State challenges new trial for doomed man

"The verdict was supported by the evidence, irrespective of the medical report and the only function to be afforded the medical or probation reports was the determination of sentence."

Joseph S. Kaufman, assistant Attorney General, advanced this argument in a petition asking the Maryland Court of Appeals to consent to hear a re-argument or modify its opinion granting a doomed man a new trial.

The high court on May 13 granted a new trial to Cornelius Farrell, 27, sentenced to the gas chamber last September after he was convicted of raping a 45-year-old blonde.

Mr. Farrell became the first Baltimorean condemned to the gas chamber. Judge Joseph Carter, who convicted the man on June 22, 1956, imposed the sentence.

MR. KAUFMAN, in his petition filed Monday, argued that the majority opinion of the Court of Appeals granting the new trial was "contrary to former decision" and "confusing to the trial courts of this State."

In an opinion written by Judge Stephen Collins the Court of Appeals held that Judge Carter "in his evident efforts to give the defendant a fair trial in this serious case, unintentionally overlooked some of the necessary procedures to be followed."

William I. Gosnell, attorney, in arguing for a new trial for Farrell, said he did not know his client had been an inmate of the Crownsville State Hospital until the trial neared a conclusion.

Mr. Gosnell requested that Judge Carter order a medical examination of Farrell before sentence was imposed.

The defense counsel contended he was not permitted to view the medical report before Farrell was sentenced to die.

On this point Mr. Kaufman argued in his petition that the only purpose of the medical report was to determine a proper sentence.

A possible new trial for Farrell will be delayed pending the high court's ruling on Mr. Kaufman's contention.

AFRO IDEAL MOTHER FETED

CENTER is AFRO's Ideal mother, Mrs. Lillie M. Jackson, 68-year-old mother of four, who is also famed as Baltimore's most ardent civic worker. She received perpetual motion clock from AFRO during banquet in her honor, attended by 300 guests.

ABOVE, Mrs. Helen R. Woodland holds a plaque she received as Md. mother of the year. She has three sons who are doctors or dentists in Baltimore, and two daughters who are also college-trained.

AMONG 300 guests at AFRO mother banquet was T. Norwood Brown, Annapolis alderman, recently reelected for a second STANDING ovation was given AFRO mother following her acceptance talk. Here, George P. Mahoney, applauds.

HONORABLE MENTION ideal mother citations and corsages went to, Mrs. Celia McLeod, mother of 4; Mrs. Alice R. Matthews, mother of 3; and Mrs. Rosa Bowling, mother of 3, all of Baltimore. Mrs. Alice Carroll pins on the corsages.

SPECIAL guest at the banquet was Mrs. Louis H. Martin, Allen, Md., who was AFRO's ideal mother of 1955. She has 11 children, all college grads.

CAUGHT as they congratulated ideal mother and admired gifts were left to right, Miss Mayme Tilghman, beautician and church worker; Mrs. Florence Snowden, sister of the honoree; and Capt. Millard Horton, Northwestern Police Station chief.

ALSO attending ideal mother banquet, Sister Constance, S.S.J.D., Toronto, Canada, a former Baltimore teacher; and her uncle, John H. Murphy Jr., director of the AFRO-AMERICAN Co.
