Make Halloween happy and safe

It's Halloween time again. Whether your children are interested in "Trick or Treat" or collecting for the United Nations Children's Fund, next Wednesday, consider their safety.

The home accident Prevention Unit of the Maryland State Department of Health offers suggestions for your help.

For children out at night:

Youngsters should go out in pairs or groups and should not be out later than the evening hours.

If they will be crossing streets they should wear light clothing and be instructed to observe rules of traffic safety. A flashlight is helpful.

A CARELESS flick of a match can cause loosely woven clothing to burst into flame. If such garments are worn they should be fireproofed as follows:

Dip them into a solution made of 9 ounces borax and 4 ounces of boric acid in to a gallon water; wring by hand and hang to dry.

Garmet may be ironed. Repeat this treatmeat after each laundering.

Even "flameproofed material will burn but clothes thus treated will not continue to burn after it is removed from fire.

At parties, use only flameproof decorations.

THE KIND OF flashlight that remains lit when the top is unscrewed is safer than candles for Jack-o-lanterns.

A cardboard collar fitted inside the pumpkin will hold the flashlight upright on its base. Watch out for fire.

Parents can not always be on hand to supervise or protect children so they must teach them safe practices.

Do not permit them to stand too close to outdoor fires. Set an example by using covered metal containers for burning trash or leaves.

Keep the fire a good distance from buildings or shrubbery and have the garden hose on hand to prevent the bonfire from getting out of control.

Make sure the fire is completely out before leaving it.

CHILDREN should be taught not to run or remain standing if their clothing catches afire; standing permits inhalation of the fumes and running fans the flames.

A blanket, coat or rug rolled tightly around the person from the shoulders towards the feet will smother the flames.

If nothing is available, the victim may roll slowly and beat the flames with hands. See that children know all these rules.

ACCIDENT CAUSED THIS—A Wednesday afternoon collision caused this damage to the automobile of Arthur Leslie, 44, 3000 block Arunah Ave., at the intersection of Potee and Reed Bird Ave., near Cherry Hill. Mr. Leslie suffered a head injury and a passenger, Wallace Wood, 45, 3000 block Arunah Ave., sustained a fractured right arm, fractured ribs and head and back injuries. Suffering a chest injury was Deskin Rosier, 57, 400 block E. Hamburg St., the driver of the other car.

Three injured in two-car collision

"One car overshot the intersection, going real fast. The other car crossed in front. It was hit in the middle."

This is the way one eye witness described a two-car collision at Orchard St. and Druid Hill Ave. at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The driver of one car, Mrs. Emma Crotte, 47, of Elkton Park, Pa. was treated at Provident Hospital for left leg bruises.

The driver of the other car, a taxicab, was Richard Earl Janifer, 40, 429 Watty Ct. He was treated at Maryland General Hospital for Maryland General Hospital for left shoulder injuries.

Mr. Jenifer said that he has been a cab driver for 15 or 20 years and had never been in an accident previously.

A PASSENGER in the cab, Mrs. Anna Bennett, 36, 1342 Argyle Ave., was treated at Provident Hospital for possible fractured ribs.

Mrs. Crotte has been charged with failure to grant the right of way and failure to obey the stop sign.

A traffic Court hearing has been set for November 26 at 1 p.m.

James O. Gentry, assistant State's attorney, said at the trial that Mr. Washington battered down a rear door with a piece of two by four to enter the house.

The prosecutor said the defendant admitted knifing Mrs. Wilson repeatedly in a second floor bedroom.

According to Joseph Rosenthal, defense attorney, Mr. Washington was the father of one of the victim's five children.

IN HIS statement to police Mr. Washington related that he visited Mrs. Wilson at the E. Eager St. home of her mother to give her some money for the child, and a quarrel ensued.

He said he left the house and returned later.

"I knocked at the door, and Bessie came to the door with a knife in her hand," he said in the statement.

It was then that the defendant said he forced his way into the house.

"After I got upstairs, we tussled over the knife, and that's when she got cut," Mr. Washington said in describing the slaying.

