No radical changes in grades under Md. Guard program

"There will be no radical changes in personnel so far as grades are concerned. The preliminary table of organization is being revised now. It won't be ready until about April 1.

"But there will be no radical changes. There will still be four units. But there will be need for 89 to 100 more men. The authorized strength will be increased."

Col. Carey Jarman was speaking of anticipated changes in the 231st Transportation Battalion of the Md. National Guard which is to undergo substantial reorganization this month.

Major General Milton A. Reckford, The State Adjutant General, explained the reorganization is to:

"Enable it to better perform its historical role as an integral part of the first line of defense of the United States.

"The National Guard must modernize its structure and adjust its organization to the requirements of modern warfare. Such adjustments already have been completed by the active army."

THE REORGANIZATION in Maryland is part of a nation-wide plan and it is expected that it will be completed in time for field training this summer.

This will be the first major overhaul of the 29th Infantry (divided between Maryland and Virginia) since early World War II days when the "Orlando-lar" division came into existence.

Like that change in organization the current one is designed to increase the mobility and flexibility of the division in keeping with today's concept of warfare.

THE PRINCIPAL changes in the Maryland Army National Guard to become effective 1 March 1959 are:

The two infantry regiments, 115th and 175th, will be replaced by three battle groups of seven company-size units each.

The 1st Battle Group of the 175th Combat Arms Regiment will replace the 175th Infantry Regiment (5th Maryland) with headquarters at the 5th Regiment Armory.

The 1st and 2d Battle Groups of the 115th Combat Arms Regiment will replace the 115th Infantry Regiment (the county regiment) with headquarters at Towson and Salisbury, respectively, and units in Catonsville, Frederick, Kensington, Silver Spring, Hyattsville and all towns in which units are presently located on the Eastern Shore.

Maryland's part of the Artillery of the 29th Division which now consists of a headquarters battery and two battalions, 110th and 224th, of 105 mm howitzers, under the reorganization will consist of a headquarters battery and three battalions, each of two firing batteries — one a 105 mm howitzer battery and one a 155 mm howitzer battery.

The three new battalions will be designated 110th, 224th, and 116th. Pikesville will continue to be the artillery headquarters with outlying batteries at Bel Air, Greenbelt, and Westminster. Brigadier General John P. Cooper commands the division artillery.

FOR THE FIRST time Maryland will have a medium tank battalion consisting of Headquarters and a tank company at Cumberland, two tank companies at Hagerstown, one at Frostburg and one at Oakland.

This will necessitate a conversion of the units now located in these towns. This battalion, located in an area that long has been associated with the 115th Infantry Regiment, will be known as the 1st Medium Tank Battalion of the 115th Combat Arms Regiment.

The 121st Engineers now a five unit battalion with headquarters at Ellicott City will lose its engineer company at Oakland but will gain two companies by conversion at Laurel and Glen Burnie.

The 231st Transportation Battalion under the command of Lt. Colonel Vernon F. Greene, now located in the old Richmond Market armory on North Howard Street, but expected, during the year, to move to a new armory now under construction in West Baltimore, will convert two of its present three truck companies into armored personnel carrier companies.

At the same time it will be redesignated the 229th Transportation Battalion of the 29th Infantry Division and the companies will be known as A, B, and C.

A new combat aviation unit (to be known as the 29th Aviation Company will be organized in part at Harbor Field. Included in its personnel will be approximately 35 liaison pilots for its light planes. Part of this company will be located in Virginia.

ANOTHER NEW unit for the 29th Division will be the Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment of the Division Trains under which the supporting elements of the division will be drawn together for administration. It will be located in the 5th Regiment Armory.

The 104th Medical Battalion commanded by Colonel Edmund G. Beacham, located in the Fayette Street Armory, Baltimore; the 729th Ordnance Battalion, Lt. Colonel Donald E. Freeman commanding, with units at Havre de Grace and Highfield; and the 29th Quartermaster Company at Annapolis, all of the 29th Division, will undergo no substantial change.

The 29th Division Headquarters Lt. Purnell as division commander and Brigadier General William J. Wilts as assistant, located in the 5th Regiment Armory, will undergo some changes.

Three new non-division units will come out of the reorganization: the 130th Evacuation Hospital, a semi-mobile organization of 400bed capacity under the command of Colonel Robert Kimberly; the Headquarters and Headquarters Company of the 200th Military Police Battalion; and the 136th Signal Electric Company, all to be located in the 5th Regiment Armory, Baltimore.

IN ADDITION MARYLAND has been allotted an additional missile battalion (NIKE) the 680th, of two firing batteries to be organized in the Washington area.

