Death took no Easter holiday

Death took no holiday on Easter Sunday the day commemorated as the date of the Resurrection of Christ.

The occasion, usually a joyous one, was marked with sadness in four Baltimore homes.

Death claimed Mrs. Jeanette Williams, 21, 833 W. Franklin St., mother of six children, who died at University Hospital of a heart condition.

Also dead of a heart attack at his home was Charlie Simms, 78, 1412 N. Chester St., who was a former construction worker.

Mrs. Lillie Hicks Coates, 1909 Clifton Ave., the wife of William O. Coates, died at her home.

Mrs. Marian Bennett, 1925 Ridgehill Ave., the wife of James Bennett, died at her home.

Mrs. Williams was the wife of Leroy Williams and the daughter of Mrs. Sarah Fox and the late Ross Fox.

Funeral services for the young mother are being held in Darlington, S.C. today (Friday).

Surviving are the husband, Mr. Williams; two daughters, Misses Annette and Mae Ella Williams; four sons, Leroy Jr., Willie Boy, Frankie and Harrison Williams;

Also five sisters, Mesdames Lizzie Wright, Anna Mae Holloway, Sarah Mae Dacote, Geneva Simon and Miss Rose Fox and three brothers, Frank, Ross Jr., and Willie Fox.

FUNERAL SERVICES for Mr. Simms were held Thursday at an East Preston St. funeral home.

Mr. Simms is survived by a sister, Mrs. Paul Chambers and a brother, Robert Simms.

SERVICES FOR Mrs. Coates were held Thursday at the George Kelson funeral home with burial in the Baltimore National Cemetery.

Mrs. Coates is survived by her husband, Mr. Coates, two brothers, five sisters and other relatives.

SERVICES FOR Mrs. Bennett were held Thursday at Brown Memorial Christian Church. Burial is in Mt. Calvary Cemetery.

Mrs. Bennett is survived by her husband, Mr. Bennett, a daughter Miss Rose Mary Bennett, a brother, John A. Jeaups Jr., three aunts, three uncles, a great aunt and a great great uncle.

CONGRATULATIONS — John H. Murphy Jr., assistant to the president, who recommended Samuel Snowden, composing room supervisor, for a job with the AFRO 36 years ago, congratulates him after presenting him 35-year service pin Friday at 52nd stockholders' meeting.

AFRO 'Ph.D.' gets things done

The Ph.D.—as Dr. Carl Murphy, AFRO president, terms him — who has top tenure in the AFRO composing room, is tall likeable Lawrence Samuel Reginald Snowden.

Last Friday Mr. Snowden and Kenneth Brickhouse, linotype machinist, were presented 35-year ruby and emerald service pins by Dr. Murphy at the AFRO's 52nd stockholders meeting in Baltimore.

This past March 5, Mr. Snowden, who is now composing room supervisor, had been with the AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers for 36 years.

HE STARTED in 1923 as an advertising compositor and make-up man.

Since that time Mr. Snowden, an easy going man who gets things done without making much fuss in the process, has done some of just about every thing that gets done on the composing room floor.

His main job now is to help see that getting out the 14 editions put out by the country's largest weekly is as smooth an operation as possible.

On accepting his award last Wednesday Mr. Snowden said:

"I'm beginning, after 36 years to understand why they call it a newspaper game. It is more or less a challenge. It has been a pleasure working for the AFRO all these years."

ONE OF the five children of the late Samuel and Ellen Snowden, Mr. Snowden was born in Prince Georges County. His family moved to Baltimore in 1906.

Mr. Snowden attended the Old Colored High School here which was at Pennsylvania Ave. and Dolphin St., where he took printing as a vocational course.

He and his wife, the former Miss Justine Payne of Baltimore, have three children. Lawrence, the oldest, is an Army recruit at Ft. Benning, Ga. Miss Sandra Snowden, 16, is a Douglass High student and Anthony, 14, is a student at Houston Junior High School.

The family resides at 1720 Ruxton Ave.

Mr. Snowden is a member of St. Peter Claver and his wife attends Douglas Memorial Church.

MR. SNOWDEN recalls that he was recommended for his job at the AFRO by John H. Murphy Jr., now retired and acting as special assistant to the president.

