TWIN TERROR BILL PLAYING AT ROYAL

"20 Million Miles to Earth," thriller of what happens when the first U.S. rocketship to Venus returns to earth with a monster from that distant planet, now plays a twin terror bill with "The 27th Day" at the Royal.

Doubling in size every night and impervious to conventional weapons, the monster is susceptible only to paralyzing electric shock.

When it escapes during a power-line failure, Hopper commands the effort to recapture the creature, now grown to tremendous proportions.

There is world - wide panic, from Washington to Rome, as the Venus - creature goes its rampaging way, destroying great bridges, battling mammoths to the death and defying military fire.

"The 27th Day," the spectacular story of five people who are given the power to destroy the world, is the second thriller. It unleashes spine-tingling suspense and breathless drama as the five "chosen" persons wrestle with their consciences and the entire world is thrown into panic and hysteria.

RESENT FILM IS 'THE TIN STAR'

In the days when the West hovered between order and chaos, a special breed of killer operated just within the law.

He was the bounty hunter, the wanderer who made a dangerous living out of bringing in wanted outlaws for the price on their heads.

Forced to kill his quarry in a fair fight or himself be accused of murder, he had to have peerless courage and fantastic gun - slinging skill, or he didn't last long enough to spend his first reward.

Feared by the hunted and shunned by the law- abiding, he was a man in the same class with hangmen, he lived a lonely, solitary life, with death alone a constant companion.

Around the deadly figure of bounty hunter Morgan Hickman, the distinguished team of William Periberg and George Seaton, famed for "The Country Girl" and "The Bridges at Toko-ri" and many other outstanding hits, have woven a motion picture that looms as one of the most memorable of all action films.

Titled "The Tin Star," the Paramount Vista Vision release is now at the Regent Theatre, riding a wave of acclaim that has tabbed it as a superb drama of the stature of "Shane" and "High Noon."

BABY FACE NELSON ON MET SCREEN

"Baby Face Nelson," the new United Artists' movie now playing at the Met Theatre and starring Mickey Rooney and Carolyn Jones, re - creates many actual gangsters incidents and treats of many of the names who made headlines.

"Baby Face" was a dangerous punk, machine - gun killer who lived a bloody, running life as Public Enemy Number One for 128 days until he was wounded by the FBI and killed by his girl-friend.

Mickey Rooney, of a similar size as Nelson, stars in the title role and lovely Carolyn Jones, the slim, star of "The Bachelor Party," play his "wife."

The famous Dillinger death screen in front of the Marbro Theatre in Chicago where Manhattan Melodrama" was on view, was filmed for the picture with Leo Gordon and Lisa Davis playing the roles of Big John Dillinger and Anna Sage. And the "Little Bohemia" lodge on the shores of Lake Erie in Wisconsin, where "Baby Face" Nelson, Dillinger, John Hamilton and 13 desperados escaped an FBI trap was re-created for the film.

TWO WESTERN FILMS AT THE HARLEM

Naked fury flames across the wild high country in the sage of the gun that won the West, "WINCHESTER '73," now playing at the Harlem Theatre. It is the roaring story of the gun that won the West, starring James Stewart.

The gun was his, and so was the vengeance. Shelley Winters, the Gun took her man, then gave her another. Dan Duryea — the bandit who faced the gun but drew too slow — Stephen McNally — the renegade who stole the Gun and killed to keep it.

The second big hit at the Harlem Theatre stars Burt Lancaster, Yvonne DeCarlo, Dan Duryea in "CRISS CROSS." They play it with bullets when you double - cross a double crosser.

Remember, for two thrill loaded action hits don't miss "WINCHESTER '73," and "CRISS CROSS" now playing at the Harlem Theatre.

SPACE-MONSTER RUNS AMOK! A fantastic creature from outerspace wreak havoc oh earth in "20 Million Miles On Earth," now playing the Royal on a twin-terror bill with "The 27th Day."

Belafonte adds Hebrew songs to Waldorf show

NEW YORK (ANP) — Harry Belafonte started the holiday season at the Waldorf-Astoria with a merry bounce in the Empire Room, where he is holding forth with his 12-voice folk choir.

The thrill of the evening was his "The French Partisan Song" and those in Hebrew.

Belafonte, who marked his fifth Waldorf engagement, was assisted by singers Robert Henson, Joseph Crawford, Robert Grant, Clyde Turner, Milton Okun, Ned Wright, Elijah Hodges, Earl Baker, Sherman Sneed, Andrew Frierson, William Stewart and Charles Coleman and his guitarist of long association, Millard Thomas, and drummer Daniel Barranhos, plus second guitarist Vic Messer.

