Miss Annette Smith becomes bride of Leon Travers Jr.

Miss Annette L. Smith, daughter of Mrs. Alice V. Smith and Oscar F. Smith Sr., and Leon H. Travers Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon H. Travers Sr., were married at the Church of God, 814 N. Gilmor Street, here, recently.

Elder George Matthews performed the Double Ring Ceremony. A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the bride's home, 707 W. Franklin Street.

GIVEN IN marriage by her brother, the bride wore a gown of white lace and taffeta, with sequins and pearls, designed with a high neckline. The skirt ended in a cathedral-length train. Her matching veil was attached to a crown of sequins and pearls, and she carried a white prayer book with white orchids and lillies of the valley.

Mrs. Alice E. Ashcraft, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Evelyn Parker, Miss Lillian Smith, Mrs. Hazel Peterson, Miss Gloria McClarry, Mrs. Harriett Johnson, Mrs. Loretta Henderson, Miss Mary Coates, all of this city, and Miss Almeta Sturdivant, of Washington.

The bridal attendants were dressed in tangerine and persian gowns, and the matron of honor was dressed in a dark green gown. The gowns were of taffeta, with round necklines and bell-shaped skirts. They wore matching crowns and veils.

The bridesmaids carried bouquets of reddish yellow chrysanthemums and pom pims and the matron of honor carried a bouquet of yellow orchids.

The two flower girls, dressed in mint green gowns of faille, carried yellow chrysanthemums. They were Mary Cooper Mechell Scroggins.

EDWARD L. TRAVERS was best man for his brother. The others were Romeo McClarry, Thomas Jones, Charles Smith, Alfred Byrd, Edward Smith, Freddie Thornton, Walter Smith, and Clarence Byrd. Tazewell Henderson was the ring bearer.

Following a wedding trip to Hampton, Va., and Mrs. Travers will make their home in this city.

MISS ANNETTE L. SMITH became the bride of Leon H. Travers, Jr. in the home of Mrs. Alice V. Smith, of this city, Baltimore, recently.

Iota Phi Lambda Sorority celebrated Education Week

Kappa Chapter of Iota Phi Lambda Sorority presented its Annual Observance of American Education Week on Sunday, November 10, at 3 p.m. at Coppin State Teachers College.

The program opened with the singing of "America." Invocation was by Rev. Marcus Wood, pastor of Providence Baptist Church.

The theme of American Education Week was "An Education People Moves Forward Freedom."

MRS. MABLE C. WATERS, chairman, brought greetings to the audience. In her remarks she gave the history of American Education Week and reminded all that cooperation, amity and love are essential to moving freedom forward. Mrs. Waters introduced Mrs. Mary Dee of Station SWID who presided.

The Rev. Robert T. Newbold Jr., pastor of Grace Presbyterian Church, discussed the TOPICS "Education for Moral Values" and "Education for Responsible Citizenship" and the business of each one of us stressed the fact that this is the business of each of us and we should take it seriously, in order to move freedom forward.

MRS. LILLIAN PARROTT, principal of Douglass High School, substituted for Dr. Houston R. Jackson who was ill, and discussed "What Our Schools Should Achieve" and "Ways to Provide Better Education" during which she brought out the matter of developing the whole child which can be done through a varied curriculum.

She put emphasis on social living, good human relations within the family and that teachers should be exemplary because they are leaders. There should be quality in leadership and quality in learning, Mrs. Parrott told the audience.

MRS. ROGER K. WILLIAMS of the Coordinating Council of Parent-Teacher Organizations discussed "Our School in Community Relationships and "Our Responsibility for Better Schools." She stressed the need that we should realize that we are needed in the community and also encourage people to find out what the school budget is and how it reflects on our daily lives.

Music was rendered by the Coppin Choir under the direction of Mrs. Agnes Abernethy.

Remarks were made by Mrs. Odessa Howard, president of Kappa Chapter.

Refreshments were served at the close of the program.

Church must revise attitude, make full use of womanpower

It is high time the church began to make full use of its womanpower, Mrs. Harold Quivers told the women and girls of St. James PE Church, Sunday.

Speaking at the annual Woman's Auxiliary Day breakfast, Mrs. Quivers called for "new wine for the old bottles" in the church program, and added that the church must change its attitude to meet the needs of the new woman.

POINTING OUT that a woman has never been seated as a delegate in the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church, Mrs. Quivers said that the Church should be the body to set itself against any natural segregation. Moreover, she added, the church cannot afford to not use the talents of its women.

Women, she showed, spend 80 per cent of the family income and suggests what is done with the other 20 per cent: they inherit 70 per cent of the nation's wealth, earn a fifth of the nation's income, and have the majority of friends, thus wielding a great influence on the vote.

