A MODERN APPROACH TO TRADITIONAL BURIAL

The trustees of Gardens Of Eternal Hope visualize death not as an end of life, but as a glorious beginning. In this pioneering spirit, they have dedicated this resting place to the beauty and serenity of the spirit. In short, they have taken the "grave" aspect of the old tombstone cemetery and supplanted it with light, with hope and the life giving beauty of flowers, trees and ornamental shrubbery. THE CREATION OF RELIGIOUS STATUARY AT "THE GARDENS OF ETERNAL HOPE" STANDS AS A SYMBOL OF FREEDOM FOR ALL MEN, REGARDLESS OF RACE, CREED, OR COLOR.

IDEALLY LOCATED

This particular site was chosen from several such sites under consideration by the board of Trustees. Engineering consultants approve it as a site which will not be engulfed by commercial building and industrial development. A secluded haven where peace and serenity reign. CITY OFFICE – 2008 N. CHARLES STREET

AFRO PHOTO of the nave and the main altar, with its striking bronze canopy at the Cathedral of Mary Our Queen, on 5200 block Charles St. Over 1,400 persons can be seated in the white oak pews of the Cathedral; total seating capacity is about 1,900. With the completion of this Cathedral, Baltimore claims the newest cathedral in the United States. Baltimore is also the home of the Cathedral of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary, mother church of Catholicism in the nation.

ARCHBISHOPS ARRIVE—James Cardinal McIntyre, archbishop of Los Angeles (center, front) was among the 1,900 dignitaries at the dedication and pontifical mass at the Cathedral of Mary Our Queen. Behind him (left to right) are Msgr. Joseph Ellis, Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York; and Msgr. Joseph M. Neligan. Archbishop Egidio Vagnozzi was Pope John XXIII's personal representative to the dedication.

'The house that is built for the Lord must be exceedingly magnificent, far famed'

It took five years, 1,000 men, and $8,500,000 to build the Cathedral of Mary Our Queen.

This Cathedral, erected by man, is to the glory of God; for "the house that is built for the Lord must be exceedingly magnificent, far - famed, and glorious throughout the lands."

More than 1,900 dignataries of the Church and invited laymen were in attendance at the pontifical mass as the Cathedral was dedicated last Sunday.

SETTING SOME 230 feet from the street in the 5200 block Charles St., the Cathedral is distinguished by two twin towers rising some 234 feet above the granite steps which lead to massive bronze doors.

The main entrance is surmounted by a crucifixion group, measuring 86 feet high and 40½ feet wide, made up of Christ Crucified and two adoring angels.

Done in limestone, this focal piece of sculpture proclaims that this Cathedral like every other, is where the Sacrifice of the Mass is offered to God in perfect worship.

Beneath this sulpture, an intricate pattern frames the first of the 40 arches of the Cathedral.

Inset into the arch window, there are six stone patterns which symbolize the four Gospel-writers, the Church, and the Holy See.

On each side of the arch stand six of the 12 Apostles.

Magestically placed between two panels illustrating the Nativity and Mary's Assumption into Heaven, is Mary Our Queen.

Above her, a dove of peace indicates the crown for her head which is held by two attending angles.

Beneath her feet, trods a serpent, and, in accordance with Genesis, a woman would crush the head of man's ancient foe.

On the two bronze doors are twelve courtiers cast in bronze; these are the attendant of The Virgin.

The narthex (or vestibule) of the Cathedral is decorated with main parts of the Mass: the Service of the Word and the Sacrifice - Banquet itself.

ONCE INSIDE the nave or the body of the Church, one can realize the smallness of man and the greatness of God over the narthex and a smaller one in back of the sanctuary.

There are 7,231 pipes of the organ, ranging in length from ¼ inch to 32 feet.

In the rectory there are accommodations for the Archbishop five resident priests, three visitors, an oratory, a common meeting room and a confessional.

THE NEWEST CATHEDRAL in the world was dedicated here in Baltimore Sunday. It was under construction for five years. The Cathedral of Mary Our Queen cost $8,500,000.

IN ATTENDANCE at the pontifical mass and dedication of the Cathedral of Mary Our Queen on Sunday was Franciscan Brother Donald Wilson (left), who is stationed at St. Steven's Monastery in Croghan, N.Y. He is the son of Mrs. Margaret L. Wilson of 2010 Madison Ave. A member of the order since 1952, he had his final ceremonies in August, 1958. He has devoted his life to teaching at the monastery. His brother is the singer, Robert Wilson.

Witnesses' meet 2,682 attend

When is God's will to be done on earth?"

That question was asked Sunday afternoon by district minister David J. Thomas before an audience of 2,682 assembled at Jehovah's Witnesses' Circuit Assembly at the Coliseum, North Monroe Street.

Taking the universally-known Lord's Prayer as this theme, Mr. Thomas said:

"Already God's will is moving ahead toward being done on the earth as it is in heaven. The time for the wonderful will of God to come to pass is near."

Jehovah's Witnesses closed their three-day assembly Sunday with a later-afternoon session, in which Mr. Thomas talked on "Shepherding the Sheep with Skilfulness."

Special features of the assembly were the baptism of 108 ministers on Saturday afternoon and the showing of the film, "Divine Will International Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses," before an audience of 2,449 that same evening.
