'Mr. Hopp, why are you hopping?'

"Mr. Hopp, why are you hopping?"

William Hopp, 27-year-old Aberdeen Proving Ground soldier, in Northwestern Police Court Tuesday for disorderly conduct, was asked this question by the magistrate who observed the young man's left leg was apparently injured.

The private first-class explained that he must have hurt his ankle...the night before but could not remember how.

Officer Charles Bower told the court he was forced to arrest the man when he persisted in creating a disturbance at the Greyhound Bus Station.

"THE BUS driver would not admit this soldier in his condition said Officer Bower after relating the defendant was drunk.

"'You made a spectacle of yourself,' said the magistrate in giving him a cut-rate of $25 and costs.

After failing to get the fine reduced to bargain basement rates (he only had $10), Pfc. Hopp hopped out of the courtroom and back to the lockup.

Going to cost you more than you made'

"What did you bring the baby to court for?" demanded the magistrate in Northwestern Police Court Tuesday morning.

"I didn't have anyone to keep him," replied cab driver Donald A. Norton, 2000 block Cherry Hill Rd. As he spoke he clutched the hand of the small child standing at the bar with his father.

After warning the defendant that the presence of the child in the courtroom would not affect his decision, the magistrate gave him probation before a verdict.

"THIS IS going to cost you more than you made," Magistrate Koger told Mr. Norton and ordered him to put $5 in the poor box.

The defendant was arrested by Officer Joseph Pessano, of the Taxicab Bureau, who told the court that "his excuse was he forgot to throw the meter."

After the case was disposed of, Officer Pessano pointed out that some cab drivers pick up several different fares and by illegally failing to throw the meter get away with overcharging the passengers and pocketing the money.

'I take it he's a pickup man?'

"I take it he's a pickup man"

After clearing this question with Sgt. Robert Hosier of the Rackets Division Tuesday afternoon, Judge Joseph L. Carter sentenced a 40-year-old man to a year in the House of Correction and fine him $1,000 and costs on a lottery charge.

The defendant Bernie Barnes, 2063 Kenedy Ave., pleaded guilty to possession of lottery paraphernalia.

ACCORDING to Sgt. Hosier, Mr. Barnes was arrested in the 1000 block Eager St. on August 31 after being under surveillance for several days.

Officer Hosier said at the time of his arrest Mr. Barnes had the following in his possession:

A bag containing 315 cash; 21 unused conventional lottery books; 73 non-conventional and conventional lottery slips; 987 numbers; and $441.09 in play.

DON'T BE VAGUE ...SAY HAIG & HAIG

"How many times have you been convicted?"

"Nothing but an indecent show downtown."

"Well, I know about that one."

This conversation took place in Northwestern Police Court Tuesday morning between the magistrate and exotic dancer Kittie Dean.

The 25-year-old brownskinned blonde, who gave an address in the 1500 block Braddish St., and Gary Fleig, 25-year-old blond stevedore, 700 block S. Durham St., were charged with assaulting one other and disorderly conduct.

BOTH DEFENDANTS pleaded not guilty to the assault charge.

"As far as I'm concerned I want to drop the charge," Mr. Fleig informed the court.

The entertainer added, "I want to drop the charge."

The magistrate, however, found the defendants guilty of disorderly conduct and fined each $50 and costs.

Officer Robert McCauley testified that he was called to Druid Hill Ave. and Biddle St. early Tuesday, and arrested each on the complaint of the other defendant.

"We weren't fighting," said Miss Dean, who wore a pink full length coat, partially concealing a black dress, and a pair of small black pumps.

The exotic dancer told the court she called police after Mr. Fleig threw her car keys away.

