Gadabouting In Baltimore

Saturday rains fail to upset gala events

with Lula Jones Garrett

By SHIRLEY KYLE

(Substituting for Mrs. Garrett who is attending a seminar at Columbia University in New York City)

That heavy downpour Saturday night failed to dampen the spirits of folks hereabouts. Many flocked to the Coliseum for the Baltimore Cossocks' Rainbow Ball.

Others ventured to Unity Hall in Dundalk where the Ten Club held its annual spring cabaret cocktail dance with Bob Shalty and his Hi-Tones on hand to supply the music.

Those beautifully decorated tables were done by Stanley Beckett.

Hostesses for the evening were Mary Bevans, Angela Gray, Georgianna Smith, Minnie Dorsey, Reba Brailsford, Sadie Jenkins, Dorothy Washington, Carol Faxs, Carrie Stotts and Florence Kidd. Seen about were:

AFRO Ideal Mother complimented by Clarence Muse, Mayor, others

"A valiant woman whose lamp does not go out in the night who opens her hands to the poor and reaches out to the needy and whose children rise up and call her blessed."

The above words spoken by Dr. Carl Murphy, president of the AFRO-AMERICAN Company complimented Mrs. Lillie May Jackson, the AFRO 1957 Ideal Mother at the June 7 dinner given in her honor.

Dr. Murphy's introduction prefaced the occasion which saw the Baltimore civic and church leader and mother of four honored by more than 300 Baltimore citizens.

Among those in attendance were Mrs. Jackson's husband, Keiffer Jackson, three of her four children and seven of her nine grandchildren.

Probably the most treasured of all the speeches which paid tribute to the Ideal Mother was that coming from her husband.

He said: "I am indeed grateful for all you have done tonight to make my wife so happy. You have made me happy also."

Mr. Jackson also related how he and his wife reared their children.

"For 47 years we have worked together, side by side. We have always put our children first. We have made every sacrifice to develop the best within them.

Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro Jr. wrote brief remarks to be delivered at the testimonial to Mrs. Jackson, but was called out of town so he could not deliver them.

HE SAID: "Despite her very active life in public affairs, she is first and foremost a mother, otherwise she would not have been chosen as the AFRO Ideal Mother of 1957."

Mrs. Nancy D'Alesandro also sent Mrs. Jackson "her warm congratulations."

Comptroller J. Millard Tawes sent Mrs. Jackson "sincere congratulations."

Governor Theodore McKeldin, who is usually host to every AFRO Ideal Mother, could not attend the dinner because of commencement exercises at Frostburg Teachers College. He wired his regrets.

CLARENCE MUSE, Hollywood actor wired: "Lillie Jackson was my classmate at Douglass High.

"She played one of the three witches in "Macbeth" our class day satire. She stole the show and she knew everybody else's lines in addition to her own.

"I saw her recently in San Francisco and she is still stealing the show by doing a great humanitarian work for the NAACP."

Also received was a wire from Mrs Jackson's youngest daughter, Mrs. Marion Dowges now a California school teacher.

She wired: "Grateful to the AFRO for saluting my precious mother. I am proud to be her daughter."

Mrs. Jackson who has been president of the Baltimore branch of the NAACP for 32 years was regally composed as she received many gifts and honors which included the gold perpetual motion clock from the AFRO.

She also received a tanned leather companion bag from the Zeta Phi Beta Sorority which was presented by Miss Beatrice Mays.

The Maryland League of Women's Clubs, through Mrs. Vivian Alleyne, gave her a silk, hand carved bone handled umbrella while the Rev. Mrs. Lillian Thompson, pastor of St. Ann's Spiritual Temple presented the honoree with a basket of flowers.

A deeply religious woman, Mrs. Jackson's response to the impressive occasion was likended by many to a great sermon.

She revealed to the audience how she and her husband had reared their four children in the church and its religious teachings. She said:

"My husband, my children and I have learned that with God all things are possible.

"We taught them that God is all seeing, all knowing, all powerful and He will withhold no good thing from those who love, serve and trust HIM."

The banquet also featured special awards to honorable mention winners in the Ideal Mother contest.

