BIG SISTERS will be off to Washington, Saturday, to welcome a new chapter being formed there.

The D.C. group is headed by socialite Gladys Bettis and the meeting will be in her fabulous home, just recently completed.

Here, the group held its January session (a luncheon date) with Edith Shorter on Saturday. In addition to the delicious meal, they did some long-term planning:

A party for their husbands in March will include dinner the theatre and cocktails later...this so that the man in their lives will know each other well as the annual weekend party to be held at Rosedale Beach Club in Delaware in June.

The first part of their year is devoted to their civic responsibilities, and at present, they are at work on campaigns for "little sisters."

At the meeting on Saturday were Willa Bouldin, Juelle Brown, Mae Chamberlain, Ivorene Duglas, Bernita Fullwood, Helen Gattis, Mamie Green, Frankie Hinchen;

Also Madora James, Bernice McDaniels, Phyllis Shamwell, Edith Shorter, Lilyan Slater and Carrie Waters.

• • •

THE TOTS AND TEENS is another group which will be off soon to visit a sister club.

Some of the mothers will go to Philadelphia on Feb. 7, with aims towards promoting a closer bond with the chapter in that city.

The delegation will include Mesdames Norma Lambson, Elizabeth Mason, Joy Bond, Ruth Marshall and Delores Brench.

This group will, too, get their

Hampton must set goals on higher academic standards

"Obviously, the life of General Samuel Armstrong has given Hampton a rich heritage, but the Institute must now revise its needs in the light of a new day," the Founder's grandson told Hampton Alumni, here, Sunday.

The speaker was Arthur Howe, Jr., of Yale University, and chairman of the board of Trustees at Hampton. The occasion was the annual Founder's Day celebration and the hosts were members of the Baltimore Alumni chapter.

Mr. Howe spoke at a dinner meeting held in Wilson's Restaurant.

• • •

"I AM OFTEN disturbed about the present gospel where emphasis does not lie in work but in leisure," he told the group, and added that, however, "mental work is more arduous than manual labor."

"I am worried that in these times we turn out so many intellectuals who won't get behind dirty. Manual skills must not be lost.

"The whole person must be educated. In this age intelligence is power. And Hampton must accept the challenge to high mental skills," said Mr. Howe.

• • •

THE GREAT RESPONSIBILITY of Hampton alumni now is to give stature to the institution by their individual achievement, to give study to the needs of the institution, to secure students and to give support.

Pointing out that Hampton students pay about a third of what it costs for their education, Mr. Howe added "One generation gave you, you must pass this on."

• • •

PRESIDING AT the dinner meeting was Dr. Saul Perdue, also of the board of trustees of Hampton. Mrs. Catherine W. Adams, chairman of the Founder's Day Committee, brought greetings, a chorus under direction of Gerald Burkes Wilson, sang compositions of Hampton's famed R. Nathaniel Dett. Mrs. L. Lois Carter gave the introduction to the music of Mr. Dett. Henry C. Johnson, president of the Baltimore Chapter of the Alumni, gave the closing remarks and the invocation was by William Boykins.

Youngest Jacks and Jills try hands at creative art project

The Jack and Jill members of the five and six year old group trailed parents to the Mondawmin meeting room, Saturday, for an art project.

They went in with stacks of newspapers and came out with stuffed figures.Such magic was the talent of guest director of work - play activity, Mrs. Mary B. Adams.

With scissors, crayon, newspapers and staplers, the "sixes" cut and stuffed original creations that became story characters.

The "fives" turned paper disks and yarn into caricatures of their mommies and daddies. The finished products were so charming that the age-group dispensed with the usual formal group picture and photographed each little artist clutching his or her creation.

FUTURE ARTISTS present were:

Michael Brown, Lynn Carpenter, Mark Carter, Frederick Gilkes, Gayle Higginbotham, Warren Joyner, Elizabeth Julian, Rodger Matthews, Ralph Parker;

Benjamin Phillips, Ellen Peck, Rudolph Redd Jr., Sharon Robinson, Rena Taliaferro, Erroll Taylor, Herbert Trader, Valdemar Washington and Karen Willis.

