Miss Sullivan slated on Woolworth Hour

NEW YORK (ANP) — Singer Maxine Sullivan will be one of three featured guests on CBS Radio's "The Woolworth Hour: The Best in Music," Sunday at 1 p.m.

Miss Sullivan will sing "If I Had a Ribbon Bow" and "Give Me the Simple Life".

HISTORY OF JAZZ

Horace Spreit, a farmer, will trace the history of jazz from the days before the Emancipation Proclomation on CBS Television's "Odyssey" when the CBS Public Affairs program presents "They Took a Blue Note", Sunday, 4 to 5 p.m.

"Odyssey", produced in cooperation with the world's museums, uses the colored man as a living museum of memories of suffering and escape through the media of music.

AFRAID OF DISGRACE, teenager Virginia Leon puts her life and reputation in hands of illegal doctor Joseph Allen Jr. in unconventional drama "The Desperate Women," at the Regent Theatre.

'Desperate Women,' 'Violent Years' now on Regent screen

Two unusual pictures with themes based on two subjects which are occupying the front pages of daily newspapers — teen-age juvenile delinquency and criminal abortion . . . are now on the Regent screen.

"The Violent Years" story of gun girls on the loose — and "The Desperate Women" strikes out into new fields of adult interest, bringing before your eyes shocking revelations previously only whispered behind closed doors.

The show, which the Regent is billing as the double-shock show of your life, will have its first Maryland screening there.

"DESPERATE WOMEN" dramatically deals with abortion — a question which faces millions of women, yet the subject matter of its story has been "hush-hushed" over the years despite statistics from police and public health officials which bear out the fact that literally millions of women risk their lives and reputations — actually invite the underworld to prey on them — because of their ignorance and fear.

Produced by Samuel Newman and directed by Louis B. Appleton Jr., "The Desperate Women" features a large cast of players, new to Hollywood, most of whom were recruited from the legitimate stage and T.V. fields.

Included as part of the "Desperate Women" is a dramatic scene which actually shows the birth of a baby, a scene only recently passed by the Maryland censor board after much legal maneuvering.

Traveling with the show will be Karl Haydon, noted New York commentator, who will appear in person on the Regent stage, and who will discuss today's problems of love and marriage.

Because of the very frank treatment given the picture, its showings are limited to adults only.

AT ROYAL — Clyde McPhatter, one of the many stars in the Royal's giant revue now playing through Thursday, Jan. 17, plus a special midnite show Friday, Jan. 11. Other bigtimers are Clarence "Frogman" Henry, Jesse Belvin, The Heartbeats, The Debutantes, "Screamin" Jay Hawkins, Tracy McCleary's Royal Men of Rhythm.

'King, Four Queens' at Met

Clark Gable totes a six-shooter in his new film, a western called "The King and Four Queens," held over a 2nd big week at the Met Theatre through United Artists release.

The picture, filmed in CinemaScope and De-Luxe Color, shows that Gable can shoot and ride with the best of them.

Three out of four desperadoes are killed by an explosion. And no one knows who the survivor is, because he has to hide out from the law.

The four lovely widows await impatiently at the mother-in-law's ranch to learn whose husband as still alive—and consequently where the loot is hidden.

The four girls are played by Eleanor Parker, Jean Willes, Barbara Nichols and Sara Shane, with Jo Van Fleet in the role of the mother-in-law. Robert Waterfield produced and Raoul Walsh directed the Margaret Fitts story which she and Richard Alan Simmons adapted to the screen. The music was composed and conducted by Alex North.

Harlem features 'Written on Wind'

Magnificent drama is on the screen of the Harlem Theatre now, with the opening of "Written on the Wind," Universal-International production in Technicolor boasting a star-studded cast headed by Rock Hudson, Lauren Bacall, Robert Stack and Dorothy Malone.

The story is a dynamic study of a man who becomes incapable of living happily with his young wife. His conflict with his best friend, who loves his wife without admitting it, makes this one of the most compelling emotional stories to hit the screen this year.

There probably has never been a more abandoned creature portrayed on the screen than that played by Dorothy Malone as Stack's sister whose mind is on one thing only, men, and on one man in particular, Rock Hudson.

