Rev. Jones organizing Adventist Church; Charles Brooks to appear here; Notes from Md. League of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Irma Dixon visited by political scene students; Tenants' Council holds anniversary banquet; Urban League sponsors Job Opportunities program at Bates High.

Interesting newcomers to Annapolis, known only by a few people at the present, are the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred R. Jones, who have taken up residence here at 19 Bunche St.

The Rev. Mr. Jones is building and organizing the first church here of its kind, the Beacon Light Seventh Day Adventist Church, and is also pastor of the Second Seventh-Day Adventist Church at Alexandria, Va.

Having been here since September, the Rev. Mr. Jones is a native of Petersburg, Va. and is a graduate of Oakwood College at Huntsville, Ala., where he received his B.A. degree in 1955.

He earned his master's degree in 1956 at the Seventh-Day Adventist Theological Seminary, now known as Potomac University in Washington.

BEFORE COMING to Annapolis he did his internship in New Jersey, where he remained two years, in Dallas, Tex. Washington, Baltimore, Laurel, Md. and Richmond, Va.

His wife, the former Miss Doris Ewell of Alexandria, La., graduated from Kansas City (Mo.) General Hospital No. 2 School of Nursing as a registered nurse in 1950.

She earned her B.S. degree in nursing education from Emmanuel Missionary College at Berrien Springs, Mich. in 1952.

Mrs. Jones served as head of the Department of Student Health at Grambling College in Grambling, La., and was also director of the School of Practical Nursing at Riverside Sanitarium and Hospital at Nashville, Tenn.

She worked for the Bureau of Public Health Nursing as a public health nurse in Washington, and just before coming to Annapolis, was head nurse at the Children's Center at Laurel, Md.

Mrs. Jones did graduate work at the University of Maryland the second semester of last year also before coming to Annapolis. There are two children Glenda Carolyn, 3 years old and Alfred Renard Jr., three months.

ON SUNDAY, April 5, the church will present Charles L. rooks, tenor soloist, and the Novice Aeolian Choir of Philadelphia at the new National Guard Armory. The program is scheduled for 7 p.m.

Mr. Brooks, a graduate of Howard University with a B.A. degree in music, received his master's degree from Potomac University.

Acclaimed as a great tenor, he has sung from coast to coast in cities such as Los Angeles, Denver, Colo., Kansas City, Mo., Birmingham, Ala., Washington, New York City, and Baltimore.

The Aeolian Choir is under the direction of Clarence Golbourne. The Philadelphia Tribune had this to say about the choir:

"The singers show good musical insight and depth of expression throughout."

WHEN THE CHOIR appeared at Mt. Morris Presbyterian Church in New York, the church published the following statement:

"This program this evening was more than singing. The choir reveals pathos and depth of experience."

Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Lorraine Griffin are co-chairmen for the concert.

A MOST inspiring day was enjoyed on Saturday in Baltimore, when the Maryland League of Women's Clubs held its spring conference at Carver Vocational High School.

The league, which is functioning in its 16th year, is a body composed of 40 women's clubs and organizations throughout Maryland.

Saturday's conference brought out 275 delegates and visitors to participate in its various workshops and luncheon meeting.

The program is designed to reach the hearts of women throughout the state, who all have one thing in common — the same community problems, and the league offers the opportunity for all women groups to be themselves together to work in the interest of overcoming these problems.

The nine-point program includes work in education, employment, health, housing, institutions, intercultural relations, legislative action, public affairs and youth activities.

The program also provides for the improvement and development of the economic, civic and social stature of our group in Maryland.

It is the duty of women in all communities to assume their responsibilities in an effort to help in local and state affairs and in emergencies.

THE MARYLAND LEAGUE OF WOMEN'S CLUBS offers membership to civic, educational, literary, social welfare, political, church, fraternal, business and professional groups.

It also accepts membership from sororities, beautician's associations, "women's clubs, housewives' leagues and medical and dental auxiliaries.

Each member organization is required to pay an annual membership fee of $4.50, payable on or before October 15. The league is a non-profit set-up.

IT IS HOPED that more groups of women from Annapolis will become a part of such a fine organization.

There are three quarterly meetings during the year plus the one-day spring conference.

THIS YEAR'S conference had as its theme "Educating the Family for Community Living."

Three workshops were conducted, which included all areas of the nine-point program of the work of the league.

Perhaps none was more inspiring than the youth workshop. There was a full house and intense interest shown by the young people who enthusiastically participated in all phases of the program.

A most interesting talk was given by Mrs. James Carroll, elementary supervisor in the Department of Education in Baltimore.