Local 194's $1,000 to the NAACP

A WELCOME GIFT—This was the presentation of a $1,000 check to the Legal Redress Fund of the NAACP. The giver was Local 194 of the International Hod Carriers and Building Laborers Union. Left to right: Dwight Griffin, Clarice N. Brooks, John Syblewski, C. W. Callahan, president of the union; Mrs. Lillie M. Jackson, president of the NAACP, Bowen K. Jackson, Elaine Taliferra, Geneva B. Vanderwall, Albert B. Brooks, office manager. Second row: John Hayes, John Bundy, Delsie Campbell. Back row: H. T. Dunne, Major McGuire, Robert R. Woods, Harry Nelson, H. Blackwell, Alexander Maiden, W. T. Cornish, the Rev. W. A. Hall.

With a goal of 15,000 members the local branch of the NAACP is winding up the first week of its annual membership campaign.

The drive will run until Oct. 26 and at its height is expected to draw on the services of over 1,000 volunteer workers who will completely cover the city.

Memberships in the organization start at $2 and progress up to $500 for life memberships. Also available are membership 17 years of age and for, those 17 to 21 years of age, with yearly fees of 50 cents and $1 respectively.

DURING THE campaign, regular report nights will be held on Tuesday at the Sharp St. Memorial Methodist Church, Dolphin and Etting Sts.

The first of these nights was held this Tuesday at which time the meeting was highlighted by the presentation of a $1,000 check.

The check came from the International Hod Carriers and Building Laborers Union, Local 194, and was intended for the Legal Redress Fund which has a local goal of $5,000

DIRECTING the campaign is John W. Flamer of the national office, who last year led a successful campaign that produced more than the goal of 10,000 members.

In explaining why this year's goal has been raised, Mr. Flamer pointed to the barring of the NAACP in Texas, Alabama and Louisiana, and the need for the organization to draw increased support from other areas.

The assistant campaign director this year is Charles Howard, a young attorney, who will be the featured speaker at a series of Thursday night meetings to be held in the areas into which the city has been divided.

The first of these meetings was held last night (Thursday) at the Wayland Baptist Church. On Oct. 11 the meeting will be at the First Baptist Church in East Baltimore and Oct. 18 at Leadenhall Baptist Church, South Baltimore.

On Oct. 21 at Sharp St., the Rev. C. R. Steele, one of the figures in the Tallahassee bus demonstration, will be the speaker.

The closing meeting will be held on Oct. 26 at Sharp St. and the Rev. Martin Luther King, one of the leaders in the Montgomery (Ala.) bus boycott, has been invited to be the speaker.

Inmate tells court he is satisfied at Patuxent

"It's a commendable attitude. It's certainly one that I haven't found in most of these cases."

Judge James K. Cullen on Wednesday was referring to the decision of a 19-year-old youth to return to Patuxent Institution for additional treatment.

Lambert Green, 1400 block N. Eden St., sentenced to three years for burglary in 1955 and later transferred to Patuxent Institution, was on trial to determine whether he was a defective delinquent.

"Lambert, are you satisfied to stay at Patuxent Institution rather than be sent to the Reformator?" Gilbert V. Rubin, defense attorney, asked the youth.

"Yes, sir," replied the youth.

AFTER THIS exchange between the defendant and his attorney, Judge Cullen found him to be a defective delinquent, adding, "I certainly wish you the best of luck."

Earlier, Dr. Howard M. Boslow, director of the institution, testified that it was his opinion that Greene, like most of the inmates, dreaded the indeterminate stay at Patuxent.

Dr. Boslow noted that Green had shown some improvement over the past few months. He said, however, that it was the opinion of his staff that the defendant was a defective delinquent.

The institution was set up by the Maryland Legislature for treatment of prison inmates who are adjudged unstable. After an observation period the inmates are tried in Criminal Court to determine whether they are defective delinquents.

Upon release from the institution inmates still face their original sentences.

"There is not much evidence to indicate aggressive or violent potentiality," Patuxent members said of Green in a report.

"Nevertheless, he falls within the confines of the legal definition of a defective delinquent, and as such is eligible for commitment to the Patuxent Institution," the report concluded.

