Kappa Alpha Psi crowns "Sweetheart" at Morgan with Lula Jones Garrett

Lovely is the word for the Sweetheart Ball held by Alpha Iota chapter of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity in the Morgan State College Christian Center, Friday evening.

'Twas their 26th annual ball, and was especially highlighted by the crowning of their new queen.

She is Vivian Fowlkes of this city, and was attended by Sandra Waters of Philadelphia and Gloria Nelson of St. Louis. Carrie McDaniels of Washington, this year's queen, placed the crown on her successor's head.

The processional ceremony was led by Miss McDaniels, lovely in a gown of the fraternity's colors of crimson and cream. She was escorted by the acting vice-polemarch of the chapter, Ronald Garner. Escorts for Miss Waters and Miss Nelson were J. Roland Sullivan and Walter E. Fowlkes, respectively.

Miss Waters wore a floor-length gown of white chiffon, and Miss Nelson one of white lace. Miss Fowlkes, who followed, escorted by Vice-Polemarch Leon J. Cruise, was lovely in cream lace gown with a crimson sash. The queen received a large nosegay of flowers in the fraternity colors, as did the attendants.

In addition the Queen received a large gold and ivory trophy and an official Kappa Alpha Psi Sweetheart pin. To the attendants went comsacts with embossed insignia of the fraternity. The queen and attendants were then serenaded by the chapter members with the Pin Song and the Sweetheart Song.

A cocktail party had been held prior to the ball in the Blue Room of the York Hotel.

PHOTOGRAPHED at luncheon given by the Baltimore chapter of the Auxiliary to the National Medical Society in Morgan State College Christian Center, Baltimore, Saturday were these hostesses: Mesdames Emerson C. Walden, president of the Chapter; Albert L. LaForest, luncheon chairman; Bernard Harris Sr. and Simon Carter.

The gala evening was concluded with a breakfast in the Fuller Lounge, Prof. I. W. E. Taylor, advisor to the chapter and several other faculty members were in attendance.

Absent was Polemarch Earl S. Mello, who is recuperating at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

This affair was a prelude to the cultural program of the chapter which featured Daniel Comegys, lyric baritone and a member of the chapter, in a concert in the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church, Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Comegys presented a varied program of German, French, Spanish and English songs, together with some beautifully rendered love songs and spirituals. Miss Genevie Wisner, of the Morgan State College Music Department, was his accompanist.

Taking the door prizes were Mesdames Bryant, Greene and Owens.

POT-POURRI: Mrs. John H. Murphy, Jr., can't seem to drop the habit of fetching trophies home. Not being able to add to that huge collection garnered at golfing, because of not being able to play (on account of an injury) she up and garnered one for being the best-dressed woman golfer, last week. Went on to Detroit, this week . . . and no telling what she will bring from the tournament there.

Cash next need, Dr. Fleming tells Med. Auxiliary members

Having passed through and above the greatness and light period, the separate but equal period and the prayer period it's time to enter an economically independence period, Dr. G. James Fleming advised, here, Saturday.

Speaking before the Woman's Auxiliary to the National Medical Association, in Morgan State College Christian Center, Dr. Fleming told the group that the battle for total freedom now requires some cold cash.

Dr. Fleming pointed out that while the Wassington branch of the NAACP has a budget of only $20,000, one diaper company alone spends more than a quarter million dollars for its lobby in the Capital.

The political scientist declared:

"We will have to begin building the best schools, not only for ourselves but for others, to begin owning stocks and bonds and thereby some control in funds to fight our own lawsuits, and if necessary, to buy a few politicians."

Other speakers at the forum included Dr. Faye Allen of Annapolis, Mrs. Leonard Matthews of Washington, Franklyn Hochieter of this city and Mrs. Juanita Mitchell, attorney, also of this city.

SPEAKING ON the health an[illegible] Values in a Delinquent Society, Dr. Allen urged a positive approach to the problem. Children, she said, grow into delinquents as a result of mental as well as physical anemia. A child must have love as well as food, she showed.

Mrs. Matthews discussed the role the organization is playing in education, including the Alma Wells scholarship on the national scale and other scholarships given by local chapters of the group.

Mrs. Mitchell, citing the brutal beating of Mrs. Beatrice Young of Jackson, Miss. by a law officer, urged a continual fight against the "criminal disregard of the rights of 18,000,000 citizens." And Mr. Hochieter, of the Baltimore Urban Renewal and Housing Authority, advised the listeners to beware of uninformed leadership.

"More harm is done by good souls, whose intentions are right but who are not well informed that will ever be known," he said. "Go out and work for all these projects, but choose leaders, not because of their wealth, love or largeness of heart, but because they have found out all that can be found out about a project," he said.

Mrs. John Gunn presided at the forum and Mrs. Richard C. Hunt was moderator. Greetings were brought by Mrs. C. Mansell Lawrence, president of the Maryland State Medical Auxiliary which was host to the meeting.

THE FORUM followed a luncheon which was also held in the Christian Center.

Presiding at this affair was Mrs. Maurice Adams, with the guests also being welcomed by Mrs. Lawrence.