McPhatter stars at Royal Theatre

What looks like the "Who's Who" in the listings of record-in-" "Giants" form the stars of the Royal's big revue opening Friday, Jan. 11 for one week. Plus their Midnite show Fri. Jan 11. On the screen "Spin A Dark Web".

Clyde McPhatter, known for his hit "Without Love", holds the co-headline spot with Clarence "Frogman" Henry latest of the red-hot disc stars singing his brilliant "Ain't Go No Home."

Jesse Belvin, song-star of "Goodnight My Love," The Heartbeats, famous for "1,000 Miles Away," "Screamin" Jay Hawkins, song ace of "I Put A spell On You," the Debutantes, deliveries of song and Tracy McCleary's Royal Men of Rhythm complete this entertainment package.

Clinton, Tenn., film presented on TV

CLINTON, Tenn. (ANP)—"Clinton and the Law: A Study in Desegregation," was presented on "See It Now," on the CBS Television Network last Sunday by Edward R. Murrow.

The story of Clinton's struggle to comply with a Federal Court to integrate its high school was put on more than 70,000 feet of film by two "See It Now" camera crews recently.

Currently in its sixth season, "See It Now" is edited and produced by Edward R. Murrow and Fred W. Friendly. Reporter for the Sunday telecast was Arthur Morse.

MANY CITIZENS of the small community (population 1,000) who had remained quiet during the months that it took for the desegregation crisis to erupt in Clinton, spoke freely to the "See It Now" reporters.

Viewers saw and heard comments by members of the White Citizens' Council as well as by their opponents.

They heard the Rev. Paul W. Turner describe the attack on him and deliver his first Sunday sermon after the attack.

They attended a PTA meeting; a (Clinton High School basketball game and a joint meeting of the Clinton Chamber of Commerce and Junior Chamber of Commerce.

OTHERS WHO willingly gave the "See It Now" staff their explanations of and reactions to events which brought tear gas, tanks and the National Guard to their town included:

D. J. Britain Jr., principal of Clinton's High School; James B. Meredith, defeated Clinton mayoralty candidate; prosegregationist John Kasper.

Clem Disbman, who is removing his daughter from the high school because of desegregation and who is related to three of the 16 defendants coming up for trial in January; Joanne Allen, whose father is withdrawing her from the school to seek "better educational opportunities in the West".

Federal Judge Robert L. Taylor, of Knoxville, and Horace Wells, editor of the Clinton Courier-News, among others.

'Rock . . . on down to Albert

The new musical "Rock 'n' Roll" hit, "Rock, Rock, Rock," which is now playing at the New Albert Theatre features an overwhelming array of the greatest talent in the "Rock 'n' Roll" field.

The picture stars Alan Freed whose breathtaking success has rightly caused him to be called the "King of Rock 'n' Roll." "Rock, Rock, Rock" further features Frankie Lymon, the talented 13-year-old who sings "Why Do Fools Fall In Love," sold well over a million copies and his group, The Teenagers, have a refreshing and haunting, by beautiful style.

LaVern Baker who has been dubbed another Pearl Bailey, sings the new hit "Tra La La." It is apparent from Miss Baker's performances why she enjoys the following that she has.

In addition the picture stars Chuck Berry whose specialty number, "Maybelline" is such a smash.

"Rock, Rock, Rock," also features the following groups: The Three Chuckles, The Moonglows, The Flamingos, Jimmie Cavallo and His House Rockers, The Johnny Burnette Trio as well as Cirino and the Bowties and Alan Freed's big eighteen piece "Rock 'n' Roll" band.

Jo Van Fleet, a gun-totin' gal in "The King and Four Queens," stars with Clark Gable, held over 2nd big week at the Met Theatre.

Adah K. Jenkins' MOMENTS MUSICAL

Dr. Martin D. Jenkins, president of Morgan State College, has received an invitation from the Presidential Inaugural Committee for the College Choir to participate in the program "America Dedicated to World Peace," to be given in Washington at the Sheraton-Park Hotel on Sunday, Jan. 20th.

The program, which is being arranged at the request of President Eisenhower, will be of a patriotic nature and is under the direction of Congressman Edward May of Connecticut.

