Nothing but cool sounds are in order this week and every week at the Comedy Club. Red Chavis and his organ quartet will be rooting it there until Sunday.

Tuesday the Jolly Jax will return to the Comedy Club. They made such a hit a few weeks ago that they were held over. Their big hit, "Mickey Mouse Rock," six rocking Baltimore.

A new policy is in effect at the Comedy Club—no more admission charge! Besides this, king size drinks can now be 'drink' for the price of one.

Baltimore's newest singing sensation, Ruby Glover and the Jazz Sounds continue to delight customers of the Red Fox, Pennsylvania and Fulton Aves.

AT CARR'S BEACH tonight (Friday), 6 p.m. to 2 a.m., Milt Buckner will be featured in the Longshoreman's Ball, beach party and dance.

On Sunday, June 30 at Carr's Beach, that rising young star, Screaming Jay Hawkins (I Put a Spell on You) will be featured.

Also, at Carr's Beach Sunday will be the Versatones, "The High Society of Calypso." Of course, Milt Buckner's "Hammond Organ Combo," will appear.

Remember Wednesday night is party night at Chicks Bar and Lounge, Baltimore and Greene, with the one and only Flink Johnson. Besides, Chick's Lounge is air conditioned.

The ever popular Swallows featuring Earl Hurley have flown into the cool Club Paree, 2714 Pennsylvania Ave.

Midtown — Phil's, Mount and Mosher Sts. is presenting the Vari-Tone, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Featured are Phil Harris, bass; Jerry Nelson, piano, and Prince Jenkins, conga.

Seekers of rock and roll need seek no further, than the Las Vegas Club, Lexington and Warwick Aves., where the Rhythm Rockers are the current rock and roll artists. Wednesday night is celebrity night, less you forget.

If you have a yen for rails, make it on down to the Rail Inn, 2630 W. North Ave., where not only are there jam sessions Monday nights, but this week Lee Rogers and his Rockets are there.

If you are troubled by the heat, pack up your troubles and jaunt down to the new Oakland Park Tavern, Oakland Park Rd. in Randallstown.

Fried Chicken is a house natural. The finest in beers and liquors are available at the beautiful circular bar there. Reservations for cocktail parties in their spacious rooms are accepted.

It is easy to get to the Oakland Park Tavern, just travel out Liberty Heights, keep straight to Liberty Rd. Then keep straight out Liberty Rd., but turn right on Old Court Rd.

Follow the Old Court Rd., bearing left to Winans Rd., the first street on the left. There is a sign, Oakland Park Rd. A pleasant evening will be awaiting you.

A gala holiday beach party will be held at Carr's Beach, Saturday, July 6, with Illinois Jacquet. There will be picnicing and dancing from 6 p.m. to 2 a.m. There will also be a beauty contest.

Adah K. Jenkins' MOMENTS MUSICAL

Over 50 music teachers in Maryland attended a meeting at the Peabody Conservatory of Music last week for the purpose of organizing a Maryland Music Teachers Association, to become affiliated with the Music Teachers National Association.

Dr. Reginald Stewart, director of the Conservatory welcomed the group and offered use of Peabody facilities for their meetings and projects.

Miss Virginia Carty, dean of the Conservatory, was present and also spoke in support of the organization.

* * *

MRS. ELIZABETH DAVIS, who is one of the present 19 active members of the MTNA in Maryland, presided and introduced S. Turner Jones, executive secretary of the national group.

He outlined the basic aims of the MTNA as concentrated on improvement of music instruction throughout the country and in interesting students in music teaching as a career.

A sample constitution, with by-laws, was read by Mrs. Helena Zurstadt, an official of the Baltimore Music Teachers Association. Plans were discussed for the first annual meeting of the state organization in the fall.

* * *

AMONG THE music instructors present were: Mesdames Minnie Bland, H. Costello, Alma T. Caswell, Carol B. Diggs, from Morgan State College, Gwendolyn Lassiter, Margaret R. Franklin, Mrs. Tva M. Frantz, Francis T. Montague, Emma Poulson, Ruth Watson, Katsine White; Miss Woods, president of the Washington, D.C. Music Teachers Association; Clyde Bessicks, from Bowie State Teachers College; H. Emerson Myers, from Catholic University, Louis Shub, Chas. Showard, of Salisbury, Md., and your writer.

Piano pupils of Mrs. Florence C. Carter were presented by their instructor in two recitals, in the auditorium of Coppin State Teachers College. Both events were well planned and the programs were arranged with an eye (and an ear) to contrast and balance in the works performed.

Some of the numbers reflected an international flavor, being based on folk melodies and rhythms of various countries and races. The advanced pupils were most effective in works from Beethoven, Chopin, Schumann, Mendelssohn and Sibelius.

* * *

BARBARA PRESTWIDGE gave a group of numbers at each concert, playing effectively a Bach Two Part Invention, two Chopin Preludes, (B minor and G Sharp Minor), the C P. E. Bach "Solfeggietto" Chopin's Waltz in C Charp minor. Themes from Grieg's Concerto in A minor and numbers of lighter romantic vein.

Performing also were: Beverly Barrett, Tai Thompson, Montier Smothers, Warren Talbert, Sandra Malone, William Prestwidge, Coretha Carpenter, Emile Julian, Quanta Smith, Margaret Parsons, LaVerne Lockwood and Rose Mae Bell.

Also, Cynthia Alton, Jean Woodson, Ramond Bradford, Patelle Green, Yvonne Harrington, Sylvia Julian, Harrison Bryant, Joanne Palmer, Lonnie Morton, Charlotte Robinson, Andrea Hill, Bernetta Brown, Brenda Patterson, Sandra Lamont, Deidre Johnson, Beverly Brown and Harriet Taliaferro.

Also, Lawrence Robinson, Delores Parsons, Beverly Johnson, Sylvia Patterson, Russell Morton, Ruth Biddle, Charemae Cephas, Margie Mooney, Joan Smith, Elizabeth Mason, Roslyn Smith and Ann Todd.

OVER - THE - AIR-WAVES: Seen and heard last Monday morning on a local television station were two units from the Baltimore Department of Recreation.

Miss Alice Caster and her group from the Cherry Hill Community Center gave a very entertaining demonstration of calypso rhythms in song and dance, based on the folk tune, "Frere Jacque" (Brother John).

The lyrics, dances and rhythmic patterns were created by the youngsters who looked to be from 8 to 10 years old.

Arnold Wilkes, who m-c'd, announced that all the rhythm instruments used were made by the children from materials garnered in the community. Each rhythm pattern, named for an island or city in the Caribbean.

The second portion of the show was taken over by Mrs. Joyce Barker and a group from local music studios. There was a brief picture quiz on famous characters in world history and in music during the 17th century.

This was followed by piano compositions by composers featured in the quiz including Scarlatti, Beethoven and Reichardt. The young performers wore costumes of the periods and played with assurance and good taste. Among the players was Amy Shub, daughter of Louis Shub, the well known Baltimore concert pianist.

The children in both groups were alert and dynamic, responding excellently to their respective leaders.

It would make a most challenging program sometime to witness them exchange — the Cherry Hill group doing a quiz on music composed by musicians of their ethnic group and the second group of youngsters creating dances and rhythms from Central Europe and Israeli.