Guests of honor included the president of the national auxiliary, Mrs. Charles B. Hayes of Niagara Falls, N.Y.; Mrs. Ulysses S. Wiggins, New Jersey, Eastern Regional director; Mrs. Harold Ellis of New York;

Also Mrs. Omega Mason, New Jersey; Mrs. Ashley Thomas, Washington; Mrs. Irma Cornish, Washington; Dr. Bessie Small, Denton, Md., and the Rev. Howard Cornish.

Gifts and flowers were presented to the honorees by Mrs. Albert LaForest; chairman of the luncheon program.

Also attending the luncheon and the forum following were:

Mesdames Ruth Starks, Alfreda Pinkney, Mary Pitts, Verda Welcome, Harold Ellis, Gladys Porter, Ruth Lighston, Annie Smith, Alice Brown,

Mesdames Katie Marksmon, Mildred Johnson, Olga Rodney, Elizabeth Adams, Llewellyn Walker, Cholote Brent, Vandia King, Anita Woodlon,

Mesdames Finette Artis, Eva White, Hazel Phillips, Emma Michaels, Dorothy Harris, Helen Rogers, Emma Marshall, [illegible] line Harrison, Virginia Gunn, [illegible] Adams, Kay Carter, Delores Hunt, Serena Holmes, Celonia Walken, Lula Jones, Veronica Carr, Nellie Dillard, Alma Gray, Ruth Johnson, Samuel Lincoln,

Mesdames Ruth Davidson, Alice Hayes, Eunice Matthews, Faye Allen, Blanche McRae, Harriet Jones, Mae Folkes, Blanche Collins, Clara Jackson, M. Hoffler, W. M. Thomas, Irma Cornish, Vivian Aleyne, Katherine Johnson.

Beta Sigma Tau set for annual awards dinner

The Baltimore City Alumni chapter of Beta Sigma Tau will hold its bi-annual awards dinner, Saturday, at 7:30 p.m., in the Madison Avenue branch of the YWCA.

Persons having been selected as recipients of awards at the forthcoming dinner are Judge Thomas J. S. Waxter, State Director of Public Welfare, who will receive the Golden Rule Award, "indicative of outstanding contribution toward mankind in this community through the expression of these deed as best expressed by the golden rule." JUDGE E. EVERETT LANE and John C. Catlin, registered plumber, were chosen by the fraternity to be honored as the two men who best exemplified outstanding achievement in the previous years.

The fraternity will also honor, Calvin Garrington, Raymond Puryear and Robert Griner as the members, who through full measure of devotion and tireless effort, have best upheld and perpetuated the ideals of Beta Sigma Tau.

John Wallace, director of probation for the Supreme Court Bench of Baltimore City will be the main speaker and William H. Ross, II, will be toastmaster.

AMONG THE outstanding guests will be Eric M. Munstiff, 2nd secretary of the Indian Embassy, Washington, D.C.; Shamsher Singh, economical advisor to the Indian Embassy. Marjorie Epps, representing Phi Beta Sigma Sorority; William R. Gruver and Henry Rosenwald, member and chairman, respectively of the Beta Sigma Tau Trustee Fund of New York and Philadelphia.

Howard H. Murphy, AFRO business manager will be on hand to help honor the recipients of the awards as will be Deputy U.S. Attorney John Hargrove.

The fraternity, at a previous meeting, decided to support the set-in currently being held at the White Coffee Pot at the Mondawmin Shopping Center, which has and which always according to a spokesman for the organization, the 1st Interracial - Intercultural fraternity, opposed bigotry and intolerance wherever it is found.

At a meeting, this week, the following persons were elected officers of the fraternity*

Calvin M. Carrington, president; William Parrot Jr., vice-president; Arthur G. Murphy, executive secretary and Arthur G. Scribner, treasurer.

THAT LAVISH LOOK . . .
THAT LUXURY TASTE . . .
IT'S PET, YOU BET!
You wouldn't think such high, luscious topping could be anything except whipped cream, would you? But it is—it's whipped Pet Evaporated Milk!
Y'see—there's golden country cream in every single drop of Pet Milk—more than twice as much as in ordinary milk.
That's why it looks tempting and rich as good fresh cream . . . and whips like a dream!
You'd guess in a minute that milk like this could do lots of other things ordinary milk can't do. And you'd be exactly right. Pet Milk blends in beautifully to make smo-o-oth rich sauces . . . makes favorite cream pies better than ever—even "creams" your coffee to party-time perfection.
So, if you enjoy luxury living, get Pet Milk . . . America's first evaporated milk.
WHIPPED LEMON TOPPING—It's easy to whip
½ cup PET Evaporated MILK
4 teasp. sugar
½ teasp. grated lemon rind
2 teasp. lemon juice
Chill milk in ice tray until almost frozen around edges. Put ice-cold milk into a cold 1-quart bowl with sugar. Whip with cold rotary beater by hand, or with electric beater at high speed, until fluffy. Add lemon rind and juice. Whip until stiff. (Serve as topping on puddings, plain cake, pies or other desserts.) Makes 1 cup.