'I have 7 kids,' driver tells judge

"I have seven kids".

"You should have thought of that before you came into court.

Magistrate Henry Miller was speaking to Charles Cromwell, 32, 1100 block Brentwood Ave., a taxicab driver, Thursday in Traffic Court.

Mr. Cromwell was fined $250 for operating under the influence of alcohol and $10 for failure to obey a signal light at Fulton Ave. and Baker St., September 25 at 2:15 a.m.

—Mr. Cromwell, who admitted to the court that "I had had three beers," explained, "When I first started through the light it was yellow."

"WHAT ARE you drinking for at all, while driving a cab?" Magistrate Miller inquired and then gave Mr. Cromwell a choice of 30 days in jail or a $250 fine. He chose the latter.

In another case, Van Stokes Woodson, 33, 2500 block W. Lafayette Ave., had his licenses suspended for 30 days and was fined $250 for operating under the influence of alcohol and an additional $25 for reckless driving in the 1300 block of Lafayette Ave. at 2 a.m., Monday.

To tune of 'Happy Days,' 'Old Baltimore' wakes up

In this article of the "Wake Up, Old Baltimore" series, Moses R. (Happy Days) Hicks, one of the "founders" of the series, writes some more of his recollections.

He asks:

"Do you remember the famous spring on Perkins Square with iron dippers fastened by chains? Thousands used to quench their thirst there daily. A drinking fountain now stands on the spot.

"Do you remember the big water pumps on the streets with their long iron handles for pumping water? They too had iron dippers fastened by chains.

"Remember the game? In the spring we played marbles in a full ring—often 20 feet wide. We also played leap-frog; catty, tag and hide-and-seek (commonly called "I spy").

"IN THE FALL, we rolled hoops, spun tops, played hockey, ran foot races and boxed.

"Remember the blizzard of January 27, 1922 . . . and the days when ladies wore knee-rolled stockings and blushed when you kissed them?

"Remember the Baltimore fire of Sunday, Feb. 7, 1904? There were 46 complete pieces of fire apparatus which responded to the call. Eleven banks were destroyed, several newspapers were also burned out.

"Remember when the boats were tied up at Light St. wharf because of ice in the rivers?

"Remember the swell baseball games on the lot on North Ave. east of Greenmount Ave.? My team was the Belt St. Terrors.

"MAYBE YOU remember them—George Carter of 23rd St. does.

There were: Howard Hicks, first base; William Black, second base; Frank Cooper, catcher; Moses Hicks, pitcher; George Awkward, third base; Froggy Washington, shortstop; Jonah Stewart, right field; Punch Scott, left field and Tom Swann, center.

"We whipped all comers—the Aisquiths, Ensors, Harfords, Druids and many others.

"Remember when George S. White attended the Girard Ave. School? He is now principal of School 127.

"REMEMBER when Theodore Jones and Henry Grob found $30,000 in a cellar at 132 S. Eden St? Also when gold was found in a cellar on North Pine St., where the Gold Mine Saloon is located.

"Remember the five cent carfare? If went out in 1918 when fare went to six cents; it was 4½ cents, Oct. 1, 1919; 7½ June 1, 1924; nine cents, seven cents Jan. 1, 1920; 7½ June 1, 1924; nine cents, three tokens for 25 cents, Feb. 12, 1928;

"On Dec. 1, 1928, it went to 10 cents, four tokens for 35 cents; Feb. 5, 1930, 10 cents flat. Of course, you know what it is now.

"It's fun on the "Wake Up, Old Baltimore band wagon. Let's bring the good old days back again."

And with a final "Happy Days," Mr. Hicks closed another of his interesting letters.

Why don't you get on the bandwagon with Mr. Hicks? All you need for admission is a few of the things you remember best about those halcyon days in "Old Baltimore."

Mahoney's views on trade 'distressing' says Butler

"George P. Mahoney's views on world trade reveal a distressing lack of concern for the American worker and the American businessman who must unfairly compete with cheap foreign products and cheap foreign labor," Senator John Marshall Butler (R-Md.) declared.