"He-Ne-Ma-Tow," "Here, Rabbi Here," "Jerry," "Lead Man Holler," "Island in the Sun," and the old favorite, "Matilda," were received by a hushed, but enthusiastic audience.

DUKE ELLINGTON, LATINIZED

During the past years, Duke Ellington has won a cherished place in the hearts of music fans everywhere. And it is perhaps safe to say that more people have thrilled to his music than have acclaimed Beethoven, Wagner, Dorsey, Goodman and all the other musical greats of both classic and jazz combined.

A brilliant composer and arranger as well as a piano virtuoso, Ellington has written scores of songs and dance music fashioned to the tempo of varying periods. And he is still the "champ" from the standpoint of overall popularity.

A MUSICAL story teller, Ellington has written songs and musical scores that have captured the imagination of lovers of fine music from New York to Chicago and Los Angeles, from Europe to South America to the furthest parts of Africa, Asia and India.

To music lovers in all these areas, the name of Duke Ellington means simply fine music.

AN EXCELLENT example of the Duke's universality is seen in a recent production by Latin American pianist Eddie Canto. In an album entitled "Duke Ellington and Me," Canto has collected a number of Ellington's works and added to them a Latin American flavor typical of Mexico and Cuba.

A follow-up to Canto's "Cole Porter and Me," the Spanish maestro does better with this RCA LP disc because he has succeeded in retaining the expressive and imaginative qualities that are Ellington in the body of each tune, while adding to them an appealing Afro-Cuban beat.

It's like listening by Ellington's music being played by a Latin American band in a cafe in "Old Mexico" or Cuba. A remarkable blending of contrasting culture.

CANTO FEATURES on the platter some of the Duke's choicest compositions. Side 1 deals with "Caravan," "Squeeze Me," "Sophisticated Lady," "Azure," "Prelude to a Kiss" and "Perdido." The flip side runs through "Take The A Train," "I Let A Song Go Out of My Heart," "Don't Do Nothing Till You Hear From Me," "Daydream," "Don't You Know I Care," and "Mood Indigo."

In none of these selections does Canto try to dominate the scene. He takes a place downstage, but does so in a manner that is much becoming. Good artistry, fine music, I look for this record to be a big hit.

Promoting jazz concert

PHILADELPHIA

Lemuel M. Wells, Boston public relations consultant, visited Philadelphia last weekend in the interest of the Sarah Vaughn and Dizzy Gillespie Jazz Concert which will be held at the Academy of Music, Dec. 6.

A graduate of Howard University, Mr. Wells attended the Graduate School of Public Relations at Boston University where he was admitted to membership in Tau Mu Epsilon, honorary public relations fraternity.

APPOINTED RECENTLY as consultant to the Executive Department by Governor Furcolo of Massachusetts, Mr. Wells set a precedent in this position. He is also the first to open a public relations office in the state.

Formerly a magazine and radio personality in Atlanta, Ga., Mr. Wells also produces and announces the cultural radio program, "Sunday with Music," on a Boston station, featuring outstanding concert artists.

Mr. Wells was in Philadelphia representing Charles Caruso and Harold Leverant, producers of the Vaughan-Gillespie concert and producers of the famed North Shore Jazz Festival held in Lynn, Mass.

African protest storms around TV film starring Paul Robeson

By RON STEPHENSON
For ANP

LONDON, England — The film "Sanders of the River" in which Leslie Banks and Paul Robeson act is most damaging to Nigeria. This was said by Matthew T. Mbu, Commissioner-for-Nigeria, here Saturday, when he, asked for an apology from the Associated Television Ltd. for showing the film on television.

Mr. Mbu, in a letter to the Company, says "apart from the fact that it bears no relation whatsoever to present day Nigeria, it brings disgrace and disrepute to the Nigerians."

THIS FILM has been under fire for a long time. Orlando Martin, famous Nigerian stage and screen star, said he refused the part when it was offered to him, because of the way in which his country, and people were portrayed.

That is the only way in which he could protest because at that time Nigeria had no official representation and had to swallow the jibes and jeers of the Europeans. He said he is sorry that Robeson did accept the part but then Paul is not a Nigerian.

MR. MBU claimed that the film was capable of creating ill-feeling against Nigerians in the United Kingdom and asked "What effect would the telling of a British Administrative Officer in cold blood have on the minds of average British people?"

He wonders what the reaction of the British public in Britain and British officials in Nigeria would be if a film recalling atrocities committed against Africans by the British during the slave trade were to be given such wide publicity in Africa.
