Gadabouting In Baltimore

'Twas sentimental journey party for 'Miss Frances'

with Lula Jones Garrett

It was a sort of "Lest We Forget" party that Mrs. Reginald Procter gave on Saturday honoring Miss Frances Murphy.

Guests (with the exception of two or three) were all former students of the retired teacher. They came laden with gifts, reminiscenses, and thanks for "tough spots" their "Miss Frances" has helped them over during their teacher-training periods, years ago.

They pinned a big orchid on the honoree, the hostess piled her with other flowers, and then they sat down to a luscious course dinner.

Invited to her Reisterstown Road home, by Mrs. Proctor at this event were:

Mrs. Ida B. Wroten, Mrs. Vivian Alleyne, Miss E. Louise Anderson, Mrs. Myrtle P. Jones, Mrs. Louise P. Tuck, Miss Grace Brooks, Mrs. Malissa Fox, Mrs. Eulalia Stevenson, Mrs. Lena Lee, attorney; Mrs. Shirley Roberts, Mrs. Pearl W. Jackson, Miss Valerie Butler, Mrs. Irma Dixon, Mrs. Dorothy Pollard, Mrs. Naomi Johnson and Mrs. Maude Williams.

FLOZELLA CLARK was hostess to the Bidding Wheels Bridge Club at that group's first meeting, this week.

Arnetta Lottier got off to a good start by taking the first club prize. Second prize went to Dollie Walker, Mamie Williams took first guest prize; Jimmy LaForest, second.

By the time the bridge game was finished, Mabel Grant arrived . . . from seeing "Pajama Game" to get the surprise of her life, a shower!

Pink and blue ribbons, leading to gifts, stemmed from a silver sprinkler. Mabel was as pleased as punch over the gorgeous gifts for her lil' Minnie Juanita.

Then came a repast, over which the gals lingered until two ayem.

Guests included Philathea Hall, Ada Woodland, Marie Frazier, Verda Welcome, Jimmy LaForest, Ruth Daniels, Mamie Williams and Marjorie Chatman.

Mrs. Walker, Bernadine Harrison, Nikki Randolph, Arnetta Lottier, Mary Madden, Mrs. Grant and Mrs. Clark are members of the club.

THE BALTIMORE chapter of the Rinkydinks opened its season with a session in the Kleeco Club, this week . . . began plans for a fabulous Christmas party.

As per their constitution, each member joined the NAACP. They also have plans for charities.

When these items were in order they turned in and renamed last year's officers to this year's posts.

These include Minerva Wellings, president; Charlee Bethea, secretary; Laura Shelton, treasurer; Ada Smith, business manager.

Other members are Ruth Fortune, Dorezetha Foster, Ruby Jenkins, Carol Weldon, Alethia Harrison, Beatrice Blackwell and Miriam Tate . . . a glamorous bundle of femininity if you ask me!

WHEN MEMBERS of the Stork Club held their initial fall meeting at Irene Templeton's home, last week, they mapped out plans, social and civic, for the year.

These children who are of junior high school age and above will be organized by Elsie Robinson to work with their parents on most of the club's projects.

Mrs. Templeton invited as guests Catherine Wilson, Alice Rusk, Bertie Clarke and Bernice Chatman to enjoy the sumptuous dinner which preceded the meeting.

Club members about were Ethel Covington, who heads the group; Charlotte Hackett, Llewellyn Walker, Catherine Greene, Gladys Prestwidge, Mary Oliver, Evelyn Bass;

Also Mary Patterson, Esther Laforest, Elsie Robinson, Marguerite Daniels and Jean Turpin.

Mrs. Laforest brought pins of California redwood to each member as souvenirs of her trip to the Coast the past summer.

SHARON BAPTIST Church was really packed, Saturday, for the wedding of Edna DeCoursey and Laurence Stokes . . . and the bride picture pretty in her ensemble in pink.

The bride, national basileus of Pi Beta Sigma Sorority, and a town schoolmarm, is equally as active in her church, where she is so beloved that she could scarcely get from the altar for affectionate demonstrations of elderly members.

Any number of friends from other cities were here for the ceremony, and for the reception which followed in the church parlors.

Among them were Mrs. Lena Walker of Brooklyn, N.Y., Mrs. Eloise H. Walker from the Bronx, N.Y., Miss Venia Ruth and Miss Lelia German from NYC.

