"Fun" decorating parish house declares Mrs. C. E. Mills

With Lula Jones Garrett

"I've had more fun than a little girl in a doll house," said Mrs. Cedric Mills when we complimented her on the excellent job she has done in decorating the new rectory of St. James Episcopal Church, Sunday.

The George F. Bragg Missionary Guild was hosting the open house for Father and Mrs. Mills, and I think, no one was enjoying the affair more than the Rector and his wife, as the scores of parishioners passed through the charming little English Tudor mansa at 2701 N. Hilton St.

Mrs. Gladys R. Johnson, guild warden, and her members had filled the rooms with flowers, arranged a perfectly beautiful refreshment table and posted themselves at various points to direct guests through the house.

And St. James folks and friends were delighted with the house; its spacious living room with its inviting fireplace; the dining room and a big roomy kitchen along side; the book-lined study across the hall, the many windows that flood the floors with light.

Particularly attractive is the circular hall of the second floor, off which had the four bedrooms and bath, and stretching across the upper front is a balcony. There's a downstairs bath, also.

"I simply won't know what to do with myself, now that it is all finished," said Mrs. Mills.

But I've news for her. With her artistic talent, the decorating will probably, like Tennyson's book, go on forever.

ALSO HOUSEWARMING on Sunday were Mr. Calvin (Delores) Scotts, who opened the doors of their new ranch home in Cabondale to more than 150 guests.

Guests were guided from the living room, where they greeted the hosts, onto the remainder of the home by LaVerne Lockwood and Elfrieda Young, teen - age nieces of the hosts.

Delicious sandwiches, cakes and punch, made by Mr. Scott's aunt, were served by Mrs. Mary Hawkins, Mrs. Estella Scott, Mrs. Eva Brown (the latter two the mothers of the couple), and Mrs. Peggy Bantom.

There were many "oohs" and ahs" over the living room's log - burning fireplace, the walls paneled in African mahogany, the pretty pink and white bath, the birch kitchen tiled in chartreuse and green with its stainless steel wall oven and sink.

Guests were tempted to try out the ping-pong table in the hugh club room. They completed the tour by inspecting the breezeway and the garage.

Among those who called during the hours were:

Messrs. and Mesdames Albert Haughty, Vance Sharp, Fred Johnston, A. B. Watson, Lloyd Forehand, William Barber, Henry Herbert, Harvey Johnson;

Messrs. and Mesdames Waverly Hendricks, Robert Young, Gilbert Brown, Milton Brown Sr., Edgar Ewing, Casper Parker, Mark Bowyer, Samuel Blackwell, Edgar Johnson;

Messrs. and Mesdames Clifton Gattis, George Carroll, Roland Scott, Vurnell Lockwood, Ralph Nutter, Calvin Carrington, Simon Scott, Mark Patterson, Edward Williams, Theodore Brown;

Mesdames Ida Collick, Inez Reed, Peggy Banton, Elizabeth Parker, Alice Koger, Gwendolyn Chester, Beulah Burroughs, Annie Caulk, Mary N. Brooks, Bessie Alston, Adele Proctor;

Misses Irma Tyler, Merriel Rawlings, Olive Caulk, Constance Brown; John Coulter, Paul Johnson, Leroy Johnson, and a trio of New Yorkers including Morton Scott, Miss Louise Johnson and Mrs. Edith Herbert.

WHEN MARGE AND WILLIAM JACKSON, of Los Angeles, Calif., were in town last week, they were entertained at a buffet supper by their cousins, the William Rhodeses of Bryant Ave.

The party brought together the family, including:

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Griffin, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Griffin, Raymond Carpenter Sr., William Rhodes Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Carpenter Jr.

Mr. Jackson is an inspector in the Los Angeles post office and the Mrs. is in the school system. He is a member of an old Catonsville family but has lived in California for many years.

WHEN THE ELROY O. WILSONS chalked up 22 years of marriage on Sunday, they marked the event with a dinner party at their Brantley Avenue home.

Dining with them were:

Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Folkes, Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Covington, Miss Cornelia Brooks, Mrs. Bessie Plater, Miss Hilda Thomas, Mrs. Mabel Smith and Oscar Jones.

FRIDAY was Lola J. Matthews' birthday . . . so husband Donald took her a-dining and to a show.

But what he didn't mention in the natal day plans was that he was garnering a gang of guests in their swank club room in the new Alto Road home, to surprise the breath out of her upon their return.

