GREATEST GAINER—More rushing yardage has been racked up by San Francisco's Joe Perry than by any man in pro football history. He'll try to add to his 8,000-plus total against the Baltimore Colts Sunday at the Stadium. Joe is a 13-year veteran in play-for-pay ranks.

MISTER MERCURY — Baltimore football fans who watched the San Francisco 49ers whip the Los Angeles Rams two weeks ago on TV, recall seeing halfback Abe Woodson race 105 yards with the payoff touchdown. Sunday afternoon, the former speedboy from Illinois will pose a big threat to the Baltimore Colts in their quest of a tie with the Forty-Niners for first place.

Collymore to run for Marines in D.C. meet

WASHINGTON

An 8-man track team headed by Ed Collymore, 9.5 sprinter at Villanova and Peter Close, a 4.05 miler from St. John's will be entered by the Quantico Marines in the 12th edition of The Evening Star Games which will be held at the National Guard Armory on Jan. 23.

Bob Gardner, a 6 - feet, 10-inch high jumper from St. Johns, will pose a definite threat to the local high jump record of 6-feet, 8-inch set last January by Charlie Steed of Villanova. Gardner has been working out well at Quantico.

AERIAL ARTIST—One of the most dangerous pass receivers in pro ranks is San Francisco's R. C. Owens, who promises to be quite troublesome to the Baltimore Colts secondary when the two teams clash head-on for the league lead at Memorial Stadium Sunday.

tions. That is, by compulsion they are missing one-fifth of their class work or 36 days of the school year," Dr. Jackson said.

"I don't care how bright a child is, he can't afford to miss 36 days a year," Dr. Jackson warned.

ONE OF the big and growing problems is also the fact that an increasing number of pupils fall far below the "bright" classification.

Dr. Jackson sized up that situation this way:

"We are getting 5,000 new children a year. About 4,000 of them are colored, many of them coming from low socio-economic backgrounds, many of them from states where they went to school four or five months a year.

It's hard to bring these children up to the standards in Baltimore. It's a real problem.

"Teachers are going to have to put forth more effort. More individualized teaching is going to be necessary. The teachers know that."

MISS ADAMS agreed that a higher ratio of the children are coming from families in a socio-economic bracket "where they have been deprived of experiences and opportunities other children have had.

"The schools are going to have to supply the difference.

"Demands on the teachers will be even greater."

Miss Adams said "there is no question that we are going to go on losing good teachers if the salary disadvantage continues.

"We are trying to do better by the pupils. . . We have to have good teachers."

NOTING THAT nearby counties and states have higher salaries while Baltimore has stood stood still for three years, Dr. Jackson said "morale is lower among teachers now than in the 27 years in which I've been in the school system."

But he emphasized that it is not just a matter of money.

"It's not just the teachers' salaries. It's the children. What's going to happen to them if we don't pay the higher salaries?

"The schools are going to deteriorate. There are so many other things opening up for teachers now, especially for "Teachers will tell you, 'we've got to have our increase now or we are going elsewhere where we can get the raise.'"

ANSWERING HIS own question on the future of Baltimore's children if no salary increments are forthcoming Dr. Dr. Jackson declared:

"Chaotic is the one word that describes the situation we will have without teacher salary raises.

"As for the children, their futures are doomed without good teachers.

"The needs of today's children cannot be deferred until tomorrow.

"Nothing we can do years later will help the children who don't get it today.

"I feel this very keenly."

THE CURRENT pay scale in Baltimore City starts at $4,000 and goes up to $7,500 in 12 steps. Extra pay of $250 goes for a masters degree and another $500 for the doctorate.

Baltimore County starts at $4,000 and goes up to $7,200 in 15 steps with better pay for the higher degrees; Montgomery County starts at $4,500 and Prince George's County starts at $4,200.

Baltimore City's teacher scale is lower than that of several Maryland counties.

Salary scales now in the proposal form put Baltimore City on a $4,300-$7,900 scale. Baltimore County, $4,500-$7,800; Carroll, $4,200-$7,000; Harford, $4,300-$7,600.

DESPITE AN all-out effort by the Board of Education and teacher representatives, led by Maryland State Teachers Association and the Public School Teachers Association, a proposed $61,000,000 school budget here has been slashed by $9,000,000.

This action came in the face of such facts as Baltimore being tied for last among 18 major cities in the size of its elementary school classes, 16th in the amount of money spent on each pupil, and 13th in teacher salary scale.

Reacting to the situation, the faculties of Baltimore City College and Baltimore Polytechnic Institute met together for the first time in more than 25 years to issue an appeal for public support.

