71-year-old mother sits in on courtroom ordeal

By MARY STRATFORD

WASHINGTON — Even the prosecuting attorney felt sorry for Mrs. Flay C. Chase.

The 71-year-old mother appeared this week in U.S. District Court as a co-defendant in a numbers case involving her sons, Joseph Chase, and Joseph Barnes (half - brother of Joseph Chase) and two others.

"It is regrettable," said prosecuting attorney - Frederick N. Smithson, to Federal Judge James Kirkland, "that a woman of her age should be involved in this case because of the acts of her sons."

* * *

MRS. CHASE, a stooped women in a blue coat, did not take the stand in her own behalf. Several times, she appeared inattentive as H. C. Allder, her attorney, argued in her defense.

* * *

ACCORDING to Cpl. Joseph Palmisano, of the morals division, Mrs. Chase told him last February following her arrest, that she did not know what her son, Joseph Chase had been doing in the basement of her home at 239 12th St., SE where gaming equipment was found.

The officer also stated that she mentioned "playing" when asked if she knew her son was in the numbers business.

* * *

ALLDER, in asking Judge Kirkland, to dismiss charges against the aged woman in a directed verdict of acquital, argued that the mother's only connection with the others "was her presence in the house."

"She was seen by undercovermen only once in the premises walking through the hallway to the kitchen," said Allder.

He asserted that a tablet found in Mrs. Chase's bedroom on which numbers were written, did not tie her to the case.

BEFORE his motion was denied, the lawyer urged Judge Kirkland to "consider the age and condition of the defendant."

Settled between her two sons in the courtroom, Mrs. Chase did not seem to notice when Judge Kirkland rejected the lawyer's plea.

Except when she was seized by brief coughing spells, the gaze never left the floor.

JOSEPH A. CHASE

Joe Chase is guilty

WASHINGTON

Joseph A. Chase and three others were found guilty in District Court Thursday of conspiracy and operating a lottery setup.

His mother, Mrs. Flay Chase, 71, was acquitted and left the courtroom weeping as her two sons and the others were remanded to jail.

Facing a possible 6-year prison term, they will be sentenced on Dec. 20.

The jury, hung on the other 11 counts in the indictment, was in and out twice during the three-and-one-half hours deliberations.

Judge James Kirkland discharged the jury.

However, Assist. U.S. Atty. Frederick Smithson said it is possible the defendants may be tried on the other 11 counts at a later date.

* * *

CHASE IS described by police as the "kingpin of one of the biggest numbers operations" in District history. Arrested on gambling charges six times in the last 12 years, Chase has never been convicted in the District.

A District grand jury still is considering possible charges against him growing out of another raid on Oct. 28. He left Arlington County jail Saturday on five years probation after serving 29 days of a nine months sentence growing out of an Arlington raid Oct. 21.

* * *

THE FOUR-DAY trial centered around defendants Chase, 57, 1842 Second St., NW; his mother, Mrs. Flay C. Chase, 71, 239 21st St., SE; Raymond Barnes, 43, 236 12th St., SE; Mrs. Bernice Budd, 35, 1312 N St., NW; Daniel W. Cunningham, 46, 3802 Kansas Ave., NW; and James Shay, 32, 2400 block Girard Pl., NE.

They were charged with 13 counts of possession of slips, tax stamp violation, conspiracy and operating a $14,000 a day numbers business between Feb. 1 and Feb. 12 in the rear of 137 12th St., NE, and in the basement of a tourist home owned by Chase and occupied by his mother at 239 12th St., SE.

Monday the government presented its case against the four defendants with police testimony and seized evidence which included a hand truck loaded with 12 cardboard boxes containing adding machines, cash, telephones, tapes, numbers slips and other numbers records and equipment.

* * *

POLICE TESTIFIED that Miss Budd, Cunningham and Shay had been observed with bulging pants pockets and bulging pocketbooks entering the premises before a Gambling squad uncovered the operation.

Det. Burtell M. Jefferson told the court he had to chase Shay across the District until his car was forced to the curb.

