Rights council head talks on legislation

WASHINGTON

John T. Blue Jr., director of the American Council on Human Rights, analyzed civil rights legislation over radio station WOOK on Sunday.

Mr. Blue discussed the Republican - Democrat coalition, calling Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson a compromiser in the fight to pass strong civil rights legislation.

He spoke on the program, "Faith of Millions," sponsored by Georgetown University. Dr. John J. O'Connor, history professor, served as moderator.

—Missing boy

lice had been looking for my baby."

The happy mother said she first learned the whereabouts of Clarence, through Mrs. Martha Smith, 1633 E. Lombard St.

She said she went to a beauty parlor at Central Ave. and Orleans St. to ask the operator whether any of her customers had seen the missing child, and Mrs. Smith told her about Mrs. Washington.

Mrs. Allen said when she arrived at the E. Pratt St. address Mrs. Washington gave Clarence a bath and turned over to her some clothes bought for him.

A day after her child vanished Mrs. Allen told the AFRO:

"I have looked everywhere. We have been through incinerators, basements, trash piles, the project and my boy is still missing. I hope someone will bring him home to me."

She said the chubby young ster was last seen in front of her home.

THE ONLY lead before the child was found was provided on T u e s d a y by a neighbor who told police that two weeks ago, she stopped a shabbily dressed man from leading another child away from home by the hand.

Mrs. Emmaline Jones said that when she asked the man where he was taking the little boy he told her the youth had asked for some ice.

Mrs. Jones said she had never seen the man in the neighborhood before.

The missing boy's mother said she was in an upstairs bedroom when the youth disappeared.

"I looked out the window once and he was playing. A few minutes later I looked out again and he was gone.

"My husband didn't see him when he left the house either.

"I walked and walked through the neighborhood all day and all night and wasn't able to find out anything about him," Mrs. Allen declared.

"I'm not sure about everything he had on, but I know that he was wearing red shoes, and I think he had on striped sweat shirt and yellow pants," she said.

"The neighbors all saw him this morning but not after 12:30. He just disappeared. I don't know what happened. We didn't allow him to cross the street alone.

"Even the children in the neighborhood have been trying to find him. All the children are looking.

They went to the playgrounds and didn't find him there," Mrs. Allen said.

AS THE YOUNG housewife talked with a police officer on Wednesday, while seated on the steps in front of her home, neighbors stopped to offer assistance in searching for the youth.

Patrolman Charles Gray of the Northeastern District said that he had been unsuccessful after going from house to house trying to get a line on the missing boy.

The youth's home is located near the Douglas - Somerset Project, is across the street from the Dunbar High School playground, and is less than a block from the 1300 block of Orleans St.

A bar is located on one corner, and a filling station is on the opposite corner of Orleans and Eden Sts.

In giving police a detailed description of her son, Mrs. Allen told them the boy's eyes are slightly crossed, and he has a scar under the left eye.

The Allen's have three other children including a boy one-year-old, a n d two girls, one four years of age the other two months.

The father of the missing boy is unemployed.

FOUND — When Clarence Allen Jr., 2, disappeared from his home at 206 N. Eden St., Tuesday afternoon he became the object of a search by his parents and the police. The youth was reunited with mother Mrs. Mary Allen on Thursday after Mrs. Edna Washington of 1644 E. Pratt St., said she found him lost at Lombard and Bond Sts.

field to rejoin a carnival with which he had been working at the time of his arrest.

State's Attorney C. Burnam Mace later announced that Forester will be charged with jail break.

According to testimony introduced at the Monday hearing, Forester, a roustabout, was on the grounds used by the Greater Virginia Show when the blonde passed by near him.

It was alleged that Forester made the remark, "hello baby," and then when she returned repeated the words again adding "oh you're the wrong woman."

The blonde allegedly told her husband of the incident and Forester was arrested.

QUERIED about the sentence on Thursday by the AFRO, Magistrate McAllister said he thought his treatment of Forester was "justified."