Robert Matthews, AFRO magazine editor and contest director presented the following persons with the certificates:

Mrs. Celia McLeod, grand pianist, OES and mother of four; Mrs. Ella M. Johnson, mother of 7; Mrs. Alice R. Matthews, grand lecturer, OES and mother of 7; and Mrs. Rosa Bolwing, mother of 3, all of Baltimore and Mrs. Wilson Downes of Ridgley, Md., mother of 9.

Special plaques went to Mrs. Anna Clay of Philadelphia who is the Pennsylvania mother of the year. She has seven children and is the wife of Lt. Col. William Clay.

Also receiving a special plaque was Mrs. Helen R. Woodland, the Maryland mother of the year, who is the mother of three sons who are physicians and two daughters who are also college graduates.

MRS. LOUIS H. MARTIN of Allen, Md., who was the AFRO 1955 Ideal Mother, was a special guest.

The AFRO honor roll winners received their plaques and were cited for "superlative service" as citizens during the year of 1956.

They were:

Frank R. Veney, manager of the Douglass-Somerset Homes; Thomas A. Van Sant, assistant superintendent in charge of adult education; Elmer Burgess, head of the Dunbar High School Athletic Department; William Cain, and Archie Lewis, Calvin Lambson, Dunbar athletic directors; and Frank Small, former Department of Motor Vehicles Commissioner.

Also, John C. Catlin, master plumber; Henry Parks, president of the Parks Sausage Company; Miss Margurite land, Goucher College honor student; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bowie, married 50 years and parents of 17 children.

Also, Mrs. Anna M. Nichols, housewife and mother of two; and the Rev. Marcus G. Woodpastor of Providence Baptist Church.

Sophists honor Mrs. Jackson

The Sophists Club of Houston Junior High School paid glowing tribute to Mrs. Lillie M. Jackson, president of the Baltimore Branch of the NAACP, and the AFRO's 1957 Ideal Mother, at the club's third annual Citizenship Day observance in the school auditorium.

The members of the club voted Mrs. Jackson their "Citizen of the Year" award for her unwavering, successful fight against discrimination, segregation and injustice.

Pamela Burrell, who presented the plaque on behalf of the Sophists Club, praised Mrs. Jackson's courage, tenacity, and illustrious achievements in spearheading fights for first class citizenship for colored persons in Baltimore and in the state of Maryland.

Over... Citizenship Day assembly was the awarding of citizenship medals to seven pupils for their outstanding scholarship and service in the school community, and the presenting of gold-printed certificates of merit to thirty-six 9A students of Houston for their wholehearted support of curricular and extra-curricular activities.

Among the recipients of citizenship medals which were presented by Dr. Houston R. Jackson, assistant superintendent of Baltimore Public Schools, were three pupils who graduated from Houston in February, 1957: Donald Young and Andre Wickham, who are currently honor students at Baltimore City College, and James Gilliam who has already won distinction as an athlete and outstanding citizen at Forest Park High School.

Other medal winners were Gwendolyn Alston, Vivian Cole, Dale Covington, Patricia Roberts, and James Watson, 9A pupils at Houston.

Those receiving certificates of merit were: Janet Bennett, Carmen Boston, Maxine Brooks, Eleanor Browne, Janice Browne, Harriett Brown, Paul Brown, Pamela Bunell, Inez Croslin, Peggy Evans, Leah Garrett, Rosina Handy, Allegra Howie, Jessie Kerr, Kenneth Lane, Delores Laws.

Also William Linton, June Lottier, Sonia Lynch, Elaine McDowell, Charlotte Mitchell, Sylvia Moore, Paul Moore, Joyce Murphy, Barbara Owens, Eugene Parrott, Marilyn Polk, Patsy Reid, Sylvester Richards, Lawrence Robinson, Clarence Smith, Marjorie Taylor, Debrell Wade, Judith Webb, Van Webb, Queener Willis and Lois Wright.

Sponsors of the Sophists Club at Houston Junior High School are Mrs. Annette C. Johnson, Paul M. Johnson, and George L. Moore.

Frank J. Sorrell is principal of the school.
