'Other man' admits he is in Phillip Dorsey divorce

"Phillip Dorsey has alleged in his bill of complaint that his wife has committed adultery with Richard T. Morris.

Are you the Richard T. Morris he mentioned?

"Yes, sir, I am."

This questioning by George Russell, attorney for Mr. Dorsey, and the answer by the man the husband accused of winning the affection of Mrs. Claudine Dorsey, cinched the divorce for the husband, here, Wednesday.

The 27-year-old Mr. Dorsey, who gave his address as 1726 E. 25th St., testified that Mrs. Dorsey, 23, is the mother of a baby daughter of which he is not the father.

HE TOLD THE COURT that they were married in Elkton in July, 1952 and lived together until February, 1955, when she left him.

He said that he saw her again in September, 1956, that she was pregnant and told him that Mr. Morris was the father of the child to be born.

Records filed in the suit showed that the baby arrived in March of this year.

Mr. Morris, who lives in Washington, and describes himself as a professional soldier in the U.S. Army of Occupation, said that when he became acquainted with the Dorseys they were not living together.

He said the child is not only his, but bears his name.

Legal holiday

Banks, government and city offices will be closed on Monday when the nation celebrates Veterans Day on the 38th anniversary of the signing of the Armistice following World War I.

This national holiday, formerly called Armistice Day, had its name changed in recent years so that veterans of World War II and the Korean War could be honored at the same time.

Public schools will remain open.

City offices closed include the Sanitation Department, meaning in Baltimore there will be no trash collected.

City ad tax is assailed

Additional slaps in the face were given this city's proposed advertising tax here Wednesday as the argument took on a national flavor, bringing protests to Mayor D'Alesandro from a prominent advertising concern.

Bitterly assailing the proposed tax measure, Robert M. Feemster, chairman of the Advertising Federation of America in New York, wired the mayor terming the proposal an idea that "undermines many things which you believe most heartily to be cornerstones of America."

Mr. Feemster urged Mayor D'Alesandro "to provide adequate hearings so that the full historical facts" of the matter can be shown.

* * *

MEANWHILE, a quickly formed committee sprang up last week to protest the passage of the nine and one-half per cent tax on advertising that is mandatory under the proposed new tax law.

The committee, composed of consumer groups, neighborhood associations, and women's and labor groups, represents all sections of the city.

In a statement the group declared:

"A punitive tax of this nature is a threat to freedom of the press. The power to tax in this manner is the power to destroy. The effects of the proposed tax will be to weaken communications in Baltimore.

* * *

"BECAUSE OF the size of the tax and because it discriminates in its application, applying only to advertising placed locally, it will give tremendous advantage to national companies competing against Baltimore.

"The result will be to ruin some companies, to depress others and cut down on jobs as well as to drive some companies and people out of Baltimore."

The Baltimore chapter of the American Public Relations Association described the proposal as "a tax which hurts the income of a city."

Henryton patients need blood

"We need a list of blood donors who, when we call on them, will go to Mount Wilson State Hospital and give blood."

This announcement was made by Mrs. Dorothie Hebron Ward, chief of social service, at the Henryton State Hospital on Thursday.

Mrs. Ward made the request on behalf of patients who will need blood after chest surgery which is sometimes performed in effort to save their lives.

Those who wish to help may call the Henryton superintendent, Dr. Edgars M. MacCulans at Sykesville. 175 or write to the hospital in care of Mrs. Ward.

She also said that, although many patients receive blood from friends and relatives, there are some others patients who have neither friends nor family members to contribute blood.

MRS. WARD added that although some persons may not be able to give blood, she hopes they will contact a friend or a neighbor who might be in position to donate.

Those living in the Washington, D.C. area are requested to go to the American Red Cross Blood Service, 2025 Eee St., NW, or write them.

Jobs open at Post Office

Acting Postmaster, William F. Laukaitis announced Wednesday the establishment of a Board of Civil Service Examiners in the Baltimore Post Office to service the city and all first, second and third class post offices in Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Carroll, Harford and Howard Counties.

Announcement of examinations for substitute clerk and substitute carrier in these offices are now open and will remain open until the needs of the service have been filled.

