Also among guests at the hotel this week were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Epps, of New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Epps made reservations out of Park Sheraton, New York, and spent the weekend at the local hotel without incident.

While no announcement has been made of the policy, the hotel has been accepting all guests since March 17, when some delegates attending t he 20th annual board meeting of the National Funeral Directors Association, Inc., stayed there.

The next week, colored delegates to a colloquium at John Hopkins University registered there also.

THE SHERATON - BELVEDERE is one of 25 hotels operated by the Sheraton Corp. of America in 23 cities. All other hotels in the chain welcome colored guests.

Until last March, the Sheraton-Belvedere had refused colored guests claiming it was compelled to enforce segregation by the Baltimore Hotel Association which calls upon member hotels to accommodate white guests only.

"I believe we, as a successful organization, should pause once a year to pay homage to Almighty God and it has been my chief aim to again continue this annual observance."

John L. Hayes, president of Local 858 of the International Longshoremen's Association, thus submed up the thinking behind his union's anniversary ceremonies scheduled for 3:30 p.m. on Sunday, at Union Baptist Church, Druid Hill Ave. and Dolphin St.

"This will mark our organization's 40th anniversary," Mr. Hayes explained. "This is the first such religious observance we have gotten around to staging since 1943."

Coils of hundred 3-cent stamps

Handy coils of a hundred 3 cent stamps will be placed on sale in large post offices starting April 29, as a new convenience to the mailing public, Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield said today.

The new hundred coils will sell for $3, the value of the stamps.

Coils heretofore have been available only in large sizes which the average patron ordinarily does not buy.

These are the coils of 500, 1,000 and 3,000 stamps selling at face value of $15, $30, and $90 respectively.

The sale of the hundred coil will be experimental to determine public reaction, and only a limited supply will be available at First-Class offices, those with gross postal receipts of $40,000 or more annually.

If the public likes the new coils, however, it is expected sales will be placed on a permanent basis, and they will be available at all post offices.

Parking lot owner in court Tuesday

Mrs. Martha Jeter, 42, operator of a parking lot in the 500 block W. Paca St., is scheduled for trial in Criminal Court Tuesday on a charge of violating a city building code.

Mrs. Jeter has charged that a city inspector who inspected her business demanded a bribe and called her insulting racial names when she refused.

Md. job offices plan to operate on daylight time

All local offices of the Maryland Department of Employment Security will begin operating on daylight saving time after 2 a.m., April 28.

The time change is of importance to claimants for unemployment insurance benefits, who are assigned specific hours at which to report to the offices.

By assigning reporting hours, the Department contends it is able to reduce delays by making an even distribution of the number of claimants reporting at any particular hour of the day.
