bathroom preparing to have their faces washed, the mother reported.

"Butchy (Willard) came out of the bathroom and told me he couldn't find Wayne's shoes," she said. "The oldest child was getting the boys' clothing together," she said.

"I walked toward the bathroom, and I noticed the children sitting on the living room floor. They looked sleepy and drowsy," Mrs. Galery reported.

She said she noticed the empty aspirin bottle on the bathroom floor. "Butchy realized I knew something was wrong. He ran into the front room.

"When he told me he ate them I figured the others must have eaten some too," she said.

* * *

"I FELT weak in the knees, I was scared to death," she exclaimed. "All I could think was I had to get them to the hospital right away!

"I ran next door and told a neighbor what happened. She told me to prevent them from going to sleep," continued the mother.

"Luckily there was a cab across the street. The driver said he was going off duty. But he agreed quickly when I told him what happened.

* * *

"I RAN BACK for the kids. I was so excited I ran into the street with their shoes in my hands," she recalled.

"I stayed at the hospital all day. I was so worried I couldn't sleep or eat.

"But now I feel better. The hospital is doing a wonderful job. I'm so grateful," Mrs. Galery said.

* * *

ONLY ONE of the victims complained of any ill effects during the trip to the hospital, Mrs. Galery said. "The others were almost asleep, but Wayne said, 'Mommy, my tummy hurts,'" she reported.

Mrs. Galery said her husband purchased the large bottle of aspirins on Saturday, since "Brian had a slight cold."

"This will never happen again," she exclaimed. "I don't want to see another aspirin," Mrs. Galery concluded.

Brown, who represented Pratt at the trial which gained national attention.

Under the terms of the decision Pratt will be on probation for one year. He will be supervised by New Jersey authorities in cooperation with the Probation Department here. The verdict wipes out a criminal conviction.

"I was very pleased about it," beamed Mrs. Pratt outside the courtroom.

"It was a very unfortunate incident," she said. "It was unfortunate for the girl, the boys and the school."

* * *

MRS. PRATT told the AFRO that since the trial in June her son has been working at a Palmyra tailor shop and the Riverton Country Club, also located there.

"I don't know what he's going to do yet," she said when asked about her son's plans for returning to college. "He doesn't talk very much."

Referring to the recent California Olympic tryouts where Pratt finished fourth in the hurdles, Mrs. Pratt said, "He was very disappointed about that."

Miss Mary E. Harper accused Pratt of forcing her into submission on the back seat of a car parked near Morgan Stadium.

* * *

FOUR OTHER Morgan students were arrested and charged. They were:

Stephen S. Thomas, 19, East Orange, N.J., charged with rape and accessory before the fact;

Sterling M. Parker, 19, Fairmount Heights, Md., conspiring to commit rape and accessory before the fact;

Kenneth W. Parker, 18, Dobbs, Md., conspiracy to commit rape and accessory before the fact;

Allen E. Jones, 19, New Rochelle, N.Y., conspiracy to commit rape and accessory before the fact.

Miss Harper and the five youths were expelled from Morgan following disclosure of the incident.

According to testimony at the trial Miss Harper went riding with John (Bobby) Lee, son of the business manager at Fla. A. and M. College and a nephew of a Morgan professor, in a car driven by Pratt.

The girl said when they drove back to the campus the car was parked near the stadium where the alleged attack occurred.

Lee testified that his roommate, Pratt, and the other youths forced him out of the car during the alleged rape.

isting segregation laws in our state or suffer the consequences."

The lawyers said, "That telegram was sent without the knowledge or concurrence of the other two commissioners."

* * *

THE CASE is set for oral argument on the Supreme Court calendar for October. Alabama lawyers for the colored citizens are Charles D. Langford and Fred Gray, both of Montgomery.

Mr. Gray is scheduled to report for induction in the Army on Sept. 17. If drafted before October, he may not participate in the case which he helped to focus into headlines around the world.

In addition to state commissioners, other defendants named in the suit are City Commissioners Frank Parks and Clyde Sellers.

Also Goodwyn J. Ruppenthal, chief of police, and bus drivers James F. Blake and Robert Cleere.

Alabama holds that it has the right to exercise police power to maintain segregation for the sake of "peace and order."

did not ask for alimony.

In an agreement filed as a part of the records, Mr. Parks agreed to provide $75 per week for the support of two daughters of the marriage, 10 and 13 years old, until they are of age.

