Rites held for ship's rigger killed in fall

Funeral services for Joseph Allen, 47-year-old ship rigger and barber who fell 18 feet to his death last Tuesday while working aboard a ship at the Maryland Drydock Co., were held Friday afternoon at the Fulton Baptist Church.

The Rev. Benjamin Jackson officiated at the services which were attended by fellow workers of the former Navy man who resided at 2409 Mosher St.

Burial was in National Cemetery.

AN EMPLOYEE of the drydock firm for five years, Mr. Allen sustained fractured ribs and a spine injury aboard the American Inventor while working the 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. shift.

Taken to University Hospital in an ambulance, Mr. Allen died two hours later without regaining consciousness.

WORKMEN WERE at a loss to explain why Mr. Allen was in a section of the ship that was not scheduled to be worked on.

Details surrounding Mr. Allen's death were handled by the firm's private police department who said the fall was an accident.

A native of Norfolk, Va., Allen moved to Baltimore six years ago.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Fayte M. Allen, a seamstress; father, Joseph Allen, well-known Norfolk carpenter; and four sons, Joseph, James Jr., and Edward Lee Allen, and an adopted son, Howard Massenberg who is in the Army in Korea.

Also, three sisters, Mrs. Virginia A. Barrett and Mrs. Alexina A. Snipes of Norfolk, and Miss Gladys M. Allen of Baltimore.

Mrs. Mary Ruth Lanier, a neighbor at 2200 H St., NE, on the far side of the court, was was one of the few close friends and relatives who gathered for brief services at the Mason Funeral Home, 2500 Nicol Pl., NE.

Mrs. Lanier said the child was at her home at all hours playing with one of her five children or looking at television. She said Little Stevie's playmates cried when they heard about his drowning. The neighbor read a poem she wrote for the child's eulogy:

"Little Stevie, how our heart aches with grief as we say goodbye—

We shall meet someday where no sorrow or tears will ever dim the eye.

We will miss you greatly. Sleep little one and rest—

Until God sounds his trumpet for he loves you best—.

Mrs. Lanier said no one in the neighborhood could understand why Little Stevie ran away when he was liked so well in the neighborhood. She looked out over the cliffs toward the banks of Kingman's lake and shook her head.

"I don't think he liked the water that well," she said.

Det. George Thorne of the missing persons bureau, has been assigned to investigate the disappearance of little Stevie before the death of the child was discovered.

Officer Thorn said he had received reports that the child was heard crying in the courtyard late Saturday night before he disappeared. He had also told friends, "I am going to move."

Police said Little Stevie had only seen his mother twice since he was given to Mr. Black and did not know his father. His mother was in confinement at D.C. General Hospital at the time his body was discovered.

Mrs. Helen Brown and Mrs. Lucille Huntley of 765 Howard Rd., SE, handled funeral arrangements for Little Stevie. They are the daughters of Mr. Black.

Mrs. Lucy Newton, attendant in charge of the nursery, said floral wreaths sent by Mrs. Lanier and neighbors had been turned over to the junior village.

"The boys mother and father did not attend, and Mr. Black was too overcome with grief to attend."

month defying all efforts of police to locate him.

The bloated body of Little Stevie was taken from the shallow banks of Kingman Lake near the East Capitol St. bridge last Sunday, a month to the day he disappeared from his home and friendly surroundings.

Dr. A. Magruder McDonald, coroner, ruled the death accidental drowning.

The wives, husbands and children in this beautiful public project off Benning Rd., NE, are mourning the drowning of Stephen Armes, 8, 700 block Langston Terrace. He was buried, Wednesday, in Woodlawn Cemetery.

Eight-year-old Charles Alexander, 746 19th St., NE, who first saw Stevie's body said:

"I had been fishing with my brother, Maurice, and two more boys. I was walking along the Eastern branch when I saw something that looked like a dummy. I went closer and I could see the back of his head and clothes.

"It was a boy. I called Maurice and he turned him over with a big two by four stick. His face was all swollen and full of scratches. Blood was coming out of his mouth. Maurice went to get police. I ran home."

Charles was still cringing as he told the story.

"I told them not to go down there fishing anymore," his mother, Mrs. Maude Alexander said firmly. A widow Mrs. Alexander said she had five other children. Her children did not know Little Stevie.

Stephen, a lovable wolf who was shared by almost every family along the high brownstown court, had been reported missing since Sunday, Feb. 10, when he left home before breakfast.

HE LIVED with H. D. Black, a 66-year-old half-blind World War I veteran and Mr. Black's two daughters in southeast Washington helped take care of the child, Mr. Black said:

"I had him every since he was two-months old. His mother gave him to me to keep. He was a good boy. A little mischievous like the rest but we helped take care of each other.

"He stayed with me until my wife died about a year ago. I decided to keep him for my own. He wouldn't run away from me. Some one must have taken him away."