Persons applying will be permitted to participate in an open competitive exam to be held in the near future. A passing grade will entitle, both male and felame participants, to be placed on the substitute clerk-carrier registers of the county in which they reside.

Upon request, male eligibles may be included on the Baltimore Post Office register.

Clerks and carriers in the Post Office receive from $3,600 to $4,410 per year, a uniform allowance 13 to 26 days annual leave for career employees and up to 13 days sick leave as well as a retirement plan.

Sweeps winner at father's bedside

The Irish Sweepstakes winner of $28,000 Mrs. Edna Sullivan, 425 E. 22nd St., left Thursday night, to go to the bedside of her father, Walter Miller, in Florence, S.C.

Mr. Miller who has been seriously ill continues in critical condition.

Mrs. Sullivan and her husband, John G. Sullivan, a Merchant Marine steward, held a ticket on a horse named Fair Stone who came in third in the Cambridgeshire Handicap at Newmarket, England.

COOK LOSES FOOT

Richard Casey, 49, a cook for the Pennsylvania Railroad, had his right foot amputated at Casualty Hospital last week after it was run over by the wheel of a train from which he was alighting in Union Station. Casey lives in New York City.

MR. and MRS. WILLIAM HUTCHINSON
Half-century together

After 50 years—'The years have just piled up on us'

By MAX JOHNSON

"It doesn't seem as though we have been married 50 years . . . we have been fortunate in getting along very well since we have been together, and now it looks as though the years have just piled up on us."

Mrs. Ida Hutchinson, of 2512 Huron St., Mt. Winans, was commenting on Thursday on the recent observance of the 50th wedding anniversary of her marriage to William Hutchinson, now a retired Baltimore and Ohio Railroad track foreman.

"I am just proud," Mrs. Hutchinson said, "that we were able to raise our family properly."

* * *

MR. AND MRS. Hutchinson are the parents of 10 children, five of whom are still living. They have nine grandchildren, 26 great-grandchildren, and three great-great-grandchildren.

"If it had not been for the both of us pulling together," Mr. Hutchinson observed, "we never would have made it, I am sure of that."

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hutchinson are natives of Maryland. He was born in Mt. Airy, up near Frederick, and she not far from Mt. Airy.

They were young sweethearts, and married on September 19, 1907.

"We got married on a Saturday night," Mr. Hutchinson recalled, "and on the following Monday morning, I went to work for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. I worked for that company steadily until I retired in 1951."

* * *

MR. AND MRS. Hutchinson are among the long-time residents of Mt. Winans, having lived there some 30-odd years.

Both are members of Mt. Winans Methodist Church. Mr. Hutchinson has been a Mason for some 40 or more years.

Does Mrs. Hutchinson have some advice to offer to young couples, to enable them to have happy lives together?

"I think couples should always try to agree with each other," she answered. "Trying to agree with each other is important. That means that both will not try to talk at once. Then, a better understanding can be reached over any problems."

Speaking of problems, Mr. and Mrs. Hutchinson have had their fair share. They do not usually talk about them, though.

Mrs. Hutchinson, for example, has been in and out of a hospital for the past 5 years. In 1946, it was necessary for physicians to amputate one of her legs.

* * *

MR. HUTCHINSON, formerly a big, hale and hearty man of more than 200 pounds in weight, became ill in 1953 and, at one time, was down to slightly more than 100 pounds in weight. He still has not fully recovered.

During this period, a daughter, Elizabeth, who lived with them died suddenly.

Nevertheless, both remain exceedingly active. Mrs. Hutchinson does her own housework, including washing and ironing, just, as she says, "to keep busy."

Mr. Hutchinson is constantly building things around his home. He has built a brick garage, a patio, and previously he converted an upper floor of their two-story home into an apartment, and renovated their first floor to an apartment for their living quarters.

Mrs. Minnie Drummond, a beautician; Mrs. Etta Chappell Sheeman and Alvie Hutchinson, are children presently living in Baltimore. Mrs. Dessie Williams, oldest of the children, lives in Ridgeville, near Mt. Airy.