Senator Butler's comments Friday came on the heels of a press release from the Democratic Candidate's headquarters critical of the Senator's position on reciprocal trade.

"As usual, my opponent displays his complete lack of knowledge on vital issues affecting our Nation, our State and our people," Senator Butler said.

"My position is, and will be, that we must foster and conduct trade relations with other countries that are advantageous to our own economy.

"IT IS certainly not to our advantage to open the flood gates to unlimited foreign products of inferior quality, produced under sweat shop conditions, that can be sold cheaper in the market place.

"This kind of unfair competition can destroy many of our businesses and throw thousands of our people out of work.

"The suggestion that by providing adequate safeguards for American industry, we have injured the Port of Baltimore is pure 'Mahoney baloney', Senator Butler declared.

With less than two weeks remaining in the current political campaign, the Republican Senatorial candidate who is running for re-election has added more engagements to his speaking schedule.

On Sunday Senator Butler will be a breakfast guest at the home of Augustus Knox at 624 S. Paca St. Mr. Knox is president of the Sixth District GOP Club.

Other guests will be Magistrats Simon Schonfield, Howard L. Aaron, and former Magistrate Arrum K. Rifman.

Goodwill calls for wheel toys

Anticipating pre - Christmas shopping, the Baltimore Goodwill Industries has issued a plea for contributions of wheel toys to be repaired prior to the holiday season.

The items are renovated into like merchandise by handicapped Goodwill workers, and are then sold in five Goodwill stores located throughout the city, according to John W. Payne, executive director of the organization.

HE POINTED out that Goodwill trucks will pick up bicycles, scooters, wagons, skates, pull toys, doll baby carriages, and similar items from Baltimoreans who call the Industries at Broadway 6-7000 or Eastern 7-1555.

"Goodwill serves the dual purpose of providing income and independence for handicapped men and women, and of providing for low budget families merchandise they can afford," Mr. Payne said.

He said that contributions made by the end of the month will be repaired and repainted, then placed on the shelves of stores at: 1713 East Pratt St., 446 N. Gay St., 605 W. Lexington St. 670 Washington Boulevard and 1923 W. Pratt St.

Polio vaccine inoculations still available

Thousands of children this year reporting to clinics to receive poliomyelitis vaccine broke all City Healty Department clinic attendance records.

The City Health Department reports that on September 4, 704 inoculations were given at the Druid Health District clinic. As a result the clinic was so crowded that it was necessary to use the Harvey Johnson Center at Union Baptist Church in the next block.

Inoculations are still available in clinics throughtout the city. In the Druid Health District, the clinic at 1219 Druid Hill Ave. is open Tuesdays at 12:30 p.m.

At University Hospital the clinic for poliomyelitis vaccine is open Wednesday at 12:30 p.m.

BOOKER T. WASHINGTON 1856-1956 — 100th ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

An Appeal to Americans of All Races and Creeds

Ours is a land where freedom of thought and expression are parts of our constitutional heritage. Whether we agree or disagree with our fellow Americans doesn't matter. This is what democracy means. When disagreement, however, leads to hate, ill-will or violence of sufficient magnitude to militate against the well-being of our land at home and abroad, it is a matter of serious thought for every American—regardless of his race or creed.

The recent rulings of the Supreme Court on segregation based on race has in some areas given rise to racial tensions of such serious import that national unity is far from what it should be. Because of these tensions the Booker T. Washington Centennial Commission has dedicated its year long program, which pays tribute to the one-hundreth anniversary of the birth of Booker T. Washington, to a "GOODWILL BUILDING CRUSADE."

The Booker T. Washington Centennial Commission believes that this grave controversy cannot be settled by HATE and VIOLENCE. It knows this, first, because of Divine teaching and second, from the precedent established by America's greatest Apostle of interracial goodwill, Booker T. Washington. He came upon the American scene at a time when our land was torn with group tensions even as it is today; a time when it was far easier to think in terms of hate and destruction than it was to preach a gospel of Goodwill and progress. He chose the hard way—the way of compromise, of give and take, of friendship and cooperation, and so admirably did he succeed that in spite of his humble origin his name is linked with those great Americans who make up the nation's Hall of Fame.