Shay refused to roll down his auto window, Detective Jefferson said. The window was smashed in, Shay was placed under arrest and numbers slips were found under the car seat, Detective Jefferson testified.

Tuesday, however, Shay entered a plea of guilty. The goverment indicated they will drop two other charges against him. The plea came after Judge James R. Kirkland refused to suppress evidence seized when Shay was arrested. He is represented by attorneys John A. Shorter Jr. and Roy Ellis.

* * *

THE JURY (3 colored and 5 whites) heard police quote Mrs. Chase, seated between Joe and his half brother, Barnes, as saying she lived in the tourist home, but she knew nothing of Joe's activities in the basement where evidence was seized.

She and Barnes, who hid in a second floor closet ("Because I just walked in and didn't want to be arrested"), were the only persons on the premises during the raid, police testified.

"All of the machines were still warm," when raiders forced in the rear door, Detective Jefferson testified.

Wednesday the government, represented by Frederick Smithson, rested its case. Defense attorneys H. Clifford Allder (for Chase, Mrs. Chase and Barnes) and attorney Kenneth D. Wood (for Budd and Cunningham) declined to permit the defendants to take the stand in their own behalf.

* * *

JUDGE KIRKLAND denied motions argued for directed verdicts of acquittal by Allder and Wood.

Alider contended that the evidence against his clients was circumstantial. He pointed out that at no time had numbers plays been made by undercovermen with the defendants.

Wood argued that counts of conspiracy, operating a lottery and violation of the tax stamp act against Budd and Cunningham should be dropped because they were "not applicable in their case."

Denying the motions, Judge Kirkland recessed the case until Thursday.

The mail must go through, but where?

"The mail must go through!"

This is the traditional spirit with which Joe Biggs, 28-year-old temporary Christmas employee at the main Office, drove a truck to New Jersey Wednesday after his supervisor tossed him a bag of mail with the words: "Here's the New York mail. Ready to go."

It turned out that Biggs, of 626 10th St., SW, was supposed to drive the mail to the Pennsylvania freight yards at Fourth St., and Virginia Ave., SW, where the New York mail is loaded on trains.

* * *

He hopped into a truck with the bag of mail and took off for New York City. Late in the night, Biggs called from the New Jersey Turnpike, 11 miles from New York City, to the Washington Post office, saying he had run out of money and gas.

* * *

He returned to Washington Thursday weary of an honest error but true to the tradition of the mail must go through.

Matron convicted for slaying among 62 freed

Miss Dorothy Snead, sentenced to not more than 16 years imprisonment for second degree murder in January, 1955, was among 62 persons paroled last month in time for Christmas, according to information from the Department of Parole and Probation.

Miss Snead, now 23 years old, was found guilty of the slaying of her boyfriend, Thomas Dennerman, during an argument over money in a Laurens St. bar in September, 1954.

According to parole authorities, Miss Snead, who resided in the 1400 block Bruce St., prior to her arrest and subsequent trial, is now working in the Baltimore area.

* * *

AMONG others paroled last month were:

Delores Braxton, sentenced to not more than eight years in April, 1955 for armed robbery; Joseph Brundage, 18 months in March for assault on an officer; Thomas L. Ervin, not more than two years in February for yoking.

Claautos F. Friday, one year in June for manslaughter; Jesse Jones, 18 months in April on a weapons charge; Otis Jenkins, not more than five years in August, 1956 for assault to rob.

Linwood Jones, not more than three years in November, 1956 for larceny and assault; Richard Jones, not more than five years in October, 1955 for attempted armed robbery; Leo Little, not more than two years in March for yoking.

Robert Palmer, not more than two years last December for burglary and larceny; Winfred Rhodes Jr., two years in November, 1956 as second offender of lottery laws, and Benjamin Wiggins, two years in January for violation of probation and carnal knowledge.

'Blood was all I saw'

"Blood was all I saw."

