ANNAPOLIS DOINGS

By ELOISE RICHARDSON

The Frontiers of America, the Annapolis Club, had a gay time on Friday night when the members entertained at their annual closed Pre-Christmas party at Campbell's Hall.

With an indirect lighting effect, the seasonal decorations included a beautifully-trimmed Christmas tree.

A pretty table laden with food provided a complete turkey dinner with all-its-trimmings. Games and music were the features of the evening.

Those present were:

Messrs. and Mesdames J. Alexander Wiseman, Norwood Brown, Francis Noel, Henry Holland, Carroll H. Hynson, William H. Richardson, Walter S. Mills, Everett G. Pettigrew, Harvey Ennis and his sister and Mrs. George Phelps Jr.

WHEN THE Junior Red Cross Club of Stanton School organized this year, it elected as its president, Joan Jemison of the sixth grade.

Other officers are:

Yvonne Cottee, first vice president; Sharon Rosalind Johnson, secretary; Janice Thorpe, assistant secretary; Guilford Parker, treasurer, and Charles Dennis, chaplain.

First major activity of the group was the collection of food and distribution of baskets at Thanksgiving time.

In December, members collected clothing, soap, towels, tooth-brushes, cigarettes, washcloths, toys and hard candy for Crownsville State Hospital. These things are being contributed by children from 15 rooms at the school.

In January the club hopes to make contributions to the March of Dimes. Mrs. Cecelia Green is the teacher-sponsor.

THE MUSIC department of the school, under the direction of Miss Lois Haley, presented its annual Christmas program on Friday at St. Phillips Hall. Upper graders were featured in the presentation entitled "The Story of Silent Night."

The Parent-Teacher Association of the school held its last meeting of the year at the hall. Christmas carols were sung, gifts were exchanged, and refreshments served.

Each faculty member was presented a box of Christmas candy. The P-T-A is also selling candy as a money-raising project.

School dedications are always very significant to me, for they represent the beginning of security for better educational opportunity for the average child.

THE COMMUNITY of Jones can now boast of having one-of the finest elementary school plants in Anne Arundel County. Dedicatory exercises, which were held recently drew people from all over the county. The Rev. Cl rence Davis, pastor of Asbury Methodist Church, Broadneck, dedicated the building.

Purnell Hardesty, chairman of the Building Committee, gave the welcome address. Presentation of the building was made by Dr. Richard D. Weigle, president of the Board of Education.

Acceptance of the building frame from those representing the various communities which the school serves, a faculty member and pupil.

Those from the communities were:

Arthur White of Jones; Samuel Galloway of Arnold; Charles Cromwell of Skidmore, and a Mr. Pettigrew of Jones. Neck. The faculty was represented by Mrs. Victoria Sims, and pupils by Diane Green of the fifth grade.

* * *

GEORGE FOX, former superintendent of schools of the county, gave dedicatory remarks. He was presented by Miss Sarah Jones, supervisor of elementary schools.

Platform guests were introduced by Mrs. Rosabel Landon, principal. Dr. David S. Jenkins, superintendent of schools, also spoke.

Music was furnished by the school chorus. The Rev. George White gave the benediction.

Other faculty members at the school are: Mesdames Lillie M. Allen, Shirley Turner, Glorie B. Jones, Mary Pritchett, Aurelia Lawson, Jean Sparrow and Jessie Anderson; Miss Catherine Neale, and Richard Thomas.

Mrs. Lula Hardesty is school clerk, and Mrs. Isabella Watts is the custodian.

Officers of the Parent-Teacher Association are:

Mrs. Lula Hardesty, president; Mrs. George White, vice-president; Richard Thomas, secretary; Mrs. Dorothy Cager, assistant secretary; Mrs. Gladys Palmer, treasurer, and George White, chaplain.

Trustees are Mrs. Helen Gray, Alexander White and James Gray.

WHAT WAS thought to be just the regular meeting of the youth group of Asbury Methodist Church, turned out to be a big evening for the members of the Sunday School on Sunday evening.

The Christmas program of the Sunday School, which was planned for Friday night, was postponed because of inclement weather.

A joint gathering, because of the unusual arrangement, the Youth Fellowship, with Miss Marian Anderson in charge, conducted the devotional period of the meeting. The ritualistic Christmas readings were done by the group and sounded very much like a speech choir.

The center of attraction of the program was the talent displayed by the primary department of which Mrs. George Ireland is superintendent. She is assisted by Mrs. Mary Fields.

The tiny tots sang Christmas song, and started off their presentation with the song, "Christmas Bells." Little Mary Geraldine Fields sang a solo, Wendell and Bryant Holland and Mary Geraldine made up a trio which sang "Recitations were given by Wendell and Bryant, Mary Geraldine, Constance Ransy, Thomas Towns, Elaine Crownder, Judith Coates and Deborah Kennard.