MRS. QUIVERS was introduced by her daughter, Mrs. Alice Murphy. Mrs. Quivers, who has served as a delegate to the Woman's Triennial in 1949 and in 1952, also was secretary of United Church Women for four years and a representative of the Washington United Church Women on the national Board.

At present she is vice-president of United Church Women of the District of Columbia and Parish Assistant in Christian Education at St. Mary's Church, Washington.

PRESIDING AT the breakfast, which followed corporate communion, was Mrs. Vernice Wynn. Mrs. Charlotte Swan provided incidental music, and the Grace and closing prayer were by Father Cedric E. Mills.

Gala affair marks retirement of Mrs. Mollie Stewart from PRR

The Pennsylvania Railroad rolled out the red carpet for Mrs. Mollie Stewart on Monday night and gave her a buffet supper on the occasion of her retirement after 39 years service.

She has been an attendant there since June 17, 1918.

The 67-year old widow who is less than five feet tall was toasted at the gala affair amid the tinkle of cocktail glasses at the PRR Station Assembly Room where fell flowers decorated two long white clothed banquet tables.

A three piece orchestra played traveling songs such as "Around The World in 80 Days" and "I've Been Working On The Railroad" and a trackman sang historic railroad chants, and railroad officials heaped praise on a woman hundreds knew as friendly Miss Mollie.

FOR THE affair, she wore a navy lace gown over pink satin.

She smiled again and again as associates came to present gifts including a clock radio from fellow employees and a book of testimonials from PRR officials.

Mrs. Stewart was given a "Spirit Starin" and Bulova "Club" calendar with permission to stare and rock her retirement days away.

She was also given permission to "do lots of planning" but was warned to "sit around not doing them."

At the end of the hilarious evening, Mrs. Stewart exclaimed that she had experienced "the time of her life" and tears filled the eyes of her school teacher daughters as they watched with pride.

THE STEWART children present were Mrs. Geraldine Lawson a Morgan State College graduate and a teacher at Carver Vocational School who is now working on a master's degree at Howard University; Mrs. Naomi Armstrong, an Elementary School No. 127 teacher who visited 11 European countries on a tour with Boston University where she is working on a doctorate degree. The son, Edward Stewart is a PRR messenger, works in the station file room and is owner of the orchestra which played music for the banquet.

Mrs. Stewart's grandchildren, Clare Lawson, 10, and Paula Lawson, 14 were also present.

Their father, Edward Stewart, a waiter, died in 1912.

EMPLOYEES who planned the affair were Curtis McDaniel a messenger of 28 years service, Mrs. Mildred Stewart and Foster Thomas, and David Wyatt, a business car porter for 38 years.

Presentations were made by T. A. Donnally who is Mrs. Stewart's supervisor, while Joseph A. Bull, supervisor of Community Relations of the PRR Chesapeake Region presented as toastmaster and gave the key testimonial talk.

Al Roberson representing the American Federation of Labor Local No. 6071 expressed gratitude for Mrs. Stewart's membership wished her a happy retirement and said: "Behold, how good it is for brethren to live together in unity."

Also on the program were Christian C. Kolom, U.S. Customs employee and Johnnie Horn, a trackman who appeared in the Voice of America railroad television moving picture "The Iron Horse" and represented PRR by singing the historic railroad chants.

REPRESENTING Mrs. Stewart's church where she has been a member for more than 20 years was Father E. Lawrence Lacher pastor of St. Mary's Protestant Episcopal Church where he has served 15 years.

Also from the U.S. Customs service was W. Harry Newton as well as C. S. Chilcoat, PRR Station Foreman and W. T. O'Brien, Passenger Sales Representative.

In his speech Mr. Bull referred to Mrs. Stewart as a "little woman with a big heart" and he added, "she has a happy heart."

He said: "One of the ways she keeps happy is by doing unusual things."

GALES OF laughter echoed among the buffet supper guests as Mr. Bull revealed how Mrs. Stewart slipped off from her post to wave to such celebrities as the King and Queen of England, the Queen of Rumania and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, persons who never forgot her on their return trip through the station.

Citing her as a world traveler, Mr. Bull warned Mrs. Stewart to stay away from certain areas.

As he recalled her trips to Miami, Panama, Colombia, Venuela, Jamaica, Cuba and the Bahamas and other excursions which totaled more than 50,000 miles via PRR pass, Mr. Bull cautioned her not to go to Russia.

He said: "As small as she is and liking to travel the way she does, she would be a "natural" for a Sputnik passenger."

two children on June 21, 1955, while they were living at 406 Gold St.