At the time he was employed by the Gabriel Maddox job printing firm. His first printing job after his discharge from the Navy at the end of World War I had been on ships put out for the Matson Navigation Company.

During the War Mr. Snowden made seven trips between Hoboken, N.J. and Brest, France while serving with the U.S. Navy Transport Service.

His sisters and brothers, all of whom reside in Baltimore are: Mrs. Carrie Dorsey, Mrs. Georgie Wood, Isaac and Thomas Snowden.

This is the pin received by two AFRO employees who marked 35 years service. It is a handsome ensemble studded with rubies and emeralds. Samuel Snowden, composing room supervisor and Kenneth Brickhouse, linotype machinist, were the recipients.

Restaurateur fined $25

Although he "spent a lot of money" improving his restaurant and bakery in the 1200 block Laurens St., Herman Gumenick was fined $25 and costs for not keeping his establishment clean.

At a Housing Court hearing Tuesday before Magistrate Marshall A. Levin, Melvin Johnson, Health Department sanitarian, testified that he notified Mr. Gumenick Feb. 2 because of the unsanitary condition he found on the Laurens St. premises.

Mr. Johnson said he returned 14 days later and found the floor, refrigerator and fountain dirty and the walls greasy.

Proprietor of the business since August, the defendant told Magistrate Levin that he always tried to cooperate with inspectors and felt he was being "unjustly accused."

Lady in trouble

'I will appreciate anything that anybody gives to help me until my husband gets a job . . .'

By B. M. PHILLIPS

She walked into the city room of our newspaper on Thursday morning and sat down and cried.

For fully five minutes she could not speak... the tears just wouldn't stop. there was so much wrong, so many problems she could not cope with, that she was at the breaking point.

With a second baby due in June, she had been to a city clinic seeking medical aid... when she had walked in the rain to our office.

Before she identified herself, I knew she was the lady in trouble whose story we had just been discussing because it seemed to be an unusual one.

Her moving letter had arrived earlier in the week.... and we had decided to publish it in the hopes that sympathetic readers might help her.

HERE IS the story of Mrs. Leona McCoy, formerly of Columbia, S.C., who hopes kindly readers will help her. She has no money to pay the rent, or buy the food or care for her nine - month-old daughter because her husband is temporarily out of work. As a result her child has been placed in a foster home.

And, unless AFRO readers help her, she will not be strong enough to bear the baby which is due in two months.

After you read Mrs. McCoy's story, and you want to help her, simply call or write the AFRO City Desk, 628 N. Eutaw St., MUL. 5-6015,and ask for her address:

"My name is Leona McCoy, I'm married, have a nine-month-old daughter who is now placed in a foster home by the Department of Public Welfare until I'm physically and financially able to take care of her.

"My problem is this: I have only been living here in Maryland seven months which makes me a non-resident in this state.

"My husband, a construction worker, is not working steadily, only one or two days a week. He is looking for a steady job, but has not yet found one.

"The Department of Public Welfare will not give us any help or emergency assistance because we haven't lived here a year.

"I'M EXPECTING another child in June, but what worries me the most is being separated from my baby now.

"I can only see her twice a month for only two hours.

"We own no furniture. We live in a small room which is heated by coal and wood stove. Our rent is $9 a week and is four weeks behind.

"The landlady has asked us to either pay the rent or move on Monday will be our deadline.

"We have no place to go and I'm unable to work. At this very moment I'm without food or heat.

The past two weeks, Sgt. Violet H. Whyte has been giving me canned food so I wouldn't starve.

"I'M BEGGING the public to help me until my husband finds a steady job.

"What I really need now is food and money to pay the rent and buy coal and wood.

"And if anyone who reads my story has any oud furniture or anything that I can use (and I can use anything because I don't have anything) or any baby clothes or just anything, please help me so that I can get a small apartment and have my baby back with me.

"If any of you mothers have an old baby crib or stroller that you have no use for, please give it to me. My little girl is nine months old but she wears size 2½ and 3. Please help me so I can get my baby back as soon as possible.

"Seeing her for only 2 hours a month is more than I can bear.

"I will appreciate anything that anybody gives me to help me and my baby until my husband gets a steady job. With the help of God, I pray that he gets work soon."

