Club-ending town parties are the 'very living end'

with Lula Jones Garrett

They have been the 'living end... those parties that have ended up the season for clubs about town.

Take, for instance, that of the Daytimers on Sunday.

The Daytimers are a group of chic younger matrons, who have both the time and proclivity for Hi-Ti entertaining.

No pull-on-a-pair of-slacks, come-on-over and-play-a-game, of-bridge for them. Their afternoon bridge parties are strictly dress, top menu affairs, planned with all the eclat and skill at the hostess' finger tips.

Their closing party had husbands as special guests. 'Twas held at the delightful shore place of Dr. and Mrs. Ted Phifer at Arundel-on-the-Bay.

They played bridge, of course —with prizes going to Charles Michael, first; George Lotter, second, and Clyde Dillard, third. Emma Michael took first prize for women; and then Clyde and Norma Dillard came for slam bid (members) and Helen and Al Burwell (guests).

Mrs. Michael is president of the club; Miriam Brown is treasurer; Kay Carter, secretary and Robbie Chissell vice president.

Members and their husbands about were:

Mr. and Mrs. Michael, Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Brown, Dr. and Mrs. Clyde Dillard, Dr. and Mrs. Barnett Rhetta, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Proctor, Dr. and Mrs. Simon Carter, Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Harris Jr., Mrs. Dorothea Merchant.*

Mr. and Mrs. George Lotter, Dr. and Mrs. Albert LaForrest, Dr. and Mrs. James Carr, Dr. and Mrs. Phifer, Mrs. Robbie Chissell and Mrs. Doris Moore.

Mrs. Cleota Minor and Mrs. Ruth Hennifer and Dr. and Mrs Albert Burwell were guests.

MRS. J. LOGAN JENKINS and Mrs. T. Henry Waters are back on the local front after a round of parties up Boston way.

Actually they went up for the wedding of Mrs. Jenkins' young relative, Jean M. Spratley, who was married to Richard R. Fisher, a couple of weeks back. — But being a member of the Boston clan, Mrs. Jenkins and her guest were, of course, showered with parties.

The Baltimoreans were house guests for three days of Mrs. Jenkins' cousins, Mr. and Mrs. David Chestnut, who had a family reunion for them at their new Hyde Park home. Then they went on to visit her nephew and niece-in-law, the Leonard Burwells in Roxbury, for further festivities.

Mrs. Chestnut's family dinner was on Saturday, and was followed by a reception that evening.

The wedding attendant affairs occupied Sunday —the extra-curular affair being a lobster supper following the reception for the wedding party with the Baltimoreans as special guests.

Mrs. Spratley also entertained at luncheon for Mesdames Jenkins and Waters, Cousins, Misses Mae Broadey and Madeline McCraw; and Mrs. Mattie Bruton held forth an elegant clam supper at Nantasket Beach on Thursday.

On Friday, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Burwell were hosts at family dinner in the early evening, followed by cards . . . and came Sunday, there was a delightful informal party given by Mrs. Ethel Burwell.

Incidentally, Red (McCant) Chavis, with his orchestra is headliner at the Comedy Club, here, this week, is a nephew of Mrs. Jenkins . . . and is spending much of his time at her Morgan Park home during the engagement.

NOTHING COULD have been prettier than the setting of the annual meeting of the Crownsville Hospital Auxiliary, Saturday.

In the cool confines of the Me-De-So Club, these civic-minded women, having transacted their business, set themselves down to a flower-laden table for their repast, and took minds off the high temperature by looking their coolest and prettiest themselves.

An especially pretty flat circular centerpiece of flowers; gladiolis, daisies, carnations, sweet peas and palms decored the table. Brucye Hamilton was stateuesque and stately in a beige embroidered polished cotten sheath, worn with a black cartwheel, the brim of which was decorated with multicolored flowers.

Miriam Brown selected flowered dotted swiss to be exquisite in. Her frock was enhanced with white lace ruching at the neckline, and the full skirt flowed below a pale pink cummerbund. Her white straw hat was prettied with pink, white and yellow roses.

Stevie Harris chose beige embroidered cotton, also. The scooped neckline sheath was topped with a striking cartwheel of beige Milan straw which had orange plumes perched on the front brim. Hilda Higgins was in a blue and white flowered print, a pink straw, flower-trimmed hat.

Guest speaker Gwendolyn Lee's navy ensemble was highlighted with a Persian melon cartwheel... which...of all things ...was highlighted with exactly the right nail polish! Nice going.

There were other chic navy ensembles that drew the eye, including ones worn by Mrs. Carl Murphy (a navy and white print) and that by Mrs. Albert LaForrest... a navy knit sheath.

Mrs. Gonzales Motts, of Chicago, who is visiting Mrs. Harris Jr., her niece, wore a tangerine linen sheath, topped with a beige cloche, reminiscent of the 20's.

Norma Dillard was fresh and lovely in a full, full skirt of alternating diagonal stripes in turquoise and white and a frilly white blouse. And Kay Carter turned to lilac, pretty and chic in a sheath of embroidered polished cotton, made with

MR. AND MRS. HARVEY CROSS JR. leave St. Matthews Episcopal Church, Baltimore, following their wedding Sunday afternoon. The bride is the former Miss Norma J. Matthews.

Sunday afternoon ritual for Miss Matthews. Harvey Cross

Saint Matthews Episcopal Church was the setting, Sunday afternoon, for the wedding of Miss Norma Jean Matthews to Harvey Cross Jr.

The bride, a senior at Coppin State Teachers College is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey W. Matthews of 1825 N. Rutland Ave.