* * *

TWO SISTERS of Mrs. Hutchinson, Mrs. Eslie Johnson and Mrs. Delma Bryant, live in Baltimore. A sister and brother, Mrs. Mary Hammond and Harrison Lyles, live in and near Frederick.

Mr. Hutchinson has a brother, Morgan Hutchinson, who lives in Mt. Airy; a sister, Mrs. Lena Graham, who lives in Mt. Winans, and another sister, Mrs. Rosa Fossett, who also lives in Mt. Airy.

Mr. Hutchinson, who was one of the first track foremen of his race to work in the Baltimore terminal area, has this philosophy about life:

"If you keep on being active, doing things worthwhile, then you are likely to keep on living and enjoying life."

'CONGRATULATIONS'—Governor McKeldin greets the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. J. Timothy Boddie at Thursday evening reception which marked the Rev. Mr. Boddie's 15th anniversary as pastor of New Shiloh Baptist Church and the 35th anniversary of the church at Fremont Ave. and Lanvale St. Some 1,000 persons attended the celebration and heard the Governor say: "If you come to New Shiloh and listen to this minister, you will know that God is here."

What to do when flu strikes

So you think you have the Asian flu or one of its cousins. If such is the case the Maryland State Department of Health has issued a three page guide which might prove helpful both in promoting the patient's comfort and in hastening his recovery.

In outline form the guide lists symptoms of flu-like illness such as sore throat, fever, cough and chills, and gives suggestions as to what nursing care should be given.

Prepared by the subcommittee on Nursing Personnel of the State Influenza Planning Commission, the guide is available upon request to schools, private agencies and other organizations.

* * *

ON THE PRESENCE of the flu or flu like symptoms it is recommended that the affected person go to bed and follow the direction of the doctor.

Other steps recommended are these:

Sore Throat

Gargle with warm salt water (½ teaspoon salt to 1 glass water).

Running Nose

Use disposable tissues — Discard them in a paper bag.

Headache

Apply cold cream or petroleum jelly to skin around nostrils, if nasal discharge is frequent.

Apply hot or cold compresses to head, as preferred for comfort.

When AFRO editor Jimmy Williams wrote this story he did not know that he too would be home with the flu—he'll let readers know whether or not his advice worked.

Chills

Keep warm, avoid drafts. If necessary to get out of bed, wear slippers or shoes and robe.

Take and record temperature about ½ hour after chill is over.

Fever

Drink liquids in small amounts regularly when awake (a total of 2-3 quarts daily for adults, 1-2 quarts for children) — water, fruit juices, broth, gingerale and other simple carbonated beverages, tea with or without sugar.

Take food as desired such as dry toast with or without salt, plain jello, clear soup, cooked cereal.

Change night clothing and bed linen without chilling, when ever necessary, to keep warm and dry.

Sponge baths without chilling for comfort.

Cough

Do not take any medicines unless prescribed by your doctor for this illness.

For relief of irritation of throat from coughing use: Salt water gargle — Hard candy dissolved in mouth — 1 teaspoon of syrup or honey with lemon juice when needed.

Muscle Aches and Pains

Keep warm and dry.

Rub back.

If your doctor advises aspirin — take two tablets not more than every four hours (adults) about ½ hour after chill is over.

AVOID DRAFTS

DRINK LIQUIDS

STAY IN BED

Give aspirin to young children only on advice of physician.

Nausea

Take sips of water or cracked ice 2-3 times an hour when awake, or take gingerale, cola, tea with or without sugar.

Constipation Or Diarrhea

Take medicine only as advised by your doctor.

Convalescence

After chills and fever, headache, etc. are over, stay in bed until strength has returned. This may take several days.

Avoid chilling.

Increase food as rapidly as tolerated to normal diet — Include: Fruit juices (citrus and other) milk, eggs, cereals, vegetables, etc.

Regular meals with midmorning, afternoon and evening snacks help the sick person to feel better.

* * *

IT IS ALSO recommended that in order to protect the sick person from other infections the patient should avoid chilling, remain in bed in a separate room, have no visitors, wash hands before eating.