In her talk Mrs. Carroll discussed teen agers and education. She stated that the youth of today are touched by tensions resulting from international and domestic relations.

She said many people today have turned their eyes toward education as one of the cultural processes to help meet the challenges of the age and to formulate solutions to the problem.

Mrs. Carroll stressed that education is very necessary today. She stated that education can be a means of helping the mind bud and blossom forth into a clean body and with an undefiled soul.

THE MOST extensive discussion on other phases of the open program was that of youth and religion.

It was pointed out that the idea of inadequate interpretation by the teachers of religion in the Sunday Schools, and other church study groups is often due to the negligence of trained people to participate in such programs as leaders.

It was also brought out that if youngsters are taught properly by the background of religion at an early age, what with regular church or other religious study groups, their beliefs become very firm and nothing can change those beliefs.

This statement was made in connection with the idea of possible conflict between religion and the teaching of science in college training, when individuals are not well-grounded in their religious convictions.

Mrs. Gwendolyn Lee, membership chairman for the league, will gladly accept memberships from our local groups and will also be happy to visit with any group to give information on the workings of the league. She may be reached at Crownsville State Hospital.

Mrs. Lena K. Lee is now president of the group. She succeeds Mrs. Beryl Williams. Mrs. Lee formerly taught in Annapolis public schools.

J. ALEXANDER WISEMAN, instructor at Maryland State Teachers College, was re-elected chairman of the Committee of Management of the Northwest Street Branch YMCA at its March meeting.

Mr. Wiseman will be serving his third consecutive term as chairman of the board.

Five new members were elected to the "Class of 1962" by voting action of the active members of the association and eight members were re-named to serve in the same class.

New members are Misses Helen Pinfall and Mary V. Wiseman and Messrs. Henry Holland and Purnell Hardesty.

Members re-elected for another three-year term include Mesdames Alice Holt Battle and Beulah Diggs and Messrs. Russell Callow, James R. Cutting, Carroll H. Hynson, Herbert Hilliard, Douglas S. King and William H. Richardson.

Other officers elected were Mr. Francis Noel, vice-chairman, Miss Carrol, secretary, Miss Pindell, corresponding secretary, and Mr. Frank B. Butler, financial chairman.

Y-TEENERS of the city held a gala St. Patrick Social on Friday. The group, which is under the direction of Mrs. Betty Colvert, a member of the faculty of Bates High School, planned and executed the affair as a club project.

It culminated a contest to elect Miss Y-Teen of 1959, and crowned Miss Pearl Brown, a junior at Bates High School. Miss Joyce Parkinson and Miss Constance McClure were awarded runner-up honors.

Sixty high school students participated in the social, held in the auditorium of the association building, which was decorated in the traditional colors of the Irish holiday. Music was furnished by the Lavaos Combo, composed of Bates students.

MRS. IRMA DIXON, one of the first women in our group to serve as a member of a state legislature, had as guests during the sessions of the Maryland body this week, 35 political science students and their professor, Dr. Robert Martin of Howard University.

Mrs. Dixon made it possible for the group to be greeted by Gov. Tawes, Eddie Fenton, radio commentator of Radio station WBAL.

The group sat in on the Senate Judiciary proceedings and listened to the discussion on the bill No. 131, concerning the sterilization of legislative districts.

The students also toured the House and Senate buildings and had luncheon at Carvel Hall. At Carvel Hall, Marcellus Hall gave the interesting history of the famous old hotel.

Before coming to Annapolis, the group attended civil rights hearings in the House of Representatives in Washington.

THE TENANTS' Council of College Creek Terrace and Oberee Court honored projects observed its first anniversary at a banquet in the recreation hall Saturday.

Mrs. Marie Thomas, teacher of special education at Bates High School, was the principal speaker.

In her talk on "One for All and All for One," Mrs. Thomas emphasized the three basic principles, cooperation, participation and sharing in group work.

She told her audience that participation means taking part in those activities that make for the good of the whole and that sharing means giving willingly cheerfully and freely; one's knowledge for the good of the whole.

Speaking of self-gain, Mrs. Thomas said that thinking in terms of self-gain hinders the individual and denies him the fullest development of the most of his potentiality.

She also stated that working for self-gain prevents an individual from finding his place in the community and from the enjoyment of self-satisfaction and happiness.

Thinking in terms of what one expects to gain personally reflects in his attitude toward his neighbor and with whom he is forced to work to earn his daily bread.

"One can grow, be happy and successful only in proportion to the development and progress of the group in which he finds himself," Mrs. Thomas said.

