'First Run' Films of The Week in Review

ELEANOR PARKER STARS AT HARLEM

Somerset Maugham, who has written some of the world's most exciting and colorful stories, wrote the plot on which M-G-M's "The Seventh Sin" is based, and has created a group of absorbing characters, portrayed in the CinemaScope film by Eleanor Parker, Bill Travers, George Sanders, Jean Pierre Aumont and Francoise Rosay.

* * *

"THE SEVENTH SIN" now playing at the Harlem Theatre is the drama of a beautiful woman, Carol, who has married young English bacteriologist, Walter Carwin out of expediency rather than love and, who, bored with their life in Hong Kong, where her husband is stationed, becomes enmeshed in an affair with Paul Duvelle, also unhappily married.

When Carwin discovers his wife's infidelity, he gives her a choice. Carol may file for divorce on condition that Duvelle also will get a divorce and marry her; failing that, she will have to accompany him to a remote section of China, where he has been placed in charge to fight a cholera epidemic.

* * *

UNWILLING TO face a scandal, Duvelle lets Carol down, and she is forced to go to the cholera - stricken village.

In an atmosphere of dread disease and death Carol comes to a realization of the selfishness of her life and, now, brought face to face with the courage and humanity of her husband, she finds a new self-respect in the midst of tragedy.

"CALYPSO JOE" AT NEW ALBERT

Entertainment is maintained at an exciting pitch in Allied Artists' "Calypso Joe" and "Hot Rod Rumble," which opened yesterday before enthusiastic audiences at the New Albert theatre.

Starring Herb Jeffries and with Edward Kemmer and Angie Dickinson in the romantic leads, "Calypso Joe" is heavily dotted with calypso songs and dances, and romance and comedy are well blended in the screenplay.

"Hot Rod Rumble," played against the background of hot rod enthusiasts and their death-defying races, is an action-packed story of young love. The beauteous Leigh Snowden, Richard Hartunian and Wright King head the cast.

* * *

IN HIS "Calypso Joe" production, William F. Broidy has captured the mood of the West Indies. Lord Flea and His Calypsonians, Lady T, the Lester Horton Dancers, Duke of Iron and The Easy Riders have featured spots. The smooth production reflects the excellent direction of Edward Dein.

* * *

FOR "HOT ROD Rumble," producer Norman T. Herman and director Leslie H. Martinson combined their skills to bring to the screen a realistic story of youth caught up in love and wild excitement.

"THE TALL T" PLAYING AT ROYAL

Randolph Scott fans are in for a real treat in the Western star's newest outdoor drama, "The Tall T," now at the Royal in which Scott is head-and-holster above the others in a movie that is mile-high in courage, adventure and entertainment. The new outdoor action drama in Technicolor, co-stars Richard Boone, Maureen O'Sullivan and Arthur Hunnicutt.

As the lone rider who outfaced and out-gunned a trio of mad - dog killers, Scott writes a magnificent chapter in the screen history of courage.

On board the stage is newlywed Maureen O'Sullivan who has been married by a weak-spined bookkeeper for her father's money.

* * *

WHEN THREE killers hold up the stage, Miss O'Sullivan's bridegroom tries to save his own life by arranging with Richard Boone, bandit leader, to hold her for ransom. Scott, whose life can be snuffed out of any second of staying alive and disposing of the three killers, they do a job on him, a job that, according to reports, results in a spine-tingling Western.

Second attraction, "The Solid Gold Cadillac" stars Judy Holliday and Paul Douglas.

"ISLAND IN THE SUN" HAS WEST INDIES SETTING

"Island in the Sun," Alec Waugh's best - selling novel of the West Indies and one of the most hotly - discussed books of our generation, has been brought to the screen by Producer Darryl F. Zanuck with all the bigness and excitement that characterizes the original property.

The film is now at the Regent Theatre.

This story, rich with the ferment of living . . . of the clashing desires of men and women on a sun - soaked Caribbean island, is certainly one of the most interesting ever brought to the screen.