According to an agreement dated Aug. 28, 1957, and signed by both Mr. and Mrs. Diggs, Mr. Diggs obligated himself to pay gross court costs of $39.35 plus $1,000 counsel fees (,5000 to Michael Freedman, her lawyer, and $500 to Samuel Kling, his lawyer).

In addition Mr. Diggs agreed to pay a total of $31.650 in weekly support for their two daughters.

This figure represents a weekly sum of $17.50 to be paid for the oldest child, Ardyth N., age 6, and Nona Louise, age 17 months, until they are 21 nine-point agreement between Mr. Diggs and his wife, was the provision that "neither parties annoy, molest or interfere with the person, affairs, or business of the other at any time or place whatsoever."

Other points of the agreement were:

All the furniture, furnishings, household effects and other personal property at the 406 Gold St. premises shall become the property of the wife.

The wife is to have the custody of the children with the right of the husband to see the children at all reasonable times.

The payments for support of the children are to be made through the Probation Department.

ALSO UNDER terms of the The wife is to release the husband from all claims of alimony or support.

The wife is to surrender all claims, rights, interests, and dower or statutory shares, or any rights of wife or her heirs growing out of their marriage.

The husband likewise is to surrender all such claims growing out of the marriage.

DURING TESTIMONY before a Court Master, Mrs. Diggs was asked:

"Do you understand that by not asking for alimony maintenance or support for yourself now in the proceedings that you can never claim it or get it at any future time?"

She replied: "Yes." Mr. and Mrs. Diggs were married on Dec. 27, 1947.

Court files show that Mrs. Diggs first filed for the divorce on grounds of desertion on June 23, 1955.

The amended petition, filed on August 16, 1957, Supporting her testimony of the desertion by her husband was Mrs. Diggs' mother, Mrs. Nannie Carter, 437 Bloom St. She told the Court: "She called me after he left and I do know that he left then and has never been back to live with her since then.

"His abandonment of my daughter was his deliberate and final act."

THE BOURNE divorce action began in January, 1956, when the physician charged his wife with desertion and filed for the divorce.

In her answer of Feb. 20, 1956, Mrs. Barbara Bourne requested that her husband pay a sum of $150 counsel fees and $10 per week temporary alimony accounting from Feb. 20, 1956.

She also asked for a sum of $15 per week for the support of their infant daughter, Lisa Ann Bourne.

However, on June 11, 1956, an order of the court increased counsel fees to $250 and Mrs. Bourne's alimony from $10 per week to $25 weekly.

IN ADDITION support for the child was increased from $15 to $40 weekly.

Although Wilbur C. Sheffield, attorney for Dr. Bourne revealed that the case was heard in open court, he stated that no written statements were taken down.

The final decree awarded in Dec., 1956, not only gave custody of the child and the $30 weekly support for her to Mrs. Bourne but it also provided that Dr. Bourne "have right of visitation to see the child at reasonable times and places."

The physician was also required to pay costs of the proceedings.

Special sale marks Stein's anniversary

This month, Stein's, one of the largest men's clothing retailers in America, will celebrate its 33rd birthday with a special sale that started Nov. 11th.

Stein's, a pioneer in "Factory-to-you" retailing, was started in 1925 and today numbers 83 stores in 74 cities across the country.

A spokesman for the company pointed out that unlike most national organizations Stein's, under the supervision of the local manager—Charles Petrey—is regarded as "home owned" and that its success stems from its policy of serving local needs, plus bringing the benefits only a national company can achieve in terms of greater values and greater savings through large-scale economies.

Stein's policy is also described as "factory prices" with its own factories manufacturing the suits that are sold in the company's stores.

Druid Hill crash ties up traffic

A two-car accident which occurred at 8 a.m. this morning (Friday) at the corner of Druid Hill and Lafayette Aves. tied up early morning traffic going downtown.

The collision, according to neighbors in the vicinity, completely demolished on car which landed in a window of a Druid Hill Ave. house. Neither driver was injured although the other car was badly damaged, they reported.

While others involved escaped injury, a white woman passenger of a car received slight injuries and was treated at the Maryland General Hospital.

Hospital officials reported that Mrs. Dorothy Conway, 1332 Druid Hill Ave., who was standing on the Druid Hill Ave. corner, also received slight injuries.

Infant dies of pneumonia

Funeral services were held Friday for Carolyn L. Armstead, 8 months old from a Ritchie Highway funeral home.

The infant died of pneumonia. Burial was in Mt. Calvary Cemetery.

She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Armstead Jr.; her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Armstead Sr., and two brothers William Henry and Kevin Armstead.
