APOLIS DINGS

By ELOISE RICHARDSON

Interesting skit points up vandalism in schools at PTA meeting; Sixth grader gives book talk at Mt. Moriah AME Church; Charm School for Debutantes continues its program; Mental Auxiliaries scheduled Wednesday luncheon; Westview Memorial Gardens to sponsor kick-off affair.

A skit, "Ted Never Thought This Way," preceded the special meeting of the Anne Arundel County PTA recently at the Adams Park Elementary School here.

Written and directed by Edward Clements of the Adams Park faculty, it portrayed the problematic juvenile whose thoughts were in the wrong trend until his friends convinced him of the right way to spend his time.

The theme of the evening, "Vandalism and the Schools," was led off by Miss Carol Pulley, Bates Senior High School senior, who discussed vandalism in the schools in Washington, Chicago and St. Louis.

Talks were also given by pupils from Carver and Adams Park Schools on the vandalism these schools had suffered.

A projector showed the actual damage that was done, the greatest being the breaking of windows. There were also marred desks, lockers torn from the walls, mirrors torn from the walls of rest rooms and the loss of other equipment.

Following this, a panel was presented.

Participants were:

Miss Jean Queen, vice-principal of Parole School; Mrs. Johnnie Mae Freeman, vice-principal of Freetown School, Mrs. Arletta Walker, vice principal of Harmans School, Edward Clements, Adams Park, and Mrs. Elizabeth Hodges, director of student activities, who substituted for Mrs. Rachel Brown, vice - principal of Adams Park, who is confined at the Anne Arundel General Hospital.

THE DISCUSSION placed the responsibility upon the teachers, home and community. Mrs. Hodges, who summarized and evaluated the problem, stated that the home and school must encourage and train students to respect all property.

Leon White, president of the county group, urged the individual PTA's of the various schools to begin work at once on the problem.

The Junior Missionary of Mt. Moriah AME Church presented Valerie Jean Smith, sixth grade pupil of St. Mary's School in a book talk at the church on Tuesday.

Valier, an avid reader of books from the Anne Arundel County Public Library, reviewed several biographies of great colored people, including Frederick Douglass, Booker T. Washington and Harriet Tubman.

Valerie also stressed how these people became great, yet were slaves in their lifetime.

She was introduced by Joyce Johnson, and was accompanied to the meeting by a friend, Evelyn Jacobs.

Officers and members of the junior body are as follows:

Joyce Johnson, president; James Johnson, vice president; Angela Bryan, secretary; Albert Powell, assistant secretary; Marilyn Johnson, chairman of the program committee; Harolyn Pinkney, assistant program chairman with Clifton Johnson, Wanda Johnson and Josephine Powell, members of the committee.

Also Mesdames Callie Johnson, Cecelia Green and Ruby Powell, supervisors; Barbara Booze, Arthurline Bryant, Carl Bryant, Derrick Edley, Michael Brown and Nancy Taylor.

THE ANNUAL Charm School for Maryland Debutantes continues its sessions, rounding out a well - planned program.

Aside from panel discussions and guidance, there is instruction in physical appearance with demonstrations in social graces.

Mrs. Clarice Davis and Miss Thelma Elmore of Washington are giving points on poise, dress and make - up.

Mrs. Davis, a graduate of the DeVore Modeling School is currently an instructer at a beauty school.

Miss Elmore is a graduate of Howard University School of Nursing, a graduate of the DeVore Modeling School and has won many beauty contests including having at one time been "Miss Capital Classic."

She is a nurse at Children's Hospital in Washington and an outstanding model for a number of business establishments.

Mrs. Lillian B. Curry, is giving information on the care of the hair, the scalp and the management of the home.

Mrs. Curry studied hair styling in New York and has been a proprietor for 14 years. Interested in the youth, her business establishment offers particular rates to college students.

Miss Doreen Robinson, a graduate of the New York Modeling School, has lectured to the debs on poise.

ON SATURDAY social graces will be discussed by Antonio Texeiris of the D.C. Recreation Department. Mr. Texeiris, a graduate of Howard University, is a program analyst and teaches dancing in the recreation department.

The last session will be held on Saturday, November 21, when there will be further instruction in social graces and dancing at a cotillion.

Mrs. Madge Daniels of Newport News, Va. was the week end guest of the William H. Richards.

Mrs. Daniels, a cousin of Mr. Richardson, is a teacher in the public schools of Newport News. She is the daughter of the late James Ford, former prominent business man and Mrs. Eva Ford, a former public school teacher, who now operates a nursery school for pre - school children.

Mrs. Daniels was enroute home from Richmond where the Virginia State Teachers Association held its meeting.

THE COUNCIL OF WOMEN'S AUXILIARIES of the Maryland State Mental Hospitals will host a reception and luncheon at 11:30 a.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 18 at the Sheraton - Belvedere Hotel in Baltimore.

The affair is for the benefit of all Women's auxiliaries which would include the one at Crownsville. During the program, entitled "Recognition Day Program," all community organizations and individuals participating in volunteer service will be honored.

A panel discussion will be held on "Convalescent Patient Activities. "Moderators will be Dr. Julian Abrams and Jerome Levin.

Mrs. Winifred L. Godwin, director of the Southern Regional Education Board, will deliver the address.

Presentation of awards will be made by Mrs. Arthur P. Bend and Mrs. Clifton T. Perkins.

THE WESTVIEW MEMORIAL GARDENS, INC. of Baltimore is sponsoring a kick - off luncheon for the benefit of the Woman's Auxiliary of Crownsville in its annual financial drive on Saturday at 2 p.m. at Wilson's Restaurant.

This is an indication of the interest shown in the welfare of patients at Crownsville by Baltimoreans. We are urging that during the drive period that Annapolis organizations, sororities, clubs, fraternal organization and others will support the drive. There will be more information in this column next week.

Woman Power, Inc., that wonderful organization which did such a fine job in Baltimore last year under the leadership of dynamic Victorine Adams, is on the warpath again this year to do a real service to the community and surrounding areas.

Activities are getting underway on Sunday, Nov. 15, when the body holds its second annual Leadership Conference and Luncheon at the Sheraton-Belvedere Hotel, at 12:30 p.m. An entertaining feature of the program will be a Hi - Style Holiday Fashion Show from Charm Centre.
