'The Iron Sheriff' new western at the Met

The struggle of a father to resolve his own personal standards of duty and integrity, the bitter conflict within his conscience when it comes to testifying against the son he believes innocent, is the powerful, off-beat theme of "The Iron Sheriff," the Grand Production for United Artists release now playing at the Met Theatre.

The author, portrayed by Sterling Hayden, is a sheriff in the Dakotas of the early '90's.

He "stands wide and stubborn" as he obeys the dictates of his conscience, against loved ones and against his enemies, condemn his young son to hang for murder, then grimly sets out to prove the boy innocent.

Opposite Hayden, playing the feminine lead, is lovely Constance Ford, comparatively new to the screen, having previously appeared in Metro's "The Last Hunt."

Miss Ford comes to motion pictures from the New York stage and from a long line of distinguished performances on television.

Alan Ladd stars in thriller at Regent

In keeping with the trend toward taking cameras overseas for on-the-spot realism and scenic beauty, Twentieth Century-Fox has scored another "first" with "Boy on a Dolphin" which is now playing at the Regent Theatre.

Adapted from David Divine's best-selling novel of the same name by screenwriters Ivan Moffat and Dwight Taylor, the romantic adventure, stars Alan Ladd, Clifton Webb and Sophia Loren.

It revolves around a voluptuous Greek island girl who dives for sponges and stumbles upon he famous lost statue of a boy stride a dolphin in an ancient sunken vessel.

Samuel G. Engle's production in CinemaScope and color by DeLuxe, will attract the widest possible range of moviegoers. There is an exciting feud and romance between Ladd, an American archeologist, and Loren, a tempestuous peasant split-fire who wants to sell the statue to Webb. Aqua-diving sequences and underwater photography are handled with sensitivity and imagination.

* * *

THE STORY has solid pace, lots of comedy supplied by Webb, and many breathtaking, by beautiful glimpses of classic architectural—triumphs settled in modern-day Greece.

All are welcome at Police Ball

"All of our guests will be welcome at the annual Police Ball and we hope the entire community will support us in this worthy cause.

This was the way Barton Rickter expressed the policy of his committee to the AFRO this week.

The annual dance sponsored by the Baltimore City Retired Police Association will be held at the Alcazar Ballroom on May 17, beginning 8:30 p.m. for the benefit of the association.

Mr. Rickter is chairman of the program committee.

Sollers Point sets musical show

SYLVIA PLUMMER

Sylvia Plummer, a tenth grade student at Sollers Point High School and the 1957 Mardi Gras Queen will play a leading part in their coming production, "Green Valley."

She will once again capture the spotlight when she steps on the stage May 17 at 8:15 p.m. to breathe life into the forceful character of Prim Stokes.

"Green Valley" is a delightful comedy-fantasy packed with spirits who return to lend a helping hand and to create many humorous situations. This play assures its audience an evening of laughter and relaxation.

Tickets for the play are on sale at the school.

Foreign Pupils—No. 5

Foreign pupils visit Henderson

Miss Margaret Wilson, former exchange teacher to England, recently invited Miss Marguerite Zouck, principal of Eastern High School and a group of six pupils and a visiting teacher from England to supplement discussions on world friendship at the Elmer Henderson School No. 101.

Pupils were from France, Norway, Haiti, British Guiana, and Japan. Native costumes were worn. The visitors sang in their native language, talked to the assembly, and the Japanese student executed a beautiful dance.

They were introduced by a pupil from Mrs. Mary Carter's 6A. This class is learning about the United Nations.

Mrs. Imes left estate of $22,000

Mrs. Grace McCard Imes, who died, here January 19, left an estate of $22,494.16, an inventory filed in Orphans Court this week, shows.

The estate consists of chattels valued at $1,429; securities, $5,919; real estate, $4,500 and $729.50 cash.

The inventory, filed by Dallas Nicholas, attorney, and co-executor with the widower, Dr. G. Lake Imes, lists the following:

Silver flatware, $180; a bonbon dish, $8; wearing apparel, $50; a diamond ring, $500; another diamond solitaire, $500; a dinner ring, $175; a wedding band, $20; and a watch, $1. These comprised the chattels.

Securities consisted of seven shares of capital stock in the Union Trust Co., $294; 15 shares of capital stock in the First National Bank, $765.

And 40 shares of capital stock in the Arundel Corporation, $1,120; 2 shares common stock in the Maryland Casualty Co., $776.

Also 35 shares common stock in the Columbia Gas System, $595; 80 shares capital stock in Institutional Bond Shares, $800; 30 shared common stock in Consolidated Gas and Electric Light and Power, $990; nine shares capital stock in U.S. Fidelity and Guaranty Co., $585.

Property she owned at 2343 Druid Hill Avnue, was valued at $4,500.

Dr. Connor left estate to his wife

With the exception of a bequest of $500 to Virginia Union University, Richmond, Va., Dr. Miles W. Connor left his entire estate to his widow, Mrs. Mattie L. Connor.

In thus disposing of his belongings, Dr. Connor said in his will:

"I am not unmindful of the fact that I have a foster daughter, Bertha May Martin, but I fully realize that my daughter is closely related to my beloved wife and I feel that my wife will do all that is necessary to properly care for Bertha during her minority and thereafter. I purposely omitted my said daughter, Bertha, from this my last will and testament."

The will was drawn on Jan. 17, 1946. The daughter, who is the natural niece of Mrs. Connor, is now on the faculty of the School of Dentistry, Howard University.

Mrs. Connor was named executrix of the estate, and was required to give only $1,000 bond.

'Rock, Pretty Baby' new hit at Harlem

Songs and romance, teen-age style, swings the screen of the Harlem Theatre alive with the showing of "Rock, Pretty Baby," a gay, lilting musical roll film from Universal-International which is about genuinely happy and normal youngsters for a change.

It stars Sal Mineo, John Saxon and Luana Patten in a story that has as much appeal for adults as for the younger generation.

Mineo, the Latin juvenile who became a national sensation overnight with one performance opposite the late Jimmy Dean, makes a turnabout from the role of the young delinquent to that of a warbling baritone who is a "killer" with the ladies of the high school set.

Mineo sparkles in this one and shows an amazing versatility for a teenager.

THE SURPRISE of the film is that bright new star, John Saxon. He was seen recently in a more sombre drama with Esther Williams and George Nader called "The Unguarded Moment."

In that film he showed a great promise which is now fulfilled in his performance of the young musician whose doctor father would rather have him become a physician.

Baltimore youth at Ind. AF Base

Airman Third Class, Edward E. Cummings, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Cummings, 1317 Moreland Ave., Baltimore, has reported for duty at the 2466th Air Reserve Flying Center at the Bakalar Air Force Base, Columbus, Ind.

Cummings, 18, enlisted in the Air Force in February of this year, and finished basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex., before being stationed at Bakalar.

Cummings has been assigned to the Adjutant's section as an apprentice clerk. He is a graduate of Salesainum High School in Wilmington, Del.

Before entering the AF he was employed by Westinghouse in Lansdowne, Md., as a wire man.
