A NEW SUIT made Aaron (Treetop) Turner all the trimmer when he attended church Sunday. Turner, who beat the electric chair four times and a life term the fifth time, is shown pulling the trousers of his new blue serge out of the box. He had already tried the coat on for size.

Hanging on corners 'hanged' Treetop

slaying of Frank Endres at the Ace Broom Co., 235 N. Second St., on Dec. 15, 1945.

Despite Turner's six convictions of first - degree murder, his court - appointed attorneys, Edwin Rome and Walter Stein, continued "at bat." On June 6, the State Supreme Court ordered a new trial.

A PROVISION was that the Commonwealth would produce stronger evidence than introduced at the fifth trial. Otherwise, the court ordered, 'the district attorney should drop the charges.

It was Wednesday when First Assistant District Attorney James N. Lafferty went before Judge Gerald Flood and conceded that there was no additional evidence. It was about 10:30 a.m. that Turner was free figuratively but not literally.

In custody of a prison attendant, Turner was taken back to Eastern Penitentiary to be processed out. Even though he changed his apolless white shirt for a spanking clean one at the first convenient spot, he was still three hours away from freedom.

"Boys, I've got a taxi waiting and that is costing me money," Turner told the TV, radio and newspapermen that crowded him.

These were not just empty words. Turner emphasized. He had only been at the Pen, where he worked in the kitchen, for a few months. With no pay for duties during his years in County Prison, he had a little over $100 in his pockets.

Once past the press, Turner headed to the offices of his lawyers from both of whom he received "lectures." Next stop was home, the residence of his cousins, Eldridge and Etta Cox, of 16th and Wharton Sts.

As he sat in the living room Saturday, Turner, too, turned lecturer. Interruptions by an air conditioner salesman and a bread man reflected no annoyance. They were part of the home life he was "drinking in," drop by drop.

Even though his words were addressed to others, Turner was telling himself that he would never again "hang on" South S. or any other corners. He recalled that he knew Clarence Lofton and Jasper Johnson "from the corner."

LOFTON AND JOHNSON are both serving life for the Endres crime. Turner was implicated after another suspect, characterized by police as a crackpot, was released.

"I guess I walked 100 miles," Turner pondered upon being asked what he had been doing since his Freedom Day on June 19.

Rubbing his hands over his high cheek bones, he apologized for not having been to a barber shop. He had not passed up a men's shop, however.

Turner obligingly tried on the coat of the conservatively - cut blue serge he planned to wear to church Sunday. It looked as well as it fit over trousers of the gray suit he wore home Wednesday.

Although the gray suit dates back to pre - prison days, the trousers were not telltales of Turner's weight. Now at 218, he has varied from 200, 175 and, when in the depth of despair in a death cell, 160.

"When you buy a couple of things, you are scared to hold your hand out for change," Turner remarked, referring on today's high cost of living. Things were a little different back in 1946.

A '54 automobile "moves" him, to say nothing of the '57s. The more he sees of women drivers, the more he marvels at them. He thinks women are "darn good" drivers.

Men's styles — he goes for the Ivy League — are not surprising. Turner kept up with them by way of Esquire.

CLOTHES AND CARS are not foremost in his thoughts, however. Itching for a job, he thought he "had one made" last week when he met former lightweight Bob Montgomery who manages the Strand Theatre.

Turner jumped at a job offered him at the Strand but the starting salary slowed him down to a "no thanks." If and when the union says "OK," he is ready to return to the waterfront and a longshoreman's pay.

Another "must" is a visit to his father in Marshville, N.C. He is anxious to see also his three sisters and four brothers, two of whose whereabouts he does not know.

Turner did not fish for words or hesitate to talk about his ordeal. Scarred legs — inflicted he says by police — are ugly reminders.

In his wallet Saturday were things he had in there when arrested 11 Junes ago. For instance, there is a laundry ticket dated May 27, 1946, and numbered 261. Too, there is a receipt for an engagement ring. The girl — she is married to another.

Despite his denial of the murder, Turner does not excuse himself for getting in with he "wrong crowd." In stressing this point, he said, "Don't bail me out, butter doesn't melt in my mouth."

