Adah K. Jenkins' MOMENTS MUSICAL

The recital given last Sunday by Elizabeth Rayfield II, a lyric soprano, and Julius Carter, organist, was admirable in many respects. In the first place, it began at 5 p.m. which was the hour scheduled.

The Methodist Men of Sharp Street Methodist Memorial Church, who sponsored the concert, as well as the performing musicians, deserve our heartiest commendations for this department from our constant lament of "delayed concerts."

The staff of ushers cooperated manfully in keeping late comers from entering during the performance of numbers; although the singer had to wait during her first group of songs for a few who insisted on entering the auditorium, instead of waiting until the performer had left the stage.

* * *

OUR NEW YEAR resolutions might include a decision to arrive at concerts a few minutes in advance of the hour or; and if late, to possess our souls in patience until the performer has completed a group of numbers.

Mrs. Hall, who began her musical career in the choir of Sharp St. Methodist Church, Baltimore Fellowship Choir and the Great Hymns Choir, chose her vocal instructors wisely and her work Sunday showed that she has profited by so doing.

Among her teachers were Edward Moyer, formerly choir master at Mt. Vernon Place Methodist Church, the late George Boiek and Fraser Gange (of Peabody faculty.) Her present tutor.

The voice has been developed with rare and without forcing and her general musicianship has grown with it.

The singer's style is much more sophisticated than when we heard her last and she "gives of herself" in the interpretation of what she sings with a larger freedom and deeper understanding.

Mrs. Hall was quite regal in a gold damask and black velvet gown, which was made very effective by good stage lighting.

THE VOICE, is especially suited to the "bel canto" style of the florid arias, such as Handel's "O, Had I Jubal's Lyre and the sustained melody of "Care Selve." The winsome air of "My Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair" (Haydn) and the operatic phrasing of "Les Filles de Cadiz" (The Girls of Cadiz) suited the singer's voice and temperament. John Jacob Niles' Appalachian carol "I Wonder as I Wander" and the engaging Kentucky ballad "The Nightingale" were warmly applauded by the good sized audience. They were moments when one heard what may become the finely spun pianissimo (very soft tones) which is the pride and joy of a lyric soprano. As the concert proceeded an obvious tremulo disappeared.

Mrs. Hall was ably supported by her accompanist Thomas W. McPherson, Jr., who also took a bow for his arrangement of the spiritual, "I'm a going to Do Julius I can."

BALTIMORE IS fortunate to have added to its musical colony this year an organist and musician of the stature of JULIUS Carroll. Rarely does one hear the organ music of the great Johann Sebastian Bach as Rev. Carroll performed them last Sunday. His technical equipment is such that the complexities of works like the Fugue in D-Minor (from the great Toccata And Fugue) were surmounted and the listener was able to contemplate the magnificence of the art rather than the difficulties of the writing.

How frequently one hears, Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" (Bach Chorale) played so that the attention of the listener is drawn to the rapid triplet accompaniment rather than to the lovely simplicity and religious fervor of the hymn itself.

Rev. Carroll gave to this composition its true meaning and intrinsic beauty.

In the modern work "Suite Gothique" (Gothic Suite) we have a return of the old classic form — a collection of pieces. They were Introduction-Choral; Minuet, Priere Notre Dame (Prayer to Our Lady) and Toccata (a very rapid movement).

The composer, Boellmann, clothed these forms that were popular in the days of Bach, Mozart and other classic writers in the melodic and harmonic material of the moderns.

This is known in a general way as "neo-classicism." The suite is provocative and challenging, without being harsh or disturbing.

Julius Carroll has a gift of creating moods and atmosphere. He can be virile and fiery or exquisitely plaeid, but is never theatrical or showy.

* * *

THE ORGAN portion of the concert closed with two Hymns tune preludes — the Bethany meter (Nearer My God, To Thee) using the original melody and Festal Song (Rise Up, O Men of God) The latter was written by William Merrill as a hymn for the Brotherhood Movement of the Presbyterian Church and has become one of the most popular modern hymns. It was especially appropriate for the Sunday Concert.

CALENDAR: Sunday, Jan. 20th at 5 p.m. at Allen AME Church, Lexington Street and Carrollton Ave., Bob Haffendon Chorale in recital. The program includes "Black is the Color of My True Love's Hair," composed by Niles and based on the idiom of an American ballad, with Earl Cheney, as soloist; "Lonesome Road" (arranged by Mr. Haffendon, with solo by James Wood and "Hallelujah Chorus" from "Messiah."

Joan Bryant, soprano, will sing the aria "Hear Ye, O Israel" from Mendelssohn's oratorio "Elijah." "Arioso" from Bach's "St. John Passion" will be sung by James Wood and Gerald Looney will perform Schubert's "Ave Maria." The accompanist is Manuel Marambba.

* * *

THE CHORALE, which was organized by Mr. Haffendon last spring, is interracial and interfaith. The Rev. J. Wayman Henry is pastor of the church which is sponsoring the concert.

Sunday, Jan. 27th at 4 p.m. at New Metropolitan Baptist Church, McCulloh and Mosher Streets, Veronie Tyler, soprano, will be presented in recital by the Youth Fellowship of the church. This promising young singer is a voice major at Peabody Conservatory, under the tutelage of Joseph Victor Lafcroute. She was soloist at the recent performance of "Messiah" with a 36-voice choir at Sharp St. Methodist Church and was one of the trio that electrified a large audience at the closing concert last spring at Peabody.