This will make a total of three missile battalions 683d, 679th and 680th, operating under the 691st AAA Group Headquarters.

This reorganization will mark the end of the infantry regiment as a tactical organization. The principal infantry fighting organization henceforth will be the smaller battle group.

However, to preserve and continue the history of the old regiments they will become non-tactical combat arms regiments to which infantry battle groups and artillery and armor battalions will be attached.

All present armory facilities in the State will continue to be employed after the reorganization.

'What have you given up for Lent?'

Lent is traditionally a time for abstinence and self-denial of those things that bring pleasure.

In order to find out whether Baltimoreans are following in the footsteps of tradition the AFRO inquiring reporter posed this question this week.

"What have you given up for Lent?"

Here are the answers:

James B. Howard, salesman, 3707 Forest Park Ave., stated:

"I am not Catholic or Episcopal, so I didn't give up anything for Lent."

EDWARD BROWN, retired steelworker, 317 N. Carrollton Ave. made this comment:

"I always keep Lent. I gave up drinking. I think everybody whether Catholic or not should make some kind of sacrifice."

In a downtown food market was Howard Green, a shipping clerk, of 311 Dolphin St.

"I've given up smoking. The first few days were pretty hard, but now I've gotten used to it," he said.

Further in the back of the market, the reporter met Mrs. Martha Wright, a housewife 15417 Watty Ct. with an armful of packages.

"My religion doesn't require that I give up anything for Lent, so I didn't," she replied.

STILL LOOKING for more ideas and viewpoints, the reporter met Mrs. Ida Sessoms nurses' aide, 924 Castle St., who said:

"I gave up smoking. The first week was awful, but now it doesn't bother me. I even think I could give it up permanently if I tried."

Luther Clemens of 2205 Druid Hill Ave., standing just outside of the downtown market, commented:

"I just couldn't think of anything to give up."

Carrying numerous bags and bundles as the result of a morning's shopping was Mrs. Corena Frederick, post office clerk, of 1931 Druid Hill Ave., who replied to the big question:

"I give up so much during the year, till I can't afford to give up anything for Lent."

THE REPORTER came upon Mrs. Bernice Tarver, housewife, 1730 Dukeland St. looking in the window of a jewelry store.

"I actually didn't think about it. It slipped my mind. I didn't give up anything this year."

Still digging and pounding the pavement, looking for someone else to "pop the question to" the inquiring reporter met Alan Jones, stock clerk, 528 Lanvale St., sitting at the counter of a five and ten cent store eating lunch.

Talking between mouthfuls, Mr. Jones told the reporter that he gave up sodas for Lent.

"I wanted to make some kind of sacrifice, and I love sodas, so I gave them up.

"Most people give up things that they can do without anyway, I aren't making a sacrifice."

At the linoleum counter of the same store, Mrs. Alma Morsell, clerk, 2531 W. Lanvale St., was looking at the sale prices on some of the items.

Stopping to talk for a minute, she said:

"I've given up sodas and candy. I sure miss my candy, because I love it."

CANDY, cigarettes, sodas, and other beverages are only a few of the things given up for Lent.

But it seems as though they are the most popular, and that is probably because practically everyone eats candy, smokes, drinks sodas or other beverages.

World War I vet

Funeral services were held for Howard W. Brandon, Sr., 67, 1905 Clifton Ave., Friday at the Arlington Phillips Funeral Home, 1305 Monroe St.

The Rev. Sidney Daniel, pastor of Emanuel Christian Church, officiated. Mr. Brandon was a steward and longtime member of the church.

He died Monday in Pt. Howard Hospital after a two-year illness.

During World War I, he served with the Army in France.

Mr. Brandon and his wife, Mrs. Rose Branson, celebrated their 14th anniversary last Dec. 24.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a son, Howard Branson, Jr.; a daughter, Mrs. Edith Colton; and a sister, Mrs. Belle F. Boykin.

Mrs. Mary C. Clayborne

Funeral services were held Thursday at Sullivan Funeral Home for Mrs. Mary Otelia Clayborne, 64, 1004 N. Bentalou St., who died at her home on Monday.

Mrs. Clayborne who had been an invalid for 12 years was the mother of Mrs. Elizabeth C. Dambry, a teacher at the Junior High School Special School No. 131 and Mrs. Gracie C. Walker a supervisor in the Department of Public Welfare.

Her sons are Edward Clayborne, a city employee and Herman Clayborne, manager of the Club Astoria.