In leaving the Pen, he played a dirty trick upon eight other fellows. He was pitcher of the softball team.

'Justice--key word in nation's existence,' lawyers are told

"The profession that you have chosen is an honorable one. The existence of our great nation, to a great extent, depends upon our maintenance of justice, pure and unsullied."

If Paul Rome, president of the Baltimore City Bar Association, was speaking Tuesday before the Supreme Bench of Baltimore, where 41 lawyers were admitted to the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City.

Referring to justice, Mr. Rome continued: "It cannot be maintained unless the conduct and the motives of the members of our profession are such as to merit the approval of the public."

Mr. Rome further said: "It is the duty of the lawyer to maintain toward the courts a respectful attitude. His conduct should be characterized by candor and fairness.

"DO NOT." Mr. Rome advised, "resort to practices that are unprofessional and unworthy of a member of the Bar of this court."

Following a move for their admission to the Bar by Mr. Rome, the candidates were sworn in by A. P. Pendleton, clerk of the Supreme Bench.

After their admission to the bar, Chief Judge Emory Niles told the young lawyers: "We of the Supreme Bench want competence, diligence and integrity. "To the extent that you measure up to those three words, we will be pleased."

Among the 41 men admitted to the Bar were: Arthur Grant Murphy, 27, 2304 Windsor Ave.; who received his law degree from the University of Maryland in June 1955 and James W. Mc Allister, 33, 7415 Druid Hill Ave., a 1950 graduate of the Howard University School of Law.

Schenectady student wins NCC honors

DURHAM, N.C. — Alfred E. Richardson of Schenectady, N.Y., recently was awarded a first place plaque by North Carolina College Men's Assembly for participation in student organizations and committees.

The plaque was only one of many honors the rising senior has received since coming to NCC in 1954. Other honors included:

Vice presidency of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, 1956; editor of "Eagle," student annual, 1957; state student legislature, 1957-58; former president pro tem of state student legislature assembly and undergraduate PRO elect.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Richardson of 549 Summit Ave., in Schenectady.

Girl disappears from home, without shoes

"She left home before the storm on Sunday, about 7 o'clock that evening . . . she did not have her shoes on . . . and we have not seen her since."

Mrs. Helen Wells, of 923 Fulton Ave., was speaking on Thursday about the mysterious disappearance of her niece, 14-year-old Carolyn Brinkley. Mrs. Wells said a young girl friend, who lives in an upper floor apartment at 923 Fulton Ave., called to Carolyn to come up and visit her. She said she told her niece not to go out, and then laid down to recover from a sudden sick spell.

THE GIRL was gone when she got up again sometime later, Mrs. Wells said. She said she had not been seen by the other occupants of the house, nor by their relatives and friends.

She described Carolyn as being 5 feet 2 inches tall; 87 pounds in weight; short brown hair; medium brown complexion, with a round face, and wearing a blue and red skirt, with red lines, and a black blouse, with yellow checks on the collar.

Sgt. Violet Hill Whyte said late Wednesday that her department was investigating, and that she had knowledge of the girl through a prior case. The girl has stayed away from home before, on one other occasion, Mrs. Wells said.

AT THE RINGSIDE

By CHARLES J. LIVINGSTON (FOR ANP)

The Jung-ring ratings of the National Boxing Association failed to affect the overall boxing picture, and the only major changes were noted in the lower brackets of the 10 recognized division—notably the middleweight, welterweight and lightweight classes.

Breaking into middleweight contention was Charley Joseph of New Orleans, whose surprise win over the highly-regarded Ellsworth (Spider) Webb, lifted him to the No. 10 spot. Sugar Hart, staging an impressive comback after his loss to Walter Byers, also was lifted to No. 10 among the welters; and Joey Lopez returned to the top 10 among lightweights for the first time in months. He too, is rated 10th.