* * *

MRS. JAMES R. CUTTING, president of the Citizens Housing and Planning Association, was a guest.

Mrs. Cutting, in her remarks, discussed the housing situation and the current housing bill in the state legislature. She also explained points on the Urban Renewal Development program.

Officers of the Tenants' Council are:

The Rev. James Greene, chairman; Thomas Pounds, vice-chairman; Thomas Duvall, secretary; Mrs. Viola Brown, treasurer, and Mrs. Clara Coates, assistant treasurer.

Mr. Pounds was chairman of the committee on arrangements for the banquet. He was assisted by Claybourne Johnson and Thomas Duvall, Mrs. Roberta Pounds served as hostess.

Young people who served the banquet were Barbara Ann Thompson, Geraldine Randal, Edward Brown, Robert Beans and Ronald Thompson.

AN APPRECIATION dinner was tendered the Rev. Elliber Hamilton, assistant pastor of the First Baptist Church by the Deacon and Deaconess Boards on thursday evening.

Many tributes were paid to the Rev. Mr. Hamilton, who, with his wife, left on the week-end for Morocco, where they will reside for two years.

These tributes came from the Men's Club with Charles Walker as speaker; the Junior Choir, Mrs. Leonidas Crutchfield, the Deaconess, Mrs. Evelyn Morris; the Trustee Board, Aaron Gillis, and the Deacon Board, Charles Tyler.

Remarks were also given by J. B. Johnson, chairman of the Deacon Board, who made a presentation from the church.

The pastor was unable to be present because of illness.

COOKE-PINKNEY POST NO. 141 and its auxiliary of the American Legion jointly observed the 40th anniversary of the groups on Wednesday evening at the Elks Lodge.

The groups and their friends enjoyed a delicious menu and the center of attraction was the large birthday cake, which was presided over by Mr. Edward E. Notis, commander of the post and Mrs. Elizabeth Randall, president of the auxiliary before it was served.

It was beautifully decorated with colorful rosebuds.

Mrs. James Pindell, 1917 West St., chairman of the Health Committee of the Parole School PTA, entertained members of her committee at a luncheon on Monday.

Plans were made to formulate a program for the P.TA. to be held on April 6. Demonstrations in the testing of vision and hearing and the weighing and measuring of pupils of the school will be highlights of the program.

Those who attended the luncheon were Mesdames Henrietta Vaulx, Ernestine Chase, Augustine Wells, James Marchand, Mary Dobson, Genevieve Dyson and Helen Chambers and little Miss Darlene Dyson and Mr. Walter S. Mills, principal of the school.

The group also planned for a Days of the Week Rally to be held in September for the benefit of the sick room of the school.

* * *

MRS. LULU HARDESTY, Miss Pinetta Boyd of Lethian and Mesdames Margaret Quillan and Geraldine Scott of Cheltenham attended the eighth North Atlantic Regional Conference of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority as delegates from Delta Pi Omega Chapter of Annapolis at Dover, Del. on the week end.

Sessions were held on the campus of Delaware State College. The group worshipped at the historic old Whalcoat Methodist Church on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ran-dall in College Creek Terrace had as dinner guests on Sunday, Mr. Randall's young uncle, little Lynette Randall, the daughter of Randall's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Randall.

They also had as guests, Mrs. Randall's brother, Mr. Scotty Bailey and Mr. Trummy Johnson of Baltimore.

THE BALTIMORE URBAN LEAGUE sponsored its national Job Opportunities program in the form of an assembly of ninth grade students at Bates High School on Wednesday morning.

Dr. Furman Templeton, executive of the Baltimore unit and who was the first colored interviewer of the Maryland State Employment Service, was the speaker.

The program served as a nucleus to the beginning of their unit of study concerning the world of work and "selecting a career."

Mrs. Elizabeth Hodges, chairman, was assisted by Mrs. Ida Rogers, counselor, Mrs. Anne B. Goodwin, president of the chapter, and Mrs. Rose Wiseman.

* * *

THE BUDDY DEANE SHOW was featured at Bates High School on Wednesday, sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The program was given for the benefit of the Wermwsaylant Memorial Stadium, funds of which will be used for foundations and other necessary equipment.

Parents who chaperoned were:

Messrs. and Mesdames John W. Prann, Larrie McLamb, J. W. Hutchesson, Petra Eldridge, Samuel Gilmer and Emery Thomas and Mesdames Connie Blackstone, Phillip P. Smith and Bessie Burns.