Newlywed 17-year-old to honeymoon in jail

"Are you married?"

"Yes, sir."

"When did you get married?"

"Christmas Eve, 1955."

This exchange took place in Youth Court Wednesday between Judge James K. Cullen and a 17-year-old youth who pleaded guilty to larceny of an automobile.

The youth, Howard G. Stanley, 1900 block Kennedy Ave., was sentenced to not more than one year in the Maryland Reformatory for males.

Judge Cullen queried Stanley about his marital status after examining a probation report which indicated the youth had a juvenile record. The record also showed that he was married.

EDWARD BORGERDING, assisting State's attorney, said Stanley and three juveniles were involved in the theft of a 1952 automobile on September 20. The case against the juveniles has not been disposed of, he said.

The prosecutor said Stanley was arrested four days later when he nearly rammed the rear of a police car at Aisquith and Preston Sts.

The defendant gave a statement to police, admitting his part in the larceny, according to Mr. Borgerding.

Broken lock and fire in garage all for a clubhouse

"This child has never given me any trouble," so spoke Mrs. Louise Harper, 3800 block W. North Ave., Wednesday, in Northwestern District Court.

Her 17-year-old foster son, Robert Craven, also of the 2800 block W. North Ave. was charged with setting fire to a garage in the 2800 block of Walbrook Ave., the night before.

He was held under $2,500 bond for action of the grand jury.

His 15-year-old companion was released in care of Mrs. Harper, who was also identified as his foster mother.

POLICE SAID young Craven and his companion broke the lock off the garage and planned on using it as a clubhouse. Firemen were called and put out the blaze before it was damaged.

"This is a serious offense. They give you years for this.

"Every time they turn out one of those fire engines it costs the taxpayers a lot of money," the magistrate said in setting bail for the youth.

State scholarships given 92 students

A total of $22,686 in study grants and travel funds has been awarded by the Trustee Committee on State Scholarships to 92 students in 18 outof-state colleges and universities and two local schools.

The grants are for the first semester of the present school year and were awarded to those persons in school prior to the end of discrimination in state operated schools.

The original purpose of the scholarships was to make it possible for colored students to study those courses in the state schools which were not available to them in Maryland because of race.

In addition to approving the list of students for this semester, the Committee also approved the request of Mrs. Bessie D. Reavis to attend New York University this summer.

The home economics courses which Mrs. Reavis was taking at NYU toward her master's degree were not offered this school term, hence the request for the summer work.

Rating plan at BTW High

By EMMA DORSEY

On Monday the Student Affairs Committee of Booker T. Washington Junior High School started its rating procedure to encourage pupils to become better pupils.

Classes will be rated on scholarship, attendance and punctuality; cafeteria, homeroom and auditorium cooperation; support of school activities and participation in school activities.

The Student Council has charge of the ratings in support of school activities and the Booker T. Bulletin will supervise the ratings for participation and active membership in clubs.

Weekly ratings will be posted in conspicuous areas throughout the school.

Two films viewed by pupils at 131

The pupils of Elementary School No. 131 were invited to the auditorium on Friday to see the films, "We Serve" and "All Together."

The films were shown by the Red Cross Club sponsored by Mrs. Geneva R. Woods. The group showed interest by asking a number of questions. Plans have been made to stage other activities.

School 131 has three new teachers

By GENEVA WOODS

The principal and faculty of Elementary School No. 131, located in the 800 block of Druid Hill Ave., greeted three new teachers this semester.

The social studi classes under the supervision of Mrs. Margaret Finch, Mrs. Elizabeth Denby, and Mrs. Elizabeth McDowell visited Ft. McHenry in connection with Defenders' Day Exercises.

ONE DAY TEACHERS—It won't be long before Miss Jo Ann Jones, 1505 Poplar Grove St., and her friend, Miss Audrey Seabrook, 933 W. Mulberry St., will be full fledged teachers, right now they are juniors at Coppin State Teachers College and the books they hold are the real articles, not just props.