The self appointed god-father was talking from the neat, but sparsely furnished living room. He said he could see a little light but Stephen would always lead him around.

"I am going to miss him for that," he added thoughtfully.

Charles P. Turner, a retired government worker at 720 Langston Terrace upstairs over Mr. Black said his wife helped send the child to the nearby Charles Young School. Mr. Turner's voice dropped as he talked about the child.

"Sometimes we would feed and clothe him but Mr. Black's sister took care of that. We would mostly look after him while he was playing in the courtyard. He appeared to be happy but there must have been a reason for his leaving."

Mrs. Katherine Wilson, a clerk at the Charles Young School, spoke for the principal, Mrs. Martha K. Winston. Mrs. Winston was ill Wednesday, the day of Little Stevie's funeral. Mrs. Wilson said:

"Mrs. Alicia G. Davis, his homeroom teacher, and Mrs. Shirley W. Hammond, his first grade teacher, went to the funeral. They took a beautiful floral wreath from the school. We were all concerned about him.

"We had planned to take some of "the children, but we thought the funeral would be Thursday or Friday. They could not keep his body that long, so we couldn't send the Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery!

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H.® Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Baltimore Methodist support pending rights legislation

Enactment of Maryland House Bill 13, providing for chemical testing of drivers; Senate Bill 113, opening accommodations on the state highways to all travellers; and of Senate Bill 347, abolishing the death penalty, were asked by the Methodist Board of Social and Economic Relations of the Baltimore Conference meeting at Laurel, Md. last week.

Commenting on the proposed legislation, members reaffirmed their belief that highway safety demands passage both of the original version of House Bill 13 to increase the probability of detecting and punishing the drinking driver, and Senate Bill 113 which would throw open to all users of our state highways every accommodation afforded to any.

Recent instances of some drivers on long trips being fatally injured after falling asleep at the wheel were cited from several sections of Maryland as dramatic and tragic evidence that motels and restaurants ought to be open to all.

The Board also underscored the position taken by the 1956 Methodist General Conference at which declared, "The Master permits no discrimination because of race, color or national origin. To discriminate against a person solely upon the basis of his race is both unfair and un-Christian."

THE METHODIST Baltimore Conference includes more than 400 Maryland congregations having 144,000 church members and more than 100,000 scholars. The Rev. A. Odell Osteen of Laurel, is chairman of the Board of Social and Economic Relations.

Remember, O Man

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The Title of this Series of Lenten Articles is drawn from Ash Wednesday Formulary for the Imposition of Ashes: "Remember, O Man, thou dust thou art, and that to dust thou shalt return."

JULIUS S. CARROLL
Associate Pastor, Sharp Street Memorial Methodist Church

"The Penitential Season of Lent is an institution of the Church to afford opportunity for the renewing of our lives through the remembrance of our short-comings and of our failures.

The real significance of Lent is not so much in the recollection of our sins of "omission" or of "commission," as in the remembrance of what we can and should do to correct otherwise bad situations.

Historically, the Lenton Season was established as a preparation for Baptism at Easter Eve. In order to have "forty days" (exclusive of the Sundays) which would correspond to the "forty days" of Our Lord's Fasting in the Wilderness, the Church included the four days prior to the First Sunday in Lent, and began the period with Ash Wednesday.

A NOTABLE and happy coincidence is the fact of the association of Lent with the spring season when nature is in process of renewal and of rebirth after the rigors of winter.

The church would have us keep in mind the Life of Christ. With the shepherds and kings we travel to the manger at Nativity. With Christ We rise gloriously at Easter, for which event we prepare, with Him in "forty days" of penitential remembrances during Lent.

Remember, O Man . . . that Jesus, the Christ of God, was tempted to do wrong by the Satanic IF'S, "If you are the Son of God, command these stones to become loaves of bread." (Matthew 4:3)

The pressures of imagined necessity often impel us into attitudes and actions of aggressive hostility against God and our brother man.

Long deprivation of those material abundances which we see others have, may develop into insatiable hunger for these same advantages for ourselves. These we must have, else all life, in terms of our happiness and content, is without meaning.

"What am I," we say to ourselves, "without these things so necessary to our very existance?" There is the house, excellently priced and in the new section" which I must own. There is the car, in reality a dispensable luxury, which I must buy. There are the clothes, priced far above my purchasing ability, which I can not refuse.

There are the social relationships for which I strive with the sweat of my brow, and the blood of my veilth. The accomplishment of all these vain ambitions perverts my worth and my dignity.

In the pursuit of these whimsical fancies, I am reduced to spiritual poverty—to jagged despair, I am a victim of the first of the Satanic "IF'S."

REMEMBER, O MAN . . . in this season of Lent, the temptation of Christ is such a particular. He did not pervert His higher calling simply to satisfy the tempting pressures of material abundance or the gratification of His physical hunger.

This, I must remember, at all times and in all places, especially in the Season of Lent.
