporter how her new car and a taxi collided at McCulloh and Preston Sts. on Monday afternoon. Miss Walker escaped uninjured. The taxi driver and passenger were injured. Miss Walker's damaged auto is shown in background.

Father is character witness for offspring

"Judge, your honor, I've never seen him carry any kind of weapon; if I had you wouldn't see him here this morning."

John W. Robinson Sr., 1636 Ellsmont St., testified thusly in Criminal Court Wednesday as a character witness for his son, John W. Robinson Jr., 2800 block Woodbrook Ave., accused of carrying a deadly weapon.

The sentence is a fine of $100 and costs," said Judge Joseph L. Carter in finding the young man guilty.

ACCORDING To Preston Pairo, assistant State's attorney, the defendant was arrested by Officer Charles Miller, Northwestern District, in a poolroom in the 2300 block Druid Hill Ave. on October 26 with the knife in his possession.

"Every time we pick up a knife it's always for cutting rope," said Officer Miller who said the young man told him he used the switchblade knife on his job in a furniture store.

The 26-year-old defendant, who wore a gray topcoat and nervously fingered a hat during his testimony, pleaded no contest to the charge.

Youngster linked to 3 burglaries

A 14-year-old boy who has allegedly admitted to three burglaries and two attempted safe thefts, has been turned over to juvenile authorities following his capture early Wednesday morning at Fawn and President Sts.

Police said that when they stopped the youth for questioning he admitted he had just broken into a steel-work shop where he stole a flashlight and screwdriver and earlier on Tuesday night had entered two other places.

The youngster, police said, also admitted that he had tried to force open two safes in business firms in the northeast and southwest area of the city. Police said that he is already involved in another robbery and was awaiting court action when arrested.

'He's not in economic strain'

The strange part about Bunch is he's a member of the longshoreman's union and he's not in any economic strain."

Alan Murrell, attorney, was referring to one of his clients who pleaded guilty to writing numbers in Criminal Court Wednesday.

The defendant, Caleb H. Bunch, 52, 1800 block N. Pulaski St., was sentenced to two years in the Maryland Penitentiary by Judge Joseph L. Carter.

A codefendant, Mrs. Ellen Bowden, 38, 2300 W. North Ave. pleaded guilty as a lottery player and was fined $25 and costs by the judge.

Sgt. Robert McKay said he led a raid on the home of Mrs. Bowden on October 23 after having Mr. Bunch under surveillance for several days. He said he found some scattered lottery slips in the home, adding that Mr. Bunch had numbers paraphernalia in his possession.

Guard that gun: here are 10 commandments for safety

The National Safety Council listed more than 2,000 casualties due to firearms last year; 1,100 of these occurred at home.

In Maryland counties there were 19 fatalities due to firearms and 11 of them were home accidents.

To avert unnecessary loss of life the Home Accident Prevention Unit of the Maryland State Department of Health urges safe practices with firearms both at home and when hunting.

EVERY HUNTER is urged to familiar with and abide by the Ten Commandments of Safety issued by the National Rifle Association of America:

1. Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun. This is the first rule of gun safety.
2. Guns carried into camp or home, or when otherwise not in use, must always be unloaded, and taken down or have actions open; guns always should be carried in cases to shooting area.
3. Always be sure barrel and action are clear of obstructions, and that you have only ammunition of the proper size for the gun you are carrying. Remove oil and grease from chamber before firing.
4. Always carry your gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle, even if you stumble.
5. Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger; know the identifying features of the game you intend to hunt.

* * *

6. ALSO—Never point a gun at anything you do not want to shoot; avoid all horseplay while handling a gun.
7. Unattended guns should be unloaded; guns and ammunition should be stored separately beyond reach of children and careless adults.
8. Never climb a tree or fence or jump a ditch with a loaded gun; never pull a gun toward you by the muzzle.
9. Never shoot a bullet at a flat, hard surface or the surface of water; when at target practice, be sure your backstop is adequate.
10. Avoid alcoholic drinks before or during shooting."

Youth gets year in theft of car owned by Virginia Broady

Charged with larceny of a $3,000 '56 Buick on Oct. 6, Cornelius Scott, 23, of the 1400 block W. Lafayette Ave., was sentenced to one year in the House of Correction Monday.

Patrolman Donald McKay of the Northwestern District stated that Scott was arrested in the stolen car following an accident at Fremont Ave. and Pitcher St.

Miss Virginia Broady, 1650 N. Smallwood St., owner of the car, told police that the car was stolen from Bloom and Pennsylvania Ave. Miss Broady stated that she had parked the car, dropped the keys in the street and went into a club in the vicinity for a flashlight.

