'Can't dance your way through college'

"You can't dance your way Dr. Lillie M. Jackson, Balti through college, you've got to study hard and work hard," warned Morgan State College students Wednesday as she challenged them to prepare to become leaders in "the great crusade for freedom."

Speaking on the weekly assembly program of the college, the civic leader who has led the drive to democratize Maryland, was greeted with resounding applause as she told the "good news" of how progress has been made in eliminating segregation and discrimination here.

Elected this week to head the local chapter of the NAACP for the 25th year, Mrs. Jackson told the students and faculty who filled Hurt Gymnasium to hear her that the NAACP "needs young leaders with interest, dedication, leadership who will carry on the crusade" which has achieved notable results to - date.

Since Carl Murphy, president of the AFRO - AMERICAN Newspapers said in 1935 "We need an active NAACP Branch here," Mrs. Jackson told her audience, "We have gone into the courts; we have fought for our rights.

"There are no more jim crow schools in Baltimore. Teachers salaries have been equalized. We have moved out of ghettoes. Our children are swimming in the city's swimming pools and they are proving we are not dirty.

"But we didn't achieve these things by sitting down. We got what we have by working together and pooling our dollars together," Mrs. Jackson declared.

EVEN THOUGH much has been accomplished, the leader said "We have yet a long way to go."

She pointed out that in education, "400,000 children are now attending non-segregated schools, but there are still 2,600,000 to be integrated. Between January 1955 and January 1959 there were 503 cases of violence growing out of racial conflicts in Southern states."

Young people will be needed to "keep freedom's light burning brightly," Mrs. Jackson said, but they will be able to do this only by being prepared.

Citing Morgan as an example, the college whic; was "eminently a dream in 1935' can become the "outstanding college in the state" but the students must study to make this so.

"Pull up your scholarship. Approach your work with zeal and industry," she begged.

Mrs. Jackson presented a charter for the establishment of a Morgan State NAACP chapter to the new president Lewis Ollie of Baltimore with the plea that students support the chapter "with your interest and your dollars."

Accompanying the leader who holds the honorary doctorate degree from Morgan, to the college was her daughter Mrs. Juanita Jackson Mitchell, NAACP attorney.

INTERESTING MOMENT — The rapt attention of these youngsters is a tribute to the skill of adult leader Joel Carrington at one of the sessions held as part of the YMCA's Pee Wee Club. The club meets on Saturday and offers a program designed for the interest and ability of boys, through eight years of age.

Rasbarriärerna bryts Little Rock sprids ej

A natt och vis Kanner rektor Martin D. Jenkins sig som hemma har i Sverige, fast han kommer från Morgan

FRONT PAGE NEWS — This is a reproduction of the front page of Goteborgs (Sweden) "Handels-Och Sjofartstidning" dated Nov. 3. The picture is that of Dr. Martin D. Jenkins, who is currently on a State Department sponsored tour of Europe. The article deals with an interview with Dr. Jenkins. The translation is contained in the accompanying story.

Dr. Jenkins 'arrival is page one news in Sweden

(ED. NOTE — Reprinted below is the translation of an article that appeared on the front page of Goteborgs (Sweden) Handels - Och Sjofartstidning — Dr. Martin D. Jenkins, president of Morgan State College. Dr. Jenkins is currently on a State Department sponsored tour of Europe.)

In a way Dr. Martin D. Jenkins feels at home in Sweden although he is from Morgan College in Maryland, says he at his first visit in Gothenburg.

The same school problems face him here: the difficulty of meeting an increasing number of students with too few teachers and schools.

But he hopes that the U.S. shall not be a pattern but rather a guide to the Swedish educators who will also realize the idea of giving students an sufficient preparation before they set out to work in the community.

The college of 2,200 students that Dr. Jenkins heads has been integrated since 1954, when Maryland at least dropped segregation. In the school of Dr. Jenkins everything has turned out all right so far, but in the deep South there is still a long way to go.

Happenings of the same kind as in Little Rock might occur again but Dr. Jenkins does not believe in any wider spreading except for in the most inflamed places.

The good thing is that the Federal Government has given distinct orders.

ONE OF the institutions that really has contributed to the fact that there are 100,000 colored academicians in the U.S. is the Howard University in the Nation's Capitol, Washington. Dr. Jenkins rightly has got the university its fine reputation.

No doubt, this university has played an important part in the development of the race problem in a positive direction.

A great problem, however, is how the U. S. shall be able to provide study opportunity to the seven million students that will be there in ten years, the double of today's figure.

Already there are demands for the Negro Colleges not to interfere and to finance needed institutions which today is a matter for the individual states.

Although the opposition to such projects is very strong, Dr. Jenkins thinks this the only possible way at present.

Dr. Jenkins who is a special ist on education will, during his stay in Sweden, give a number of lectures on education and its problems.

First meet for PTA at School 136

The PTA of the William Rinehart School No. 136 held its first meeting of the term on Thursday.

Among the activities planned for the coming year is an annual trip to New York City for sixth grade pupils.

A committee of parents for lunch service was set up and the parents will assist with the school's lunch program. Plans were also made to have parents assist with the eye testing program.