These were the words that came Tuesday from Mrs. Bessie Weinberg of 1608 Division St., as she spoke of the slaying of John (Bebop) Mobley, 35, 1639 Division St.

Mr. Mobley was pronounced dead on arrival at Provident Hospital at 2:10 p.m., of four gun shot sounds of the head and chest.

In connection with the shooting, police are searching for a man known as "Slim."

* * *

ACCORDING TO Mrs. Weinberg she was watching a television show in her home when Mobley ran into the house closely followed by the man now being sought by police.

Mobley ran from the front of the house to a stairway in the rear leading to the second floor, police said. Before Mobley could climb the steps five shots were fired, according to officers.

Police said they found the body of Mobley in the hallway with his feet on the stairway leading to the second floor.

Police said the two men were acquainted but there was no hint as to what caused the fatal argument.

Mr. Mobley is survived by two brothers, Manuel and Raleigh Mobley, his mother, Mrs. Julia McCoy, all of Baltimore. He was a native of Charlotte, N.C. and the son of the late Manuel Mobley Sr.

14-year prison term given in knife slaying

"If the deceased had gone on and paid attention to his own business" and had not gotten the whiskey bottle from the trash can, these fatal results would not have occurred . . . that sayes him (the defendant) from first degree.

Judge John T. Tucker gave this comment in Criminal Court Tuesday, just prior to sentencing Lawrence R. Rucker, 28, of the 1300 block Pennsylvania Ave., to 14 years in the penitentiary for the knife slaying on September 16 of Rious Vincent, 45, of the 600 block W. Lafayette Ave.

Judge Tucker offered the comment in accepting a second-degree murder plea from Mr. Rucker, through his attorney, State Senator Harry A. Cole.

Judge Tucker was told Mr. Vincent was killed at the intersection of Lanvale St. and Pennsylvania Ave., less than half a block from Northwestern Police Station, on September 16.

Assistant State's Attorneys George H. Rosedom and Thomas O. Noreni produced testimony to reveal that the two men had argued shortly before in a nearby poolroom.

Green jack was what man wanted

"I'll take all your jack."

This is what David Wingrove, 30, 2600 block of Cold Spring La., told Northwestern Police a man said to him Monday evening as he robbed him of checks and money totaling $252.

Mr. Wingrove, a driver for a beer distributing company, said the man approached him in front of a place in the 4600 block of Reisterstown Rd., and asked to borrow a jack, then pulled a gun and robbed him.

Mr. Bowen K. Jackson, Executive Secretary
National Association for the Advancement of Colored People
402 Dolphin Street
Baltimore 17, Maryland

Dear Mr. Jackson:

We are in receipt of a letter signed by the entire cast of a touring theatrical company - "Shadow of My Enemy" which recently played in Baltimore. This company, which included some of America's most distinguished Actors, were humiliated and embarrassed to find that Negro members of the company were "unable to eat in the hotel and Theatre district but must suffer the indignity, inconvenience and expense of travel to a ghetto-type area."

We hope that you will not object if we bring incidents of this kind to your attention as they occur. We further hope that through our collective efforts, it will be no longer necessary for us to so do.

Most Sincerely Yours,
ACTORS' EQUITY ASSOCIATION
Angus Duncan
Executive Secretary

THIS IS the letter sent to the local office of the NAACP by Actors Equity.

Actors asked to testify at City Council

Fourth District Club Councilman Walter T. Dixon said Thursday that he had invited representatives from the touring theatrical company, "Shadow of My Enemy," to testify of the discrimination they faced in the downtown area, when public hearings on his Civil Rights Ordinance are scheduled.

Angus Duncan, executive secretary of New York City's Actors' Equity Association, complained in a letter to Mr. Dixon last week that some members of the show, which recently played in Baltimore, were humiliated and embarrassed to find that they were denied food service in the downtown hotel and theatre district because of their race.

Mr. Dixon read the letter to the members of the City Council, during the session on Monday, and then reminded them again of his Civil Rights Ordinance, which would open all public places to members of all races.

