Help to 'I. S.' family proves people are kind

By R. M. PHILLIPS

More proof that people are kind, kind, kind: Mrs. I.S., the courageous Fairfield mother of ten whose appealing story was told in this newspaper last week is still getting help from AFRO readers.

The calls started coming three hours after the AFRO hit the streets on Friday, and there were still callers asking for her address so they can lend a hand at presstime today.

Remember Mrs. I.S. is the mother whose hubby is out of work. Remember she faced eviction unless she could get someone to help pay the rent?

Remember she said she wasn't asking charity, just temporary aid until her hubby could get a job? (He was injured and out of work, drawing unemployment compensation of $237.)

* * *

Remember here the mother said she was sure she could budget for food and their other needs, but it just wasn't enough to pay the rent too?

And remember how the welfare workers said they could not help unless the father had deserted or the children were placed in foster homes, and how the mother said she loved her children and wanted to keep the family together?

And remember there is a new baby, just two months old and the other children ranging in age from 2 years to 15?

Well, thanks to AFRO readers, the rent's been paid through April (The Josiah Diggs Charity Club did that.) And thanks to you and you and you.

And thanks to people like the Rev. and Mrs. S. J. Mack and members of John Wesley Methodist Church in Glen Burnie who together raised $60; and thanks to you and you and you, things are looking up for the family of Mrs. I.S.

* * *

Here at City Desk, we were wondering out loud what made the response so great from AFRO readers for the Mrs. I.S. family.

We decided that you agreed with the reporter who wrote the story that a mother who was fighting to keep her family together and asking only temporary aid deserved your help because she was the exception.

The courts today are full of parents who neglect their children and do not try to keep the family together.

Hats off to Mrs. I.S. and to all generous AFRO readers who helped her.

Probation violator gets three years

Louis Thomas, 28, 400 block on the corner of Myrtle Ave. and mulberry St.

Officer Fowler said he found Earlie James standing on the steps at the side of the store and found Randolph Clark on the corner.

He said he had stopped Clark earlier, because he was "walking around suspiciously."

The patrolman said he arrested them and from their information, he arrested Thomas, White and Hennigan.

In the apartment where Thomas lived, the officer said, grocery items were found that were among the things listed as missing.

Other things recorded as missing from the store owned by Charles Leisure, included: Thirty-three dozen eggs, two boxes of hot dogs, butter, razor blades, sodas and canned beef stew.

Myrtle Ave., was sentenced to three years in the House of Correction Tuesday in Criminal Court.

He was charged with burglary and violation of probation. Four other men were charged with him in connection with the same offense.

They were:

Leonard G. White, 26, 500 block N. Fremont Ave., not guilty;

John H. Henningan, 20, 400 block Myrtle Ave., not guilty.

Randolph Clark, 28, 100 block N. Pine St., sub curia;

Earlie V. James, 23, 700 block N. Bradley St., sub curia.

OFFICER NATHANIEL PONDER of Northwestern District, testified before Judge Joseph R. Byrnes that he was checking doors Dec. 19 when he found someone had broken into a store

Ike sends rights bill to Congress

President Eisenhower Thursday, sent to Congress a seven-point civil rights legislative program.

The Administration's recommendation included proposals similar to those in bills sponsored by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (Dem., Tex.), Senate Majority leader; and Paul H. Douglas (Dem., Ill.).

The President made no recommendation concerning Part III, which was stricken from the civil rights bill by the Senate in 1957.

The recommendation of some versions of Part III reportedly was in the message at the time the President went over it with Republican Congressional leaders at the White House Monday night and until he met with them in the regular Tuesday morning conference.

The last-minute deletion of any reference to Part III is regarded as a defeat for Vice President Nixon and a victory for Senators Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the Republican policy committee, and Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, Senate Republican leader.

Bridges and Dirksen reportedly want to do nothing to displease the Southern Democrats, whose votes are needed to enforce constitutional rights, including the right to attend unsegregated public schools.

* * *

IN HIS message submitting his recommendation, Mr. Eisenhower said:

"Two principles basic to our system of government are that the rule of law is supreme, and that every individual, regardless of his race, religion, or national origin is entitled to the equal protection of the laws.

"We must continue to seek every practicable means for re-enforcing these principles and making them a reality for all.

"The United States has a vital stake in striving wisely to achieve the goal of full equality under law for all people.

"On several occasions, I have stated that progress toward this goal depends not on laws alone, but on building a better understanding.

"It is thus important to remember that any further legislation in this field must be clearly designed to continue the substantial progress that has taken place in the past few years.

"The recommendations for legislation, which I am making, have been weighed and formulated with this in mind."