Officers are:

Mrs. Marian Lyle, president; Mrs. Dorothy Wilson vice-president; Mr. Sylvia Cole, secretary; Mrs. Patricia Hall, assistant secretary, Mrs. Pearl Harris, treasurer; Mrs. Elouise Perkins and Mrs. Estella Newman, Coordinating Council representatives.

During American Education Week many parents and friends visited the school. Open House was staged Nov. 12 and the afternoon was climaxed by a tea given by the faculty for the parents.

A series of story hours is being planned in conjunction with the St. Paul St. branch of the Enoch Pratt Free Library.

The school's annual Thanksgiving program will be held at Ebenezer Baptist Church, 23rd St. and Guilford Ave., on Monday, Nov. 23, at 10 a.m.

The Rev. Maxwell Johnson is host pastor. Mrs. Blanche R. Powell is the principal.

Harlem Park school site work to start

"We have a demolition contract for the Harlem Park school site, and we are planning to issue a proceed order this week."

Robert S. Moyer, chief of the Baltimore Urban Renewal and Housing Agency, gave this latest insight this week to the school building program slated for the Harlem Park area.

Clearance of the properties located represent 77 percent of the total families who lived in the three-block area, and 85 percent of the individuals who Harlem Ave. facing Harlem resided there.

This means that over three-fourths of the former residents have vacated the properties.

Mr. Moyer said the site should be cleared and made available for the actual school building program early next year.

These persons already so- south, and Gilmor and Stricker Sts. on the west.

A TOTAL of 87 percent of the properties in this area have either been optioned or acquired by Mr. Moyer's agency.

Also, 135 families and 20 individuals, who formerly occupied these properties, have been relocated.

Dr. Holmes will deliver Founders talk

Dr. Douglas W. Holmes president emeritus, will give the 92nd Founders Day address at Morgan State College from 1929 to the present time.

Dr. Holmes, who served as sixth president of the institution from 1937 until his retirement in 1948, will speak at an all-college assembly to be held at 10 a.m., Hurt Gymnasium.

The occasion will commemorate the founding of the college in a grove of Methodist Episcopal Conference who met in 1866 in the Baltimore Conference Biblical Institute in 1867.

Since its founding as Centenary Biblical Institute, with assets of a $5,000 grant from the Missionary Society of the Methodist Church, the college has developed in ten decades as Morgan College into a senior college and a Master State College from 1939 to the present time.

Today, what was Centenary Biblical Institute — school — is a building, designed to house administrative offices. Its sons ministries has become the Graduate Department of Religion in the State of Maryland in terms of undergraduate enrollment.

There are now 23 buildings and a 90-acre campus site valued in excess of ten million dollars, a student enrollment of 2,423 and a full time faculty of 122.

Dr. Wilson speaks at Johnson High

Student - body, faculty and parents of Harvey Johnson were honored to have as guest speaker during an American Education Week Assembly, Dr. Edward N. Wilson, registrar of Morgan State College.

The topics he discussed was "Children, What Does Education Mean to You?"

He developed this by asking the group to think about the following personal questions:

Who are you? Where Are You? What does education mean to you?

Callie Covington president of the FTA Club, was master of ceremonies and introduced the speaker.

The purpose of American Education Week was given by Angela Jackson, secretary of the FTA Club.

The presentation of an enlightening skit "Free Public School" was another highlight of the program.

This skit was directed by Mrs. Mattie Robinson, a social studies teacher.

A solo, "Around the World" was sung by Eula Richardson. The Girls' Choir directed by Mrs. Goldia Ford presented selections.

Comments by the principal, Earl Turner, concluded the Assembly Program.

A tea for the parents was given by the Home Economics Department immediately following the program. Mrs. Otyce Froe was in charge.

Councilman at School 131

The Junior High Special Curriculum Classes of School No. 131 under the direction of Mrs. Ethel Covington social studies teacher, presented the City Councilman, Walter Dixon of the Fourth District to the assembly during American Education Week.

He spoke of the responsibility of a voter and the student as a potential voter. His talk helped the pupils realize that a tax dollar went; how their thoughtlessness in walking on the grass in public places helps to waste that dollar in that it means buying more seeds.

The boys were impressed when he expressed pleasure at the cleanliness of the building even though the paint was peeling off the walls. He promised he would certainly use his influence in helping to get a new building.

Baltimore County News and Views

By DORIS BAKER BROWN

By DORIS BAKER BROWN

November is the traditional month for "homecomings" College alumni trek back to their alma maters. Churches, civic leaders, and others have large and small, prepare to receive members who are now living or working elsewhere —members who look forward eagerly to that one Sunday of the year when they can go back home, attend church and see friends they haven't seen in ages.

Or homecoming is that time in life when you get tired of fighting the world, and just . . . come . . . to . . . go home. You just want to see that old town, hear a sincere, hearty "hello" and enjoy a warm smile.

Determined not to just hear about "home coming" from the many fellow Baltimoreans who would be there, the Thomas E. Campbells (she is Leona Pugh Campbell, Banneker Elementary schoolmarm) packed their luggage and traveled via (Lincoln '59 that is) to his hometown of Bevertyville, Va.

