John Neal, sportsman, heart ailment victim

"God gives a man a chance—I believe that when the time came to go, he was ready."

The slight pastor spoke from a pulpit behind the banks of floral tributes which flanked the metallic silver casket in which lay the body of John Neal.

Mr. Neal, a well - known sportsman, died Monday at the age of 49 of a heart attack at his home at 3622 Longwood St.

HIS BODY had been returned for burial Thursday to St. Matthews Methodist Church, a modest, 47-year-old frame structure at Turner Station which the Neal family had helped to build.

The pastor, the Rev. John H. Carter, spoke softly, his voice colored with sympathy for the bereaved family:

"I did not know John Neal as well as I knew the other members of the family," he said, "but I knew him as a fine young man.

"When he was in the hospital and ill, I visited him, and he said that he had placed his trust in God. . . He spoke often of his love for his parents, and they, before their deaths, frequently told me how good he was to them."

The little church was filled to three - quarters of its capacity with about 200 persons a half - hour before the arrival of the limousines, and fleet of gleaming '57 and '58 cars which brought members of the family, pall bearers and close friends.

Among the early arrivals were residents to Turner Station, some old, some young, a cross section of the population of the little Baltimore County settlement.

Among the later arrivals were many faces which appear frequently in the newspapers, political circles and clubs about town.

THE HONORARY pallbearers were members of the Savants Club, a social and charitable organization to which Mr. Neal belonged.

The active ones included William Little Willie Adams, Charles Tilghman, owner of the Sphinx Club; Elmer Bullock, Charlie Thomas, Gardner Kelsey and C. V. Wynn.

They were followed into the church by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyal Randolph, hotelman, political and fraternal leader; Police Sgt. Hiram Butler, Jessie Artis, Walter Brown, Shirley Hargrove, Ray Tarrant, Shirley Diggs and scores of others.

There were more than a dozen standees by the time that the funeral service commenced, and it was a brief one, unmarked by yolent displays of emotion.

Before the Rev. Mr. Carter's brief sermon, George B. Dozier spoke of the high esteem in which Mr. Neal had been held by his fellow members of the Savants, and Mrs. Victorine Adams read the eulogy which extolled him for his friendliness, generosity, loyalty and honesty.

At the end of the service an aisle was formed by bearers of the 50-odd floral tributes and John Neal left Turner Station for the trip to Mount Calvary Cemetery, followed by a procession of 47 cars.

Mr. Neal died early Monday morning at his home. Death was due to a heart ailment with which he had been plagued since childhood.

He had suffered an attack last June and had been confined to Provident Hospital until September. However, he had apparently recovered and his death early Monday was unexpected.

A NATIVE of Turner Station, Mr. Neal was born January 3, 1908, the son of Hilary and Catherine Neal. His mother died years ago at the age of 89 and his father succumbed three years ago at the age of 97.

Mr. Neal was reared in Turner Station and until he moved to Baltimore was active in the Democratic Club of Turner Station.

His family for years had been associated with the St. Matthew Methodist Church and in fact helped to erect the present building.

SURVIVORS include his wife, the former Dorothy Scott, whom he married December 31, 1932, and the following four sisters and three brothers.

Mesdames Marie Shobe, Syracuse, N. Y., Sarah Williams, and Catherine Edwards, both of Turner Station; and Mrs. Addie Pryor of Baltimore;

And Messrs. Pearl and Hilary Neal of Turner and William Neal of Baltimore.

At the time of his death, Mr. Neal was manager of Edwards Cafe in Turner Station of which his sister, Mrs. Edwards, was licensee. Before that, he was manager of Little Willie's Inn in Baltimore.

cape, but six of their 11 children died. They are Walter, 17; Carson, 10; Harvey, 6; William, 3; Sanford Jr., 2; and Mary Louise, five months.

Also dead were two roomers, Jack Thomas and John Johnson.

MOST OF the victims died of suffocation in bed, the Fire Department reported. It took more than an hour to bring the fire under control and it edi fire under control and it wasn't extinguished until 8:14 a.m.

The three-story frame building, formerly the Lexington Hotel, was owned by William Dietz, a building demolition contractor. It had 8 rooms.

He said the building had been reopened after it had been closed down for about a year to accomodate homeless families when Hyde Park Village—a housing project — had been raised.

Mr. Dietz also added the Reids and the Ewings had been served their eviction notices earlier in the year.

LANSEY FUNERAL — Photo made Wednesday morning at St. Francis Xavier Church shows nephews carrying casket of Miss Agnes Lansey, 442 Oxford St. A retired teacher, Miss Lansey died on Saturday at the age of 68 after an illness of 16 years, nine of which she was confined to bed. The nephews acting as pallbearers are clockwise, Edward, Warren, Austin, Alfred, Lincoln and Gaines Lansey, Father E. J. Hennessey, S.S.J., officiated at the Requiem High Mass and burial was in New Cathedral Cemetery. Besides the nephews shown here, Miss Lansey is survived by a sister, Mrs. Florence L. Williams and a niece, Miss Josephine Lansey and another nephew, Teackle Lansey.

Emmanuel election

Members of Emmanuel Christian Church will elect a pastor from three candidates at a church meeting, 8 p.m. Monday, Alan Pratt, president of the trustee board stated Wednesday.

Mr. Pratt confirmed the fact that the Rev. Era Ferrell, who has been serving in the pulpit since the death in 1956 of the Rev. Wilbur Waters, is among the candidates.

Mr. Pratt declined to announce the other two candidates.