Mrs. DeSimone taught Nina honesty, 10 Commandments

By ELIZABETH M. OLIVER

"I have brought Nina up by the Ten Commandments," Mrs. Mary DeSimone told the AFRO Wednesday. "And I think if they put the Ten Commandments on the blackboard in every school room we would have less trouble in the world.

"Honesty is about all we can give our children," she continued. "We can not amass riches for them. But if they have honesty and integrity, I think that will see them through."

Mrs. DeSimone was speaking about her 11-year-old Nina, the little girl who found the wallet containing $236.00 belonging to Marsha Sophomore Thelma Smith.

Nina who is in the 6th grade at St. Dominic's Parochial, was rewarded with a $20 bill and since her birthday in March, the Roman Catholic Dormitory Council is going to give her a party then.

"THEY HAVE MORE than rewarded Nina, we think," the happy mother said. "She is a very good child, quiet and no trouble at all. She just did what she was supposed to do. We are ordinary quiet people and we think that is enough.

"They have been generous and kind. Then too, we think there is no substitute for honesty itself. It is its own reward."

Entirely enthusiastic and still excited about her daughter's finding and returning the money, the mother went on:

"Nina has never gone to the movies very much. We do not allow it very often, but she begged and begged so I let her go on with her friend, Annette Leaky.

"THE LITTLE GIRLS were coming back in the late afternoon, walking along and kicking trash, like kids do. Nina saw this plastic cosmetic case and hoped to find lipstick and stuff like little girls like, you know.

"The two of them were excited to find so much money in the little plastic bag and they ran home as fast as they could.

"Nina was here when Nina brought in all that money we decided we couldn't do anything else but make a search for whoever it belonged to.

"I noticed that the address inside the purse was Virginia and decided to write a letter to the person.

"But then we saw the stamps, three-cent stamps and special-delivery stamps, and I thought about it being registration time for the colleges. Morgan is near us so we decided to call there first."

THE DESIMONE family resides at 2701 Southern Ave., and the father Michael, is a fitter at Sparrows Point, Bethlehem Steel. There are six children, Mrs. DeSimone said, ranging between age 18 to age one, who keep her very busy.

"We have never won anything nor have we been lucky," she continued. "We always watch TV quiz programs and wish for money, but we never have any desire to keep anything which does not belong to us."

Mrs. DeSimone explained that they belong to St. Dominic Catholic Church and that all of her children are brought up in the church.

"We did not tell anyone at all about it because," she laughed gaily, "we thought people might think we have other things too."

"THE CHILDREN were excited with the finding of the money and with its return. Keeping it never entered our minds. We are very glad Nina did not take a penny of the money."

The money which was intended for Miss Smith's registration expenses was lost last Friday, found and returned the same day.

Miss Smith, a Matthews County, Va. student had gone to Northwood shopping center with a group of girls Friday and on the way back dropped her wallet.

ACCORDING to her account of the finding of the wallet, she said, she was sitting in her room "worried to death" and "all choked up inside," wondering whether to call home or not, when the buzzer rang about 8 p.m.

"I ran down to the Dean of Women's office and she said, 'Thelma, I've got good news for you.'"

Herbert Yingling, a neighbor of the DeSimones had called the college inquiring about a lost wallet which Nina had found.

A reward was offered by the Sphinx Club on the second floor at 10 p.m. Interested members of the class are asked to call Mrs. Nellie Bowie—LO. 6-8130.

NINA DeSIMONE

had consulted the child's parents.

The coed, who is the daughter of an oyster boat captain, and the youngest of five children, said: "When I knew that my money had been found, I was very happy."

Johnson clubs map activities

The Future Teachers of America, Y Teens, and Hi-Y Clubs at Johnson Junior High School are planning activities for the year. Mrs. Ruth Davis, Mrs. Pearl Pratherm and Mrs. Mattie Robinson, are sponsors of the FTA.