If these following symptoms are developed, it is advisible to contact the doctor at once:

Sudden high fever after the fourth or fifth day; severe chest pain, especially in deep breathing; coughing up a great deal of yellow or green mucus and difficulty in breathing.

SAD-FACED clown entertains five young circusgoers. Photo was made at Boumi Temple Shrine event at Fifth Regiment Armory.

Kids, adults thrill to excitement of circus

By HERB MANGRUM

Earth shaking roars from the throats of a dozen angry lions and a nervous Bengal tiger, a statuesque Bikini clad "Princess" hurtling through space with the grace of a bird, a smell of popcorn and sawdust in the air.

Those were some of the things that warmed the hearts and sometimes chilled the blood of thousands of kids and adults who attended the Boumi Temple's Shrine Circus this week at the 5th Regiment Armory.

Amid the brazen brass of a circus band and the suave presentation of a top hatted ring master, the circus conscious population of Baltimore was treated to six days of fun under the proverbial "big top."

Approximately 10,000 children are expected to descent on the Armory tomorrow afternoon (Saturday) at 2:15 p.m. to witness the final matin.

AT THEIR TWICE A day performance this week, the circus parade a total of 20 spine tingling and laugh making acts before a wide eyed public for two and a half hours.

With their attention fixed on the center ring, thousands held their breath in anticipation as they watched animal trainer Pat Anthony run his mixed group of jungle beats through their paces.

Comments from "I wouldn't do that for love or money" to "mama look at the big kitty" filled the air as the 12 lions were made to roll over on their backs.

Spiting defiance at her trainer each time that he came within reach one lioness drew a round of applause from the audience as she rolled along on top of a rubber ball.

The crowd watched gleefully as the "Aerial Voises," a comedy aerial bar team with a combination of buffoonery and hilarity performed somersaults on the high bars.

With their outlandish costumes and ready wit, that old circus standby the clowns added to the excitement tnd frequently mingled with the crowd.

* * *

AMONG the acts which kept the show moving at a fast pace were a group of canine performers, a juggler who performed a number of difficult feats while balanced on a slack wire, elephants, bicycle acts, acrobats, and bare back riders.

The crowd was treated to a spine tingling act in the performance of one of the participants who billed himself as the "Sensational Cresso."

Crouching low in a miniature automobile, he brought the audience to its feet as he plummeted down a steep incline in his rocker car, executed a double somersault, and then landed in a nearby net.

Princess Tajana, a red headed aerial adventuress who according to circus officials was making her "American debut," added beauty to the three-ring show with her trapeze act.

Dressed in a flowing white Indian headdress, she entered the arena riding a prancing gray horse prior to climbing into the rigging for her act.

From her perch high in the armory ceiling, the "Princess" jumped out into space only to be saved at the last minute by clutching at a thin rope suspended between her and the audience.

Gls can't take wives to Texas?

Colored servicemen in the Second Armored Division known to have married white women in Germany will have been transferred to other units before the division reaches its new station in Texas early next month.

That information was contained in a statement issued by the Army's brass here Wednesday.

Advance elements of the Second Armored are scheduled to leave Germany late this month for Fort Hood, Texas, and will be followed later by the remainder of the division's troops.

The Fourth Armored Division, now stationed at Fort Hood, will replace the Second Armored group in Germany.

* * *

THE PENTAGON was chased up a tree by the problem of mixed marriages after it reached its decision to assign the Second Armored Division to the Texas fort.

During the past several months, the division's commander has been busy informing colored soldiers who have married German women that the State of Texas does not recognize marriages between colored and white persons.

Pentagon officials pointed out that the decision in each case must be made by the individual soldiers involved.

Carver awaits JV title tilt

Coach Charley Robinson's Carver High School Junior Varsity eleven is biding its time awaiting the playoff for the city jayvee football championship, the second straight year it has sought the crown.

Winners of six in a row and unbeaten for the season, the youthful Trainers have already clinched the public school JV title.

Carver figures to meet the winner of next week's private school playoff, scheduled Thursday between McDonogh and Severn. The Robinson charges will take on the private school champ on November 21st at Kirk Field.

Carver won the public school flag last year, then went on to capture the city title. She has only lost only one game in two years of Maryland Scholastic Association competition.