The magistrate said:

"To keep clear of any trouble about the thing I fined him. . . He was making those ugly remarks. . .

"We have good relations here and I want to keep them that way . . . Everybody is treated the same in my court, I want to keep everything on an even keel.

"He molested her twice."

Man, 80, knifed Woman, 43, held

WASHINGTON

Police charged a 43-year-old woman with assault on an 80-year-old man late Saturday night at 2911 Sherman Ave., NW.

Municipal Court Judge Austin L. Fickling ordered Mrs. Dorothy Cooper Holmes held in bond of $3,000 Monday. The case was continued until Aug. 30.

POLICE REPORTED Mrs. Holmes assaulted David L. Washington, 80, with a butcher knife during an argument over food.

Washington was admitted to D.C. General Hospital for treatment of stab wounds. His condition was reported fair Tuesday.

George Washington Williams, attorney and unsuccessful candidate for public office, that:

"If you look in the Old Testament you see that there is no room for the b--- race in today's society."

FAVORING integration, however, were such speakers as the Rev. Clarence Davis, pastor of Annapolis' Asbury Methodist Church, who said:

"My son George Davis could not enter the high school here in Annapolis, so I sent him to City College in Baltimore. He has just received a four-year scholarship to attend Colgate College. I could not for the life of me figure out why he could not enter the Annapolis High School.

"We need to accelerate on all levels, I asked the board for money to send my son outside of the county, but it was refused. The whole thing is just plain ignorance."

Representing the Frontiers of America was Willie Richardson who pointed out that the schools should be integrated on all levels. "It is bad for all races to be deprived of their education and expensive for the parents of these children to send them to segregated schools," he said.

Speaking from a religious point of view was the Rev. Leroy Bowman, pastor of First Baptist Church, Annapolis.

"We should speed up the progress of integration, instead of on the installment plan. Integration has and will work in Anne Arundel County. We should begin now to integrate the public schools on all levels.

"It is an individual right and not a class right to attend integrated schools. Segregation was outmoded in May 1954 and has no place in the present day society."

Dr. T. Allen, only colored member on the board, said he was opposed to segregation on principle and that colored high school pupils studied under "a tremendous handicap" in the county.

MRS. EDNA PAYNE, president of the Maryland Petition Committee said "if we speed up integration something eventually will happen that will cause a little unpleasantness."

Mrs. Annie Dorsey Lennon, secretary of the Committee said, "The Maryland Petition committee was chartered on June 19, 1954 and incorporated with the state of Maryland. Our goal is to stop integration of any kind. I went to a segregated school and you don't know how happy I am that I did. I hope we never have complete integration in the public schools.

"Our committee has over 4,000 signatures in Anne Arundel county against integration of the schools in September. We the citizens of Maryland feel that you are invading and violating our natural rights to force us to do something against our will. Why our ancestors from England would just die to hear of such a mess," said Mrs. Lennon.

ANOTHER committee member speaking against integration of the schools was Edgar G. Parker, who said, "If we integrated the schools on all levels there will be trouble in this county. Integration will not work in this county.

Mr. Parker said that "when they integrated in Washington, D.C. they had millions of discipline problems. Colored girls used such language as they use in the Marine Corps. They had sex problems and colored children stealing from the teachers and the students."

Mr. Williams, attorney for the committee said, "Integration should never have come to this county. It is contrary to God's will for this mess to happen. If you look in the Old Testament you see that there is no room for the black race in today's society.

"We should not be thrown into damnation all at once. The Supreme Court decision of 1954 was not the law of the land. I feel that every state should have the right to control their own state supported schools. The majority of the Negroes in Anne Arundel county do not want integration in our public schools."

Said Mr. Williams, "You should feel proud of your race and not want them to mix with other races. You should try and protect them. Do you want to ruin your race by mixing?

"The Supreme Court has no right to ruin Anne Arundel county with this integration mess. I think that the board should keep the present policy."

