109 YEARS YOUNG today (Friday) is Fountain Hughes who received congratulations from Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro, Jr. Reared as a slave boy in Virginia he became a master gardener for a prominent Baltimore family. He now makes his home at the N. M. Carroll Home for the Aged at 822 N. Carrollton Ave. Still quite active, Mr. Hughes walks the block to church at St. John AME nearby every Sunday, likes turkey, but no chicken. He worked on his job until he was 98, then went to live with his daughter, Mrs. Shallie Anderson, 67, at 1431 W. Lanvale St. There he stayed six years.

'Family Day' observed at hospital

CROWNSVILLE — Over 700 visitors attended the "Family Day" program at Crownsville State Hospital last Sunday.

A highlight of the day was the presentation of service awards to Joseph Grimes, 25 years; Jessie Throne, 15 years, and Truman Venoy, 10 years.

Participants on the program included: DeSales Dyson, chairman of the open house activities, and Dr. Brian Campden-Main, clinical director.

Choral selections were given by the Crownsville State Hospital Choir and the Tabernacle Gospel Choir of Cambridge, Md.

Truck hits child

Palmera Bennett, n. 2200 blk. Ruskin Ave., was reported in a critical condition at Provident Hospital late Thursday.

It was reported that she was struck by a truck while crossing the street at Pennsylvania and Fremont Aves.

Window man gets $15,000 award for fall

Alvin E. Knox, 1110 N. Monroe St., has been awarded $15,000 by the State Industrial Accident Commission, because he was permanently injured in January 1956.

Mr. Knox, a window washer, sustained back and spine injuries, when he fell from a fifth floor window to the roof of the second floor on the Md. Trust Building.

Through his attorney, U. Theodore Hayes, Mr. Knox sued to recover for total disability from the Queen City Window Cleaning Co. The award, handed down on April 22, is to be paid in weekly installments of $33.33.

Prior to the $15,000 award, Mr. Knox had already received temporary disability over a 14-month period, so that the total given him approximates $33,000.

PHS Hospital to have open house

The Public Health Service Hospital located at Wyman Park Drive and 21st St. will join with other hospitals throughout the United States and Canada in observing National Hospital Week May 18.

At 1 p.m. May 17, the hospital cordially invites their friends in the community to "Open House."

A guided tour will be conducted by the professional personnel of the hospital. A tea will follow the guided tour, in addition, special recognition will be given at 3 p.m. to employees whose length of service total 10, 20, and 30 years. Certificates and pins will be presented to 38 employees by Dr. David J. Zaaugg, medical officer in charge, of the hospital.