When she returned, she said the car was gone.

Baby's death no homicide

At the completion of an exhaustive medical examination this week, police reported that a baby found under the Lafayette Ave. bridge had apparently been delivered dead in an illegal operation.

The announcement cleared up the question of whether the baby had been killed after birth or whether it had been delivered dead. The case is now being handled by abortion squad, police said.

The body of the baby was found on Oct. 17 in a bucket under the bridge near the 800 block N. Pulaski St. Tracing a receipt and a pillow case found in the bucket, police questioned residents in a house in the 1900 block W. Lanvale St., but later announced that they apparently had no connection with the child.

THE MOTHER of the baby has been identified as a 19-year-old Morgan State College sophomore, but police said that no criminal charges will be placed against her.

Meanwhile the investigation is continuing with police announcing:

"We have some ideas but we haven't made any arrests."

7 danger signals to detect cancer

Dr. Howard W. Jones, medical director for the Maryland Division of the American Cancer Society, announced this week tha tthe month of November has been designated as "Cancer Education Month."

The purpose is to inform the public of the importance of knowing Cancer's 7 danger signals and the progress that has been made in cancer research during the past year, Dr. Jones said.

Last year about 245,000 Americans died of cancer. This terrible loss of life could have been reduced by one-half if these persons had heeded the advice of the American Cancer Society.

Dr. Jones pointed out that the public has contributed great sums of money to help conquer this dreaded disease. He said fear is one of the basic factors prohibiting the increase in cancer cures at the present time.

* * *

THE 7 DANGER signals as listed by the American Cancer Society are:

1. Unusual bleeding or discharge.
2. A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere.
3. A sore that does not heal.
4. Persistent change in bowel or bladder habits.
5. Persistent hoarseness or cough.
6. Persistent indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.
7. Change in a wart or mole.

Youth accused of killing Phelan faces Nov. 26 trial

November 26 has been set for the Youth Court trial of Alvin H. Braxton, 17-year-old youth charged with the Sept. 29 death of rookie patrolman John R. Phelan.

The state's attorney's office will accuse Braxton of taking Officer Phelan's revolver away from him and shooting him with it as he was being transported in a patrol wagon to Lutheran Hospital following an attempted hold-up of a North Ave. whiskey store.

Young Braxton, of the 2000 block Baker St., who with four other companions is charged with a series of robberies and attempted robberies, was indicted by the grand jury two weeks ago for murder.

The three other youths will be tried Nov. 27. They are: Albert Braxton, Alvin's 19-year-old brother of 1900 Warwick Ave.; Roger Weldon Ray, 21, 800 block N. Payson St., and Earl C. Pickett, 19, 400 block N. Pine St.

Bail for the three ranged from $55,000 for Ray to $10,000 for Albert Braxton.

BOOKER T. WASHINGTON 1856-1956 — 100th ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

Booker T. Washington Centennial

The action of the 84th Congress of the United States, appropriating $225,000 to celebrate the centennial of Booker T. Washington, lends opportunity to reappraise the great educator's contribution to Negro advancement.

To properly understand Booker T. Washington's historical role, it must be appreciated that he came to the forefront during the lowest ebb of race relations in America. At that time the Negro faced almost complete denial of the great promise of freedom brought by the Civil War and Reconstruction, and seemed facing extermination.

What the Negro needed in the 1890's was time and weapons to combat the evil influence of his enemies and detractors. He needed reassurance of his potentialities, opportunities and a program for realizing them.

Booker T. Washington supplied both. His diplomatic approach to race relations stayed the hand of his enemies and revived the sympathy of his friends. It was time for promise, rather than attack; time for reorganization and preparation for coping with the harsh period ahead.

There being no place for the Negro to go, Washington advised him to stay where he was, to prepare himself to deal with the problems of his environment, and to make a truce with the surrounding white people. This meant discipline, education, sobriety, health, industry and thrift.

The fesults of this campaign became universally evident, not only in the growth and expansion of the school which he founded but also in the organization of self-help efforts which redounded to Negro's advantage and made him a more valuable citizen in the community.

It is therefore entirely fitting that in 1956, the centennial of the birth of Booker T. Washington in a slave cabin in Franklin County, Virginia that all friends of the Negro should extend themselves to publicize the philosophy and programs of this inspired man who did so much to help resolve the racial conflict in America.

Under the sponsorship of the Booker T. Washington Centennial Commission of Booker Washington Birthplace, Va., headed by the redoubtable Sidney J. Phillips, 1956-1957 should bring to the attention of America as never before the contribution of one of its greatest sons.