Under the agreement he reserves the right to visit the children and to have them visit him at reasonable times. Their custody was placed with the mother.

The agreement also provided for the mother to remove any furnishings from the home at 3454 Auchentoroly Terrace, here, that she required to make a home for daughters and to keep an automobile that he had given her.

* * *

IN HER TESTIMONY, before a Master of Circuit Court, which won her freedom from Mr. Parks, president of a sausage plant which bears his name, she testified:—

"I was always a good wife and a good homemaker, but Mr. Parks was very cold towards me — cold and unresponsive.

"He acted rather like a stranger. He seldom spoke to me, and when he did it was usually just 'Good morning' or 'Good evening.'"

She added that she and Mr. Parks seldom went out together, though they sometimes had meals together.

Her testimony was corroborated by her sister, Mrs. Barbara Soden of Brooklyn, N.Y., who said that she visited the home often, staying for several days at a time.

pastor, officiated at the rites attended by an estimated 1,000 friends and associates of the slain beautician.

Burial services were held, Tuesday morning, at Lincoln Memorial Cemetery.

Mrs. Worlds, 48, a beauty shop owner, was shot and killed Aug. 22 by her boyfriend, George W. Ruth, 45, a gas station operator, who critically wounded himself after the slaying.

Prior to the funeral an estimated 2,500 persons viewed her body, which lay in state at Hall Brothers Funeral Home, 621 Florida Ave., NW.

More than 75 telegrams and messages of sympathy were read at the rites. The 24-member choir to which Mrs. Worlds belonged rendered four selections which were favorites of the slain woman.

* * *

JOSEPH BOTTS, the choir director, sang "God Will Wipe Away Our Tears." Overcome with emotion, he was unable to complete the spiritual.

The Rev. Travis described the victim as a woman with a kind heart and a good soul.

"She had a great interest in her church and choir, her job on earth is done, now she's gone to slumber."

The victim was owner and operator of the Howardette beauty shop, 412 T St., NW, and a business manager and member of the Salem Baptist choir.

Her death follows closely the death of a son, Charles Ware, who died in May, 1956.

Survivors include her mother, Mrs. Lena Ware, 612 T St., NW, another son, Clyde Ware; two aunts, one uncle, three grandchildren, and two daughters-in-law.

kill himself," Sergeant Crooke declared.

"I asked him why did he want to do something like that. He told me he wrecked his car in an accident and was having a hard time with the insurance company.

"I told him I would send somebody to see that he got medical attention," Sergeant Crooke said.

"He said 'all right' and hung up."

* * *

THE DETECTIVE immediately dispatched a scout car to the scene, but the victim had carried out his promise. The body was taken to D.C. General Hospital, where Mr. Knight was officially pronounced dead.

A friend of the victim, Edward Marcus, 27, same address, said he heard the blast while he was in his apartment on the eighth floor.

man working on the elevator," he exclaimed.

* * *

"WHEN I learned what happened, I wasn't surprised, Jay was despondent ever since his wife died of pneumonia about a year ago," Mr. Marcus stated.

"Jay would put on a front though. He was always smiling, only his friends knew how despondent, he was," Mr. Marcus said.

* * *

HE SAID Mr. Knight was the owner of a 1956 Ford. "He wrecked it coming from the race track, last week," reported Mr. Marcus.

He reported the victim kept a small arsenal in the apartment. He always went hunting or fishing," Mr. Marcus explained.

Tentative cause of death was listed as suicide by a shotgun, police said.

Bar group meets

NEW YORK (ANP)—The National Bar Association is holding its 31st annual convention here from August 26 through Sept. 1. Lawrence R. Bailey and Edward J. Cambridge are cochairmen of the convention committee.

The program includes luncheons, discussions, and business sessions.

J. O. Hill, 3 others hurt in auto crash on way to Elk meet

LOS ANGELES — J. Oliver Hill, attorney, of Fairmount Heights, Md., and three other persons en route to the convention were injured earlier this week in an automobile accident 28 miles west of Tucson.

All four were slightly injured. Mr. Hill sustained cuts of the arm and a wrenched shoulder. Twelve stitches were taken in his arm. All four were treated at a hospital in Kingsman, Ariz.

The accident was caused by a tire blowing out on the new station wagon; the car turned over three times. One of those injured was Benjamin Sears, also a lawyer of Fairmount Heights.