In addition to Morgan College choir, the Purdue University Glee Club and Virginia Military Institute Cadet Choir will participate. The combined choirs will also sing three sections, if it is possible that the program may be televised and covered by radio.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR the Morgan Choir to spend the day in Washington are being completed by Dr. R. Hayes Strider, head of the music department and Clarence E. Henderson, conductor of the choir.

A resume of the history of the choir will be included in the dedication feature program arranged for the occasion.

• • •

MR. HENDERSON, who is a native Baltimorean, is a graduate of Central State College, Ohio, and Teachers College, Columbia University.

Before joining Morgan faculty, he was an instructor of music in the Baltimore Public Schools, gaining experience with choral groups dates back to his years in the European Theatre during World War II and with the Hall Johnson Choir at the Berlin Festival sponsored by NATO.

Mr. Henderson was also a member of the famous duPaur Infantry Choir on two continents. Also, his established vocal training has been with Edward Boatner, Lola Hayes and Homer Hoyt.

HUGH O'MEAGHER has returned to his post as organist and co-director of music at First Unitarian Church, Charles and Franklin Streets, after a month's concertizing on the harpsichord in Europe.

In addition to a number of successful appearances on the Continent and in England, Mr. O'Meagher added another harpsichord to his collection of these valuable and expensive copies of the "grandfather of the modern piano."

He will appear in concert at the second of the Mt. Vernon Series, Wednesday, Jan. 30 at Mt. Vernon Place Methodist Church.

• • •

THE HOLY DAYS were observed at First Unitarian Church with a Sunday evening concert, conducted by Frank Whitmore, co-director of music. Phyllis Frankel, soprano, Marvin Gladk, guest tenor and Mr. Whitmore, bass-baritone, sang "The Virgin's Slumber Song," "The Christ Child" and "I Wander As a Wander."

The trio also did one of the most beautiful portions of "Christmas Oratorio" (Saint-Saens)—"My Soul Doth Magnify."

The entire choir sang the anthem—"Tollite Hostia" from the same work. Solo portions of another well liked anthem "Gesu Bambino" were sung by Patricia Evans and Dede Hauck contraltos.

• • •

AMONG THE carols of interest were "Divinum Mysterium," an ancient 14th century plainsong and an old English melody, "In the Bleak Midwinter." The Litany and prayer were led by Dr. W. Walderman W. Argow, minister. Following the service there was a social hour in the parish hall, with congregation and choir joining in familiar carols.

• • •

THE YOUNG MUSICIAN Series, through its chairman, Mrs. Nina Collier, is announcing eight concerts for January to be given to a group of schools which subscribe to the series concert.

The trio, Concertante, composed of Leopold Mannes, piano; Madelene Foley, cello and Werner Torkanowsky, violin, will supply the lecture recitals, playing works by Mozart, Mendelssohn, Dvorak and Beethoven.

This series is aimed especially to reach schools attended by handicapped children, who have difficulty in attending the Baltimore Museum series. The schedule includes:

Thomas Jefferson School, Tues., Jan. 8 at 9.30 a.m.; Arlington Elementary School at 1 p.m.; Falstaf Elementary School, Jan. 9 at 9 a.m., and Wm. S. Baer School at 11 a.m.;

Pute School, Thursday Jan. 10 at 10 a.m. and Churchville Elementary School at 1 p.m. Francis Wood School, Friday, Jan. 11 at 9:30 a.m.; Bryn Mawr School at 11:20 a.m. and Lutherville Elementary School at 2 p.m.

Last week marked the premiere performance of the "Concerto for Alto Saxophone and Orchestra," by Peter Jona Korn, the American composer of Los Angeles, with Sigurd Rascher, saxophone virtuoso, as soloist.

THE PERFORMANCE was given by the Elkhard Symphony Orchestra, of Elkhart, Indiana, and was conducted by Zigmont Gaska.

At the same concert eight saxophones were included in the string section during the performance of the 4th movement of Haydn's Symphony No. 2.

A saxophone octet, using the entire family of these instruments, played "Prelude and Fugue in G minor" by Bach, transcribed by Capt. Samuel Lohola, assistant leader of the United States Army Band.

In addition to the evening concert there was a Young People's Concert in the afternoon.

FRANKIE LYMON and the Teenagers are one of the featured acts in the new DCA release, "Rock, Rock, Rock," now playing at the New Albert Theatre.