Mrs. Slyvia Richardson was a charming delegate to the spring conference of the Maryland League of Women's Clubs on Saturday. A member of the faculty of Bates High School, Mrs. Richardson was representing the Annapolis Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority.

MANY THANKS to James C. Shaw, proprietor of the Edgewood Farm Country Club, near Fort Meade Md., for his good neighborliness. Oh Sunday he brought to church to the Rev. James Adams a bag of thorns. These grow on a tree on his grounds.

What makes these thorns so important is the fact that they are the same type of thorns which were used to mark the crown of thorns for Christ's head.

Thought for today. Consider God's will in making out your will.

ONE VISIT to the Hecht Company's roof-top restaurant in the Northwood shopping center is all that the Civic Interest Group has made so far in its effort to get the company to serve all its restaurant. The sit-down effort there has been suspended pending the outcome of negotiations on the service policy. Meanwhile, pickets continue to march in front of the Northwood Theatre. The Arundel Ice Cream Store has started serving all patrons.

EECO issues order to drug company

"Throughout the course of the negotiations the Read Company admitted the charges to be correct.

"The commission unanimously indicated it would enter an order requiring the Read Company to refrain from the practices complained of."

Philip A. Camponeschi, executive director of Baltimore's Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, was explaining that the commission has ordered the Read Drug and Chemical Company to stop what it describes as "unfair employment practices."

Mr. Camponeschi said that EEOC has no enforcement powers in instances of this sort, and the issuance of a formal order is as far as the body can go.

* * *

AT A ten - minute hearing on Tuesday, the first in EEOC's two - year history, four specific discrimination' charges were aired against the company which operates a chain of drug stores.

No Read Company official appeared, at the hearing but a letter from the firm was read.

The four charges are that the company continues to pursue a policy of:—

1. Differentiating wages on the basis of the race and color of its fountain employees.

2. Differentiating sickness, accident and life insurance benefits on the basis of the race and color of its fountain employees.

3. Where it starts its colored fountain employees at a salary ranging from $28 to $30 per week, while it starts its white fountain employees at a salary ranging from $36 to $38 per week.

4. Where white employees of the respondent company become eligible within 90 days of their employment for a $1,000 life insurance policy, and for sick and accident benefits, whereas colored employees must wait five years for this insurance.

IN THE Read letter, Ellis B. Myers, director of store operations, advised EEOC that all fountain employees receive:

1. Profit sharing every Christmas; 2. Pension plan; 3. Paid vacations; 4. Sick fountain manager's monthly bonus; 5. Qualified employee financial assistance; 6. Employee discount on purchases.

The letter stated further:

"Past experiences has shown that our fountain employees have accepted and undoubtedly will continue to accept employment with the company at various suitable, starting rates together with the above described fringe benefits.

"And past experience has further shown that our fountain employees have readily availed themselves of the opportunity to improve financially, with salary increases predicated on their adaptability to the job, demonstrated and productivity, all of which has been repeatedly demonstrated by our fountain employees with the company with respect to our fountain employees."

* * *

EXPLAINING why no company official could attend the hearing, Mr. Myers wrote:

"The Read Drug and Chemical Company of Baltimore City feels that the facts which have been presented to the commission on several occasions by our representatives and in a measure below, (fringe benefits) speak for themselves, and that no good purpose would be served by representatives of the company appearing at the public hearing scheduled for March 24."

EEOC board members are: Richard M. Emery, chairman, Maxwell Albert, Edward W. Dougherty, Francis S. Filbey, Dr. C. Vinnet Pinkney, Francis X. Gallagher, Charles B. Hunsicker, Leon Sachs and Mrs. Carl W. Wheatcraft.

All were present at the Tuesday hearing, except Mr. Hunsicker.

THE HONOREE was charming in a beautiful lace sheath, trimmed in black velvet. She wore a rose spring hat with flowers that added charm to her very pleasant face that carries "smile at all times." The honoree was presented as orchid by Mrs. Thelma Cornish, supervisor of Calvert County.

The supervisors and friends wrote testimonials which were placed in a bound volume and presented to her by Miss Marie Dashiells, supervisor of Wicomico County.

Miss Kathleen Frances, supervisor of Talbot County, presented the group's gift of a gold charm bracelet with her initials engraved in a heart.

Mrs. Ward was overwhelmed by the way that her friends showed their appreciation of her and the very fine way that she has worked in the state in the educational profession for thirty-eight years.

We all trust that she will have the opportunity to enjoy her retirement and have the time to do some of the things that she has wanted so much to do, but because of her busy schedule in the school situation was not able to get done.

We salute you, Mrs. Ward for a job well done!