FOR THE most part, however, only minor changes were listed, and for that reason, the Ringside lists here only the top five contenders in each division. The ratings follow:

HEAVYWEIGHTS — Champion: Floyd Patterson, New York. Contenders: Tommy Jackson, New York; Eddie Machen, California; Harold Carter, New Jersey; Willie Pastrano, Louisiana; and Zora Folley, Arizona.

LIGHT - HEAVYWEIGHTS: Champion: Archie Moore, California. Contenders: Tony Anthony, New York; Harold Johnson, Pennsylvania; Heinz Stretz, Germany; Chuck Spieser, Michigan; and Yolande Pompey, B.W.I.

MIDDLEWEIGHTS — Champion: Sugar Ray Robinson, New York. Contenders: Gene Fullmer, Utah; Charles Humez, France; Spider Webb, Illinois; Joey Giambra and Joey Giardello, Pennsylvania.

WELTERWEIGHTS: Champion: Carmen Basilio, New York. Contenders: Tony Demarco, Massachusetts; Isaac Logart, Cuba; Gasper Ortega, Mexico; Johnny Saxton, New York; and Virgil Akins, Missouri.

LIGHTWEIGHTS — Champion, Joe Brown, Louisiana. Contenders: Kenny Lane, Michigan; Ralph Dupas, Louisiana; Duilio Loi, Italy; Orlando Zulueta, Cuba; Larry Boardman, Massachusetts.

FEATHERWEIGHTS: Champion: Title Vacant. Contenders: Cherif Hamia, France; Hogan (Kid) Bassey, Nigeria; Miguel Berrios, Puerto Rico; Carmelo Costa, New York; and Flash Elorde, Philippines.

BANTAMWEIGHTS: Champion: Raul Macias, Mexico. Contenders: Alphonse Halimi, France; Marion D'Agata, Italy; Leo Espinoso, Philippines; Billy Peacock, California; and Dommy Ursua, Philippines.

FLYWEIGHTS — Champion, Pascual Perez, Argentina. Contenders: Young Martin, Spain; Mema Diez, Mexico; Aristide Pozzoli, Nilushi Misaka, Japan; and Lia Dower, England.

Althea advances at Wimbledon

LONDON — Althea Gibson is battling hard to gain her first championship in the famed Wimbledon tennis championships.

After a bye in the first round, Miss Gibson moved into the third round with a hard-sought 6-4, 6-4 victory over Suzi Kormocsy of Hungary on Tuesday. She had an off day Wednesday.

Although off form, Miss Gibson drew on her vast experience to defeat the Hungarian star on a rain - splattered court. Most of her difficulty came from foot faults and double faults, though near the end of the match she achieved some steadiness.

Bobby Boyd wins over Castellani

CHICAGO — Bobby Boyd weathered a late rally by Rocky Castellani to gain a split decision over the veteran in a 10 - round middleweight bout here Wednesday night.

The verdict displeased fans who booed roundly when it was announced. The nationally-televised bout was slow at the outset, but gained momentum toward the end.

The two judges were divided in their opinions and Referee Bernie Weissman voted for Boyd, 41-45. Judge Jim McManus called it for Castellani, 47-43, and Judge Frank Clark favored Boyd, 47-46.

Clowns boost 2 standout prospects

Third baseman Mike Smith of the Indianapolis Clowns has joined his namesake Mike (Fireball) Franks as a probable major league prospect.

Smith, who played the position for the fummakers when they engaged the New York Black Yankees here recently has been going great in recent games. He will be at the post when the two teams clash in Westport Stadium Friday July 12.

Franks, former Florida A. and M. University hurler, all season has been attracting the attention of major league scouts. He has a no - hitter to his credit and is the top Clown hurler.

Aggies cop 3-1, 13-3 diamond victories

ASHEVILLE, N.C. — The Hill Street Aggies downed the Asheville Vets, 3-1, and the Southside Tigers, 13-3, on the Hill Street diamond last week.

Don Brannon paced the Aggie attack in the opener with three hits while Fred Miller's grandslam homerun in the nightcap lead the onslaught.

Newcombe clicks on mound, at bat

CHICAGO (ANP)A year ago when Don Newcombe was piling up an impressive early-season winning streak on the mound, the big Brooklyn righthander also was drawing raves for his hitting.