Lenora said that from the moment they left their 24 Elmwood St. home until their arrival at Tommy's brother's home in Beverlyville, hubby Tommy was extolling the virtues of homecoming in a small community and constantly saying, "You'll see!" (It was her first time to his hometown)

And see she did!! Friends and relatives had come from up and down the eastern seaboard, and there was never a dull moment.

The homecoming festivities opened with a big Harvest Ball given by the Jolly Friends at the new Central High School in Heathsville, Va.

* * *

SUNDAY WAS the "Big Day" approximately 200 people from three major cities motored to Shiloh Baptist Church, Burgess, Va. for the Annual Home Coming Day Service of the Shiloh Benefit Club of Baltimore, the Northumberland Benefit Club of Philadelphia and the Shiloh Benefit Club of New York.

Besides bringing a fine program, the three Shiloh Benefit Clubs brought $2,600 in cash. (Incidently, Shiloh is only seven years old and in seven years the Benefits have contributed over $25,000 to help defray the mortgage expenses. How's that for looking after home?)

After the Sunday service, everyone went to the church dining hall. Ladies of the church had contributed and prepared a feast which made clear to everyone just how much the church appreciated their devotedness to it, says Lenora. "You can't beat small communities for their closeness."

And the community of Beverlyville exemplifies that spirit. To residents near and far it's "Home."

The Campbell's were guests of Mr. Campbell's brother and brother's wife, Mr. and Mrs. John Campbell, Beverlyville.

Taking a bit of home to son, Joseph, last weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Barnes, 321 Melvin Ave. Last weekend marked Johnson C. Smith University's, Charlotte, N.C. annual homecoming.

Missing their son, and secretly pleased with a good reason to visit him, the Barnes, along with daughter Carolyn, motored to Charlotte.

Quite a thrill it was for Carolyn. Mother allowed her to spend the weekend on Smith's Campus as the guest of Miss Bertha Green. That one taste of campus life at Smith was enough for Carolyn. Now it's "Smith or Bust."

Joseph, a Banneker High graduate, is now a sophomore at Smith. While a student at Banneker, he was quite an athlete. His respectful mannerly way and pleasant personality won for him many friends. We're all happy at the way his college career is progressing so nicely.

Carolyn also said she saw another former Banneker grad excelling on Smith's campus, James Gaither. James, who won several scholarships and awards when he graduated last year, is playing in Smith's Band.

WHEN IT comes to thoughts of home . . . old friends and old familiar places, your columnist is no exception!!

Let me tell you about Chestertown, Kent County. You know, the eastern shore, across the Bay Bridge.

Although, not my home, many close friends live there. So when little Miss Mareasa Isaacs, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Johnson, 344 Cannon St., invited little Miss Geneva Baker to come for a long overdue visit . . . we went (Mareresa's aunt Eloise had been seen at the State Teachers Meeting and she was disappointed it was not going to be as long as it had been her again).

How Chestertown has grown!! Garnett School . . . one tremendous block long!! And still growing. Principal of the modern structure is Elmer T. Hawkins. Who is Elmer T. Hawkins?

He's a prominent man whose name is linked with progressive Maryland education.

Mr. Hawkins is principal of a faculty of over 35 teachers. Garnett houses grades one through 12. And everybody in Chestertown is extra-proud of the fact that nine faculty members are hometown products.

The supervisor of elementary schools is Mrs. Sarah B. Chambers who hails from Chestertown.

Not only are the teachers of Garnett active in school and PTA activities, they are an integral part of the church and other worthwhile community organizations.

When one visits Chestertown, he does not need to ask about school - community relationships. The close harmony is obvious.

Mr. Hawkins himself is an ardent church worker and leader in the community.

In between pop - calls from friends, Eloise and Randolph dashed us out to the site of their soon - to - be completed ranch house located in beautiful Quaker Heights.

The building boom is very much evidence in Chestertown. Seen in passing were the lovely new homes of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer T. Hawkins, Harold Jones, Robert Johnson, Herbert Warren, Josh Fenwick, George Chambers and George Nicholson.

* * *

MOST ULTRA modern split-level home visited was that of Roy Knight, Garnet vice - principal. Mr. Knight is known throughout Maryland for his superb choirs and music groups.

Speaking of music and combos, Eloise's husband, Randolph, is leader of the popular Jazzettes, a group well known on the eastern shore of Maryland.

When Chuck Richards presented his TV Audition and Talent Show in Chestertown, Randolph's Jazzettes won first prize in stiff competition with ten other talented groups. Watch Watch for them. They'll be on Channel 13 soon.

Playing in the combo are:

Alfred Stewart, piano; Cleveland Stewart, drums; Calvin Hamilton, trumpet; Junior Barnett, bass; and Randolph Johnson, saxaphone.

Friend Eloise is a Virginia State grad and teaches first and second grades at Garnet.

Bowieites about the county probably know Eloise's cousin Gloria Gleaves. Gloria formerly taught in Cambridge but the Chester town school board lured her away by stressing the advantages of being at home.