• • •

ASSISTING MRS. ADAMS with scissors and staplers were: Mesdames Charles Brown, Harry Carpenter, Simon Carter (Chairman of the activity) Emma Gilkes, Forest Higginbotham, Grozie Joyner, Emerson, Julian, Frank Phillips, Karl Parker, George Peck, Rudolph Redd, Myles Robinson, George Taliaferro, Erroll Taylor, Herbert Trader, George Washington, Ossarew Gee, Jr.;

Mrs. John Stokes is chairman of the age - group which Mrs. Simon Carter, chairman of the activity assisted by committee members Mesdames Emerson Julian and Rudolph Redd.

YWCA courses will instruct women in parliamentary usage

Mrs. Carl W. Wheelock, author of "A Primer of Parliamentary Procedure," and president of the Board of Directors of the Young Women's Christian Association will be the instructor for a course in Parliamentary Procedure at the Central Branch YWCA, according to Miss Gay Dickerson, executive director of the Branch.

The course will meet on Friday mornings at the Park Avenue and Franklin Street YWCA building; and is open to all club women interested in learning the techniques for properly conducting meetings and assemblies.

• • •

HOW TO CONDUCT a meeting, how to lead a discussion, how to preside graciously are a few of the subjects to be discussed by Mrs. Wheelock during the six-week term. Miss Dickerson has said that such a course is an absolute "must" for every woman whether she is interested in a small neighborhood club or in the activities of the U.S. Congress or the United Nations.

Mrs. Wheelock has served as parliamentarian for the National Board of the YWCA, for the League of Women Voters and many other civic groups. She is presently a member of several city and state commissions in addition to her duties as president of the Metropolitan Baltimore YWCA.

Enrollment in the course is still open, and women interested in registration are invited to telephone the YWCA, MUlberry 5 - 1460, or to come to the registrar's office between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m. before next Friday.

Muffins dispell morning blues

Serving a tempting breakfast every morning of the week is a knack that lies largely in avoiding culinary ruts. Breakfast breads will give you an assist in this respect.

When you make them yourself and serve them fresh from the oven — so much the better. Muffins are a good choice. Quick to mix, they bake in just about 20 minutes. It's speedier yet when you measure out and combine dry ingredients in advance. Then you have but to add the three liquid ingredients and stir.

• • •

SERVE HOT Muffins with tomato juice, eggs, milk and coffee.

Eggs respond to the variety treatment, too. To make shirred eggs, as they are shown here, butter individual shallow baking dishes and line each with a slice of Canadian - style bacon. Break one or two eggs into each. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and dot with butter or margarine. Bake uncovered in a slow oven about 15 minutes. Garnish with snipped parsley or chives.

No matter how simple or how complex the breakfast, enriched breads will make it better — and more nutritious. The three B - vitamins and iron from of the enrichment formula guarantee this.

• • •

WHEAT MUFFINS are made with two cups sifted enriched flour, one tablespoon baking powder, one teaspoon salt, and two tablespoons sugar, one egg, beaten, one cup milk, two tablespoons melted shortening.

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Combine egg, milk and shortening. Add liquid to flour mixture, stirring only until flour is moist two - thirds full.

Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 20 minutes.

Makes about one dozen medium - sized (2 - inch) muffins.

Stimulate lagging appetites with new and novel recipes

By FANNIEJOE REID

This is the time of the year when appetites seem to lag, despite best efforts of the cook to keep meals interesting.

So be sure that your best efforts are put into effect.

Here are a few suggestions.

Instead of toast squares or plain pastry shells for your creamed tuna, eggs, chicken, etc., why not make short cakes of spicy cheese pastry.

Use your favorite cheese straw recipe, but instead of cutting into straws, cut the pastry into squares, rounds or rectangles.

Bake as usual and put together with favorite filling, shortcake fashion.

• • •

COME SUPPER TIME serve a delicious cold slaw as a starting point. To finely shredded cabbage add slivers of cooked ham and wedges of ripe olives. Garnish with hard cooked egg, and serve hot biscuits or heated rolls as accompaniment.