* * *

THE PRESIDENT recommended legislation to:

1. Strengthen the law dealing with obstructions of justice so as to make the use of force, or threats of force, to obstruct court orders in school desegregation cases a federal offense.

2. Make flight from one state to another in bombings of churches and schools a federal offense so as to give the FBI authority to investigate the destruction or attempted destruction of schools or churches.

3. Give the Attorney General the right to inspect voter registration records.

4. Provide a temporary program of financial and technical aid to state and local agencies to assist them to change over from segregated to unsegregated public schools.

(This recommendation is similar to, but does not go as far as a provision in the Douglas Bill.)

(The Douglas Bill would authorize the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare to work out a school desegregation plan for a community of Columbia, which falls to do so. If the community refused to accept the plan worked out by the Secretary, a federal court could be asked to compel its acceptance.)

5. Authorize, on a temporary basis, establishment of schools for children of members of the armed forces where public schools are closed because of desegregation decisions or orders.

6. Establish by law a Commission on Equal Job Opportunity Under Government Contracts.

7. Extend the life of the Civil Rights Commission for two additional years.

(The Johnson Bill would extend the life of the Commission to January 31, 1961.)

Matron found dead; city may bury her

A 65-year - old matron who was found dead at her home when officials arrived to evict a tenant from a barber shop in the 1000 block Pennsylvania Ave., may be buried at the city's expense.

Since her death on Monday, the body of Mrs. Emma Carroll who is survived only by her husband who is critically ill at Provident Hospital, has remained unclaimed at the city morgue.

Her husband, 66 - year-old Robert Carroll was admitted to the hospital on Jan. 1 and is bed undergoing treatment for malnutrition, high blood pressure, diabetes and a heart condition according to police.

Hospital officials announced that they have "no idea" when Mr. Carroll will be released.

The body of Mrs. Carroll was discovered around 11:45 a.m. in her first floor apartment by Constables Frank Lonegro and Isiah Yancy, police report.

Police said rigor mortis had already set in when they found the elderly woman lying across the floor of her home in the 100 block Pierce St. on the early morning of New Year's Day. He said the man had a stab wound in his chest.

Miss Hooper told the jurist she stabbed Mr. Mack during a dispute while they were drinking.

She said they had been engaged ten years, and planned to marry in April.

Two women hurt in auto crash

Two women were admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital for treatment of minor injuries Saturday after three cars collided at Holbrook and Lanvale Sts.

They were Miss Delores Harrington, 19, and Miss Shirley Harrington, 18, both of 1406 Holbrook St., who suffered a cut lip.

The drivers were identified as. Miss Norma A. Anderson, 17, of 1112 Sleepy Dell Ct.; Edward G. Colbert, 31, 2022 Brookfield Ave., and William Burke of Phoenix, Md.

Victim says he'll wed his alleged assailant

After a charge of assault to kill her husband to - be was dismissed, Miss Helen B. Hooper, 36, 780 block N. Pierce St., was sentenced to 30 days in the Women's Reformatory Monday on a common assault charge.

Judge Edwin Harlan, who heard the case in Criminal Court, dismissed the defendant of the greater charge, when Louis Mack, whom she allegedly cut with a butcher knife, declared he still intended to marry her.

On this point, he gave these answers to queries by Judge Harlan.

Q—Do you still plan to marry her?

A—Yes.

Q—You aren't afraid she will do it again?

A—No. I don't think she will do it again.

Officer Stephan. Moran told the court he found Mr. Mack lying on the floor of his home in the 100 block Pierce St. on the early morning of New Year's Day. He said the man had a stab wound in his chest.

Miss Hooper told the jurist she stabbed Mr. Mack during a dispute while they were drinking.

She said they had been engaged ten years, and planned to marry in April.

Two injured in traffic mishap

Richard Belsen Jr., 40, of the 2200 block Lyshrook Ave. and Shelvent Smith, 31, of 1300 block Slater Rd., were injured last Sunday in a traffic accident at Baltimore St. and Fremont Ave.

Both men were treated at University Hospital for facial injuries after their car collided with another automobile and struck a pole.

A third person, David Brown, 35, of the 600 block N. Stockton St., was admitted to the hospital for examination and later released.

Charges of reckless driving were filed against Mr. Belsen and Daniel Hall, 54, of the 600 block N. Stockton St.

School board seeks delay

A hearing is scheduled today (Friday) at 10 a.m. on the Alexandria School Board's request to Judge Albert V. Bryan to stay his order admitting nine colored pupils to three Alexandria schools next Tuesday morning.

At a special meeting Wednesday night, the board decided to ask for a delay pending an appeal because "the case has put us in right much of a spot," according to T. C. Williams, superintendent of schools.