MRS. CLAYBORNE was the widow of the late Judge Clayborne, a Gloucester County, Va., farmer, and the daughter of the late Laura and Edward Carter of Gloucester County.

A lifelong member of the Gleaning Baptist Church there, Mrs. Clayborne came to Baltimore in 1925 after the death of her husband but retained membership in the Virginia church.

In addition to her children, Mrs. Clayborne is survived by two brothers, George Carter and Israel Carter, and two grandchildren.

Linwood Frazier

Funeral services were held for Linwood Frazier, 46, 309 E. 22nd St., Thursday at St. Marys Episcopal Church where he had been a life-long member.

The Rev. E. Lawrence Lacher, pastor, officiated.

Mr. Frazier died suddenly Tuesday in Provident Hospital after suffering from a hemorrhage.

He worked as a chauffeur for a Ridgewood Rd. doctor for more than seven years.

He and his wife, Mrs. Alice Frazier,were preparing to celebrate their seventh anniversary March 2.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a daughter, Miss Clara Ann Frazier.

Civic League to hear Miss Bertha McNeill

When the Cooperative Women's Civic League holds its annual luncheon, here, Saturday the speaker will be Miss Bertha C. McNeill of Washington.

The luncheon will take place in League House, McCulloh St., under direction of a committee headed by Mrs. Spencer G. Dobson.

MISS MCNEILL, after many years of teaching in Washington, is now a lecturer at Howard University. She was for many years journalist for the National Association of College Women.

In church work she has been chairman of the Social Action Committee of Lincoln Memorial Congregational Temple that worked actively in civic areas; such as, housing, juvenile delinquency, and civil rights. In 1943 a small number of people organized what has now become the Washington Fellowship House. She was one of the original few.

INTERNATIONAL WORK she has for many years worked with the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom; as chairman of individual committees, as coordinator of the Division of Education, as one for the vice presidents which office she still holds.

She is chairman of the D.C. Area Branch; also, one of the directors of the Jane Addams and JEANNE MURPHY Peace Association, and serves on both the National Policy Committee and the Legislative Committee. She has attended four of the International Congresses as a delegate and has been elected as alternate for the coming Congress in Stockholm this summer.

Mrs. Vivian Cook is president of the Cooperative Women's Civic League.

IN MEMORIAM

MURPHY, DANIEL H.—In loving memory of our father who passed away February 28, 1922:

The moon and stars are shining
Upon a lonely grave
There sleeps our dear father
We tried so hard to save
His life was full of kindness
A helping hand to all in need.
A pleasant smile, a heart of gold
No finer father this world could hold.
The blow was hard, the shock severe
We little thought his death so near.
He bade none a last farewell
He said goodbye to none
The heavenly gates were opened
And a lonely voice said "Come".
Sadly missed by his children,
CLEMENTINE E. KNOX
JOHN H. MURPHY, III
and JEANNE MURPHY

Mrs. S. E. Nash

Funeral services are being held Friday (today) at 1 p.m. at the Oak St. AME Church for Mrs. Sarh Ellen Nash, 70, 2213 N. Howard St., who died at Provident Hospital on Sunday.

Mrs. Nash was the former Miss Sarah Ellen Price, the granddaughter of the late Rev. Daniel and Ellen Price of Anne Arundel County and the grandniece of the late Rev. George Price, founder of Payne Memorial.

She was born in Baltimore, June 21, 1888, the daughter of the late Daniel and Mary Frances Price. Her husband, the late Spencer Nash Sr., died in 1930.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Mary Elliott, Mrs. Edith Jones and Miss Sarah E. Nash; four sons, John, Walter, Ohal and Paul Nash; an uncle, William Price; three grandsons, and one granddaughter and one great granddaughter.

Chi Deltas honor Founders, take NAACP life membership

with Lula Jones Garrett

The elegant dinner party at Wilson's on Sunday evening marked the 46th anniversary of Chi Delta Mu Fraternity.

Not only was there a sumptuous meal, but a top-notch program. Dr. Charles Watts, president of the local chapter, presided.

And the principal remarks came from Dr. E. W. Shervington, who is national president.

Dr. Shervington pointed out that the fraternity, originally devoted to inter-group activity, was now turning its program to community problems.

And to back up this, the chapter presented $500 to Dr. William Watts for a life membership in NAACP. Dr. Watts, a member of the fraternity is also chairman for the Baltimore branch of NAACP. Dr. Gilbert Banfield, fraternity treasurer, made the presentation.

Other speaker was Dr. Dolores Hunt, president of Chi Wives, who told the group that her forty-odd member auxiliary is fast absorbing the close-knitness as well as the fun-producing qualities of the fraternity.