Darryl F. Zanuck has not only brought home a winner, in that it is one of his best entertainment achievements in a career filled with great motion pictures, but "Island in the Sun" stands to be remembered long after most other films play out.

* * *

TO BRING this fact about, Mr. Zanuck has embellished his production with the best star - aggregate seen here in many years. Headed by James Mason, Joan Fontaine, Dorothy Dandridge, Joan Collins, Michael Rennie and the exciting Harry Belafonte as "David Boyeur," the dedicated labor leader, all turn in performances of such fine quality it would be difficult and unjust to single out any one portrayal for top honors.

All contribute equally to the success of the picture.

"JOHNNY TREMAIN" LIVE - ACTION IN COLOR

"Johnny Tremain," new Walt Disney live - action feature, in color by Technicolor, showing at the Mel Theatre, is a motion picture that will rank among the best he has produced.

Filmed from the prize-winning novel by Esther Forbes, with a handpicked cast headed by Hal Stalmaster, Luana Patten and Jeff York, here is an action - packed adventure-romance that tells an important story of the part teen-agers played in American's great est hour of glory — the fight for freedom in the turbulent 1770's.

Hal Stalmaster, 17-year-old Disney discovery, is the silversmith's apprentice, Johnny Tremain, a typical American youth, who lays down his silversmith's tools to become a courier and a spy for the rebellious Colonists.

* * *

LOVELY LUANA PATTEN, 18-year-old beauty rated among Hollywood's "hottest" new stars, portrays Cilla Lapham, Johnny's sweetheart. She, too, plays a notable part in helping the Colonials win independence.

Starring with Stalmaster and Patten is Jeff York, the rugged giant of Mike Fink fame, in the role of James Otis, founder of the Sons of Liberty committee.

In telling the epic story of events preceding and during the War of Independence, Disney parades before the camera such great names as Paul Revere, Samuel Adams, John Hancock, Dr. Joseph Warren and Otis.

The thrilling story begins in Boston in 1773, when that birthplace of freedom was the center of resistance to Redcoat rule. We see the Boston Tea Party — not a riotous brawl as is the popular conception, but a remarkably well - disciplined affair — and also the battles of Lexington and Concord, both fought in one day: April 19, 1775.

Shellman Johnsons are a talented husband-wife team

A new era in sound and music has been developed by two popular Baltimore musicians who are now making fall concert plans for a tour which begins in Baltimore and will take them to Washington, Philadelphia, Wilberforce and Columbus, Ohio.

The husband and wife team is composed of Mrs. Sophie Williams Johnson, 21, and Shellman Johnson, 25, who are entering the professional field under the management of Charles Howard.

Calling themselves the "ars Nova Duo," Mr. and Mrs. Howard will specialize in their newly perfected technique which critics term a "third dimension" in music.

THE TWO talented musicians who play the organ and piano and sing as well, originated their "new sound" effects after research and study. It is accomplished by combined organ and piano duet arrangement which gives an orchestral concept.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson reside at 2414 Harlem Ave. and have a 4-year-old son, Shellman Jr., who also plays the piano, sings and composes his own tunes.

Mrs. Johnson is the daughter of Mrs. Amelia Williams, 1004 Lanvale St., while Mr. Johnson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Johnson, 1133 Harlem Ave.

THE COUPLE met at Douglass High School where they were both active in music circles and Mr. Johnson directed the a-capella choir and was an accompanist in the music department.

They sang and played together in operettas, plays and with the glee club.

They were married in September, 1955, at which time they entered Wilberforce University, both on music scholarships and attended two years.

In 1954 they studied at Morgan State College and completed their college education there in 1956. In addition, both took courses at New York Academy of Music, the Eastman School of Music and Peabody Conservatory of Music.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson are associate ministers of music at Union Memorial Methodist Church. Mrs. Johnson is the organist there, and he is the soloist with the choir.