ALSO ADDRESSING the school board was the Rev. J. H. Scott who said, "If the school board makes the wrong decision all of you will burn in a devil's hell. You the members of the board of education had better watch your step. You have a job I would not want for all the money in the whole world. You had better read your Bible and obey God's word."

Speaking on the "terrible mistake" of the colored person was Shepard Isaiah who said, "I am opposed to any phase of integration. W— are making a terrible mistake to rush things. I am for complete moderation. If you push this thing on us, why it will just be a terrible thing, the results of course. The board is to be commended for what it has done in the past."

UNDER THE board's permissive policy of desegregation, pupils may attend the school closest to them or entitled to attend their present school in the desegregated grades.

The petition also asked the repeal of a ruling applicable to both white and colored children that the "nearest school bus is the nearest school" on the grounds that it has delayed integration.

The statement reads:

"We the undersigned, are the parents of children of school age entitled to attend and attending the public elementary and secondary high schools under your jurisdictions. Your board passed a resolution on May 2, 1956, providing that wherever possible every child in the first three grades, beginning with September, 1956, term, and in additional grades as the program expands in succeeding years shall have the choice of (a) attending the nearest school; (b) attending his present school.

"It is apparent to your petitioners that this program has been successful in the limited areas where it has been applied and, as we understand it, your advisory commission on desegregation of the public schools of Anne Arundel county recommended to you that the program of desegregation should be started on all levels where administratively possible. This, to us, has not been done.

"As we understand it, your board has promulgated or is applying a rule which says the nearest school bus is the nearest school and, as said rule has nullified, hindered and delayed integration with all deliberate speed, at the earliest practicable date in large segments of the county where administratively possible to integrate immediately, we therefore demand the repeal of this rule.

"We call upon you to take immediate steps to organize the public schools under your jurisdiction on a non-segregated basis on all levels.

"We call upon you to reorganize the school systems under your control so that the children of public school age attending and entitled to attend public schools cannot be denied admission to any school or be required to attend any school solely because of race or color.

"The May 17, 1954 and May 31, 1955, decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States and the recommendations of your own advisory commission on desegregation to us mean that the time for delay, evasion, or procrastination is long passed.

"Whatever the difficulties might be in according our children their constitutional right, it is clear that the board must meet and seek a solution to that question in accordance with the law of the land and recommendation of the advisory commission on desegregation.

"As we interpret these decisions and recommendations of the Advisory commission on desegregation you are duty bound to take immediate steps to eliminate segregation in all public schools on all levels at the beginning of the school term 1957.

"We would like to have the opportunity to appear before you at the earliest possible time represented by our attorney and present our side of the case."

ville, Middlesex, Owings Mills, Parkville, Patapsco Neck, Perry Hall, Pikesville, Randallstown, Relay, Riderwood, Victory Villa, Wellwood, Woodlawn and Woodmoor.

Also: the Franklin and Sudbrook junior high schools; the Franklin and Milford Mill senior high schools; and the Ridge School, a special unit for the instruction of mentally-retarded youngsters.

The 25 county public schools established as racially non-discriminatory in September 1955 were as follows:

Arbutus, Back River, Baltimore Highlands, Berkshire, Chesapeake Terrace, Cockeysville, Colgate, Essex, Fifth District, Fort Howard, Halethorpe, Loch Raven, Maiden Choice, Merritt Point, Mars Estates, Rosedale, Seventh District, Sixth District, Sparks, Sussex and Villa Cresta elementary schools;

Also, Hereford Junior High and senior high schools at Cockeysville, Glendale, Hereford and Kenwood.

IN SUMMARY, it was explained that colored pupils may apply for admittance, next school year, as new entrants or transfer students, at any of the above-listed 78 county public schools, up to the physical capacity of the facilities designated.

It was further explained that colored students, as well as white students, are required to reside within the attendance districts of these various schools in order to be eligible for enrollment.

The announcement concluded by saying that "in exceptional cases individual requests for the enrollment of colored children in schools not yet established as racially non-discriminatory will be considered by the (school system's) pupil personnel service."