Bullock petition loses

Immediately after his client was refused relief at a post conviction hearing before Judge Joseph Carter in Superior Court yesterday (Thursday) the attorney for Isaac Bullock, 29, filed for review by the Court of Appeals in Annapolis.

Convicted of criminal assault on a 79 year - old housewife of the 300 block E. Chase St., and a resident student of Johns Hopkins Hospital in Feb., 1958, Bullock was sentenced to the gas chamber on March 23, 1959.

His date of execution was set for the week of May 4.

ON MARCH 26 Bullock petitioned under the Post Conviction Procedure Act and the case was referred to Judge Carter.

His charges on the petition were that he was convicted without sufficient evidence against him and that he was mistakenly identified as the offender.

As it stands, Bullock will go to the gas chamber next month unless the Court of Appeals acquits him.

Nelson Kandel acted as attorney for Bulluck during the trial last year.

He was appointed by Judge Carter to represent him in Thursday's hearing and was reappointed to the case when it goes to the Court of Appeals.

Zoning Board gives okey for apartments on Biddle, E. Chase

The Board of Municipal and Zoning Appeals on Tuesday approved requests to house five families at 303 W. Biddle St. and three families at 1802 E. Chase St.

Disapproved was a request to house three families at 1746 E. Chase St.

Among the cases scheduled for the coming Tuesday are requests to house three families at 1921 Harlem Ave., and at 2704 Allendale Rd.

Brooks Hays to receive award here

The annual meeting of the executive board of the National Federation of Temple Brotherhoods will be held in a downtown Baltimore hotel, April 11-13.

On Sunday evening, April 12 at 8:30 p.m., at Baltimore Hebrew Congregation, Brooks Hays, of Little Rock, Ark., who recently lost his seat in Congress to a write - in candidate backed by the supporters of school segregation, will be honored for his moral victory in defeat. The public is invited.

A citation from the National Federation of Temple Brotherhoods will be presented to Mr. Hays by Dr. Maurice N. Eisendrath, president of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, parent body of Reform Judaism.

Approve increase in Md. Guard

The Maryland Army National Guard has been authorized a 50 per cent increase in the enlistment of men without any prior military service during the next three months, Major General Milton A. Reckord, The Adjutant General of Maryland, has announced.

General Reckord said that a few of the Maryland Army National Guard units have had waiting lists of qualified young men with no prior military service that could not be enlisted in the Guard because of limited Federal Funds for this active duty training.

The General further stated that release of additional funds from the Defense Department was taken to comply with the provisions of the 1959 Defense Appropriations Act which provides that the Army National Guard strength should not drop below an average of 400,000 men during this fiscal year.

that would tax a less dedicated person.

Throughout the life of the program it has been guided by the determination to keep up with the latest advances in the rapidly changing field of medicine and to train physicians to fully meet the needs of the community.

To that end the training program is conducted for internes and residents at the hospital in the four major services—medicine, pediatrics, surgery, and obstetrics and gynecology, and in pathology.

EACH OF the services has a full time hospital physician whose primary responsibility is to direct the training program of his service thus making it possible for the hospital to provide better medical care for its patients.

As the internes and residents work closely with these physicians in a process of continuing education they learn more and more about that wonderful machine, the human body, and how to treat it when there is a malfunction.

At present there are seven internes and 20 residents on the Provident staff receiving the benefit of this training and the number of house officers is the largest in the history of the hospital.

The internes and residents differ in that an interne is a recent medical school graduate spending a year in training, while a resident has completed his internship but remains in the hospital for training in a specifc field.

That period of training varies from two to four years.

Eight of the residents are assigned to surgery, two to pediatrics, one to pathology, five to internal medicine and four to obstetrics and gynecology.

THAT THE training program has been successful is attested to by the fact that the most august and revered of the medical groups, the American Medical Association, through its Council on Education, has placed its stamp of approval on the project.

There is also a formal affiliation with the University of Maryland in the field of pediatrics and there are well founded hopes that this affiliation will be broadened to include other areas.

In addition, a number of the physicians who have had the benefit of the training have been welcomed by other hospitals.

THE PROGRAM has also had the benefit of being able to draw on the experiences and talents of many practicing members of the medical community in Baltimore.

These private physicians have given their assistance to the program by carrying out assigned teaching responsibilities and actually conducting teaching conferences and bedside teaching rounds.