In answering the Actors' Equity Association letter, Mr. Dixon also asked that he be sent the original letter to the association on the matter, which bears the signatures of the members of the cast.

Mr. Dixon's Civil Rights Ordinance is presently in the City Council's Public Relations Committee, headed by Sixth District Councilman Thomas P. Fallon. Date for a public hearing on the ordinance has not been scheduled.

A similar letter was sent to the local office of the NAACP.

Ethel Ennis opens Monday

BALTIMORE

Songstress Ethel Ennis will open Monday, Dec. 16, at the Red Fox Lounge, Fulton and Pennsylvania Ave., for a three week engagement.

Miss Ennis, who recently married local attorney Jacques Leeds, will be accompanied on the weekends by one of Baltimore's outstanding jazz groups, the Internationals.

Already represented by one album, "Lullaby for Lovers," Miss Ennis has recorded a new one for Capitol records with the backing of Neal Hefti. This will be released early in the year.

Great news comes this week from the Red Fox, home of music that is the best.

On Monday night Dec. 16, Ethel Ennis, just back from her honeymoon and looking simply wonderful will open for a three week's engagement that will take her clear through the New Year holiday.

A past master at the gentle art of presenting a song, Ethel now Mrs. Jacques Leeds, will be sure to attract a host of her admirers plus others who once they hear her will become Ennis fans.

* * *

THE YOUNG lady will be on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday and playing the piano Thursday nights, aided and abeted by her old partner, Mysto Poulson.

On Friday night she will be joined by one of the better groups in town, the internationals, headed by Ray Chambers.

The Internationals are a must item for any lover of the modern jazz and with the group making the music and Ethel doing the singing, there should be a royal time at the RED FOX.

On Tuesday night the entertainment will be in the hands of the talented Billy Foxx, who always provides a good show. That means entertainment seven nights a week so hurry on up to the RED FOX.

Opening night is Monday and to mark the event a party will be given for local radio personalities and promotion men from Capitol Records.

CAPITOL IS the label that now features the voice of Ethel and it has gen announced that her new album for the firm will be released Feb. 1. The title is "A Change of Scenery" and it features 11 standards and one original number.

The backing is by Neal Hefti with piano by Ray Chambers. Sounds great. An old favorite is back in town at Adam's In Turner Station. He is the guitar man Tiny Grimes. Hear him this weekend at ADAM'S and have yourself a wonderful time.

ROSSITER'S, which recently offered Bill Kenny, now has another top flight act in the persons in the Original Swallows. In addition, Alice and Shirley, billed as vocal sensations, are also on the bill.

There are four shows a night at 9, 10, 11 and 12. The address is 1001 S. Hanover St.

AFTER SOME extensive redecorating, the CASINO has opened its beautiful new lounge and it's an eyeful.

One wall is taken up by what must certainly be one of the largest bars in the city and there's plenty of room for one and all. In addition the music is hi-fi and really something to hear.

The management of the CASINO has done a terrific job and the welcome mat is out.

Fabulous Flink Johnson is providing the entertainment at CHICK'S where the entertainment is always good and where the Christmas decorations are simply beautiful.

Learns not to attack schoolboys

A 16-year-old boy was sentenced to 120 days Tuesday in Northwestern Police Court by Magistrate Linwood G. Koger Sr. after he was charged with assaulting a schoolboy.

Northwestern officers testified they came upon the scene at Lafayette and Druid Hill Aves., about 8:55 a.m. Tuesday when Emmett B. Motley, 2100 block N. Calhoun St., had his victim backed against a wall striking him with his fist.

Herbert Jefferson, 15, of 1423 Druid Hill Ave., said the accused youth approached him and a friend and asked him to lend him a dime. When told he didn't have a dime, Jefferson said the other youth started going through his pockets and "we started fighting."

His friend backed up his story.

The accused youth, who does not go to school, admitted asking for a loan and fighting but denied going into the younger boy's pocket.

Judge Koger sentenced him to 90 days on the assault charge and 30 days on a disorderly conduct charge.
