Pair freed of attack on talkative matron

"If he had told the man to give me my coat back, I probably wouldn't have reported it."

Testifying against two men accused of raping her after she was lured to the apartment of one of them, a talkative 35-year-old E. Hoffman St. motorist made this assertion in Criminal Court Wednesday.

Acquitted of the serious charges which carry a maximum death penalty on conviction were Steve Scott, 37, 2300 block Madison Ave., and Arthur Randolph, 23, 1400 block Myrtle Ave.

HOWEVER, Judge John Turker found Mr.-Randolph guilty of larceny of the woman's coat and imposed a six-month suspended prison term and a fine of $100 and costs.

Both men admitted being intimate with the married woman after meeting her in a Bar in the 1500 block Pennsylvania Ave. on March 21. They denied using force.

Several times during the testimony of the prosecuting witness Judge Tucker had to admonish spectators to keep order as she told of accompanying Mr. Scott to a "party."

"I decided to go because he looked like the type of man you could trust," the witness said.

Board gives nod to Bayard Lunch

"We are going to renew this license as of May 1, with the understanding that the name of Mrs. Haskins goes on the license and with the understanding that you clean up both the inside and outside. That whole area needs a freshening. It won't take a lot of money, but it will take some manpower."

With these words, Frank J. Hanson, chairman of the Liquor Board Commissioners, Thursday, approved the renewal of Cleveland Haskins Class B. beer, wine and liquor license, to permit the "Bayard license, to operate the "Bayard

The tavern side of Mr. Haskins' restaurant-business was closed for four months by the Liquor Board, following an incident last May, in which a teen-age boy, lost an arm after having been served there.

Phillip H. Goodman, attorney for Mr. Haskin noted that Mr. Haskins was not present, when the youth had been served and that the youth had used a false age card. Mr. Goodman also pointed out that Mr. Haskins is a civic leader. Final disposition in Mr. Haskins' case is still pending in the Court of Appeals.

Notes S. Baltimore

By GEORGE W. E. HILL

On Wednesday, April 3, Miss Clara Thompson's 6th grade boys and girls of the Josiah Diggs Elementary School No. 162 culminated their study of Farming in the United States with a trip to the agricultural research center, at Beltsville, Md.

These pupils are studying the problem of how investigators from the research center have helped to improve our crops and livestock.

The children were ably guided by Horace Lanchester who took them on a tour of the farm, 4-H Club house, and pigpens.

Milton V. Murray, helping teacher, and Mrs. Vivian H. Bundy, principal accompanied the group, and both enjoyed watching the pupils have first hand experiences with the various farm animals. They assisted the children in the interpretations of the things they observed.

The trip was very valuable in vitalizing the teaching program of the class, clarifying concepts and providing leads for further learning.

"How can I help my first grade child in his reading at home?" "Why bother about settling my child to kindergarten?" "How does a child learn to attack words independently?"

These and similar questions were answered in the Reading Symposium and demonstration lesson presented for the Mrs. Diggs P.T.A., on Tuesday, March 26.

This presentation served as a preview for the school-wide "Reading Day," April 17.

The teachers participating in the symposium were Mrs. Beverly Bailey, kindergarten; Mrs. Alice Sewell, first grade; Mrs. Gwyndola Loper, third grade; and Mrs. Ethel D. Hall, librarian.

The demonstration lesson with pupils of the primary center, was taught by Miss Mary Florence Dennis, supervising teacher.

Pupils in the class were: Carolyn Dennis, Ernestine Johnson, George Roy, Quinton Pinkney, Rosa Lemon, John Harvin, William Matthews, Ruby Pitts, James Jenkins, Elizabeth Hicks and Allen Robinson.

MRS. BEVERLY BAILEY demonstrated reading picture and readiness chart. The pupils were: Bernard Barnes, James Tatum, Andre Curtis, Angela Chester, Stanley Hicks, Jacqueline Highsmith, Edna Covington, Sharon Matthews and Laura Petaway.

Mrs. Vivian H. Bundy is principal and Mrs. Charlotte H. Harper is vice principal.

South Baltimoreans mourn the loss of one of our most outstanding citizens, Mrs. Sadie Smith died March 28 in Philadelphia and services were held last Friday evening. She had moved to that city several years ago.

Mrs. Smith was connected with club and church organizations in this community and a life long member of Ebenezer A.M.E. Church.

William Pulley is convalescing after a recent illness. Mr. Pulley has been a member of the International Orchestra for a number of years.

Mrs. Evelyn Lewis is convalescing at her home after a recent illness.

The Gospel Chorus of the Star of Bethlehem AME Church is giving a Variety Supper for the benefit of Women's Day on April 26.

Mrs. Ernestine Christian is president, Mrs. Rite Mason, secretary; Mrs. Blanche Christian, business manager, Mrs. Florence Douglas, directress, and the Rev. T. B. McQueen is minister.

NEWS FOR this column should be brought or sent to 2520 Huron St. or 703 South Fremont Ave. not later than 5 p.m. on Monday.

Cpl. E. H. Barnes, of the U. S. Marine Corp, now living in Cherry Hill, is home on furlough, awaiting transfer to Japan. He has three brothers in the Armed Forces.

Joseph Bush and Ross Sye have been promoted to higher positions in the Southern Life Insurance Co.

Liss says he was 'misquoted'

"I was not quoted correctly in the daily press and I was very much incensed about the whole matter. My complaint is that people who serve on boards and commissions should have the opportunity to be heard before the City Council passes an ordinance. I do not imply that I was guilty of taking roll calls votes public."

Councilman Solomon Liss (D. 4th Dist.) was explaining his action in the council committee Monday, when Ordinance No. 1222 had been proposed for consideration.

The pending measure would open the proceedings of city boards and commissions to the public and make the voting of members of those bodies a matter of public record.

Mr. Liss said the ordinance in the present form would not accomplish the objectives of its supporters anyway.

"I TOLD Mrs. Ramsey that the ordinance was too vague to be effective," the councilman said.

Mr. Liss, who is chairman of the Judiciary Committee, said the matter would be tabled until he can get opinions from various board and commission members.

Tawes announces he'll run for Governor in '58

"J. Millard Tawes, described as "the one Democrat in the state who can unite all factions," will be publicly announced today that he would be a candidate for Governor of Maryland in 1958.

At a testimonial dinner given for him in a Baltimore hotel, Mr. Tawes told an overflow crowd of 1,000 Democrats that he would be "a united candidate" for the Democratic Nomination for Governor to be held on May 20, 1958.

In his televised speech, Mr. Tawes stored factionalism and lack of unity with the Democratic Party, and placed special emphasis on an enlarged role for young men and women in the State administration, which he hopes to head.

Mr. Tawes was introduced by James J. Lacy, son of a former State Comptroller and a prominent member of the young group in the Democratic Party. Lacy referred to Tawes as "the one Democrat in the State of Maryland who can unite all factions of the party. The only Democrat in the State who has been unanimously endorsed — and enthusiastically endorsed — every time he has run for office."