THE CEREMONY was performed by Father Charles W. Fox Jr. Purnell Williams was organist, and Miss Jean Tucker was soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Matthews wore a gown of embroidered nef, styled with tight mid-rift and with a skirt of scalloped tiers that swept into a cathedral train. The bride had a Sabrina neckline and short sleeves, and was worn with matching gauntlets. Her finger-tip veil of illusion net fell from a crown of satin which was trimmed with seed pearls. She carried white orchids and roses.

MAID OF HONOR was Miss Elise Matthews, the bride's cousin. Miss Delores Smith and Miss Elaine Owens were bridesmaids. Two junior bridesmaids were Misses Bernadette and Gail Tyler, also cousins of the bride. Gloria Ward, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl.

BUNNY GIRLS — A meeting of the charity club was held in the home of Mrs. Marie Carroll, 1906 Longwood St., Friday.

A shower of gifts, went to Mrs. Hazel Whittier following the business session. Mrs. Whittier was celebrating her birthday.

All of the attendants wore floor-length gowns in pink, blue and yellow, with matching picture hats. They carried bouquets of roses.

Mr. Cross had as his best man his brother, Hurley Cross. Ushers were James Matthews and Edward Cross, brothers of the couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Cross will be at home at 2362 N. Aisquith St. after July 8th.

Testimonial for 'Little Girl who grew up in Penny Club'

On Wednesday, a testimonial was given at the YWCA, in honor of Mrs. Anita H. Cleary in recognition of 31 years of service in the Penny Club, a circle organization at the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Cleary was completely surprised as she had had no inkling of what was taking place. She was presented with a lovely orchid and a silver tier tray from the members of the organization.

Mrs. Blanche Lindsay, club reporter, writes the following account of this organization which has been in existence since 1904.

"For many years Madison Street Presbyterian Church has had a Girls organization known as the Penny Club. Its purpose is to provide a place where girls may come for fellowship, recreation and Christian training.

"Mrs. Cheatham's family dinner was on Saturday, and was followed by a reception that evening.

Crownsville Auxiliary's annual meeting reveals extensive aid

Need for special laws for the protection of the mentally ill and adequate appropriations for their care were stressed by Mrs. Gwendolyn Lee at the annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of Crownsville State Hospital, here, Saturday.

Mrs. Lee, director of social services at the hospital, also pointed out the need for friendly guidance of patients returning to their former communities.

There is particular need, said the speaker, "For an educational program to alleviate the feelings of fear and disgrace associated with mental illness. This organization has a great opportunity to create an atmosphere in which a patient can again become a person in his community," said Mrs. Lee.

MRS. ROY HAMILTON, making the president's report, cited the following objectives of the Auxiliary:

1. Extension of services to patients;
2. Donation of supplies and equipment not ordinarily furnished by the State for patients;
3. Building of employee morale.
4. Provision for transportation of volunteers to and from the hospital.

The patients canteen, operated by volunteers from Baltimore City and Anne Arundel, continues as the main source of income for the Auxiliary, Mrs. Hamilton said.

Funds from vending machines and a Tag Day have been additional sources. Donations to the Patients Welfare Fund amounted to $2,687.60 this year. Funds from the Tag Day provided weekly coffee hours for newly admitted patients. This also provided for weekly refreshments for the alcoholic therapy group.

A gift of $195 was made to the musical therapy department for purchase of a piano. The Employees Athletic Association received $535 to aid in carrying on that program. A television was presented to the Nursing Service for use in the nurses' lounge, and a station wagon has been purchased for transportation of volunteers.

MRS. HAMILTON was reelected to the presidency for the next term of a year.

Other officers named were: Mrs. Sinton H. Carter Jr., vice president; Mrs. Stanley Sargeant, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Albert LaForrest, secretary; Mrs. Dorothy Rogers, parliamentarian; Mrs. George Farley, to the board; and Mrs. Conwell Newton and Mrs. Miller Lee, members-at-large.

Among those attending the meeting were Dr. Ralph Ming, outgoing superintendent of the hospital and his daughter, Miss Mary Ming; the incoming superintendent, Dr. Charles Ward and Mrs. Ward.

Also Mesdames Bernice Ayers, Lillie Mae DeBarry, Annie Nichols, Delle Milfero, Carl Murphy, Ethel Page, Ernest McGruder.

Also Mesdames Annabelle Coleman, Bernard Harris Jr., Emerson Brown Jr., Alonzo McBride, Blyde Dillard, Albert LaForrest, Ivon Higgins, Helen Tingley, Earl Anderson.

Mesdames Dorothy Rogers of Annapolis, Mary Ming, of Bethesda, Stanley Sargeant of Crownsville and Gonzales Motts of Chicago.

NEW DELTAS—Inducted into Epsilon Sigma Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority recently, were these four Baltimore school teachers. Left to right, Mesdames Kathryn Frisby, elementary school specialist; Mary K. Pool, School 74 teacher who last week won her master's degree from New York University; Catherine Greene, elementary school counselor; and Phyllis McKinney, Coppin State Teachers' College registrar.

Liberian Veep visits with Ike Tuesday

WASHINGTON (NNPA) Vice President William R. Tubert Jr. of Liberia, accompanied by Liberian Ambassador George A. Padmore, called on President Eisenhower Tuesday morning to pay his respects.

Mr. Tolbert, in the United States on an unofficial visit, was seriously ill last year and came to the States for treatment at the New York Medical Center. He returned last week for a six months check-up.
