SUNDAY VISITORS — The formal opening of the new Charles R. Law Mortuary was held Sunday and visitors were able to see the extensive improvements that have made the funeral home one of the finest in the city. The visitors are Mrs. Pocahantas Tyler and Mrs. Levi Henry. At the organ is Mrs. Sophie Johnson.

SOMETHING NEW — A sense of quiet dignity and reverence is present at the newly enlarged and renovated Charles R. Law Mortuary, 802-808 Madison Ave. This is one of the two reposing rooms. Other features of the home include a new chapel capable of seating 200 persons and off-the-street parking facilities.

Law Mortuary gets new look

In the dignified beauty of the newly renovated Charles R. Law Mortuary, 802 Madison Ave., bereaved families might find it easier to bear the inevitable.

Officially opened Sunday, the new rooms — to the left of the original establishment — include a dressing room, preparation room, reposing room, powder room and a large, spacious chapel.

The chapel, seating capacity 200, is a restful shade of pink. Holding on the panelled walls is gilted.

Inside the panels, interior decorator, Paul Holtzclaw, has stenciled an intricate pattern of white daisies.

IN THE MIDDLE of the footed wall are two bronze drapery.

The floors are also covered with thick, luxurious, wall-to-wall carpeting.

Behind the reposing room—which is yellow — is the powder room, also outfitted with modern furnishings and lighting.

Before entering these rooms, a small alcove leads to the preparations and dressing rooms.

This white room resembles the most modern of doctors' offices. Through its window can be seen the large customer parking lot.

For the mortuary established since 1943, the new renovations cost approximately $15,000.

INCLUDING THE owner and manager, Charles R. Law, the

They are:

Mrs. Selby Lewis, secretary; Lawrence Mapp, in charge of vehicles; Hunter Brown, assistant; Marshall Jones, director's apprentice and Mrs. Willana Valentine.

Another branch of the Law firm is at 307 Main St., Turner Station.

Wm. Armistead, former carpenter

Funeral services were held for William Armistead, Sr., 916 Bevan St. Tuesday at Leadenhall Baptist Church.

The Rev. T. B. Davis officiated.

Mr. Armistead died at home Saturday after suffering from a heart condition for three years.

The former carpenter had been a member of Leadenhall Baptist Church for five years.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Julia Armistead, a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Walker and two brothers, Elmon and Luther Armistead.

Advertising is a very intangible commodity. That is true in all businesses and professions, but especially so in ours.

We do, however, have a definite place in the community and we want you to know us and our beliefs on occasions of joy as well as in times of sorrow. As we go along we meet a lot of people and hear a lot of interesting views and opinions on life, expressed by ordinary people like you and me. In our humble way we'd like to pass these thoughts and opinions on to you for what they are worth.

So, from now on we're going to appear in this newspaper every week. Don't fret—we're not going to be political anyhow, or even commentators. Never forget that in order to better understand our future, we must first better understand our motives and our beliefs.

To memory of our beloved friend Ike late Mrs. HELEN G. HOLLAND:

"Such lives as hers put death to scorn;
They lose our day to find God's morn."
—Paul Laurence Dunbar.

We trust, also, that you will never forget that ELLIOTT FUNERAL HOME represents four generations of service responsibility, serving the area with complete and understanding funeral service. The most modern of facilities and equipment and attention to all details will serve you at time of bereavement at ELLIOTT FUNERAL HOME, 1120 N. Carrollton St. Phone Eastern 7-4000.