We stand on the brink of a precipice of world disorder and indecision. We need national team work to hold our own in these times. National unity is the core of national defense. Disaster cannot shake or danger weaken the spirit of a united people. We appeal to you—the citizens of our nation—White, Black, Yellow and Brown—to help build goodwill in your community. Our National welfare depends—not upon whether we are North, South, East or West—but rather upon whether every man of us has done his part in helping to make of us an invincible nation.

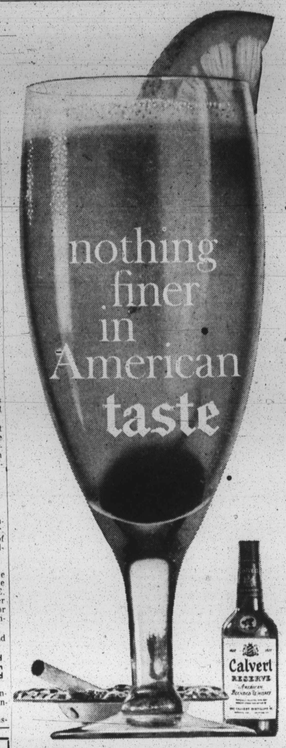
nothing finer in American taste



This is a delectable Calvert Whiskey Sour. Devotees of the Sour place the Calvert Sour on a pedestal. They also place it proudly before their guests. And with sufficient reason. A Whiskey Sour made with Calvert Reserve is a refreshing reminder of your own good taste — in all things, generally, and in whiskey in particular.

How to Make a Calvert Sour: Mix juice ½ lemon, 1 tsp. sugar, 2 oz. Calvert. Add ice. Shake until cold. Strain into Sour glass. Add orange slice, cherry, splash of soda.

Powell retracts

WASHINGTON — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (Dem. N.Y.), Tuesday, retracted the statement he attributed to President Eisenhower that he, (Ike) favored jailing anyone who disobeys court orders to desegregate schools.

"Eisenhower did not make the remarks I attributed to him," during our conference on Oct. 11, Mr. Powell said.

"I want to set the record straight that he did not make the remarks on enforcement of school integration. I inadvertantly confused this interview."

Koger Agency marks 12th anniversary

The Earl Koger Insurance Agency, now writing over 100 different fire and casualty policies and all forms of bonds, this week began observance of its 12th year in business.

Founded by Earl Koger Sr.; in 1944, the agency is located at 2126 W. North Ave., employs six specifically trained persons.

Mr. Koger was the first licensed and bonded broker of his race in Maryland, and in 1948 became the first policy counter-signing, fully appointed agent for the New Amsterdam Casualty Co.

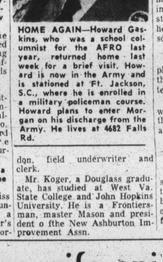
The same year he became the first of his race accepted as a member of the Fire Rating Bureau and to be officially staffed with library rating manuals and reporting services.

HE HAS HELD underwriting contract with the New Amsterdam and Maryland Casualty Companies, the Insurance Co. of North America, Hartford Steam Boiler, American Fire and Casualty Co., Home Insurance Companies.

Mrs. Ida Johnson Martin, a five-year employee of the agency, is office manager.

Other employees include Miss Geraldine Sampson, accountant; Miss Gloria White, a clerk-typist, and Mr. Koger's two sons, Earl Jr., and Gordon, field underwriter and clerk.

Mr. Koger, a Douglass graduate, has studied at West Va. State College and John Hopkins University. He is a Frontiersman, master Mason and president o fthe New Ashburton Improvement Assn.