Deborah Boggs played a piano solo and also accompanied her sister, Carol Ann Boggs, who sang. The Rev. Mr. Isaac R. Berry gave remarks.

The program was concluded by a short performance of the Rev. Floyd Snowden, ventriloquist, and his pal, Kirk.

Mrs. Martha Snowden and Mrs. Josephine Young, teachers, had charge of the Christmas goodies and gifts.

Mrs. Rachel Carter Smith is superintendent.

THE SOUTH Baltimore District Methodist Youth Fellowship held its Pre-Christmas party in Annapolis with the youth group of Asbury Church as host.

The devotion period was conducted by Miss Carol Pulley, a member of the Asbury group.

Miss Sandra Thompson, president of Sub-district No. 2 presided.

The Rev. Mr. Perry, pastor of Cherry Hill Methodist Church was the speaker.

Christmas music was featured in the musical numbers done by Kenneth Clark of Hall Church, who sang "O, Holy Night", and youth groups from St. Matthews, Hope, Matedonia and Cherry Hill churches.

Readings were given by Shirley Cooke of Cecil Memorial; Carol Pindell of Mount Zion; Sandra Thompson of Eastport, and Brenda Brown of John Wesley.

The young people discussed plans for their 1958 program.

Their aims for 1958 include improvement in membership, greater church participation, and increase in the number of adult workers.

Mrs. Loretta Brooks of Asbury, Broadneck, led the recreational part of the program. A spaghetti dinner followed.

Mrs. Rachel Carter Smith is the district director.

Mrs. Gertrude Johnson, 15 Rosemary Street, is confined to her home with a broken ankle. Mrs. Johnson is a member of Mt. Moriah AME Church.

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. George A. White of Town Neck, entertained at a lovely dinner party recently, after the christening of their young grandson, Wayne Howard, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Howard.

Mrs. Howard is the former Clara White. Little Wayne was christened by the Rev. Mr. S Thomas Collins, pastor of the Asbury Methodist Church, Town Neck. The Rev. Mr. White is pastor of Mt. Tabor Methodist Church at Chesterfield.

The beautiful table was centered to carry out the seasonal motif of red and green in spruce, berries and candles. A four-course menu was served.

Guests included:

Messrs. and Mesdames Alton Cook, Roland White and sons, Curtis and Calvin; Eugene Cager and son, Donald; Kelton Johnson and daughter, Yvonne; Frank Cager and daughters, Joan and Caroline, and son, Gerald, all of Severna Park.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wallace and Mrs. Margaret Howard and sons, Walter and Jerome, and Mrs. Eveline Glenn, all of Baltimore; and Mrs. Hattie Pierce and Miss Esther Hamilton of Annapolis.

A GINGHAM wedding was sponsored by the Henrietta A. Cully Household of Ruth No. 126, under the direction of Mrs. Emma Stepney, at the Asbury Methodist Church on Thursday evening.

The brides were all very attractive in their summer attire. The bride who raised the highest amount of money was Miss Betty Ann Coates and her groom, Master Albert Coates. Master Charles Alvin Green was the minister.

Other brides and bridegrooms were Barbara Parker and Charles Tongue, Patricia Norman and William Henson, Virginia Larkins and Charles Blackstone, and Miss Deloris Blackstone and Harvey Jenkins.

ON WEDNESDAY evening, the Ushers Auxiliary of Asbury Church entertained 100 guests at its Pre - Christmas party at the church. Mrs. Martha Snowden was chairman, and Mrs. Edna Holt is the president.

On last Sunday the senior choir of the church presented a beautiful religious pageant, "The Way of the Cross," to a large audience.

On Christmas morning at 1 o'clock, the choir will render another Christmas pageant entitled "The Story of Bethlehem."

The Methodist Youth Fellowship presented a Pre - Christmas program on Sunday evening, when Mrs. William H. Richardson, children's librarian, was featured in a story, "The Littlest Angel," and music.

The origin and history of five Christmas carols, which were sung by the audience, was read by Misses Regina Williams, Patricia Taylor and Margo Snowden.

Mrs. Richardson closed the program by singing "O, Holy Night." Miss Beverly Howard is the president; Mrs. Rachel Carter Smith, leader.

The dinner, sponsored by the Brewer Hill Cemetery Organization netted the organization $300. This affair was sponsored by a volunteer group in the interest of maintaining the cemetery grounds. Each year the goal of the dinner is $500 plus.

