The Baltimore AFRO's Platform

1. Fair employment practice (FEP) laws with enforcement power. Begin with city, county, state and federal governments.
2. 100,000 registered voters in Baltimore City.
3. A judge on the Supreme Bench and in the Federal District Court.
4. Integration in the state's reform schools and penal institutions.
5. Public hotels and restaurants open to all well-behaved citizens.

A disappointing start

The Baltimore Equal Employment Opportunity Commission appointed in October after three months of yet without a staff.

The city administration recommended that the staff consist of five positions.

The only colored person hired thus far carries the lowly designation of messenger.

It would be ironic indeed if the city's fair-employment policy commission, designed to give jobs on an equal basis to all groups, would reserve its most menial job for a colored person.

It would indicate how little the city administration thinks of the program of equal employment opportunity. Moreover it would set a very poor example.

A BILL INTRODUCED by Chester Ray, Second District Councilman, provides that the mayor shall appoint the executive secretary of the commission and that the executive secretary is to appoint his own administrative assistant.

In the first place, there is doubt in our mind that this violates the ordinances, which in itself is a bad thing to do.

Secondly, this would make the two top appointees in the commission not responsible to the commission but to the mayor.

We do not believe Mr. D'Alesandro approves that kind of playing politics with a commission as important as the Equal Employment Opportunity agency.

MR. ALPERT HAS announced that he is going to hold a hearing on his bill next week.

We hope he will postpone it for two weeks in order to give the citizens of Baltimore an opportunity to study the bill and express an opinion on it.

If the city intends to appoint a white person as executive secretary, then unquestionably the second highest appointment on the staff should go to an expert and qualified colored person in keeping with the commission's purpose and avowed program.

Just as we see it

It was around this time last year when our city was going through what some called a crime wave.

Alibis came from all quarters but none was more ludicrous than that one which related crime to race.

A police official even went so far as to release a report which attempted to show that colored citizens of Baltimore, while making up only 27 per cent of the population, were responsible for 51 per cent of the crime.

We took exception to such an irresponsible conclusion at that time and pointed out that crime is no respector of color.

We felt then that the responsibility for criminals rests upon the people in the city, not any part of it or any race.

We said Metropolitan Baltimore, with a population of 950,000, had at that time only 2,457 policemen, and only 2,021 were patrolmen.

And we suggested that the Police Department should ask for additional men to do the job and that police inspectors should not attempt to place their responsibilities on others until all remedies available to them had been exhausted.

Our views have not changed on this subject.

THE YEARLY crime report for 1956 was released this week. It is free from racial taps and filled with encouraging signs.

Police Commissioner Hopkins reports that:

Purse snatching has been reduced by 24 per cent.

Other categories of robberies were cut by 16 per cent.

And every single murder within the period was cleared by arrest!

Mr. Hepbron adds that the crime picture was improved because at times, he was able to employ approximately 400 additional foot patrolmen and detectives on active duty.

The Baltimore Police Department had a good batting average last year.

And we have every reason to believe that the 1957 picture will be brighter if the emphasis remains on increasing the number of foot patrolmen in those areas where they are most needed.

Dear Jackie Robinson

Anybody who is an expert at public speaking will tell you that you can't get up and make a good speech without planning ahead of time what you are going to say.

There are few public speakers — and they have been at it for many years — who can hold an audience's rapt attention with inspiring talk unless they have made some notes, and in fact, written out their remarks.

Again this week, Jackie Robinson says he was misquoted. This time, it was a remark concerning his former teammate, Brooklyn Dodger catcher, Roy Campanella.

Jackie says he did not say Campy was 'washed up' and we believe him if he says he didn't.

SPEAKING here in Baltimore last week, Jackie told an NAACP audience that often times he says are taken out of context and twisted simply because he is Jackie.

That is probably true. But we think Jackie can protect himself and save embarrassing apologies afterwards by writing down ahead of time everything he is going to say.

Here in Baltimore, a respected public official whom newspapermen admire, has a habit of asking that reporters advise in advance the questions they desire answered.

"I don't want to go off half-cocked," he says. After a few minutes study, during which it is presumed he has written out portions of his reply, he is ready to answer questions.

PUBLIC speaking is a new field for Jackie.

His talk here in Baltimore, while interesting, often-wander ed from one subject to another and generally showed lack of planning.

In fact, Jackie himself admitted that he did not know what he was going to say before he got up.

It may be true that Jackie's personality will be sufficient to draw audiences on his NAACP tour, but in his new job as personnel director for that restaurant chain, he will often have to make speeches or talk with people.

We think he will find that a few minutes planning ahead of time will make what he has to say much more interesting.