With a bowl of hot soup and a fruit dessert, this makes a very satisfying meal.

• • •

NEXT TIME you serve broccoli, brussels sprouts, cauliflower or asparagus, top them with a golden crumb crown.

Brown a half cup of soft bread crumbs in butter. Stir in a tablespoon each chopped parsley or herbs and instant minced onion, and a chopped hard cooked egg.

Spoon over hot cooked vegetable.

• • •

TO GET YOUR teen - ager to eat that much needed breakfast, put more variety in the meal.

Bake a pan of tender muffins, fill with sweet, chewy raisins. Sprinkle tops with sugar and cinnamon before baking.

• • •

RAISIN TOPPED SUGAR cookies are an old fashioned favorite as popular today as years ago.

Cream together a half cup butter or margarine, a cup sugar and two eggs. Sift and measure one and a half cups all-purpose flour; sift again with a half teaspoon salt, and one teaspoon baking powder.

Blend into creamed mixture, adding a tablespoon milk if dough is very stiff. Flavor to taste, using vanilla, grated lemon rind or almond extract.

Chill dough for easier handling, then roll about one-eighth inch thick, and cut with floured cutter. Place on lightly greased baking sheets and sprinkle with sugar.

Carrots, onions, tomatoes on this week's 'best buys' list

This is the off season for many fresh fruits and vegetables but there are some foods available which will ease your budget, says Russell C. Hawes' Marketing Specialist, Baltimore Office, University of Maryland, Department of Markets.

If your food budget needs help, here are a few items which are attractively priced. White potatoes, yellow onions, green celery, yellow carrots and canned peas are among the best - buys this week.

Potato prices are very reasonable for this time of year. This year's crop from Maine, New York, and Pennsylvania is more than adequate to supply everyday needs. Potatoes from these states make up the bulk of our daily receipts. Potatoes from Idaho too are available but sell considerably higher than potatoes produced in the northeastern states.

New carrots from the southwest and California are reasonable in cost and are in liberal supply. Carrots are a nutritious and flavorable food. Select carrots are orange in color. Shun carrots which have deep green shoulders for such carrots are usually bitter.

While yellow onions are not in too great a supply, they still are selling at moderate prices. Onions are not eaten for their food value but mostly to flavor food. The per capita consumption of onions hasn't changed much in the last four decades.

Mushrooms, tomatoes, and lettuce remain at fairly reasonable prices.

IN THE processed list of foods, canned applesauce and canned peas are of good value. Supplies of canned peas are heavy — one million cases larger than last year.

For fruits, citrus, and apples continue to give the most for your money.

How much does the American homemaker really know about the real cost of the food she buys? About the comparative costs of "the eating portions" of main - dish meat and egg meals she serves her family?

When the homemaker goes to her favorite meat counter, she is influenced by price, family health - and - appetite appeal, menu variety, and convenience. She can see the prices listed per pound of poultry meat, other meats, and per dozen eggs, but does she know what she really pays per - pound for the cooked edible portions she places before her family at meal time?

For instance, when she buys certain cuts of meat like a chuck roast of beef that sells for 59 cents per pound, the cost of the cooked edible portion jumps to $1.51. Pork chops at 99 cents per pound end up on the table in terms of edible portions at a cost of $2.48 per pound.

HOWEVER, A choice broiler chicken that cost 49 cents per pound goes to 80 cents per pound of cooked edible portion. Eggs do even better. A pound of large eggs — usually eight, since large eggs average 2 ounces each — at a purchase when cooked in the many ways price of 50 cents per pound can be served broiled, fried, or scrambled without the shell at slightly more than 50 cents per pound.

Why is there such a difference between the per - pound costs of meats and the per pound cost of the edible portions? It's a matter of shrinkage from cooking and the amount of inedible bone and fat that wind up as waste.

Eggs, as a protein food similar to meats, provided the highest conversion of cooked edible portions to ready - to - cook weights. Fully 89 percent of an egg — all the shell (based on eight eggs per pound), was found to be edible when cooked in the many ways for which eggs are famous.

Recommend lamb, eggs, and bluefish.