SHARP STREET METHODIST CHURCH'S presentation of The Messiah at 6:30 p.m. Sunday will have the Rev. Julius Carroll, assistant pastor, at the organ. Shown above with the Rev. Mr. Carroll are Nansi Carroll, 11, and Michael Mitchell, 12, who will be among several participants. Miss Audrey Cyrus, Peabody Conservatory student, will appear as guest pianist. Guest conductors will be Albert A. Tillery, of Orange Union Baptist Church, and Gerald Wilson.

Baltimore NAACP list second highest in history

Under Mrs. Lillie M. Jackson, president, and her associates, the Baltimore branch of the NAACP has increased its membership 70 percent in the past nine years.

Reports to the president, filed last week, showed that the membership this year is second highest in the history of the Baltimore branch.

1955 was the year of largest membership and the membership this year failed to reach that high water mark by only 13 members.

Since the branch takes in memberships every week, it is expected that by the end of the year the NAACP will have exceeded its 1955 total.

Fifty-four per cent of the NAACP's support comes from serious-minded people who are interested largely in church work; 46 per cent comes from those who are in business and professional work.

Agency expands service for jobless

The Maryland Department of Employment Security is participating with employment security agencies in other states for professional and managerial specialized placement service al workers which provides for a nationwide expanded and an exchange of unfilled job openings between states. Robert B. Kimble, executive director, has announced today.

The Department's Clerical and Professional Office, 6 N. Liberty St., has been designated as one in a network of 78 special employment offices to speed up the matching of men managerial occupations on a nationwide basis.

Each office in the network will have on file at all times a nationwide list of these opportunities.

MRS. KIMBLE said there are approximately 6,000 openings available in the nationwide system.

Included are these local openings filed by Maryland employers. The open positions, a number of them in foreign countries, offer a wide range of salaries, with employers guaranteeing transportation and housing for the prospective applicants in some cases.

Occupations with the largest number of job openings on the current nationwide list, which includes more than 300 different professional and managerial occupations are mechanical engineers, electrical engineers, nurses and draftsmen.

Other occupations in heavy demand include chemists and chemical engineers, civil engineers, natural and social scientists, laboratory technicians, social and welfare workers, and retail managers.

EARNS PH.D.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Stephen D. Condon, assistant professor of modern foreign languages at Fisk University, has been advised by authorities at Yale University that he will receive the Ph. D in French at Yale's next convocation in June, 1958.

The announcement followed approval of Condon's dissertation "Camus' Style in Fiction and Essay". Condon is a native of Pasadena, California. He joined the Fisk faculty in 1954.

John Bellamy

Funeral services for John H. Bellamy, 27, 21 N. Wheeler St., will be held in Whitesville, N.C.

Mr. Bellamy died early Monday morning when his car slammed into a utility pole at Hanover St. and Waterview Ave.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Rose A. Bellamy; two children, Vivian and Daphane; father, Levi Bellamy; five brothers and four sisters.

Mr. Bellamy was employed in construction work.

Fire and death beat Santa to baby girl

A one-year-old girl was burned to death and four other small children overcome by smoke when an oil stove exploded in their home at 916 S. Sharp St. Christmas Eve, while they were waiting for Santa Claus.

The dead child, Denice Knox, suffered extreme body burns, according to the Medical Examiner's office report.

Those overcome by smoke are: Gregory Buie, nine months old; Robert Buie, 2; Cynthia Julius, 2 and Janice Boone, 8.

According to Patrolman Harry G. Hyser, the children were in a room on the first floor of the Sharp St. house when the oil stove exploded and started the fire.

The children's mothers, two sisters, were away from the house at the time of the fire.

MRS. ELIZABETH CUNNINGHAM, mother of the dead child, said she had left the house a few minutes earlier to talk with her mother, Mrs. Mildred Cunningham, up 535 S. Sharp St., home of another sister, Mrs. Janie Cunningham.

"I walked up there with my mother and sat down for about five minutes. I had just said, 'well let me get up and go home,' when a girl ran in and told me the house was on fire, Mrs. Elizabeth Cunningham said.

Mrs. Gloria Cunningham, who said she worked at a Charles St. restaurant, said she had stopped at the home and a girlfriend en route home from work when she heard of the fire at the house.

ONE OF THE CHILDREN overcome by smoke, but later recovered, Cynthia Julius, was the daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Cunningham. The other were children of her sister, Gloria.

Mrs. Elizabeth Cunningham has another child and her sister five others who were not at home at the time of the explosion.

Funeral services for Denise were scheduled for today (Friday) with arrangements by a funeral home in the 100 block of W. Montgomery St.

Howell Burrell dies, Enon Church member

Funeral services were held Monday for Howell Burrell, 59, 2015 Madison Ave., from a N. Arlington Ave. funeral home.

Mr. Burrell died at Provident Hospital.