On other matters which are likely to be controversial, we suggest he write it down.

THE AFRO'S CREDO

A newspaper succeeds because its management believes in itself, in God and in the present generation. It must always ask itself—

Whether it has kept the faith with the common people;

Whether it has no other goal except to see that their liberties are preserved and their future assured;

Whether it is fighting to get rid of slums, to provide jobs for everybody;

Whether it stays out of politics except to expose corruption and condemn injustice, race prejudice and the cowardice of compromise.

Off The Beaten Path

By ELIZABETH M. OLIVER

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J.

Human life is basically a comedy and often its tragedies seem comic to the spectators, hence even a murder trial may have amusing incidents.

My two companions for almost 14 days have been a Swedish lady who came to "see" the murder trial much the same as one would view a movie, and a wealthy Jewish gentleman who ran in as soon as he could get away from his business.

Both have witnessed many murder trials including the New Jersey Lindbergh trial and are authorities on the whole deal, and just like in a movie show, can tell "what's coming next."

"BUT, MOST important, human opinion is generally reliable and, certainly, most impersonal.

And my friend knew the history of crime and punishment from the Middle Ages practices of the "whipping post" and "ducking" down to Maryland's erstwhile hang - by - the - neck decree, recently abolished in favor of "the gas process."

"I wanted my son to come," said the merchant, "so he can see with no bias that justice mudds work."

"You sure learn a lot about people," the lady stated, "and that's why I like it so much."

ON A CONVICT's being converted in jail they both agreed and said essentially this:

"God is the refuge of the incompetent, the helpless, the miserable, who find comfort in His arms, a superiority there, and some outlet for their energy."

One companion told this joke: "There was an old maid who said she went to Jesus because she couldn't get any other man."

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT is frequently discussed among courtroom visitors, but these two experienced ones, veterans of many trials, have gathered some deep wisdom.

"You should kill the one 'who done it,' to keep somebody else from doing the same thing to somebody else," said one.

"I didn't dig, they recommend saving the "temporarily insane" guy who is impossible to rehabilitate say that the "sane" booger who may have a chance to reform, should be killed."

Another view on the subject: "Why not electrocute a 'backward boy,' who has grown to be a man and is a menace to society? His continued existence is precarious."

They "snickered" as they thought of the "last meal," the "last message" and "the last three M's." How sentimental people are, they declared.

Interviewed a dog today. One may get weary of murders, lynchings, bus boycotts, fugerals, and dope addict trials so then you interview a dog for sweetness and light.

"Jerk," the heart-string puppy dog who was the first of "our" dogs to win a blue ribbon at the Md. Kennel Club show last week, is probably the smartest thing on four feet.

Say "sit" and he sits down, speak unto him to "heel" and he runs around on the left side of his beaming master and "heels."

A monster who looks like a black panther, long white teeth and—it is from a bunch of German shepherd dogs with pedigrees a mile long.

He is a member of the "working breed" of dogs in which includes boxers, collies, great Danes, German shepherds, bullmastiffs and Eskimo dogs.

TERMED a guard dog, the Doberman was developed by Louis Dobermann, a German, around 1890.

"Working breed" means these mutts have utilitarian value in that they work as police aids, night watchmen, herders of livestock and guides for the blind.

The Doberman pinscher, Rottweiller, German shepherd, great Dane, and giant schnauzer, were used along with the Airedale in the first World War, and the whole group were then called "police dogs."

The "farmers' aid" of this classification includes the collie, the English sheep dog, and the Arctic version, the Eskimo dog who not only pulls sleds and delivers brandy to the snowbound, but also performs a little "round-up duty" when it's cattle time up there.

Praise for Solons

Dear AFRO:

Voters in the Fourth legislative district of Baltimore City can well be proud of their colored representatives in the State Legislature. Observers at the Annapolis sessions demonstrate daily on the fine job being done by these men.

State Senator Harry A. Cole must be particularly commended. He has proven to be a wise choice.

His efforts to represent all the people of his district is an outstanding example and a guidepost for all present and future legislators.

Also, his opening up of job opportunities for colored citizens and recommendation of some of our most outstanding citizens to offices never before held by colored persons should be remembered. — W. C. FLIPPEN

Ban on JD

Dear AFRO:

What shall we read of next? Young boys holding up people, young girls fighting on the streets and now foolish school boys with nothing better to do than to shoot each other for kicks!"

The only cure for juvenile delinquency is to give our young people enough work to keep them occupied and then see to it that the work is done.

There is too much coddling done by parents, teachers and the courts, too. — ERNEST SMITH

Wants UN help

Dear AFRO:

I want to make this suggestion to the ministers of America. I think the people of this people are being treated down South should be brought up before the United Nations.

