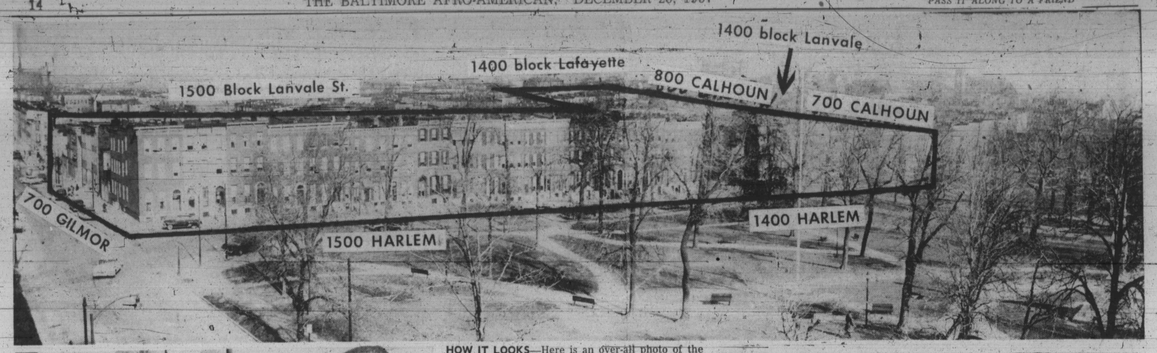
WHEN YOU FINISH READING YOUR AFRO PASS IT ALONG TO A FRIEND



HOW IT LOOKS—Here is an over-all photo of the Harlem Park site the Board of School Commissioners wants for the location of two schools. The proposed junior high school would be facing Harlem Ave. and Harlem Park, and an elementary school to the rear in the block bounded by Lafayette Ave., Calhoun, Lanvale and Stricker Sts. An alternate site proposed would be bounded by Gilmor, Winchester, Calhoun and Mosher Sts.

SANTA MISSED seven-year-old Orlando Marshall, of 906 N. Broadway, his longshoreman's job before Thanksgiving and has been unable to

Red Shield Club holds holiday events

Christmas began on Thursday night at the Red Shield Boys' Club on Calhoun St. when the boys decorated their tree and hung lights around the game room.

Friday night, Charles Anderson, manager of Poe Homes and a member of the Red Shield board of directors, brought tickets to the boys at the club for the gala Christmas party at the Harlem Theatre on Saturday morning.

Saturday night was the night of the big party when all of the boys gathered in the gym and watched a magician put on an extensive show. A live cartoon movie was shown, then the Red Shield Indians from the Clinton St. branch put on an Indian show.

The boys then came down into the game room around the Christmas tree and were served ice cream. A big bag of oranges, apples, nuts and candies from the Salvation Army was given to each boy.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON, the Mothers' Club of the Western Branch entertained themselves, their children, and Major and Mrs. Douglass Eldredge with a Christmas dinner at the club.

The mothers who participated were Mesdames Geneva Smalls, Norman Taylor, Willa Orange, Gloria Nick, Novella Robinson, Haleh Davis, Rosa Taylor, Anne Ross, Marjorie Parker, Lillian Fletcher, and James Alston.

Tom Ross, club director, and Harry Brown were also present.

With the mothers were 22 children. Mrs. Douglass Eldredge, the wife of the executive director of all the clubs conducted a program of Christmas carols, readings and musical numbers, after which, she gave all of the children and the mothers present, individual gifts.

The ladies also gave Mrs. Eldredge a Christmas present.

Eight Noel children wish parents 'Happy Noel' on Christmas

On Christmas Day Mr. and Mrs. Charles Noel, 2348 McCulloh St., received their warmest greetings of Noel from their eight children to make a total of eight Noels in French or eight Merry Christmas greetings in English.

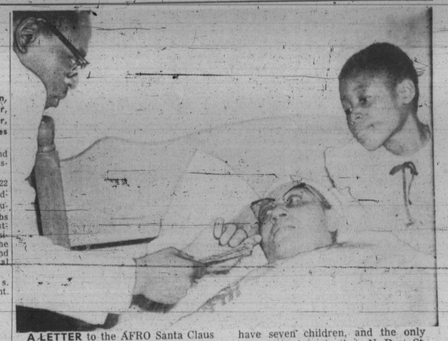
Guild pays annual visit to Crownsville

The Golden Rule Guild for Mental Aid recently took its annual Christmas treat to the men's epileptic ward at Crownsville State Hospital.

Refreshments, including ice cream, cigarettes, cookies, cupcakes, candy and fruit were supplied by the following employees at the Triangle Manufacturing Company who also attended the treat:

Mrs. Mary Franklin, Mrs. Elizabeth Tinsley, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Alston, Mrs. Willie Mae Cherry, Mrs. Elizabeth Williams, William Harris, Miss Barbara Anne Taylor, and Miss Deleres Cunningham.

The Guild supplied 150 gift-wrapped Christmas packages for the patients, containing such



A LETTER to the AFRO Santa Claus from nine-year-old Elizabeth brought the Yule donation which brings the Christmas smiles to the faces of Elizabeth and her ill mother, Mrs. Viola Garland. The Garland, both ill, have seven children, and the only Christmas cheer in their N. Paca St. home was that brought by Santa and his kind helpmates. They received several food donations.

3,500 youngsters attended Northwestern Yule party

Some 3,500 children packed the Royal Theatre on Tuesday (Christmas Eve) for the sixth annual Christmas Party given by the Northwestern District Police Force.

Highlighting the two-hour program were special Christmas greetings from Judge E. Everett Lane and Mayor Thomas extending special Christmas cheer to the children.

* * *

MAGISTRATE Linwood Kogger Sr., who sits in the Northwestern Police Court, was master of ceremonies.

The two-hour program was highlighted with the story of Christmas taken from the sec-music teacher, was the program chairman.

Thrilling the youngsters was the Indian dance and a live trained black snake act given by a group of eight 13-year-old boys from the YMCA called the "Flaming Arrows," Joseph Lee, director.

"O Holy Night" was presented by Benjamin Barksdale, a