Throughout the evening music was provided by the River Chambers Trio, who especially serenaded Dr. and Mrs. Charles Woodland, who are celebrating their 27th anniversary; and Dr. and Mrs. Shervington, who have been wed 25 years.

Dr. Edward McDaniels was chairman of the Founder's Day observance. The fraternity was established at Howard University in 1913 by the late Drs. A. C. Jerry of Washington and Humbert of Kansas City.

Newest initiate in the local chapter is Dr. Ross. Other recent inductees are Charles T. Davidson, James Davidson, Lonnie Green, and Warren Lee.

Dr. Joshua Mitchell recently transferred from the Meharry Medical School chapter.

Attending also were:

Drs. and Mesdames Edward McDaniels, Charles Woodland, George Brown, Gilbert Banfield, James Hawkins, A. Albert Smith, Eugene Byrd;

Drs. and Mesdames E. W. Shervington, T. W. Anderson, Benjamin Kimbers, Maceo Williams, Carol B. Lee, William H. Watts, Charles Watts, McDonald Bando;

Drs. and Mesdames Richard Hunt, H. P. Hughes, Clarence Reynolds, George Lee, Thomas Harris, Bernard Christmas, Ralph Young, Warren Lee of Washington.

Drs. and Mesdames Joshua Mitchell, Walter Davidson, Charles Davidson, Lonnie Green and Ross;

Drs. George Adams, Bernard N. Christmas, James Davidson, Bruce Alleyne and John Hagan.

Guests included Mrs. Winifred Rhoden, and Misses Augustine Brown and Ida M. Anderson of Washington, who came with Drs. Alleyne, James Davidson and Hagan, respectively.

AND SPEAKING OF anniversaries, two popular young couples, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Ringgold, will more than likely be out on the town, Friday evening, when they both celebrate fifth anniversaries.

In addition Mrs. Ringgold is debating celebrating her birthday . . . she has elasticity there having been born in one of those February years. Tsk! Tsk!. The couples, being neighbors on Longwood St. as well as close friends, will however, do whatever they plan together.

Mr. Johnson, a physiologist, does medical research in the Army Chemical Center at Edgewood. Proving Ground Mrs. Johnson is the former Sarah White, daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. James White.

Mr. Ringgold is on the staff of Aberdeen, and Mrs. Ringgold, the former Florence Garner, is an aptitude tester with the Department of Education.

MRS. R. GARLAND CHISSELL had a few friends at her Longwood Street home, Sunday evening, for a tour of Africa via movies presented by Bishop Edgar A. Love.

Bishop and Mrs. Love recently returned from Africa, where he was sent to find out how best to promote work of the Methodist Episcopal Church in this mission field. They spent a few days in the Holy Land en route to Africa, and in Africa visited Southern Rhodesia, Belgium Congo, Portuguese Angola and Liberia on their three-month trip.

Mrs. Chissell had as guests Bishop and Mrs. Love, Dr. Ruth Brett Quarles, Dr. Irene Diggs, Mrs. Juanita Mitchell, attorney; Mrs. Hilda Higgins and Mrs. Connie Chissell.

Later guests were seated at supper.

MOST DELIGHTFUL of the affaire of the week was that Friendship Party given for Miss Emily E. L. Carter in the home of Mrs. Frances Parsley Johnson.

Miss Carter is the beloved teacher of Sharon Baptist Church Sunday School, where she has been serving since she was 14 years old.

Friends showered her with gifts, loads of cards and a purse was presented to her.

Participating in the affair were:

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. James L. Moore, Messrs. and Mesdames Charles F. Lewis, Laurence H. Johnson, Linwood Moore;

BROTHERHOOD was the theme of the program, that followed the business session, of the regular monthly meeting at YWCA of Iota Chapter-Lambda Kappa Mu Sorority on Saturday.

Participants included two foreign students, Constantine Daneilis from Athens, Greece, a student of political Economics at Johns Hopkins University and Charles Cooper from Liberia, Africa, a senior majoring in political science at Morgan State College.

Each gave informative talks on their respective cultures. Both agreed that man's basic needs are the same, although they live in different countries and at different economic levels. Each expressed admiration for the United States and the hospitality they have enjoyed here.

Soror Eleanor Moore sang "No Man is An Island" and "This Is My Country." Soror Mary J. Bond, accompanist.

Miss Ruth Fegley of the Fellowship House, was present and inspired us with the many projects in progress at the Preston Street Headquarters.

Basilena Naomi D. Johnson extended a welcome to the guests, also made presentations.