HOME AGAIN—Howard Gaskins, who was a school columnist for the AFRO last year, returned home last week for a brief visit. Howard is now in the Army and is stationed at Ft. Jackson, S.C., where he is enrolled in a military policeman course. Howard plans to enter Morgan on his discharge from the Army. He lives at 4602 Falls Rd.

youngster, one mother, Mrs. Althea Patterson, 237 Beale Ct., who also doubles as secretary for the group has this answer:

"I know my son, Larry 9, has benefited from this. He is learning discipline and how to get along with other children. Its a wonderful idea and I am glad that my son is a Kadet."

The Kadets were organized by Mr. Carter July of last year. Mr. Carter lives in the McCulloh Homes and after watching how some of the kids had nothing better to do than throw stones at passing automobiles, he decided that he would try something new.

"I PASSED an Army surplus store down town and I saw this rifle," at the way Mr. Carter tells the organization story.

"I bought it for my son and when he started playing with it the other kids wanted to play as well.

"Then I suggested that they form a club and they asked me why didn't I form a club."

With a smile, Mr. Carter said that since he was unable to supply an answer for that bit of juvenile logic he did the only thing a man could do—he formed the club.

The Walter Green Post agreed to sponsor the unit and the Kadets were off and running.

WHERE THERE were eight members in July, there are now 63.

For those youngsters who might be short of cash to purchase one of the uniforms, the Kadets supply funds from bingo games and appearances of their chorus.

Dues for the organization are five cents a week for the small fry, and ten cents a week for the larger boys.

Mr. Carter, the man who heads the group, is well-qualified for his position, having spent 11 years in the Army. He was discharged as a sergeant.

When he issues an order, the youngsters execute it promptly, maybe with not all the polish of professional soldiers, but at least with more enthusiasm.

From the way the Kadets come in droves to attend every meeting, it is evident that Mr. Carter, and his aides, Thomas Allen, and James Childs, have a successful project on their hands.

In case any parent is interested in information on the Kadets, Mr. Carter is the man to see.

Ex-GI says wife enjoyed his Army absence too much

Her good time during his stay in the Army were too good to give up, Joseph Jones told the Court, this week, as he obtained a divorce from his wife, Mrs. Dolores Jones.

Mr. Jones, 1404 E. Oliver St. said that he and Mrs. Jones were married on May 31, 1952.

When he came out of the service on Feb. 24, 1955, his wife told thim that she didn't want hi many longer . . . that she had a good time while he was away and wanted to continue, he said.

A DIVORCE went to Mrs. Geraldine Thereat of 2012 E. Hoffman St., from Leonard Threatt.

Said the wife:

"He left me. We were living in a housing project and he advised the authorities that he would no longer pay the rent or do anything towards supporting me. He was very hard tempered. I was forced to leave the house on many occasions to get the police for protection."

The couple, married on July 31, 1953 in New York City, separated on July 1, 1955. They are parents of a 20-month-old son.

MRS. MARY McLEOD, of 927 Reamy St., Chester, Pa. divorced Kenneth McLeod.

The wife, a nurse at Chester Hospital, testified that her husband is serving a 21-year term at Maryland Penitentiary on a charge of assault and battery and attempted rape. Her maiden name, Hill, was restored.

JAMES A THOMAS of 2703 Ellicott Drive was divorced by Mrs. Doris Thomas, and ordered to pay $12 per week for the support of their two children.

She charged desertion.

a serious charge against you

"There were a number of children who would go to these parties together at night.

"After one party, this young man told the girl that he would take her home if they stopped at his house first.

His parents were away, and these two spent the night together. The same thing happened again last week.

Sgt. Violet Hill Whyte was testifying in Northwestern Police court on Wednesday.

Joseph Lewis Crest, 18, of the 3100 block Baker St. was charged with statutary rape on a 13-year-old girl.

THE MAGISTRATE in holding the youth for grand jury action said:

"Young man, you have a very serious charge of statutary rape against you. In a police court, we have no jurisdiction in such matters.

"I can say, though, if you had been working at some kind of job, this never would have happened.

—The neatly-dressed youth was accompanied in court by his father. The girl's mother stood with her.