He set a National League record that season for the most homers by a pitcher, hitting seven in three different ball parks.

As he won 27 games, Newk seemed to concentrate on pitching and his prowess at the plate faded somewhat.

Don showed a revival of hitting form last week in Cincinnati when he drove in a pair of runs with a home run and a double and also collected a single. He won his sixth victory, shutting out the Redegs, 6 to 0 in a 5-hitter.

NEWK WAS not the only man showing muscle in the home run department.

Another was Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs. Traditionally a slow starter, and certainly a disappointment until recently, the slender third baseman has broken out in a rash of home runs in the last two weeks.

He has raised his total to 13 as of last Thursday, putting him among the National League leaders.

Banks swatted a pair of roundtrippers in the Cubs' double victory over the Philadelphia Phillies last week. Prior to the first game he promised three muscular dystrophy patients he would hit a home run for them in the first game.

He came through in the second game for good measure.

BOB THURMAN, the pinch-hitter deluxe, delivered again for the Redlegs. Against the Brooklyn Dodgers, Cincinnati was trailing 1 to 3 in the seventh frame. Frank Robinson, the sophomore outfielder, doubled, and Manager Birdie Tebbetts called on Thurman.

Thurman belted one over the rightfield fence to put his team back in the ball game. The Redlegs eventually won 4 to 3. The homer was Thurman's fourth in the pinch this season.

Sad Sam Jones, the fireballing righthander for the St. Louis Cardinals, picked up his second straight victory since returning to action after being out for quite a spell because of injuries.

He limited the Pittsburgh Pirates to seven hits in gaining a 5-2 victory, his fourth of the year against two losses.

ALTHOUGH HE has slipped from the top in batting, Hank Aaron, the Milwaukee outfielder, still stayed in the forefront in two other vital departments. Aaron's average was .332, but he had 19 runs, 84 hits and 52 RBI's.

Brooklyn Dodger Manager Walter Alston had high praise last week for the work of Charley Neal at shortstop. Talking about the Neal after a game in Cincinnati, Alston declared.

"Neal is not just a fill-in. We've had him set for shortstop in long-range planning, because we knew Reese couldn't go on forever.

"Neal has more range than any shortstop in the league and he's learning to make the double plays from that side of the bag.

"He is a bit erratic on double play throws to first, but he'll learn. It's a difficult switch for a fellow who's been making the play as the second sacker."

BEFORE MOVING to short, Neal had been used at third as well as second. His hitting is showing improvement too.

Bobby Boyd, Baltimore first baseman, banged out three singles to lead the Orioles to a 4-1 victory over Chicago, reducing the AL leaders margin to 1½ games.

Robinson's big bat booms on his night

CINCINNATI, Ohio—Frank Robinson, sensational Cincinnati Redlegs outfielder and 1956 National League rookie of the year, last week yielded a booming bat on "his night" as he collected five straight hits.

The sophomore star, also leading contender for loop batting honors and Most Valuable Player award, was showered with gifts in pre-game ceremonies during "Frank Robinson Night" at Crosley Field.

Although Robinson responded gratiously to the fans with a perfect night at the plate, all singles, his five hits were to a losing cause as the Redlegs lost to the Pittsburgh Pirates, 3-2, in 11 innings.

Spider Webb upset by Charley Joseph

NEW ORLEANS (ANP)—Sneak - punching Charley Joseph of New Orleans last week became the first fighter in many months to escape the clutches of Ellsworth (Spider) Webb, third - ranked middleweight from Chicago.

Utilizing a deceptive right cross, unranked Joseph floored Webb in the sixth round and staged an impressive rally in the late rounds to score an upset in their 10 - rounder before 6,614 cheering fans here last week.

England beats WI in cricket

LONDON, England (ANP)—England, noted for its upper battles, last Saturday turned the tide on the West Indies and licked them, 424-388, in the second championship cricket test at Lord's Stadium.

Forced to come from behind to gain a draw in the first test recently, England posted a first-inning score of 424 and held on as the West Indies fell 36 runs short.