The Rev. Arthur Payne, pastor of Enon Baptist Church, officiated at the funeral. Burial was in Bethel Baptist Church Cemetery, Sassafrass, Va.

* * *

MR. BURRELL was a member for 40 years at Enon. He was also the president of the BTU for a number of years.

At the time of his death, Mr. Burrell was employed by the American Smelting Company. He had been with the company for 25 years.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Sarah B. Pope, Brownstore, Va.; two cousins, Mrs. Alice Robinson of Baltimore and Mrs. Mary Lewis, of New York City, a niece, Mrs. Geneva Collins of Philadelphia and two nephews, Bernard and John Burrell, both of Baltimore.

Mr. Burrell was a native of Brownstore, Va., and the son of the late John and Elizabeth Burrell.

Mrs. E. Powell

Mrs. Elizabeth Powell, 44, 318 N. Fulton Ave., died suddenly Dec. 17 at Mercy Hospital.

Funeral services were held Monday from Thomas E. Kelson Funeral Home, 1303 Presstman Street. Burial was in Baltimore National Cemetery. During World War II, Mr. Powell served in the Army.

A native Baltimorean and a housewife, Mrs. Powell is survived by her husband, Octavius Powell, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Willis of Baltimore. Mrs. Powell was a life long member of St. Peter Claver Catholic Church.

Teen couple appear in court

"He sent me notes telling me I had five, then 15 minutes to get to his house.

"Then he sent for the baby. After I told him I wasn't going to send the baby he came over and threatened to kill me and to get the baby one way or another."

"This was the testimony before Northwestern Magistrate Linwood G. Koger Sr; on Monday by a 15-year-old estranged mother against her 19-year-old husband.

Mrs. Carolyn Wilson, 500 block Upton St., looked alternatingly at Magistrate Koger and her husband, Leon Peter Wilson, 700 block W. Franklin St., as she talked.

MR. WILSON, never turning to look at his young wife, said only: "I guess she is telling the truth."

Judge Koger sentenced Mr. Wilson to three months in the House of Correction for threatening his wife.

GLEN BURNIE ECHOES

By FELICIA ADAMS

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Sidney, Daniels of St. John's Methodist Church were honored recently at a testimonial dinner.

The Rev. Mr. Daniels is leaving the church to become pastor of the Emmanuel Christian Church at Lanvale St. and Carrollton Ave.

Sponsors of the testimonial were members of St. Johns Church in Glen Burnie.

* * *

IN SPITE of the heavy rain, 200 people attended the affair to wish the Rev. Mr. Daniels good luck at his new church.

Combined choirs of the Community Baptist Church and the St. John's Church furnished the music.

Nathaniel Perry of the Cherry Hill Methodist Church sang two solos.

Among the speakers were George Johnson, John H. Thornton, W. Rodell Armstead, Mrs. Mary E. Frazier, Mrs. Mrs. Helen Carter, Mrs. Clara Bens, Mrs. Fannie Wyco.

Also the Rev. John Terry, the Rev. and Mrs. N. Perry, the Rev. and Mrs. O. E. Adams, John Little, the Rev. W. C. o. e. Robert Queen and the Rev. Caleb Quce of Washington.

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Daniels expressed their thanks to those who were loyal to them and the church. The choir dedicated its last selection to the pastor and his wife.

The couple being honored was then escorted into a beautifully decorated dining room where they were served their last official dinner with their former congregation.

The officers of the sponsoring organization are:

Mrs. Esther Taylor, president; Mrs. Mabel Patterson, chairman of committee on pastoral relations; Mrs. Thomas Edwards, church treasurer; and Mrs. Mildred P. Boone, church secretary.

FAIRFIELD ITEMS

By Beatrice Nicholsen

The Rev. Samuel Wilson, pastor of Herbert Chapel Methodist Methodist Church, was the Christmas morning speaker at Ebenezer Church of God and Saint of Christ.

The Rev. Mr. Wilson is a leader of the NAACP and a tireless worker for community progress.

Mrs. Ardella Cherry and Mrs. Bernice Bazemore were sponsors of a Christmas treat 8 p.m. at the Ebenezer Church. The program featured the youth of the church.

The Rev. and Mrs. Clarence E. Powell and their congregation wish all of their friends a Happy New Year.

Mr. Earl T. Leeper, one of five children, was always concerned with being a "big brother."

He attended Elementary School No. 238, the Harvey Johnson Junior High School and was always conscientiously working at lightening the load in his "big brother" role.

Mr. Leeper was the first Fairfield resident to introduce scouting in his community. He now has the distinction of having the largest "scout family" in the area.

In the Leeper family are ten children. All of them are members of the scouting organization.

Mrs. Leeper, the former Miss Dorothy Middleton, also a native of Fairfield, is a Brownie leader.