Nobody in Washington seems to be concerned about what is happening in Alabama and Florida. Maybe if an appeal was made to U.N., guards would be placed around dry down there.

We cannot afford to let their bombing continue until someone has been killed.

We raised funds for the Hungarians. How about aid for Americans down South? — "INDIGNANT SOLDIER"

Cabbie's conduct

Dear AFRO:

I read the story in Friday's paper about the policeman who was dragged by the cab. I have symathy for him because I have seen so much of that sort of thing in Baltimore.

Cabbies do not seem to learn how to deal with the public and they should have their permits withheld until their manners are improved. —(MISS) MARTHA GREEN

Dedicates poem

Dear AFRO:

I want to dedicate this poem to my mother, Mrs. Alice Floyd.

MY FRIEND

Whenever I'm worried troubled and blue,
It is He whom I surely turn to.
He always approaches
Whenever I seek
He listens patiently,
While I speak.
My friend is the Master
He is great, wide earth.
He's also your friend
Who loved you from birth.
He looks down upon us and wishes each day
that the people He made would more often pay.
Blessed be He
Whom I love so true.
Blessed be those Who love Him too.

Doris M. Holland
Morgan State College

Wants Courtesy

Dear AFRO:

Why don't you run a campaign on just plain hoe be courteous in every day living? I see so many examples of bad manners among young people.

Clerks who can not answer simple questions without showing anger and ignorance, waitresses who slump and pout about their duties.

The very first earmark of being civilized is knowing how to treat the other fellow. — HENRY THOMPSON

Full Time

Dear AFRO:

I read about the big crowd that went to hear Jackie Robinson when he was in town last Sunday. I would have been there myself but I had to work that day.

Just hope that all of those people who heard Jackie will also follow through on his advice.

You see this fight for civil rights is not a one-day affair. It goes on and on and the interest of our people must go on and on too. I have sent my membership to the NAACP and I make only $35 a week. I hope others will send theirs—(MRS.)

People, places and things...

Remember back in 1955 when the newspapers published a number of staff doctors who had pledged $27,500 in 1952 to the hospital's building campaign and had pledged on their pledges?

Remember that later, it was reported, that all save a half dozen had made good on their pledges?

Well, this is 5 years later. And it is to report that all save one doctor has paid his pledge. The holdout owes over $300.

Provident board now has the job of getting the $300 and they don't like the task. The medic who owes has a long record of public service and has given generously to the hospital and other causes.

MORE SEQUEL: Remember back in 1952 when the NAACP first received complaints from girls who answered Telephone Co. ads for operators only to be told the jobs were for white only?

Remember how the NAACP held conference after conference in an effort to break the white only barrier?

This is to report that as of now the Baltimore Telephone Co. has eight colored operators and many more clerks and other clerical workers.

Hope this time next year to be able to report that Telephone Co. is hiring Negroes in all classifications without regard to race or color.

What luck: Jeannette Chisholm, one of the hard workers on the dark and Jim Crow benefit cocktail party committee missed their party at the Coliseum Thursday night!

She had been waiting for a bed at Hopkins for sometime. She entered on Thursday where she underwent an operation.

Mrs. Irma Gilmore, the School No. 103 teacher, was beloved by many children - parents, fellow teachers. Those who knew her tell of how her house was open day and night to her friends and she never was too busy to help the children.

She was buried in a pale blue dressing gown and held a small bouquet of bleeding hearts in her hand, a floral tribute from her husband.

Among other floral pieces were a white carnation pillow from the Buxton Ave. Neighborhood Association.

There was a large gold chrysanthemum cross imbedded in white, pink and red roses and carnations from the PTA of School No. 103 and a huge basket of gladioli and garden flowers from the elementary school children.

Here's an interesting story I overheard this week. Two ladies discussing the widower who is "a lost ball in high grass."

It seems there was a youngster who asked his father for some money to buy some ABC bubble gum. This conversation followed:

Father: ABC bubble gum? Now I've heard of everything.

Son: Yes, ABC bubble gum.

Father: What does ABC stand for?

Son: Already been chewed.

The mother of these ladies saw it was that the estate any hopefuls had of sharing "Had already been chewed."

In the Redevelopment Area 12 among the landmarks which will go to make way for the new State Office Building and recreational buildings etc. are the York Hotel and the Monumental Elks Home at Dolphin and Madison.

Word is that the space now occupied by the 36-room hotel will be used to widen the street and add a playground.

Married or harried...

Here is an interesting editorial from the Gainesville (Ga.) Daily Banner for Monday, Jan. 28. It is entitled, "The Willing Mr. Wilding."