Tillie Regins was elected president of the group. Members are: Mattie Tyson, Theresa Wells, Phillie Hanicks, Mary Ferrell, Vanda Wickford, Marblen Brown, Shirley Tyler.

The Junior Hi-Y Club is sponsored by Norman R. Uncles. It is a club program, for boys of the seventh, eighth, and ninth grades, 12- through 14 years of age.

The club is carried on under the auspices of the YMCA. It encourages Christian thought, Christian action, and Christian leadership.

The Y-Teens Club is sponsored by Miss Luella R. Black. It is carried on under the auspices of the YWCA. Members of the club are:

OHS CLASS OF '40 MEETING PLANNED

YWCA shutterbugs enjoy Saturday p.m. workshops

The Photography Class at the Madison Avenue Branch YWCA is in full swing. The shutterbugs are on the look-out for new and interesting subjects to photograph.

After the last class meeting some of the more enthusiastic participants were showing off their developing techniques to anyone who would look by holding up dripping film negatives throughout the building.

Along with developing and printing the class will study portraiture and go on field trips.

Saturdays from 2 to 4 p.m. is the time for this workshop and it's not too late for you to join. Call the YWCA, Madison 3-6443, for details.

'Price you pay for integration'

"This is hard, but it is the personal price you have to pay for integration."

These were the words of Dr. Martin D. Jenkins, president of Morgan State College on Wednesday, as he told an estimated 1,900 students that many colored high school graduates enter college without being fully prepared to do first class college work.

To overcome these handicaps, he told the students:

"You are going to have to work very hard—much harder than the average college student. This means really serious attention—second mile application—to your classroom and laboratory assignments.

"It means voluntary assumption of the responsibility of working on your own personal academic weakness — whether in reading or speech or writing or computation. It means far less attention to the fun and frolic of college life.

"It means real intellectual discipline. This is hard, but it is the personal price you have to pay for integration."

DR. JENKINS spoke at the matriculation convocation exercises formally opening the 80th academic year of the college and marking its 17th season as a state-supported institution.

Addressing the students registered at the college, the faculty and staff in Hughes Stadium, the Morgan president declared that one of the requirements being strongly pressed in the fight over integration is the argument that the colored citizen is inherently inferior.

DISPROVING the argument, he told the students, is going to be difficult, for in many instances, "you are expected have imposed a handicap upon you." He added:

"You can't like this—but it is essential that you know it. Few of you have had the privilege of attending the elementary and high schools in your community. On the contrary the chances are that your schools were overcrowded and not too well equipped.

"The chances are that the social and cultural background of the great majority of your classmates was such as to make difficult the realization of high standards of academic achievement.

"And this is true whether you are from Baltimore or Washington, or Virginia or Delaware or the schools of New York or Philadelphia or Chicago!"

"We are going to do all that we possibly can to help you. We are going to use the best teaching methods we know. We are going to show you that we have confidence in your ability to achieve," he said and added that "the good teacher does not out not the threat of failure but the exciting possibility of growth."

But while promising increased faculty and administrative attention to the problems of students, the president cautioned that the college cannot permit students to enter who are incapable of doing college work, nor can it keep students in the college who fail to measure up to standards.

He announced, in connection with this, that the college this year has instituted "a mild policy of selective admission" and is studying its admissions policy to consider further revision.

Moreover, he said that the college through the newly created position of a Director of the Lower Division is studying and undertaking counseling of students who fall slightly below standards.

Boss fires Clay school pupils' dad

By LOUIS E. LOMAX

CLAY, Ky. — James Gordon Sr., father of James Jr. and Theresa Gordon, who won the heart of the nation by their heroic efforts to attend the previously all-white Clay Consolidated schools, has been fired from his job.