They reported a "serious deterioration in morale" and warned of "dire consequences that are certain to result" if taxes are not levied to support a first-class educational system.

The teachers said "the Baltimore School system is in danger of becoming known as substandard. The damage will be immediate and permanent."

They urged intersted citizens to let their City officials know how the feel.

Pimlico racing under glass

By BOBMATTHEWS

Something new has been added to old Pimlico—glass—yards and yards of it.

No matter what the outside temperature, horse players can now view the proceedings in perfect comfort behind an immense glass wall, destined to keep out those chilly blasts which have been the bane of bettors during the fall and winter meetings.

Coupled with 78 giant gas heaters, some utilizing the infrared principle, you can lose or win your money in comfort.

AS YOU WALK into the newly refurbished clubhouse at old Hilltop, you are met by a rust of color . . . weird shades of greens, oranges, blues— yet they don't clash.

They seem to melt into a subdued melange of colorsense which is at once pleasing to the eye.

The smell of fresh paint is everywhere. . . . The attendants are attire dit spoleeas new gold - colored uniform jackets with royal blue trousers.

Upstairs in the clubhouse are several lounge areas with spacious, comfortable, overstuffed couches for those who like living-room comfort while at the races.

The entire race proceedings can be viewed via closed circuit television monitors prominently placed in all areas which do not face on the track itself.

THE NEW GRANDSTAND is just a step in the development plans of Pimlico. These new stands were erected in 1954 at a cost of two million dollars.

The new improvements — glass wall etc., have added 3,000 more seats for the benefit of racing fans.

Plans for 1960 include the erection of a new multi-million dollar clubhouse on the site of the present paddock.

Vista Park's shooting range opens Sunday

The New Vista Park shooting range will be open for the season Sunday, with a shooting match beginning at noon led by John G. Mosby, John J. Farr and Willis Webster, all of the District, challenging the members of area clubs and some of the area's top shooters.

BEST OF THE YOUNGSTERS — Willie McCovey, sensational first baseman of the San Francisco Giants, this week was voted "rookie of the year" in the National League. His unanimous choice by the Baseball Writers Association was the third in history, the other two also having been colored: Frank Robinson and Orlando Cepeda.

Calling All . . .
MORGAN ALUMNI!

The BALTIMORE AFRO-AMERICAN will publish a Special Edition on NOVEMBER 24th
AS A TRIBUTE TO EDWARD HURT
for 30 years the beloved Football and Track Coach of Morgan State College
This Special Edition will appear the Tuesday before the traditional Thanksgiving Day Game at Morgan.
Under Coach Hurt, Morgan came into national prominence and became a CIAA powerhouse; winning 14 championships, nine more than any other conference team. He has a record of 174 wins, 46 losses and 17 ties!
We are preparing a page of signatures of alumni and former members of Morgan's great football teams to appear in this special issue which we know will be treasured by many of us for a long, long time. Each signature to run on this special page will cost $3.00.
The original signatures on these pages will be framed and presented to Coach Hurt during half-time on Thanksgiving Day at the game!
We know you will want to be represented. It's easy to participate . . . just sign your name as legible as possible in BLACK INK and send to back to us immediately with your check or money order. This must be in our hands on or before November 20th. We'll do the rest!
PLEASE INCLUDE ME IN YOUR "COACH HURT TRIBUTE." I HEREWITH SIGN MY NAME (and year if desired) AND ENCLOSE CHECK OR MONEY ORDER FOR $3.00.

Balto. fetes Campy

A hurried move by sponsors of the Sports Boosters Dinner honoring Roy Campanella, proved to be a tremendous success at the Lord Baltimore Hotel Wednesday evening.

The move was made necessary when Campanella had to cancel a proposed trip to Baltimore on the advice of his doctors. It entailed the quick installation of closed-circuit television, and brought Campanella's vison before the audience of 500 gathered in the hotel's ballroom.

CAMPY EXPRESSED regret that he was unable to attend the affair, at which he was presented (en absentia) the 1959 "good sportsmanship" award. Phil Rizzuto, former New York Yankee shortstop and friend of Campanella, accepted the honor in Roy's behalf.

"I am deeply sorry that my doctors decided against my coming to join you," said Campy. "Baltimore and baseball have been good to me. I don't want pity. Being in a wheel chair isn't the worst thing in the world," he added. "It is good to be alive."

That, incidentally, is the title of Roy's book, released last month.

Campanella appeared at his home in Glen Cove, L.I. He was given a warm ovation, both before and after his brief response.

Sports clinic here Saturday

The Baltimore Public School Coaches Association will sponsor its first annual winters sports clinic at Edmondson High School,