It took Lola fully fifteen minutes to recover from the shock when she arrived home and Anne Shervington, backed by a chorus of 28 others, sang out "Surprise."

At the party were:

Dr. and Mrs. Oakley Saunder, the J. Tyson Tiddons, the Lawrence Willises, the Lareno Allens, the Franklyn Beards, the James Hodgeses, the Donald Harrises, the Doward Patterson;

Jean Robinson, Roberta Woodson, Yvonne Johnson, Cleo Ashby, Ruth Brooks, Gwendolyn Giles, Aaron Jenkins, Eugene Jubilee, Vernon Brown, David Green, Ralph Matthews and Donald Dixon.

Incidentally, Lola and Donald are newly appointed teachers in the city school system. Donald is at City College and she is on the faculty of the Robert Brown Elliott School No. 104.

BUT THE CUTEST PARTY ever was that given by a quartet of friends for Carolyn Stubbs on Saturday . . . a surprise shower for her's and Wesley's expected heir.

The affair was in the second ceremony in Baltimore, Friday evening. The officiating clergyman who heard a repetition of their wedding vows is the Rev. N. B. Carrington, left above.

THE REV. CHRISTOPHER SCOTT, superintendent of the West Baltimore District of the Washington Annual Conference, observed the 31st anniversary of their marriage with a

District fetes Superintendent Mrs. Scott on marriage date

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Scott observed the 31st anniversary of their marriage with a renewal of vows in the Union Memorial Methodist Church, Friday evening.

The couple was guest of the West Baltimore District of the Washington Annual Conference of which the Rev. Mr. Scott is superintendent.

Officiating at the renewal of vows was the Rev. N. B. Carrington, pastor of Union Memorial Church and the Rev. J. B. Brown, celebrant at the original ceremony.

Mrs. Eleanor Moore and Elmer Hammond were soloists and the Columbia Male Chorus of Washington provided the music. The Rev. Willard Williams was master of ceremonies.

IN THE wedding party were the Rev. Messrs. C. S. Harper and C. S. Briggs; Mrs. Ruth Branch, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Edeny and Dr. and Mrs. Walter Wright.

Presentations from the district and from the Women's Society of Christian Service were made by the Rev. E. E. Artze and Mrs. Inez MacAbee, respectively.

Mrs. Otie Jasper of Washington and Mrs. H. Bullitt of this city were co-chairman of the affair. Other chairmen included Mrs. Carrington, Mrs. Albert Hammond and Mrs. Myrtle Lofton.

with a formal dinner party at the Forest Park home of Mrs. Josephine Neal, Friday evening.

Club members present included:

Miss Florence J. Nutter, Mrs. Helen Outlaw Carr, Mrs. Romaine Wood Ball, Mrs. Beverly Reynolds Bailey, Mrs. Andrey Sharp Allen, Mrs. Azile Daniels Newsome and Mrs. Geraldine Stokes Brown.

A unique gesture from their hostess was a beautiful gardenia bud at each place setting.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Gwendolyn Pettiford of Bloomfield, New Jersey, Mrs. Rosemarie Elliot of Washington, D.C. and Mrs. Theresa Filmore of Germantown, Pennsylvania.

Dr. T. Lawless seated on Chicago health board

CHICAGO (NNPA) — Dr. Theodore K. Lawless, noted dermatologist, was seated Tuesday for the first time as a member of the Chicago Board of Health which he previously had accused of having a "dictatorial attitude" towards hospitals.

When he appeared before the City Council's committee on health for confirmation of his appointment three weeks ago, Dr. Lawless did not mention Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, the board's veteran president, by name, when he made the dictatorship charge.

But it was obvious that his reference was to Dr. Bundesen when he said:

"No man should be a dictator. We can do much with persuasion. I have only one vote, but there will be no dictatorship as far as I am concerned."

When asked by Dr. Bundesen if he would care to make a statement just before the board meeting ended, Dr. Lawless said he had nothing to say.

Welcoming Dr. Lawless as a board member, Dr. Bundesen said: "You are a very valuable asset to this board. You can make it an even better board."

"The perfect make-up base to keep you fresh looking through the day"

"The demands on my time are too many for me to be fussing with my make-up constantly. So it was a joy to discover Black and White Vanishing Cream is a make-up base that holds make-up on longer and keeps me fresh looking."

