TO ADMIT ALL — View of the administration building at McDonogh School for Boys in Pikesville, Baltimore County. The school's Board of Trustees has voted to admit boys regardless of race beginning in Sept. 1959. McDonogh was established 85 years ago with funds left by Baltimore-born John McDonogh, who willed it was to admit all poor boys. The 22-foot monument in photo is life-size figure of Mr. McDonogh who freed his slaves, had no white overseers on his plantations, and left their management to colored men who were given an opportunity to obtain an education.

unsuppressed glee over your candidacy for mayor of Baltimore.

Because — you are back on the blah - blah trail again, with no formidable primary opposition and the opportunity to shake a lot of hands, while the two Democrat candidates toss bricks at each other.

BABIES JUST BEGINNING TO UNDERSTAND — if somebody tries to tell you about the superstitions surrounding Fridays the 13th, ignore them and go back to sleep.

Because — before that joker came up long ago with his Friday 13th scheme, another man had long proved that there is no bad luck — just bad management.

His name — Methuselah. He lived 969 years, longer than anybody!

fine, the coed was sent to the city jail.

She was released the following day after her parents paid a fine of nine dollars.

The other dollar was subtracted since she had spent a day in jail.

MAGISTRATE Schonfield also told the AFRO that three officers in the courtroom testified they saw the coed's foot brush the officer's clothes and he himself saw dirt on his clothes.

He added: — "She testified that the officer took her by the shoulder and that's when the assault took place.

"She admitted she struck him on the head.

"Several witnesses in the courtroom said they had noticed her trying to get a witness not to prosecute her brother. The witness told her to go away.

"I tried to be reasonable but her attitude was quite bad.

"She could have told me the officer molested her and I would have taken action." Magistrate Schonfield said.

THE COED'S MOTHER told the AFRO the following two days daughter's arrest, "the officers went into another room and then one came out and told the sergeant to "book her."

"After the hearing, they put her back in the cell. When my daughter left, they added another charge. She (Darlina) was alone and we didn't know about the second charge.

"I called the station house but they wouldn't tell me anything. Later on she called me and told me they were getting ready to take her to the jail.

"I told her to let me talk with someone but no one would come to the phone."

Mrs. Cofield added: "I think they (the police) were all shook up about this.

"They sent an officer to my house around 11 Monday night to tell me they had my daughter at Northeast."

Mrs. Cofield said the arrest had been "most embarrassing" to her daughter and she intended to ask if the NAACP should be called.

"They (The police) were very rude about it all the way. I think their pride was hurt more than anything" she declared.

THE COED'S attorney, Robert Watts has announced that he will appeal the breach of decorum charge although the fine has been paid.

On Thursday, Chief Inspector Oscar Leahy admitted to the AFRO that the case was an "unusual one."

He said it had been brought to his attention, but he did not feel at liberty to comment on it at this time because an appeal is pending and it is still in court.

THE COED, known to friends as "Cookie" is described as a model student at Dunbar by officials there.

She is a member of the school choir, camera club and the Allied Youth Group.

The school reports her attendance and scholarship at Dunbar has been "very good."

During a conversation with an AFRO reporter, Mrs. Cofield disclosed that one of her sons is attending New York University and another is in the Air Force.

ALTHOUGH the Cofield family would not reveal the name of the person involved in the case in which the teenage girl was interested, records at Northeastern show the following:

That on Monday, Feb. 9, an Earl Cofield, alias Earl Wilmore, 22, 500 block Rodmar Ave., was convicted of two larceny charges and was fined $35 and costs on each.

Earl Cofield was charged with larceny of a hub cap valued at $10 from Archie Bychok of the 1600 block E. Madison St., on Jan. 26, and with larceny of two hub caps from a 1957 automobile owned by the same man on Jan. 15.

According to Northeastern District police, the fines were not paid.

message from a white parent who said she was looking forward to the Turner children's entry in the school attended by her own child.

IT WOULD soon be time for school.

The door opened. The strangers knotted together in a grown watching. Cameras flashed and the three Turner children and Sally Ragland, entered a station wagon parked near the door and were driven away.

There was a mad dash for cars and a drive of two and one-half miles. When it was over, the strangers watched intently while the Turner children, and the Ragland child, who were joined by schoolmate Jessie Mae Jones, together with the adults, walked up the block long road leading directly to the William Ramsey Elementary School.

THE MOMENT neared.

About 35 pairs of eyes watched the children's progress in a section across from the school reserved for the press.

White children stood in the windows of their schoolrooms looking out.