Also Nathaniel Lynch, Miss Tiny Leak, Henderson Williams, Miss Adelle Jones, Mrs. L. B. Derricotte, Alfred Derricotte, Mr. and Mrs. David Buford of Washington;

Also Mrs. Charles Williams of Asbury Park, N.J., Mrs. Rebecca Frisby of Chestertown, Md., Mrs. Carye Jennings of the same city and Miss Mary Williams of Asbury Park; Dr. David O. Penn from Philadelphia and Mr. and Mrs. John O. Stancil of Norfolk, Va.

And didn't heaven smile on them . . . for hasn't this been a heavenly week for a wedding trip via motor. Were in Asbury Park, Monday.

DATE DATA: From where I stand it looks as if the 20th is going to be the busiest Saturday on the calendar.

There's Mrs. Theodore McKeldin's tea at the State mansion, at which Eloise Richardson is to be an honoree.

At Morgan State College the Maryland Educational Association and the Board of Trustees will unveil a monument to Frederick Douglass. The dedication speech is to be made by Governor McKeldin.

The Women's Club of Douglass Memorial Community Church has scheduled a fashion show for the 12th. They have garnered Paulina Brooks, and her models, to show a wide array of smart clothes. Mrs. Elizabeth Adams is arranging the affair. Mrs. Ruth Baker Muray heads the club.

Mrs. Viola C. Jackson and James McDonald are heading the committee which will honor Dr. Myles Connor, retired president of Coppin Teachers College, at a testimonial and banquet in Sharon Baptist Church on the 25th. Dr. Connor is not only being cited for his educational achievements but for civic, religious and fraternal leadership.

MISS SHIRLEY NEWBY will be married to Lawrence Barrett in St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church, Saturday at an 11:30 a.m. nuptial mass. Her admiring flower girl-to-be is Renee Brown.

Miss Warrington to represent Baltimore club in B-P contest

Miss Yvonne Marie Warrington, of Pimlico, St. Frances Academy senior, will represent the Baltimore Club of the National Association of Business and Professional Women in the national popularity contest.

The winner will be presented at the convention luncheon at Hotel New Yorker, New York City, October 13.

She will vie with other contestants from clubs of the organization throughout the country for the crown and trophy of "Miss B. and P." A scholarship of $500 will be awarded at this affair to a college student.

MISS WARRINGTON is a member of the Cecilian Choral Club, the Student Council and the French Circle at the Academy. Upon graduation she plans to prepare for a teaching career. She will be a special guest of the Baltimore Club at its eighth annual business exhibit at the Odd Fellows' Hall, October 29 and 30. Mrs. Emma H. Brown is general chairman.

Other features of the exhibit will be presentation of the dance groups of Vernice Matthews and Ellen Jones, spot fashions by Pauline Brooks and Hendin's and a drawing for a portable TV.

Takes vows as Carmelite nun

The former Miss Shirley Evelyn Snead, now Sister Joseph, exchanged her postulate veil for the black veil of the professes Carmelite nun in a recent ceremony. She is the first colored novice to take the Carmelite vows of chastity, poverty and obedience.

She is not the first colored cloistered nun in the United States—there being several Dominican nuns of the Perpetual Rosary, in Marbury, Ala.

The only daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Snead and the late Jesse Snead, she is a graduate of St. Francis Academy and was valedictorian for the class of 1949.

She was a member of St. Peter Claver Catholic Church and belonged to several youth organizations.

Mother's Club aids patients

The Mother's Club of East Baltimore filled a car and a station wagon with clothing for distribution to patients at Crownsville Hospital, last week.

Mrs. Maggie Paey of Wilson Park collected a large portion of the clothing through members of Fellowship House. Also participating in the collection were the Helping Hand Club, the Welcome Travelers Club, and the Mariah Presley Club.

Assisting in the project were Mesdames M. Swan, Mrs. Arnita Diggs, Mrs. Eily Moore, Mrs. M. Smith and Mrs. Ada Scott.

The latter three furnished 15 pairs of shoes for the school.

Mrs. Blanche Stancil is president of the Mother's Club.

Sandwiches for all-year treat

Although barbecues, cookouts and outdoor eating are a thing of the past for this year, there is still a place in your menu for new ideas in sandwiches which are an all-year-round favorite as well as a necessity.

Sandwiches that can go in the lunch box for school or on the job, sandwiches that can be eaten at home, or sandwiches to serve to your guests when you entertain informally—each has a place in your planning. So let's start the fall with some brand new combinations of flavors for sandwich fillings—each of which is enhanced by the blend of choice mustard seeds, rare spices and mellow vinegars of golden brown prepared mustard.