BEWARE COUGHS THAT HANG ON FOLLOWING COLDS

A stubborn cough following a common cold may develop into chronic bronchitis—a condition far worse than the cold itself. Before it is too late relieve that cough with Creomulsion Cough Syrup right now. Creomulsion stops the tickle, comforts raw throat membranes, clears the breathing passages, fights the cause of irritation—quickly. It's safer, too, because it is free of narcotics or antihistamines. Don't let that cough break you down. Begin taking Creomulsion at once.

Wedding ceremony in home for Miss Phyllis Allen, Mr. Diggs

In the presence of relatives and a few close friends, Miss Phyllis Allen, daughter of Mrs. George Kelson and the late Dr. George Allen, became the bride of Robert Diggs, Saturday morning.

The ceremony, at 11 a.m., took place in the N. Calhoun St. home of the bride's parents. It was performed by the Rev. Reginald Daniels, pastor of Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church.

GIVEN IN MARRIAGE by her step - father, George Kelson, prominent city mortician, the bride was attended by her step - sister, Mrs. A. Merita Stokes. James Gilliam was best man.

The bridal music was provided by Mrs. Georgella Kindvihner.

For her wedding Miss Allen wore a floor - length gown of silk pois de soie, made with a chapel train and trimmed with bands of embroidered satin.

Her head piece was a pois de soie pillbox, banded in points, with each point ending in a pearl tear drop. Attached was an elbow - length veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

MRS. STOKES wore a waltz-length gown of white satin damask, with aqua shoes, a cap of aqua velvet leaves with matching veil. Her flowers were a bouquet of aqua asters.

The wee flower girl, Marlyn Harris, was dressed in white embroidered organdy, the skirt in tiers. Her halo was of white roses and she carried a basket filled with white rosebuds.

John Earl Stokes, 4th, was ringbearer. With an Eton suit of charcoal gray, he wore white shirt with Peter Pan collar and a striped tie.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Kelson was attired in gray lace over tangerine taffeta, and wore a matching hat, and a green orchid. Mrs. Dorothy Diggs, mother of the bridegroom, was gowned in rose lace. Her hat matched and she wore a pink orchid.

The bride's aunt, Miss Helen King, wore emerald de-lustered satin; and another aunt, Mrs. Flora Evans, chose green silk studded with rhinestones.

A WEDDING BREAKFAST followed the ceremony. Guests included the wedding party and wedding guests.

Helping to receive guests at the reception were the bride's godmother, Mrs. Alma Thomas, who wore rose lace with matching shoes and hat, and an orchid.

Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Bernadine Harrison, — whose gown was a sheath of red pois de soie; Mrs. Emily Peck, in green satin; Mrs. Claire Parker, in blue satin; Mrs. Lillian Clarke, who wore red velvet and Mrs. Ethel Hunter in pink net.

Guests, upon leaving, received wedding cake from Misses Anne Carroll, Juanita King, Deborah Hunter and Brenda Hythe.

The bride's ensemble for traveling was a sapphire blue wool crepe ensemble, with matching accessories, and a mink cape jacket.

Members of the wedding party serenaded the newlyweds at Union Station from where they headed westwards on an undiscosed honeymoon site.

Guests at the reception included:

Messrs. and Mesdames William Adams, William J. Adams, William Adams, Isaac Adams, Richard Bailey, Glascoe Baker, Simon Bank, Benjamin Barksdale;

Shirley Paul at Slimmerette boast total NAACP membership

Shirley Paul is one of the charming local girls who are special technicians at the Slimmerette reducing salon at North and Pulaski St.

Although the Slimmerette machine, with its amazing 3-way action, must take major credit for the weight reduction at Slimmerette, Miss Paul and other staff members personally guide women to their new slim figures.

Initially, for instance, Miss Paul makes a figure-analysis for patrons to determine exactly what the weight-reduction objectives should be. Then she sets up a specific program for the achievement of that objective.

"ENJOYABLE" is the word Miss Paul feels most accurately describes patrons' reaction to their Slimmerette treatments. Tensions are eased, muscles are toned. "It's quite a refreshing experience."

Slimmerette is offering to AFRO readers as many reducing treatments as they need for three months for a total cost of $25. Normally, this complete program costs $150.

In addition, Slimmerette is giving AFRO readers a "Free Introductory Treatment without cost or obligation. To take advantage of this, readers need only call Slimmerette for an appointment at their convenience.