The firing supports dispatches filed by this reporter during the integration row at Clay. Mr. Gordon was employed as a mechanic by the Holman garage in Sturgis, owned by J. L. Holman, mayor of Sturgis.

During the integration dispute, this reporter learned that Mr. Gordon's job had been threatened because of the school dispute, but both Mr. Gordon and Mayor Holman refused to confirm the report.

Mr. Gordon did express a willingness to discuss the matter with the FBI, but the agents did not question him.

The NAACP advised the FBI that Mr. Gordon's job had been threatened and the agency was given the name and location of a person in Sturgis who would arrange for them to see him and get a statement. The contact was not made.

MR. GORDON, a superb mechanic, was lured back to the job at Holman's garage after he had quit a year ago and began working on a job in Evansville, Ind., after Mr. Holman promised him a salary increase and better working conditions if he would return.

Mr. Holman, as mayor of Sturgis, took vigorous exception to the presence of members of the National Guard and led a fight to have them withdrawn. Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler would not follow the mayor's urging.

This is another in a series of incidents where the FBI failed to make an investigation that could have shed light on a clear cut case of civil rights abridgement.

Several complaints have been filed out of Mississippi in which colored people have alleged their civil rights have been abridged. None has been brought to prosecution by the FBI.

THE GORDON children, James Henry, 16, and Theresa, 8, attended classes at the school three days before ordered to stay at an all-colored school Mrs. Gordon took them to school each day protected by armed escorts.

The case is now before a Federal District Court as is the Sturgis integration case.

Mr. Gordon says he plans to again seek employment at Evanston, about 50 miles away, and commute the 100-mile round trip daily.

"I WOULDN'T LEAVE this house," said Mrs. Gordon. "It would be impossible to move." asking: "Where would we go?"

She further pointed out that "we can't leave now. We want to see our case through. Besides we're expecting another baby soon."

Neither Mr. Gordon nor his wife expressed hard feelings over Mr. Gordon's being fired, both insisting they had done what they felt was right.

Mrs. Gordon did say, however, that she didn't see why "they (the garage owner and employees) couldn't stick by" her husband.

TEEN AGE MEDLEY

By LAVANIA RICE

This has been quite an enjoyable week and to make things even more exciting the played a real game against North Carolina State.

Earlier in the week at Western High School there was an assembly for the seniors. They were officially recognized Lavania Price as leaders of the school and upper classmen.

Club 17 had its last meeting on Sunday with all 17 members in attendance. It was the last meeting because many of the girls are going on to different colleges and universities.

National letter writing week to be celebrated

National Letter Writing Week will be celebrated in Baltimore during the week, of October 7 to 13.

The event has been observed each year since 1938 as a reminder of the real meaning of a personal letter.

Cherry Hill pupils meet top administrators at assembly

The Student Council of the Cherry Hill Junior High School No. 180 held an orientation assembly to acquaint the student body with pertinent facts about the school.

Since the school administrators have been changed since last semester, the council had the pleasure of presenting the new heads, Miss Hermione Wharton, principal, and Cyrus Marshall Jr., vice principal.

Representatives of the various student organizations spoke about the purpose and membership requirements of their respective organizations. The following students participated in the speeches:

Jane Quarles, speaking for "The Hilltopper," the student newspaper; Patricia Johnson, for the dramatic club; Homer Dorsey, for the monitors; Barbara Coleman, representing the Junior Red Cross; Sandra Smallwood, for the cafeteria hosts and hostesses; Yvonne Clark, for the Y-Teens; Abraham Martin, representing the library assistants; Joyce Broadway for the choir; and Joyce Wilson representing the Student Council.

MISTRESS OF ceremonies for the assembly was Vera Jackson. Charles Gordon read the Scripture lesson. Two musical interludes were provided by David Cook and Gene Middleton who gave violin and vocal solos respectively. Miss Eugeden Washington is chairman of the faculty - student council committee and was in charge of the assembly.

Girls attending were:
