Dr. W. W. Allen welcomes insurance groups to city

"The Southern Life Insurance Co., as the host company, assisted by the North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Co., the Supreme Liberty Life Insurance Co. and the Mutual Benefit Society are most pleased to welcome you to our progressive city for your conference.

"We are especially happy to have you convene here at one of our leading institutions of learning—Morgan State College."

With these words Friday at Morgan State College, Dr. Willard W. Allen, president of Southern Life Insurance Co., welcomed to Baltimore the fourth annual conference of the National Insurance Association.

Region I of the Technicians Section of NIA held a two-day conference, April 26 and 27, with Southern Life Insurance Co. as host.

* * *

IN WELCOMING the group here, Dr. Allen further stated: "We are happy to have among our guests, the Deputy Commissioner of the State Insurance Department of Maryland, John H. Coppage.

"To you representatives of the several insurance companies we are proud to point out to you that Baltimore is a great city and Maryland, a great state.

"There are many points of interest here, among which are the famous Johns Hopkins Hospital and the Walters Art Museum.

"We trust your session will be highly successful. Your visit is inspiring to us, and we look forward to successful undertakings in carrying forth the program of our respective insurance institutions."

MR. ALLEN'S welcome was received with a warm applause. Region I consists of nine companies in New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Richmond, Winston-Salem, Durham and Baltimore.

Newly elected officers of Region I, are: Robert H. Bonner of Philadelphia, director; Mrs. Gertrude B. Taylor of Durham, vice-chairman; Mrs. Ida Moore Baltimore secretary.

Also, M. B. Brown, Richmond, treasurer; M. H. Bennett, Durham, director of research.

The program was highlighted Friday by an address, "Is College Preparation Sufficient for Technician Training?" by Dr. W. O. Bryson, C. L. U., head of the Department of Economics and Business at Morgan State College.

This was followed by an address by Mr. Coppage, "Mechanics and Philosophy of Gain and Loss Exhibit."

* * *

OTHER DELEGATES included: Miss Mary L. Oakley, Union Mutual Life, Insurance Co., Philadelphia; James Williams, Federal Life, Washington; M. B. Brown, A. D. Martin and R. W. Foster, Virginia Mutual Benefit Life.

Also, Robert H. Bonner, President Home Industrial Mutual, Philadelphia; James M. Coleman, Nathaniel H. Brown, Richmond; Benedict J. Richmond.

Other delegates: Mrs. Crystal B. Murmon, Mrs. Gertrude B. Taylor and James L. Bolden, of North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Co., Durham; Abner Clay, Southern Aid Life, Richmond.

Also, G. Cosmo Will, Walter E. Baird, A. W. McKnight, A. W. Harris, Winston Mutual Life. Winston-Salem; Mrs. Ida Moore, Southern Life, Baltimore; Joseph A. Faison, National president of NIA, Clarence Carter, vice president, Technicians Section, NIA, George L. Russell Jr., vice-president, Southern Life Insurance Co.

ALSO ATTENDING the conference were James J. Monahan, sales manager, Friden Calculating Machine Co., and Elder Luttrell, underwriter for North Carolina Mutual.

Approximately 150 persons attending the conference participated in a group luncheon Friday at the YWCA, 1912 Madison Ave. A conference will be held again, next April in Washington with Federal Life Insurance Co. as host.

Patrol cars not open to all cops

"I had a meeting with all of my men and at that time, I said I hoped that all of our men would be advanced to all available positions, regardless of color.

"There is no colored officer working in any patrol car yet, but I am sure this is coming soon."

This was the observation made Wednesday by Police Commissioner James M. Hepbron when he was asked why no colored patrolmen were ever assigned to duty in patrol cars.

* * *

ASKED WHETHER he could not issue an order establishing it as Department policy that all officers have an equal opportunity to do all of the special duties under the rotating plan, Commissioner Hepbron said:

"I try to leave the actual direction of the precinct to the Captains since that is his responsibility, and I believe we can get better over-all results that way."

Despite the urgent need for qualified manpower in the Baltimore City Police Department, colored officers are not used in the traffic division, do not have duty in the patrol cruising cars and are not used in radio cars at the present time.

The picketing protest of the discriminatory policy of the White Coffee Pot will be resumed Saturday afternoon at Gwynn Falls Pkwy and Reisterstown Rd., it was announced Tuesday.

The decision to place a picket line at several entrances of the huge shopping center which houses the restaurant was reached at a steering committee meeting of the United Organizations for Better Human Relations.

Plans for recruiting additional persons to help in the protest were discussed.

It was also planned to step up the pace of demonstrations at White Coffee Pot restaurants in other sections of the city.

VOLUNTEERS FOR Saturday's demonstration have been asked to meet at 3 o'clock at the Tabernacle Baptist Church on Whittier Ave.

The demonstrators will be given literature to pass out to persons entering the Gwynns Falls shopping center.

Dr. A. J. Walker is chairman of the committee. Mrs. Hattie Hillen is co-chairman.

May 10 is deadline for physicians' banqueet

Dr. Bernard Harris Sr., chief of staff, and Dr. Robert L. Jackson, former chief of staff, at Provident Hospital, will both be honored at a public testimonial on May 12 at 8 p.m. in the Carver High School auditorium.

Each of the physicians has given 25 years of service to the hospital.

They are the only living members of the staff who served the hospital at its first location on Biddle St.

Reservations for this testimonial are $5 each and the deadline has been set for May 10.

DR. I. B. Higgins is chairman of the dinner, and Dr. Louise Young is chairman of the guest committee. The testimonial to honor members of the staff at Provident will be an annual affair.

Maryland CAP is official auxiliary of U.S. Air Force

The Civil Air Patrol was organized just prior to World War II, and was shortly made an official auxiliary of the United States Air Force.

Nearly all of the 5,300 CAP airplanes are privately owned. The Rev. Julius Carroll owns his own plane and has offered his services several times on searching missions in this area, but was politely refused each time.

The C.A.P. is on call twenty-four hours a day, every day and has become a very important arm of the U.S. Air Force.

Members fly thousands of Missions each year, doing search and rescue work and carrying medical personnel and supplies to emergency areas.

* * *

HOWEVER, THE Maryland Wing has a jim crow policy which bars membership to colored applicants who wish to join the organization either as adult workers or cadets.

Earlier this year, Lloyd Young, 1624 Delano Court, and Clayton Majete, 609 Carrollton Ave., both joined the Civil Air Patrol and attended two meetings.

However, after the second meeting, they were advised not to come back and told that colored cadets could not be used in Maryland.

Currently, the Rev. Mr. Carroll, associate pastor at Sharp Street Methodist Church, is trying to have his membership files transferred from the Alabama Wing to the Maryland Wing of CAP.

Some of this year's debutantes, presented by the Me-De-So Club, are shown at a brunch, which was one of many parties given for them the past week end. Young men were escorts.

Parties at all-time high for present crop of debs

By LULA JONES GARRETT

While the Me-De-So debutantes have, down through the years, been launched with considerable fan-fare, never has there been so heavy a flurry of elegant parties attending the cotillion as this year.

The 18 young women, and their hand-picked escorts scarcely had time for an extra breath from the time they were presented on Friday night until they returned to their campuses, Monday morning.

And never were the parties en such an elaborate scale.

* * *

IMMEDIATELY following the cotillion on Friday evening, the debutantes dashed home to step out of their beautiful white gowns, and into less formal frocks for a breakfast party given by parents of four of the honorees.

At the Chesapeake Club, at five o'clock Saturday morning, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Joyce, Dr. and Mrs. Harold Whitted of Washington and Dr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Woolridge Jr., spread a lavish board in honor of Misses Portia Boston, Yvonne Joyce, Judy Whitted and Thomasina Woolridge.

At this gala affair were:

Misses Thomasina Woolridge, Portia Boston, Roberta Quarles, Bernadetta Smith, Bette A. Brown, Bettye Johnson, Alfreda Hughes;

Misses Judith E. Whitted, Audilyn Higgins, Jeanne Lee, Jean Braxton, Yvonne Joyce, Lillian E. Locklear, Jocelyn Dawson;

Robert M. Julius, Jerry M. Flynn, Charles Baker, Carl E. Smith, Christian Klone, George L. Carter, Jr., Clarence Mitchell, 3rd;

Nathaniel W. Redd, Edward Carroll Jr., Thomas McPherson, 3rd, Melvin Jackson, Henry W. Sands, Joseph Alston, Theodore R. Haynes Jr., and Charles Mays.

* * *

SATURDAY EVENING, a second group of parents of debutantes held forth in the Morgan State College Christian Center at a dual-party.

In the early evening, scores of guests passed a receiving line to congratulate Misses Jamesetta Morton, Roberta Quarles, Betty Brown, and Alfreda Hughes, along with their parents:

Mr. James Morton, Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin Quarles, Mr. and Mrs. George Brown, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. C. Hughes and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Williams.

By the time of the party, the Williamses' daughter, Ann, was tucked in bed under an attack of chicken pox. Unknown to her contemporaries, she had made her bow on Friday night with a temperature soaring above a hundred.

Later the debutantes' elders were replaced by their young friends for dancing.

A gay fountain, bordered with flowers, and the walls decorated with huge red hearts bearing each girl's name, and with a beruffled carnation highlighting the same heart, made very attractive the assembly room of the center.

The honorees were the white dresses they had been presented in and carried their lovely bouquets of carnations. But this was strictly a dress affair for the mothers. . for instance:

Mrs. W. A. C. Hughes was chic in blue satin sheath encrusted with pearls and rhinestones and matching slippers. Charm personified was Mrs. Quarles in chiffon in a salmon-pink shade. And pert Mrs. Williams (who has the cutest hair cut in creation) wore a black fitted frock, with off-shouldered band of white (embossed) bold by string straps over the shoulder.

These parties followed a major reception that had been given by Dr. and Mrs. I. Bradshaw Higgins in honor of their daughter, Audilyn, and attended by nearly 500 guests.

Dr. and Mrs. George McDonald entertained at a breakfast Sunday, in honor of Miss Higgins, at their home. Other guests were the other debutantes and their escorts.

* * *

MRS. JAMES H. JOHNSON entertained at a brunch on Sunday afternoon at the Chesapeake Club.

The brunch was in honor of her daughter, Bettye Ann.

Present at the affair were:

Dr. and Mrs. Harold Hunt, Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Mogroe, June Lee, Marjorie Flannagan; Ernestine Lewis, Phyllis Dawson, Yvonne Joyce, Sandra Hurde, Thomasina Woolridge, Bernadetta Smith, Jamesetta Morton, Portia Boston, Shirley Thomas;

Charles Hayes, Howard Neale, Guy Bragg, Melvin Johnson, Warren Parker, Maxwell Chatmon, Christian Coles and Robert Julius.

* * *

AND EVEN as the cotillion's extra activities opened with a formal reception at the Me-De-So Club, it closed Sunday afternoon, with another.

Hosts at this party were Messrs. and Mesdames Frank D. Boston, Harvey Joyce, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Peed, Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lewis.

The honorees were Misses Portia Boston, Yvonne Joyce, Merla Morris, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peed; Bernadette Smith and Ernestine Lewis.

The receiving line was a beauty to behold. Several of the honorees wore their debutante gowns of white, while others chose frocks. Take Portia Boston, for instance, who wore a lovely frock of starched lace over blue street length.

But the striking gowns were worn by the mothers, again. Mrs. Beatrice Pitts introduced guests to the line. Her frock was a beautiful fitted print affair. Mrs. Boston selected a white sheath of embossed cotton satin, with the upper waist in lace and chiffon, made with an attractive Peter Pan collar.

Attractive Mrs. Peed was in purple blue chiffon with a corsage of white orchids at her shoulder. Mrs. Lewis, who is no-end clever when it comes to designing, not only created the pert blue chiffon that made her look so lovely, but had also made her daughter's debutante frock.

The hosts set up their bar in the sun room of the Me-De-So Club, from which they dispensed champagne and a colorful array of hors d'oeuvres throughout the evening. From the dining room they served their punch, fancy sandwiches, cakes, ices, nuts and mints.

Chamber music provided the proper mood for the lovely party.

Among their guests were: Messrs. and Mesdames C. Street, Jr., Samuel R. Lyles, Alonzo Lancaster, Norman Branch, J. C. Lewis, L. Mark Patterson.

Messrs. and Mesdames George T. Adams, John A. Dorsey, Jr., Earl Koger, George Mead, William Stanford, William H. Bryan of Washington.

Messrs. and Mesdames Elmer Patterson, Leonard Gilmore, Edgar T. Manns, Vernon Prout, Author James Leroy Gibson, Nelson Waters.

Messrs. and Mesdames Allen Ebb, Mervin Parker, Samuel Brock, George Brown, Herbert Frisby, James E. Scott, Eugene H. Mayo, the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Cedric Mills.

Drs. and Mesdames C. L. E. Monroe, T. J. Woolridge, Jr., Gilbert Banfield, C. R. Campbell, C. F. Gloster, Charles E. Watts, Albert LaForest.

Drs. and Mesdames John E. T. Camper, Bernard Christmas, Thomas Harris, Bradshaw Johnson, Warren Parker, Maxwell Chatmon, Christian Coles and Robert Julius.

Gold and green theme enhances Me-De-So ball

With the sub-debs wearing floating frocks of pale gold and golden slippers, and the debutantes carrying bouquets of gold carnations tied with big green satin bows, the Me-De-So cotillion took on a colorful air, Friday evening.

The annual presentation was held in the Hurt Gymnasium of Morgan State College, Friday evening, with Dr. Albert LaForest presiding.

Guests were welcomed by Dr. William B. Mason, president of the club, prior to the presentation ceremonies. The latter began with the entrance of the Debs of the year, Miss Lillian Locklear. Miss Roslyn Stewart was crowned this year's queen. Their attendants were Eugenia Anderson and Paula Jones, respectively.

Ralph Reckling, Jr., and Ivan Higgins Jr. served as page boys.
