Words to Live by

By ROBERT T. NEWBOLD, Jr.
Pastor, Grace Presbyterian Church

A stubborn fact of life is that Happiness is never cheap. Many people seem not to realize this. They think it can be found in a bargain basement.

Actually, the cost remains the same — very high. Such statements beg the question: What are some of the prices of happiness?

The first is selflessness. Sophists continue to debate the question: "Is it possible for a man to be completely selfish?"

However, while they argue, the fact remains that those who discover the secret of this most exalted experience give indication that they do so via self denial.

The preachments of Jesus emphasized this. Such a note was sounded by him many times. It is, therefore, well to remember that selfishness and happiness are incompatible.

THE SECOND price-tag of happiness is not the word sacrifice.

Obviously the self-centered individual is not willing to give up anything.

His constant efforts are in the direction of obtaining all he can for himself.

His desire is for "the crown of life," but he is not willing to bear the cross.

He demands that others make sacrifices in order to contribute to his success and comfort; however, he will not do the same.

Again, we see Jesus who said: "He who would save his life must lose it."

The gallery of great individuals is replete with illustrations of this fact. They achieved greatness and happiness not by trying to do so.

Rather these were the rewards for the sacrifices made on behalf of Christianity, their country, or fellow-men.

The ideilible reminder woven into the fabric of life indicates that sacrifice is a price one must be willing to pay if he would be happy.

THE THIRD price-tag is service. Once more it is well to listen to a poignant prescription garbed in simple language by the Master who said, "He who would be the greatest, among you, let him be your servant."

As repulsive as this may sound, or as distasteful as it may seem; it nevertheless remains an eternal truth.

The knowledge of service unselfishly rendered brings with it an inner-glow which very few other experiences can even approximate.

Man has always needed a cause beyond his own interests to which he can give himself.

FAILURE to do this leaves him—as—frustrated child, playing the game of "hide and seek" who after confidently starting out to seek finally registers consternation in the awareness that the object of his search so well eludes him.

On the other hand, service provides him with the opportunity of giving himself to a cause beyond himself.

And often as a result of taking advantage of this opportunity he discovers that which he has long sought—happiness.

Of course you want to be happy. Is it eluding you? Why? Can it be that you have failed to pay the price?

Even if this be true, you still have the chance to try again.

Tent revival opens here for 7 weeks

"The purpose of the campaign is to help win disciples for Christ."

The Rev. Joseph D. Clemmons, of the Zion Tabernacle Church of God in Christ, 1323 N. Gilmor St., was commencing on a seven-week tent revival opening here Saturday night.

Services at Laurens and Mount Sts. will begin at 8 p.m. nightly throughout the campaign, the minister said. Special services will be held at 3:30 p.m. on Sundays.

THE REV. C. C. Chapman, of Detroit, will arrive here on July 15 to participate in the revival, according to the Rev. Mr. Clemmons.

The Rev. Mr. Clemmons described the Detroit minister as "a known evangelist who has a gift for healing."

Among the other participants in the revival, according to the Rev. Mr. Clemmons, will be:

The Rev. Mr. Waller R. Shields, of Pittsburgh, and his Morningside Gospel Chorus, who will appear this Saturday and on Sunday afternoon.

Miss Lee Grace Jones, organist of Philadelphia.

A 40-voice chorus under the direction of Mrs. Geraldine Clemmons, wife of the pastor.

Figures show 73 priests doing missionary work

BAY ST. LOUIS, Miss. (NPI) — According to the St. Augustine Catholic Messenger, monthly magazine published here, the number of colored priests now laboring in the United States and in foreign mission fields now totals 73.

This represents an increase of nearly 100 per cent over the total 37 years ago. Quoting figures from "God's Men of Color" a book written by Father Albert S. Foley, S.J., Ph.D., the Messenger noted these facts:

TWENTY NINE of the 73 are members of the Divine Word S.V.D.; 20 are members of religious orders, and 24 are diocesan priests. The figures also show 11 of the total laboring in foreign mission fields.

The Divine Word priests are dedicated to missionary work. The magazine also states that a total of 46 are former students of the Divine Word (St. Augustine's seminary here).

Perhaps the most illustrious alumnus of the seminary is Joseph Oliver Bowers, S.V.D., D.D., of Accra, Ghana, who was ordained a priest in 1939 and consecrated a bishop at St. Augustine's in 1953.