"A whole sociological study was compressed into a recent Associated Press story dateline Mexico City. It concerned actress Elizabeth Taylor and producer Michael Todd, who visited the Mexican capital en route to Acapulco where they will vacation.

It is altogether fitting that they were met at the Mexico City airport by a clown—Mexico's top comic Cantinflas. That does not complete the full cast of characters.

Michael Wilding is a British actor to whom Miss Taylor is married and obviously to a very obliging guy, is also flying to Acapulco to hasten the divorce proceedings.

MR. WILDING is not only willing to "expedite the proceedings," he also announces somewhat gratuitously that his wife and Mr. Todd will wed in Mexico.

"Mr. Whiting, by the way, is the gent whom newsmen observed hiding in the corner of Marie McDonald's living room.

Here is the final paragraph of the Todd-Taylor story just as it appeared in the Atlanta (Ga.) Daily Morning News:

"The News, Mexico City's English-language newspaper, in reporting the New York announcement, carried this lead: 'New York—Actress Elizabeth Taylor and producer Mike Todd said today they are married.'"

Give that near-sighted proof reader a front-row seat at the wedding—!

More people and things...

Remember Ivy Boone, the longtime AFRO service man who suffered a serious illness several years ago?

She sends a hello to all her Baltimore friends in a recent letter.

She now lives at her home in Meadville, Pa. Drop her a line, day greeting February 7. Address is Box 3, N. Park Ave. Extension.

Members of the June 1952 Douglass High School class are planning a 25th anniversary reunion.

Members are urged to write or call Mrs. Evelyn Hall Shields, 2547 Arunah Ave., at Longwood 6-1427.

Inez Mero Kent and her hubby, Harold, are in their new brick home at 3802 Edgewood Ave.

It's one of those $18,000 jobs—very beautiful. Carter Hall (Philadelphia) was the real estate dealer.

That's the same block where Bernice and Walter Gaskins (he's with Apex—district supervisor) occupy a pretty home (right next door at 3801) and across the street from the equally pretty house owned by Dr. and Mrs. Charles R. Davidson (3806).

THIS 15 mid-year examination week at Morgan State College.

A sophomore has a father who was born in the West Indies; and they now live in New York. He was born in New York, but came all the way down to Morgan State for his education.

Asked why he passed so many integrated schools to come to Baltimore, he said, elder people have told him Morgan was a good college.

By noon Monday, he had his geography and physical education, examinations. He said he felt confident he had.

A good student knows when he has passed his examinations.

An average student has to wait until he gets his marks back.

Talented Shirley Pinkett, the dramatic soprano who was presented in concert on Sunday, is a teacher in our schools. She is on the faculty at Banneker Elementary School.

She was presented under the auspices of the Lawyers' Wives. Remember when Shirley was a student at Morgan College in 'Madame Butterfly'?

Those who are experts in the field of music say she has a brilliant career ahead of her.

Young - looking - grandparents met recently: Mr. and Mrs. James Spriggs of Edgewood, Md.

Their grandchildren total 15. Here's how:—Marie and Jefferson Weaver of Edgewood have three kids; Geneva and Ollie Popel also of Edgewood, have six.

Clarence and Eloise Hopkins, also of Edgewood, have two and Catherine Darden in New York has four.

A large attractive and interesting family and you could never know the elder Spriggses were grandparents unless they told you.

Added proof, if any is needed, that the Shriners and Masonic grand masters have really hurled the hatchet and are now good friends:

Shrine Imperial Potentate Booker T. Alexander himself will come here on February 17 to confer past imperial potentate honors on Grand Master of Md. Masons, Dr. Willard W Allen.

The event is set for the Masonic Temple at 3 p.m.

Mr. Alexander lives in Detroit. He will arrive in Baltimore at 9:45 a.m. on the 17th and return to Detroit on the evening of the 18th.

Tips, tips and rumors...

Like I said before, there is never a dull moment on the city desk of a newspaper.

Along with the baseless news tips, the man in the slot receives numerous rumors and reports such as the one he was crossed our desk this week:

"A four-week-old baby is sitting up using the pot."—Note—why would anyone subject a young infant to potty training, especially when the experts by doctors advise parents to go slow on such training.

And this letter which says: "I want everyone on the Avenue to know I'm together again.

"They had a swell, week-end together and they will always be together.

"I guess the girls will stop trying to break them up. They really belong together..."

And, there was a call from a very sweet-talking lady who asked: "Why don't you look into the background of Mr. —? He lives at —and he drives a new car—!"

Boy, what would a newspaper do if it looked into the background of everybody who