Thus Provident Hospital has grown accustomed to the sight of a group of internes and residents accustomed to the sight of a group of internes and residents gathered around the bed of a patient listening to the valuable instructions of a man such as Dr. Henry C. Welcome, or eagerly straining to hear every word that comes from the lips of a talented surgeon such as Dr. Marcus Moore.

These private physicians are known as attending physicians and to them the hospital constantly pays tribute for the time and effort they have given and continue to give to help produce better doctors.

And quite understandably the hospital feels deep pride in the men and the lone woman who are its full time physicians—for these are practitioners of medicine that any hospital could be proud to have on its staff.

IN THE obstetrics and gynecology department Dr. Claude Hill is the full time chief.

Dr. Hill, a native of Baltimore with a degree from Morgan State College, took his medical training at the Meharry Medical School in Nashville, Tenn.

His internship was served in the Army at the Madigan Army Hospital in Takoma, Wash.

He spent a year in service in Alaska and then three years residency at City Hospital in Kansas City in obstetrics and gynecology.

He came to Provident in 1957.

IN THE department of medicine, Dr. Raymond L. Standard is the full time attending physician with Dr. James D. Carr as chief of service.

This important department takes care of all the work done on adult patients with the exception of surgery and female disorders.

Dr. Standard took both his undergraduate and medical training at Howard University and interned at Home G. Phillips Hospital in St. Louis, Mo.

He spent three years in residency at Freedmen's Hospital in Washington, D.C. He has been at Provident since August, 1957.

He is also an attending physician in the out-patient department at University Hospital.

DR. ODOM N. COKER is the full time attending surgeon with Dr. Bernard Harris Sr. as chief of service.

Dr. Coker is a graduate of the Meharry Medical School, served a residency in surgery at Provident and was a fellow in surgery on the Harvard University Service of the Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston.

The pediatric department is headed by Dr. Ellis and Dr. L. E. White, full time attending pediatricians.

Dr. Ellis, from Columbus, Ohio, is a graduate of the University of Illinois and served her internship at the University of Illinois Research and Educational Hospital.

She was a resident at the Massachusetts General Hospital and a pediatrician at the Providence Lying-in Hospital, Providence, R.I.

Dr. Ellis was also a fellow in cardiology at Johns Hopkins and a Harvard teaching fellow.

Dr. White is a native of Jamaica, W.I., and a graduate of the Howard Medical School. His internship was served at Harlem Hospital and a residency in pediatrics at Provident.

He served for 23 months in the medical corps of the Navy at Newport, R.I., where he was chief of the pediatrics service.

He returned to Provident in January, 1959.

SERVING AS the full-time radiologist at Provident is Dr. Bruce V. Benjamin a graduate of Lincoln University (Pa.) and the Howard Medical School.

He has been at the Hospital for two and a half years. As the head of the x-ray department he is not only responsible for the vital task of reading the x-rays taken of patients, but also for x-ray therapy.

An average of 25 to 30 cases are x-rayed a day in this busy department.

AS FULL time pathologist the hospital has Dr. Leo Tseng of China.

This is the branch of medicine that deals with the causes of diseases, the various changes which these causes induce and the methods whereby the body combats both causes and changes.

Dr. Tseng graduated from Yale medical school in China and served residencies in interne medicine in Switzerland and New York City and a residency in pathology at the University of Illinois.

Before coming to Provident two years ago he was pathologist-in-chief at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Washington.

Since Dr. Tseng has headed the department, pathology has been approved for the training of residents and certified by the American Board of Pathology.

Dr. Tseng has contributed to a number of professional journals and is currently represented in the "Journal of Pathology" with an article, "Fatal Cases of Acute Sickle-emia."

THESE ARE the physicians who play key roles in the training program along with those attending physicians who give their talents to a cause, and the interges and residents who benefit from it all.

Actually in the final analysis it is the community which becomes the chief beneficiary through the program since the men who are touched by it know better how to defeat disease.

The new program is only five years old and its achievements have been little short of amazing.

However, the people who guide the destiny of the program are not content to rest on their laurels or regard their past achievements as something that cannot be improved upon.

Instead, they are constantly seeking new methods by which to improve the program and the search has one ultimate objective.

That better trained doctors mean a better community and better health for all.