Miss Delores Bailey, chairman of the Youth Fellowship, is being assisted by Mrs. Claudine Snowden and Mrs. Lillian Canaday and Rev. John Tillery, pastor of the church. Patron reservations and general admissions may be obtained by calling Msr. Snowden at Ma-3-5533 or Mrs. Canaday, at Madison 3-1199.

Officers of the New Metropolitan Baptist Youth Fellowship are Miss Delores Bailey, pres; Miss Ruby Crutchfield, vice pres; Miss Shirley Bailey,

Trojans win 6th in row in home floor splurge

PETERSBURGH, Va.— The Virginia State Trojans won their sixth straight home game Wednesday night as they outlasted a strong Bluefield five, 64-59, at Daniel Hall Gymnasium.

Leading 33-31 at the half, VSC spurted to a 50-40 lead with nine minutes remaing. The Blues had overcome an early 14-3 deficit, to lead 24-21 three minutes before the half. Sparked by guards Lorenzo Wood and Glenn Spratley, the Trojans quickly regained the advantage and led by two at half.

Forward Ruby Sowell and guard Leander Howell kept the visitors in the game, chalking up 24 apiece. When the Trojans led 40-50 with 3:10 to go the pair sparked a drive led for victory, pulling the Blues to 60-57.

But Trojans guards Johnny and Bill Lawson hit to ice the contest. Forward Sam Simmons topped all scorers with 19 points. Johnson hit for 16 and Wood for 14.

ON TUESDAY NIGHT, the Trojans staged a rousing finish to down Morgan State College, 75-68.

Johnson led all scores with 19 points. Simmons collected 13, Oliver 12 and Lee 11.

Brightful topped the Bears with 18. Aaron Jackson followed with 13 and Bill Lyght with 11.

LAST SATURDAY Virginia State staved off a last-minute Shaw rally to edge the Bears, 81-79 before a screaming crowd.

Leading 81-74 with less than 30 seconds to go, VSC saw guards Frank Keith and Billy Murphy score three and two points respectively in the dying moments.

Johnson and Bobby Taylor hit consistently in the fourth period to give VSC leads of eight and nine points, respectively. Murphy and Galloway Pohill continued to slice the Trojans' margins.

It was Taylor's six points in the final two minutes that

Diana Dors on New Albert Screen

Painting the searing picture of the mental agony of a young woman who murders for love and revenge, and then faces the death penalty, "Blonde Sinner," headlining the much-publicized and excitingly beautiful Diana Dors, is a powerful absorbing and shockingly frank motion picture drama.

The Allied Artists' release, with the platinum-tressed Miss Dors sensational in the title role, opens at the New Albert Theatre.

As the murderess, the shapely, 24-year-old actress emerges as a dramatic actress of warmth and deep emotional power, ranging from tender gaiety in the early scenes to a tragic grandeur as the condemned woman.

This performance by a girl everybody knows as a glamour queen is a haunting and accomplished job of acting.

Topping the featured cast in "Blonde Sinner" is Yvonne Mitchell in a key role as a young woman-guard who finds herself drawn with sympathy and understanding towards the convicted girl.

A new male star looms on the motion picture horizon in the person of newcomer Michael Craig, who plays Miss Dors' improvershed pianist-lover. He brings to the screen a new blend of rugged good looks and tempestuous charm.

'The Marines will treat you rougher'

"West, I think the Marines will treat you rougher than the Reformatory—hope, they will."

Chief Judge Emory H. Niles was speaking to Marine Corps Pfc. Harry R. West, 18, 1400 block N. Parrish St., in Youth Court Tuesday along with two other on a charge of automobile larceny.

West and the codefendants, Sidney A. Gwaltney, 16, 1500 block Baker St., and Harold Richard, 18, 1400 block School St., pleaded guilty at criminal arraignment to unauthorized use of an automobile.

West was turned over to military authorities for action. Gwaltney was given a one-year suspended sentence on condition he return to Virginia to live with his parents. And Richard was sentenced to one year at the Reformatory.

* * *

PRESTON PAIRO, assistant State's attorney, said in all probability West would not be discharged from the Marine Corps but would receive "strong discipline."

Officer Jack Cook stated he arrested the trio early on the morning of Jan. 5 after observing them in the stolen car, in the 1500 block Argyle Ave.

The patrolman said when he questioned them about the ownership of the car he was told that it belonged to Richard's mother. However, he related that an investigation disclosed that the car was owned by Louis E. Smith, 2004 Pressman St.

MRS. MARGURITE BELAFONTE

This is Mrs. Harry Belafonte...

When the story broke, last week, that the Harry Belafontes were ending their eight-year marriage by divorce, the first question on the lips of many was "What about Mrs. Belafonte?"

This is Mrs. Belafonte...beautiful model, brilliant child psychologist and mother.

Before her marriage to the famed folk singer-actor, Mrs. Belafonte was Marguite Byrd of Washington. She attended Hampton Institute where she received a B.S. degree in child psychology. She then did graduate work at New York University until 1949.

* * *

SHE WAS married on June 18, 1948 after a whirlwind courtship which started when she met Mr. Belafonte at Hampton where he was then a Naval student assigned to the school.

Mrs. Belafonte went to New York in 1946 to accept a teaching position to train students from the universities in teaching methods and student nurses in pediatrics in understanding the well child. She taught at the Lenox Hill School in New York until 1952, when she became educational director for the Day Care Centers, a job she held until the arrival of her second daughter, Shari Lynn in 1954. Her older daughter is Adrienne Michelle.