Police inspected credentials of those seeking entry on the schoolyard.

Cameras focused.

The Turners, the Ragland youngster and the Joneses were near the end of their historic walk. Elsewhere in the city, other Raglands and the Lomaxes would begin or had ended theirs at two other schools.

The group approached the doorway of the William Ramsey school.

THE HISTORIC moment had come.

They went through the doorway and their entry and subsequent enrollment in the office of the principal who made no reference to the historical significance of the occasion, marked the first day of desegregation in Alexandria schools.

Outside the observers still kept vigilance, but it was all over.

HISTORY HAD COME AND GONE.

3 children die in fire

A fire that destroyed a house on Earleigh Heights Rd., half mile west Ritchie Highway in Anne Arundel County, claimed the lives of three children on Thursday afternoon.

The dead were listed as Bernard, 7, and Brian Bey, 5, and Edward Bey, ten months.

The children were cousins. County policemen said the blaze trapped the children in a story room and their grandmother Mrs. Mattie Bey, made futile attempts to reach them.

Fatal crash

Wesley Treat 50, 400 block N. Greene St., was killed Thursday in an automobile accident on U.S. Route 301 four miles south of Glen Burnie.

Police said the car in which Mr. Treat was riding went off the riad while attempting to negotiate a turn. Three other persons were injured in the wreck.

Teacher is second at Fla. university

GAINESVILLE, Fla. —Mrs. Daphne Duval, 53-year-old Lincoln High School teacher, Monday became the second of her race to enroll at the University of Florida. She is taking a graduate course in education at night.

George Starke Jr., 27, of Orlando was the first colored student to enroll. He was admitted to the College of Law in September.

NEWS & NOTES

By: R. Dolacy Peters

In case you are unhappy with some of the modern inconveniences — traffic, smog, cost of living, noise, etc., don't feel too sorry for yourself. It seems that the Romans had the same complaints 1800 years ago.

Here are a few lines on life in Rome from the writings of the ancient satirist, Juvenal:

About traffic—"Hurry as we may, we are hemmed in by a surging crowd in front and a dense throng of people pressing in from the rear . . . You can be considered foolish and thoughtless about a sudden end, if you go out to dinner without your will made."

About the cost of living in Rome — "Here you must pay a big rent for a miserable house . . . In Rome, everyone dresses above his means. This is a common fault: We all live in a state of pretentious poverty."

About smog—"See how the smoke rises from the crowd which hurries for the daily doles."

About the Druid Hill Branch YMCA—This branch of the YMCA now in its tenth year on Druid Hill Avenue had its kick-off meeting for the spring enrollment drive (Congressman Diggs was the speaker) on February 2, 1959. The goal is 1263 Adult Memberships and 980 youth. The drive will continue throughout the month of February.

About MUTUAL BENEFIT SOCIETY and Insurance. —In mid-year 1958, the life insurance companies of the country had in excess of $1,000,000,000.00 invested in loans to shopping centers throughout the country, substantiating the fact that life insurance policy funds have become an important source of capital in America for financing commercial developments. The Mutual Benefit Society in the year ending 1958 increased its dividend scale up to three hundred per cent on some classes of ordinary insurance plans. Profits realized from various investments of Live Insurance Companies are shared with the policy holders in the form of dividends. Call MUTUAL BENEFIT SOCIETY, MU. 5-0624 about our insurance investment plans.

Seaton and Center families. Miss Williams resided for many years in South Carolina and attended the former Paul Quinn and Williams College, Kingsville, S.C., of which her father, the Rev. Emery Wallace Williams was president.

From a family of educators, Miss Williams' mother was the late Virginia Chase Williams, also an intructor.

MISS WILLIAMS attended Miner Normal College, Howard University, Columbia University and studied music at the Boston Conservatory. She held a B.S. Degree from Howard.

The musician, who until recent years contributed a column to this newspaper entitled "Moments Musical" trained and conducted many choral groups and choirs of several churches in Washington, among them the 15th Street Presbyterian Church, Berean Baptist, Union Wesley AME, Zion and the Mount Zion Metropolitan.

ON JULY 4, she conducted a chorus of 500 voices on the east steps of the U.S. Capitol and on the return of Eisenhower from his flight to Paris, she conducted a chorus of 1,000 voices on the west step of the Capitol.

Miss Williams aided various drives such as the Community Chest, the Red Cross and Heart Fund. She was a member of the "Treble Clef," a music organization that is over 60 years old and was active in the National Council of Negro Women. She was also chairman of the music committee as well as a member of the board of directors of the Phyllis Wheatley YWCA.
